FINALLY, SNOW GRACES the already picturesque scene of the Casselman Bridge, located near Grantsville. This more familiar scene finally arrived in Garrett County last week as frigid, more seasonal temperatures brought along some of that familiar white stuff. Below-freezing temperatures and light snow are predicted for the next couple days, with the possibility of a significant accumulation Sunday or Monday. According to the news, some shovels may need to be sent to the southern states which are currently being pummeled with snow.

BABY NEW YEAR ARRIVES UNEXPECTEDLY — The first baby born in Garrett County in the year 2002 was a surprise, according to parents Shannon Miller and Mark Larrimore, Baltimore. They said they were in town to aid and didn't know she was pregnant. Complaining of stomach cramps, Miller arrived at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, at 2 a.m. Jan. 1, and their son was born at 3:35 a.m. Garrett Emery Larrimore weighed in at 7 lbs. 10 oz., and 19 1/2 inches long. The expanded family returned to Baltimore yesterday to introduce Garrett to his 2-year-old brother, Aaron Matthew. Happy New Year and Happy Birthday, Garrett.

GCSO Deputies Arrest Father, Son Saturday

A disabled vehicle stuck in the ditch along the northbound shoulder of Route 219 near Sand Flat Road led to the arrest of two Oakland residents around 1 a.m. on Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The deputies along with the Maryland State Police observed a semi-automatic handgun on the driver's side floorboard of the locked 1997 Ford F-350.

The police backed away from the vehicle in an attempt to see if the operator would return to the scene and try to get the vehicle out of the ditch. Approximately 15 minutes later, James Noah Marc, 18, was arrested for handgun violations and driving under the influence (DUI). Marc was arrested after he was transported back to the scene by his father.

Marc's father, Ronald John Marc, 56, operating a 1988 Ford truck, was also arrested for DUI when he was transporting his son back to the scene to attempt to remove the vehicle from the ditch.

Ronald Marc was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $500 bond, and James Marc was released on his own recognizance.

Icy road conditions caused a motor vehicle accident along Sand Flat Road Friday afternoon, police said.

Dorothy Gallatin was operating a 1999 Mercury SUV southbound on Sand Flat Road when Arthur Taylor was traveling westbound on Longview Lane in a 1995 Honda van.

According to the report, Taylor could not stop at the intersection due to icy roads and struck Gallatin's vehicle in the passenger side, causing the Gallatin vehicle to overturn, landing on the driver side.

Both Gallatin and her passenger, Leonard Craver, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for injuries.

Taylor was charged by deputies for failure to give a vehicle the right of way.

Gorman Crash Injures Two, One Seriously

An Oakland man was seriously injured when the GMC truck he was riding in was struck by a 3½-ton pickup truck just north of Gorman last Thursday afternoon, Dec. 27. Brian Paul Reams, 25, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after the crash, and was discharged Sunday. The driver of the other vehicle, Thomas Earl Marple, 47, Oakland, faces a charge of failure to yield right-of-way filed by the Maryland State Police.

Shortly before 3 p.m. Marple was traveling on westbound LeMoyne King Road when he stopped his 2001 Ford F-350 at the intersection with Gorman Road in accordance with the stop sign posted there. However, Marple pulled into the intersection as a 2000 GMC Sierra operated by Gerald Ross Reams Jr., 54, Oakland, was approaching on southbound Gorman Road and the two vehicles collided.

Both Gerald Reams and his passenger, Brian Reams, were transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to the hospital, where Gerald Reams was treated and released. The younger man sustained a leg injury that required surgery. Marple was not injured in the mishap. Personnel from the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department assisted on the scene.

Edwards Asks Commissioners If County Wants Wireless Funding

Delegate George Edwards met with the Garrett County commissioners last Thursday to garner input on requesting almost $3 million from the Maryland General Assembly for a wireless communications "backbone" for the county. Edwards said that Delegate Casper Taylor, speaker of the House, would be requesting similar funds for expansion of Allegany County's Alleonet2 and had offered him an opportunity to work together on establishing a regional system.

"I just wanted to present this," Edwards told the commissioners, "to see if you wanted to move forward with it." He added that additional funding for the system may also be available later, with a 30 percent local match. However, Edwards said that he was not, at this time, expecting any definite dollar amounts that the county could contribute toward the network, only the go-ahead to request between $2.4 and $2.9 million for the capital investment.

He noted that since Taylor is speaker of the house, and thus has considerable "pull" in the General Assembly, the chances of receiving funds were fairly good, even despite the state's current economic climate.

Ernest Gregg, board of commissioners chairman, indicated that while the offer sounded good, there were many "unknowns" that still concerned him about establishing a network in the county. The county has been planning to implement some type of network system, but as Frank Shap, information technology coordinator for the county's Department of Economic Development, noted at the meeting, those plans are still in the infancy stage.

Shap said that the funding could be used to tie in with Alleonet2, a "Mountain State" network, or Network Maryland when it comes through.

One particular issue that all the commissioners were concerned about was what role local, private Internet providers would play in the network. Doug Sisler, owner of I.C.E. Web, recently met with the commissioners to voice his concerns about possibly having to compete with government for Internet customers, should the county establish its own wireless network.

The commissioners agreed with Edwards that a county network should not compete with private enterprise.

Other questions that the commissioners had included: How would the operational costs of the backbone be funded? Who would maintain the system? Would the network be obsolete in just a few years? Is a system needed at all? And would the county be wasting money by creating a duplicate system that the state or a private enterprise may establish later?

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked Shap what his recommendation was on requesting the state funding.

Shap said that he and the committee that the commissioners had appointed earlier to examine the project needed more time to analyze the data. "I don't know all the questions, yet," he said, "let alone all the answers." Shap said, however, that, based on feedback from residents, there was "strong public support" for a wireless network in the county.

"I want to do what's right for the county," said Edwards. He pointed out that the commissioners could a

Accident Man Jailed After Gun Incident

An alleged domestic-related assault that reportedly involved threats made with a gun led to the arrest of an Accident man Monday night after a search by a team of police agencies led by the Maryland State Police.

Donald Clark Finnegan, 25, had allegedly pointed a muzzleloader pistol at his girlfriend, Brenda Dom, during an argument at a residence at 104 South Main Street. The victim also reported that Finnegan had also pointed the gun at his own head and threatened to pull the trigger. Dom's two juvenile children were present during the incident, which took place shortly before 9 p.m.

Finnegan left the scene prior to the arrival of any police units. A search of the area was undertaken by state troopers, Garrett County sheriff's deputies, and Maryland Department of Natural Resources personnel, along with assistance from MSP helicopter Trooper 5.

The suspect was located at approximately 9:45 p.m. walking along Garrett Highway north of Bear Creek and was taken into custody without incident. He faces charges of first- and second-degree assault, and three counts of reckless endangerment, and is being held in the Garrett County Jail on a $100,000 bond.

DUI Arrest

Eric Holand Cornelius, 23, Bridgeport, W.Va., was arrested for driving under the influence (DUI) and negligent driving in McHenry at 3:36 a.m. Jan. 1.

State Seeking PLANT Awards Applications

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources and the Maryland Community Forest Council are accepting applications from communities for the Maryland Community People Loving and Nurturing Trees (PLANT) Awards, which officially recognize stewardship and tree plantings that occurred in 2001. Several Garrett County communities were among the 160 statewide that were recognized statewide in 2000.

Any Maryland community, incorporated or unincorporated, of any size may apply for the PLANT award. A minimum of four accomplishments is required. The highest award category, the Green Award, is bestowed for accomplishing 10 or more tree-related activities during the year. Acceptable accomplishments range from holding a one-time tree event or ceremony (such as an Arbor Day event), to having built comprehensive and ongoing planting and maintenance programs.

Completed applications must be received by the Maryland Forest Service by Thursday, Jan. 31. Application forms can be downloaded from the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/forests/programmaps/plant.html, and completed forms should be mailed to Terry Galloway, Maryland DNR Forest Service, 580 Taylor Ave., Tawes State Office Building, E-1, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Commissioners, Fire Marshal's Office Meet To Resolve Issues

The Garrett County commissioners met with Chief Robert Thomas and Deputy Chief Allen Gosnell from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office last Thursday in an attempt to resolve communication problems between the office and local businesses.

The meeting was scheduled by Delegate George Edwards as a result of county business owners' concerns about local deputy fire marshals' approaches to enforcing codes and regulations.

"We're not asking the fire marshals not to enforce the law," said Jim Hinebaugh, director of county economic development. "We're just suggesting finding ways to do it in a more cooperative way to help businesses comply."

Commissioner Ernest Gregg also indicated that, due to the increase in construction in the county, it was important "to find out what we need to do" to improve communications between county residents and the Fire Marshal's Office for the county's economic benefit. He added that it would be helpful if inspectors would tell businesses how to rectify a problem, rather than simply telling them what was wrong.

Thomas, who grew up in Lonaconing, said that he was very familiar with the area and was also concerned about its economic well being. He noted that when a business burns, the entire community is economically affected. His job, he said, is to prevent businesses from being destroyed in the first place, by making sure they have the proper fire walls, sprinklers, extinguishers, etc.

"State fire marshals provide a wealth of technical expertise for residents," Thomas said. He added, however, "they're not always seen as guys with white hats" and often "have more work than they can handle." Each year, his office investigates about 1,500 fires, 400 of which are arson, inspects 13,000 buildings, and handles 400 bomb threats, according to the chief.

Additionally, the 40 state fire marshals have 40 different personalities and distinct approaches to handling issues, which may sometimes cause conflict and communication problems, Thomas indicated.

"Deputy Chief Gosnell is the man to see if there is a problem," Thomas said. Locally, Gosnell, who was promoted in April and supervises western Maryland fire marshals, "is the one who has the final call" on issues, according to the chief.

Local officials at the meeting also pointed out that some businesses, believing everything is up to code when they receive no response from the Fire Marshal's Office after applying for a building permit and submitting plans, go ahead and build. Business owners find out only later, during inspections, that more or different improvements are needed.

Allegany Man Flees Mishap, Later Arrested

A hit-and-run accident in Finzel last night led to the eventual arrest of a Cumberland man by the Maryland State Police. No one was injured in the 11:33 p.m. crash.

Gabriel Lee Rentschler, 22, was driving a 1999 Pontiac Grand Am that had emerged from the parking lot of a tavern onto Rt. 546 just south of West Finzel Road into the path of a 1996 Plymouth Neon operated by Jennifer Lynn Lavin, 19, Frostburg. The Pontiac fled the crash scene, and an investigation involving the combined efforts of the MSP barracks of McHenry and LaVale, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Frostburg Police Department subsequently led to the apprehension of the subject.

Rentschler was later released on his own recognizance from the McHenry barrack after signing citations charging him with driving while under the influence, failure to yield right-of-way, and leaving the scene of an attended vehicle accident.

Kitzmiller Man Arrested On Two Counts Of Assault

A Kitzmiller man was arrested for allegedly assaulting his live-in girlfriend in front of her 2-year-old son, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Dana Lee Chapman, 33, was charged with first and second degree assault and reckless endangerment. These charges stemmed from a domestic altercation around 4:30 a.m. Tuesday. Chapman reportedly threatened to kill the victim, and then allegedly slammed her head and face through a glass window.

He then allegedly continued to stomp and beat her in the face, head, and body. Deputies observed blood and numerous cuts and bruises on the victim's face and head.

Elk Garden Rescue responded to the scene and transported the victim to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Chapman is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail awaiting a bond hearing.

In other police news, a Westminster, Pa., man was injured after he was pinned between two vehicles on a private road off Avilton Monaconing Road Friday.

Nathan W. Gasta was attempting to hook his vehicle to another when the second vehicle, a 1997 Dodge truck driven by David Aaron Upton, slid on the snow and pinned Gasta, police said.

He was transported by private vehicle to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

No charges were filed by sheriff's deputies. The incident was not reported to the police until Monday.

Gasta was not listed as a patient at Memorial Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson.

'TWAS ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL YEAR for the recent annual food and fund drive conducted for the House of Hope in Oakland. According to Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy Chuck Nolan, who has coordinated the drive for 23 straight years, a full pickup load plus about $1,600 were collected in about five hours. WKHJ Radio assisted Nolan with the effort by providing live broadcasts from the collection site along Second Street. Nolan goes to all lengths to make the effort a success, including producing an excellent portrayal of Jolly Old St. Nick himself, as shown in the above photo with some of his "elves." The House of Hope offers temporary assistance to persons in need, providing food and some financial help in emergency situations.

In other news, Kerry Ann Liedquist, McLean, Va., 23, was arrested by deputies and charged with driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) Saturday.

The commissioners met in executive session later and decided to request the funding from the General Assembly, on the condition that the county be able to decline the offer should the need for local funds be too great to establish and maintain the network.

"The commissioners didn't want to pass up the opportunity for the county," said Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator.

The General Assembly begins its 416th session on Wednesday, Jan. 9, and adjourns April 8.

Southern Rescue Squad and the Deer Park and Deep Creek fire departments assisted at the scene.

In another incident, deputies responded to GCMH around 5 a.m. Friday in reference to a motor vehicle accident in which the driver was injured, along New Germany Road.

According to the report, the driver, Heather Nicole Natolly, 25, Swanton, was traveling from the Frostburg area to Swanton around 11:30 p.m. Thursday when a deer jumped into her path, causing her to lose control of her 1996 Mercury Sable and strike an embankment.

Natolly was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI). She was transported to GCMH by private vehicle, where she was treated for her injuries.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

KATE AND LEOPOLD

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:00 - Released 12/25/01
(Guest review by Jeremy Carr)

Although I am secretly a lover of romantic comedies, I went into this picture with rather low expectations. Not sure how Hugh Jackman could handle a romantic role (I mean, he was Wolverine), I figured that the film would be a shallow, run-of-the-mill farce. I must say, I was very surprised and very pleased. Kate and Leopold is one of those films that can either make you feel like crap or make you feel like you're on top of the world (depending on if you have a "better half" or not).

The story of Kate and Leopold follows Stuart (Liev Schreiber), who finds a hole in time, via jumping off the Brooklyn Bridge, and travels back to 1876, where he encounters a high ranking duke named Leopold (Jackman), the inventor of the elevator. Leopold notices the man, who is obviously out of place, and follows him obsessively, resulting in his ending up in modern day New York City along with Stuart. While there, Leopold meets Kate (Meg Ryan — no stranger to romances. See the wonderful City of Angels), Stuart's ex-girlfriend and a marketing executive for a major company in the city. In typical rom-com fashion, the two begin to fall slowly in love (hence, Kate and Leopold).

Kate, however, is skeptical about Leopold's true identity, not believing that he is actually a duke from the 18th century. Kate's not alone in her skepticism though. Her out-of-work brother Charlie (Breckin Meyer) simply thinks that Leopold is a very talented method actor who always stays in character.

The problem arises when it is time for Leopold to travel back to where he came from. Kate is faced with the decision of whether or not she should stay in modern times and become a successful business woman or go back in time to be with the man she loves. Thank goodness for the audience, especially any couple in the theater, she goes back to Leopold.

There are many humorous moments in this film, most of which involve Leopold's adjustment to modern times (that damn toaster). Not all of it makes sense, not all of it is believable, and none of that matters. It's a love story that ranks up there with the some of the best.

The only problem with this picture, and as a guy, I don't think I'm alone in this, is that everything that Leopold does makes every boyfriend or husband look like a bum. His 1876-dated treatment of women puts us all to shame. Standing up when the lady leaves the table, a candle-lit dinner...

Directed by James Mangold (Girl, Interrupted, and Cop Land) the picture does follow the typical "man from a different time period ends up somewhere new, does funny stuff, the end" formula, but there seems to be something more adult and interesting about this film.

See Kate and Leopold with someone you love, or hide in the back and see it by yourself, but do see this picture.

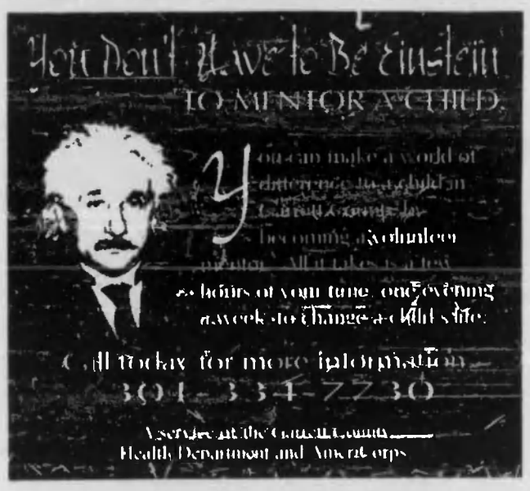
PLANET OF THE APES ★★½ (PG-13/1:50/8-2) Space stud startles scores of surly simian simpletons.



Accepted Into Dental School

Annie Neville, a junior at Villanova University, Villanova, Pa., has been accepted into the School of Dental Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, for the 2002 fall semester. Established in 1878, U. Penn's dental school is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the nation, and is ranked among the top five dental schools in the U.S.

Neville is a 1999 graduate of Southern High School, and is the daughter of Jenny and Jim Neville of Mtn. Lake Park.

Popular Radio Station, WMSG, Is Back On Air

Local radio station WMSG, 1050 AM, resumed normal operations today. The station had been silenced by a transmitter problem for over a week.

"It's great to be back," said Paul Mullan, station manager. "These things never happen at a good time, but the holidays are tough for a number of reasons."

Because of the holiday period, the station manager said many of the key engineers at the factory that built the transmitter were on vacation. To make matters worse, the technical drawings provided with the unit did not include the part that failed, causing confusion among both factory and local engineers.

Mullan said that he had received numerous phone calls about the status of the station from loyal listeners, who were very understanding when he told them about the nature of the problem. He thanked them for their understanding.

"Usually, when a problem like this comes up," Mullan said, "you only have a handful of people that bother to call. We had well over 200 calls about WMSG, and didn't have an unreasonable person among them. It was tough to be off the air, but very rewarding in dealing with folks who call WMSG their radio station."

The station's programming lineup, which includes nostalgic music, ABC network news, local news, weather, Gospel Music Time, Paul Harvey, and G. Gordon Liddy, remains intact, according to Mullan.

A Double Whammy...

Among the top two or three New Year's resolutions made by many people every year is to lose weight and exereise more. Fitness eiubs and eonditioning gyms do a booming business every January, selling thousands of memberships to all of those who make sueh a promise to themselves. But sadly, by the first of February, the numbers of those in the gyms return to normal, with only a small pereentage of persons stieking with their resolution.

Statistics reveal an alarming situation as to the number of overweight, physically inactive people in the United States, and the numbers are getting vorse. This is particularly true for the youngest of our citizens, as our children are getting fatter and fatter by the minute. Obesity in childhood usually leads to obesity in adulthood and the laundry list of life-shortening health problems because of it.

One of the reasons for our poor physical condition is the abundance of fast food and processed food, most of which is loaded with fat and a variety of other awful ingredients. But the larger problem is the sedentary lifestyle that has become our way of life. Our children spend an average of 14 hours per week watching television and another seven hours per week playing video games. Meanwhile, only about a third of our high school students are enrolled in a physieal education class.

The same is true for us adults. Central furnaces mean we don't have to chop wood to heat our homes. Automobiles eliminate walking. We can wash our clothes by pushing a button, make a loaf of bread with a machine, and now even do a lot of our shopping without getting out of our chair (Internet). We don't even have to get up off the sofa to switch the channels on our television sets.

One hundred years ago the diet of Americans was also rather loaded with fat, but the laek of modern conveniences caused one to burn up most of those calories. Today it is a double whammy. Obesity and physical inactivity lead not only to heart disease, but also to at least 35 other illnesses, including various cancers, arthritis, diabetes, hypertension, osteoporosis, respiratory diseases, strokes, and even depression.

Regular exereise takes a tremendous level of commitment, especially given the time restraints that most of us seem to have in our lives. Beeause of our many conveniences, we ean no longer eount on getting exereise in our daily routine as did our ancestors. But it is obviously time well spent. for exercise not only increases the odds for a longer life, but more importantly for a healthier life that is not plagued by one or more of the aforementioned illnesses.

Because so much of our behavior is ingrained during our childhood years, that is when exereise should be made part of one's daily routine, just the same as taking a shower and brushing one's teeth. This is the responsibility of parents. Meanwhile, a good step for our government would be to make school physieal education a mandatory class for all students, from kindergarten through grade 12.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There is some news I'd like to share at the beginning of this new year. It is related to the editorial, "Remembering the Good," in last week's paper. In spite of fearful appearances that seem to show us a world of conflict and of pain, we can be sure that these are merely on the surface, like choppy waves that will disappear. For there is an undercurrent of hope beneath those waves. The current is deep and strong and gaining momentum.

During my travels over the last three years, I have been blessed with the opportunity to witness the growing presence of kindness and peace in the hearts of people here and from all over the world; from many nations, religions, and races. And not one of them is different from myself. I sense the silent innocence and the wish for peace that flows from their hearts and shines upon their minds. Some may not ask to see the evidence of this. And see it we will as we lay aside all judgment of all things. Each moment, each situation, each encounter holds out to us the choice for love or hate, peace or conflict, joy or pain, forgiveness or judgment.

These are very exciting times in which we live. There is nothing to fear. Great change is near; and we are part of it. The minds and hearts of many, devoted to Peace and Love, are coming together.

Happiness in the New Year,
Ken Bauer

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to remind your readers that we have a very fine community band in Garrett County that started quite small less than two years ago, but is growing in size and quality. There are some extremely talented musicians in the band, but they need help.

The band is a very congenial group cosisting entirely of volunteers who enjoy playing together and improving their music skills, and are anxious to share those skills with the community. Currently our members come from all walks, including business and professional people, homemakers, retirees, and local students. We are looking for more people who have some previous ensemble experience, to fill out parts and enhance our sound. We especially welcome players who have played a band instrument in the past but are not necessarily expert players. I can attest to that, since I had not played my instrument for over 50 years when I was persuaded to volunteer.

More important than talent or experience is a willingness to dedicate yourself to practice and regular rehearsals. Our music library now includes an interesting variety, with Big Band and Broadway hits, along with a backbone of marches and classic band repertoire. At this point, we particularly need low brass instruments—French horn, baritone/euphonium, and saxophone, and also percussionists — but all instrumentalists are encouraged to participate. Anyone who would like more information or would like to attend a rehearsal may call music director Jerry McGee at 301-387-6315.

Join us and have a happy music experience!

Resolve Issues

gested that local fire marshals be given carbon copies of permits to help them be more aware of the building process.

"We want to make sure regulations aren't the reason people don't come here, or why they leave," Commissioner Wendell Beitzel said. "Our approach should be a common sense one. We need to work together with businesses, not just put the strong arm of the law on them."

Gosnell indicated that he would work with businesses on meeting fire code standards, as long as they showed a willingness to comply. He noted, however, that about six county businesses have had compliance problems dating back for years. "We're looking for a plan of action," he said about the violators, "but they have to come to closure. We're not out there to put a company out of business, but if it looks like they're stalling, we will file a criminal complaint."

"The state fire marshal doesn't lose in court," Thomas said, "never has, never will, because the law is the law. I don't want to go there. Let's resolve issues and try to more forward in a positive manner."

He acknowledged that his office has had difficulty keeping up with reviewing plans and permits, but he said that procedures are being developed to better inform those involved in the building process and to give larger projects priority.

"You have a commitment from me," Thomas said, "issues will be resolved."

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

"2002"

Someone commented to me about the symmetry of "2002." It is a numerical palindrome. Like the word "radar" it reads the same forwards and backwards. 2002 is also the first year of this century and millennium that we are not arguing about whether it is the first year of the new century and millennium. How will newspapers make up the "Letters to the Editor" space which, in the two past years, had been dedicated to that burning issue?

That is to say, we have arrived. We are unquestionably in the 21st century and the third millennium since the birth of Jesus Christ. Now that we are here, what comes next? What does our interior radar tell us about 2002? One year ago no one predicted the events of September 11. Now that anxiety about terrorist attacks is a malaise endemic in the land, there grows a citadel mentality in America. As civil libertarians have consistently pointed out, measures intended to identify and to restrict potential terrorists will diminish the freedoms of law-abiding citizens.

That is a valid argument in my view. It is all the more interesting because it is the same argument that the National Rifle Association has made for years: Restrictions on guns do not prevent criminals from getting and using guns; they only impinge on the liberties of the honest and responsible. It is an argument that all of us ought to heed whether it comes from the left or the right in our political spectrum.

The recent attempted terrorist act on the Paris-Miami American Airlines flight was thwarted not by the higher level of security screening at the airport, rather by good, old-fashioned common sense and courage.

Meanwhile I can predict with a high degree of certainty that 40,000 Americans will die on our highways this year. The marvel is that the number is so low. Perhaps roads are safer in other places, but where I drive they are terrible. Our highways are on the verge of chaos which no increase of police or cameras will be able to stay.

Four million people will die of starvation this year. That is to say that three times as many people starve every day as died in the September 11 "Attack on America." Very few of the people who starve will be Americans. The American problem is finding a diet that works.

A million American babies will be aborted this year. In some population groups the rate of abortion will exceed the birthrate.

And Americans, by and large, will continue to have an arrogant view of themselves in relation to the rest of the world. Americans will continue to approve President Bush's identification of ourselves as "good people" and our enemies as "evil-doers."

Where is that old-time Calvinist doctrine of total depravity when we need it? Absent reviving a right sense of our own vile sinfulness, perhaps we, as a nation, could take a dose of biblical wisdom like, "Pride goeth before destruction, and an haughty spirit before a fall." (Proverbs 16:18)

Also on the radar screen of 2002 is that brave people everywhere will persevere in small, anonymous and profoundly affecting deeds. As one of my teachers wrote 50 years ago: "The significant events are often the obscure ones, and the significant utterances are often those of men withdrawn from the world speaking to a very few."

Parents will continue to attempt rearing their children to live honest, decent lives in the face of a totalitarian culture of sin and death ranged against them. Simple people in every corner of the globe will seek to know and to speak the truth when the easy lie is peddled cheap at every door. Men and women will continue to lay down their lives in loving self-sacrifice, some at the peril of death or imprisonment, others at the peril only of being ostracized from a society where selfishness flows like water. Few of these brave people will be discovered by the image media of our age. Those who are thus depicted will wonder if the notoriety has compromised their work.

In a word, it will be as difficult in 2002 as ever to say or do or be good. But it is worth the effort, isn't it?

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

I didn't want to wrestle a tough ethical dilemma after a lovely family gathering at Pappy Dale's home, which was just a simple dinner consisting mostly of used leftovers from Christmas and turkey noodle soup and beef stew made from the prime ribs that Dale had cooked. It was like Christmas when Dale's house was the home of my grandparents, Orval and Emma Glotfelty, and we always expected a holiday visit from our down-state aunts and cousins. Aunt Helen, Mike, and Courtney would always visit.

Back then all first cousins of my generation exchanged names to give gifts. That was one of the most special gifts that we could look forward to. Sometimes we would get a package from the Hummels way out west, first in Kansas and then Washington state. One cousin's gift was extra special. My cousin Mike, who even then was a professional photographers presented me with a photo when I competed at the Md. State 4-H Horse Show at Timonium. We were staying with nearby second cousins, the Grimes family. Of course, the Englar family came down from Westminster to cheer us on.

Mike's father was a professional photographer who took a whole series of pictures of getting Joey ready for the show, and also when jumping in the class. One picture was especially amusing, as I was sitting on a rail fence with a few other riders. My expression was so prissy that it looked like I just ate a whole lemon. The time prior to the picture, after I jumped my round I asked my father how I did. He must have said something like "Okay" or "Not too bad." The final irony was the final picture after the series of rides when Joey and I posed with our blue ribbons and the silver plate for winning.

But my little sister Carol, who was about 10 years old, jumped her little brown and white pony, Flicka, that we had raised from a foal. The announcer said something about a rider from Garrett County jumped her little Flicka in a flawless performance. Mike captured one perfect jump on a photograph. Every detail was just right. Mike was so excited about the picture that when he drew Carol's name, he delivered a beautiful framed 8x10 photo of Carol at Christmas.

The favorite activity of our cousins from down-state and my family are playing board games. Guess what — The cousins, both the yonnger generation and mine, played Scrabble and a new game called Antique Road Show while that show was on TV. The other old-day favorite activity was arguing about professional sports, the Pirates vs. the Orioles or the Steelers vs. the Ravens. A different twist to the argument this year was the main question between my two brothers, who are die-hard Steelers fans, which was if the new crop of wide receivers were really better than Lynn Swann. The big question was whether or not one could compare valid statistics from players from two different teams and whether they do a great job and do the new Steelers use the pass or running game in the same proportions.

Since Barry was still pre-teen during the glorious Steelers of the early '70s, he was less loyal to the old herd, but we all agree that this year's team will probably march straight to New Orleans. Whether they can prevail as did the old Steelers is not a sure thing. I know one thing, I am glad that the Steelers are in the playoff picture since you ean't escape the football scene in the winter, and I am not really interested in watching football games unless I have an emotional investment with the team playing. That is one reason why my girls and I headed home fairly early in the evening while the Baltimore Ravens were on TV at Pappy Dale's. The Englars are not as big fans of the World Champion Ravens as they are of the Orioles.

When we got home our TV was tuned to the History Channel and, in spite of myself, I was totally captivated by an old movie, The Black and Scarlet, about the Nazis interacting with the Vatican in Rome. I always found it easy to condemn the cooperation between the Catholic Church and our Lutheran Church, but that excellent film shows that it was not black and white. The priests and people of faith grappled with the ultimate questions of how to use the power you have to do the most good, and I learned that the Pope fears Marxism anti-religions as much as they fear the different kind of godliness that the Nazis represented. They had to learn how to balance personal loyalty and friendships with their own safety with political dilemmas; democracy vs. totalitarianism, capitalism vs. communism.

Yes, World War II made some strange bed mates, with America allied with Russia. That is when it hit elose to me and posed a scary ethical question to me. After watching a weekend's worth of documentaries and film history about World War II, it hit me hard about the war that my parents' generation fought to rid a very real and clear force of evil.

Our family gathering was enhanced by the presence of my Aunt Dorothy Quaintance, who now lives in upstate New York. After a long eight-hour drive and just when she thought she was safely home as she was driving in "downtown" Bittinger, like many other unaware drivers, she was caught violating the sudden change from 50 mph speed limit to a 30 mph. She was quite philosophic about it and said, "I was going too fast and I got caugnt." Once she was really home at Dale's house she enjoyed several days with her family around her homeplace.

Helen and Dot visited their first cousin, Rhea Hetrick of Salisbury, on Friday after Christmas, and the next day they visited another cousin, Rhoda Miller, and June Beachy at Goodwill Nursing Home. June was raised as a part of my grandfather's family and was born at the Stephens home on Peat Moss Road. I just got a note from a classmate of mine, Linda Beachy, formerly from Grantsville.

The family of the late Carl Stephens of Baltimore plan a 85th birthday for their mother, Mary Metzler Stephens. Mary is a sister of Kathryn Bowser. The celebration will be held the evening of January 12 at the Cumberland Country Club in Bel Air. Every week I learn another surprising fact about the families of Bittinger that are interlinked. I met a cousin of Hazel Bowser Gaumer at the Bittinger picnie with the last name of Stephens. I can't remember what his first name was, but I do remember that he was quite handsome. Dale told me he thought it was Harry, who is a son of Carl and Mary Stephens.

I suddenly remembered that I had not gotten my Christmas present to Cindy Stanton yet, and it's only two days until New Year's. Cindy is always special, and remembers the girls and me with her cookies and special remembrances. Of course, I also did not send out many Christmas cards, as it was too hard to face sirning just my name and the girls, without Lloyd's name. I couldn't include those cheery letters about what used to be new in the Sussman family.

I guess I could talk about Claire's band activities, the honor rolls, school performance, and church activities of my girls. I only know that my life is so filled with chaos that I couldn't produce enough current addresses for our friends. I did get a decent picture of my girls and me in front of the stained glass picture of the "Peaceable Kingdom" in the Educational Building of the ehureh. However, I never got it together to get it reprinted in large numbers.

Claire tells me to stop smiling when I pose, as it is a take smile. It is hard to get a real smile from me these days, as I have the weight of the world on my shoulders, and even the small blessing I experience can't move that heavy load off my face. I know I failed when I misplaced the name and address of a fan of my column from New York state. I know her name is the same as mine. I reeeived a big box of wonderful stuff from her garden for my dolls. Even when she read about my girls collecting foreign coins she sent some really good ones to them. We failed to write to her to thank her at the time. I hope she will know how much we appreciate her thoughtfulness.

I also want to thank Max and Bea Buckel, who sent me an encouraging greeting card. I know they are on our church's prayer list. I don't know their problem, but also see Hump and Audrey Nesline are included on it.

I am always lucky to get a chance to get calls in to anyone, with my girls tying up the phone lines and the Internet usage. With so much on my mind, it is hard to keep an intent to complete phone calls when most of the time messages are on the message machine.

My children and their cousins fully appreciated the decent snowfall we got last week. We just barely qualified for a white Christmas, as we got just a dusting for Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. However, soon we got some real cold winter weather. The thermometer dipped into the teens, and we got about 5 or 6 inches of new fluffy snow blanketing everything. At last we have those soft pillows on the evergreen branches. I was amused, but not surprised, when Pastor Pat told me last evening on the phone that Keith returned after Christmas here in Bittinger to his internship at the church in Somerset, and that although the roads and weather were frightful in Bittinger, the rest of his northern trip was no problem.

Aunt Helen just blew in on her way back to Westminster and helped finish some work here that she did yesterday. She gave me the sad news that Leah Brenueman, wife of John Brenneman and mother of one of the star players on the undefeated football "Husky" teams in 1964, Larry Brenneman, had departed this life after a long battle with cancer. However, she died from a blood clot.

Leah was in Johns Hopkins Hospital upon her death. Although Leah was not from Bittinger, she had many friends here.

Another one of our grandladies who suffered a broken leg and blood clots. got out of the hospital on Saturday and was able to return to her home. As she sat in her wheelchair in the living room she burst out crying beeause she at last got to come home. I know that feeling, as it seems in the hospital everything will be all right if you just get home. But as Lottie and I learned, it is not quite that simple. She will not put any weight on her broken leg for at least eight to 10 weeks. With her leg in a brace, she cannot bend it which means getting in a car or getting up from a chair is almost impossible. She will need pretty much round-the-eloek eare for a good while. Her oldest daughter, Lois Smith, is currently staying with her.

Meanwhile, Linda Buckel is busy with her grandchildren who belong to Kim and Doug Collins and are busy with the funeral of his father's step-mother, Hida Gellner. When I talked to Linda on the phone she said she has her hands full with the little Collinses.

Lottie's daughter, Lana Roby, was suddenly hit bv an attack of Bells Palsy. It is so painful that she had to go to the hospital ER for pain relief. You could say "When it rains it pours." There is no easy answer for Lottie to face just now. She will need every drop of coneern, help, and prayers that Bittinger can muster in forms of cards, phone calls, visits, etc.

I am afraid to make any more phone ealls to try to drum up any other news. It seems only bad news comes to me. I just wish I knew where I myself could turn for comfort and encouragement right now, not to our dogs, as they go crazy when the girls leave without them. They jump up and down and whine. They want to go along, but I know the girls hate it when they go along and get in the way of the skis. But the dogs insist it is their job to proteet their mistresses. Actually, in this kind of bitter cold weather it would probably be good if they were along. Well, here goes nothing, as I am letting them out.

I can't seem to get anyone to answer their phone this Sunday afternoon, as everyone is occupied watching an overtime finish in a big game for the Steelers. The Bengals would not go away, and scored a field goal to win the game. The only thing they gained by this win was pride. Now the big game today is the revisit of the ultimate Maryland rivahy with the Wolf Pack of North Carolina State. I was surprised to hear my daughters reel off some history of that rivahy.

If anyone sees a stray young husky dog, the one that used to head for our house when he got loose, his owner called us, and the girls told him we had not seen him. If you do see him — he is a real sweety aud a friendly, big puppy — call 301-245-4544.

Besides the small but enthusiastie New Year's Eve party at Rodney and Marei Glotfelty's house, the most enthusiasm was in the younger generation. That was the Whittemore kids, the Southerly boys, the Bass kids, and the Sussman girls with the Glotfelty children. We enjoyed viewing a video tape of the Hagerstown TV channel broadcast about the grand opening of the new Garrett County Health Department building, starring, of course, our health officer, Rodney Glotfelty. I could not take my eyes off the big pink aud white poinsettia plants from the open house. Rodney purchased one, and I never saw a more beautiful plant. I contented myself with picking a few pink and white leaves from the floor. Believe it or not, the colored part of the poinsettias are leaves rather than flowers. It is hard to resist picking it back as I could make some beautiful costumes for my dolls from those leaves.

A recent Virginia Tech graduate, Michelle Geis, was also honored at her mother's Christmas Eve party, and I gave her a doll dressed in an academic robe and mortarboard and with a little gold tassel. She was thrilled with it. Now I still am working on one for Leah Stanton, who still has a few semesters before she will finish her career at Towson University in August. Her mother plans to stop by my house today to pick up her Christmas present from me, but I just got a call from her and learned that the New Year's gathering that Sam and she hosted with couples who went to Northern High School with the Stantons, included Clark and Sharon Glotfelty, Connie and Gary Savage, Greg and Cathy Hinebaugh, and Roger and Pam Cutler. They did make it through the New Year hour, but not like in the "old days" when we could go at least until 2 o'clock.

The stress of getting Cindy's Christmas tree down makes it impossible to get out today. I am badgering my girls to take our tree down. That is when we used to take it down when I was a kid. New Year's Day, the Christmas tree comes down, and that is how it will be here and now, too. I don't see why it should clutter up my living room when the girls go off with their father this evening. They wili also not be around next week, as they will go to Nana and Pop Sussman's house to celebrate the holidays with them. I always enjoyed very much celebrating Christmas with my now ex-in-laws.

I guess I had better see whether my mother is recovered from New Year's Eve enough to get this news typed and sent in to The...

Military honors will be accorded by the Allegany County Combined Veterans Organization.

The family requests that memorial contributions be made to the Potomac Valley Home Hospice, 92 First Street, Keyser, WV 26726.

CHARLES O. ROSS JR.

Charles Orval Ross Jr., 82, Hazelton, W.Va., died Friday, Dec. 28, 2001, in Westminster, where he had lived with his son for the past two years.

Born June 22, 1919, in Friendsville, he was a son of the late Charles Orval Sr. and Emma Ross. He was also preceded in death by a sister, Cleda; one brother, James; and two daughters, Alice Marie, in November 1952, and Donna Lee, in May 1987.

He was a resident of Friendsville until 1992. During his residency, he served as the town's mayor for one term following his retirement from the federal government in June 1979. For 20 years, he was a senior field examiner for the former Federal Home Loan Bank Board. He was responsible for ensuring that federal savings and loan associations complied with federal banking regulations.

Prior to his civil service employment, he began his banking career with the Friendsville branch of the former First National Bank, and later served as a branch manager for the Equitable Trust Company in Baltimore. He entered the banking industry following a term of service with the U.S. Department of Agriculture as a meat inspector.

During World War II, he served with the Fourth Armored Division of General Patton's Third Army. He was assigned to the operations section of the division's headquarters unit, and was the only non-commissioned officer in the Liaison Group. As such, his duties kept him at the front lines to plot and report Allied and enemy positions.

He attained the rank of master sergeant, the highest non-commissioned rank at that time. He served from May 1941 until October 1945, and was discharged following occupation duty in Germany. His awards included the Presidential Unit Citation, Bronze Star, Good Conduct Medal, World War II Victory Medal, American Defense Medal, Army of Occupation Medal, and European-African-Middle East Campaign Ribbon with five battle stars. Though he was wounded during a mortar attack in Britany, France, in July 1944, he refused the awarding of a Purple Heart.

He was a lifelong membership in the First Christian Church, Friendsville, where he served as elder, Sunday school superintendent and teacher, and lay preacher. He was also a founding member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post and served as a past commander. During the 1980s, he was a member of the Lions Club.

Surviving are his wife of 54 years, Janice Louise Friend; a daughter, Laura Lee, Chillicothe, Ohio; two sons, Charles Mason, Annapolis, and Howard Orville, Westminster; five grandchiklren; four step-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild

A memorial service will be held at the First Christian Church on Saturday, Jan. 5, 2002, at 2 p.m.

As a World War II veteran, the family requests that memorials take the form of contributions in his name to the World War II Veterans Memorial Campaign, American Battle Monuments Commission, P.O. Box 96766, Washington, DC 20090-6766.

DARRELL G. ROTH

Darrell G. Roth, 85, formerly of Chestnut Ridge, Morgantown, W.Va., died Saturday, Dec. 29, 2001, at his residence.

Born Feb. 7, 1916, in Eglon, W.Va., he was a son of the late Paul and Lelia Parks Roth. He was also preceded in death by his wife, Marie Harsh Roth, in February 1992; one sister, Lois Powell; and one brother, Dale Roth.

He was a member of the Church of the Brethren. He served as a shipfitter with the U.S. Navy Seabees. He received the Pacific Theater Ribbon, American Theater Ribbon, and a Victory Medal. He painted for many years with local paint contractors, worked for Dupont, which was bought by Olin Mathison, and later Morgantown Ordinance Works, where he was one of the last employees on the payroll. He then joined FMC, where he worked as a machinist until he retired in 1981.

He was a member of the Senior Citizens Bowling League, and the United Steel Workers Local 8022 of America, having served as a local president.

Surviving are one daughter, JoAnn Fiscel, Duncansville, Pa.; two sons, Leroy Roth, Troy, Ohio, and Jerry Roth, Maineville, Ohio; four grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; four brothers, Paul Doyle Roth, Macedonia, Ohio, Robert Roth, Morgantown, W.Va., Roland Samuel Roth, Santa Rosa, Calif., and Charles Coleman, Hot Springs Village, Ariz.; and three sisters, Kay Goodall, New Cumberland, Pa., Norma Lantz, Simpsonville, S.C., and Marlene Taylor, Modesta, Calif.

Many Causes of Drug Interactions

There are many reasons why drug interactions occur. Factors such as metabolism can cause medicines to work differently from person to person. Drugs can interact directly with other drugs, and they can interact with certain foods to produce outcomes that may be positive or negative. The speed at which drugs are absorbed from the intestines or excreted via the kidneys can affect drug interactions. Heredity and certain diseases also affect the chances of having drug interactions. Chemicals in cigarette smoke can increase the activity of liver enzymes that metabolize medicines, explaining why smokers sometimes experience less response to the pain reliever propoxyphene (Darvon) or the asthma reliever theophylline (TheoDur). The heartburn remedy cimetidine (Tagamet) and the antibiotic ciprofloxacin (Cipro) may slow liver enzyme activity and prolong the effect of medicines that are metabolized by the liver.

Informing your physician/pharmacist of all medicines you are taking and having all medicines filled at the same pharmacy may prevent drug interactions. For example, ibuprofen may cause fluid retention, decreasing the activity of a diuretic taken for blood pressure.

MPT Will Air College Financial Aid Program

Maryland Public Television (MPT) will air its annual guide to college financial aid, "You Can Afford College 2002," on Saturday, Jan. 12, at 11 a.m. and again at 1 p.m.

How to get money for college is explained through interviews with federal and state financial aid experts, high school guidance counselors, bank lending experts, and students sharing their own financial aid success stories. Viewers can learn about important applications and deadlines; the basic types of grants, scholarships, and loans available in Maryland; federal financial aid programs; work-study programs; tuition-free service academies; important web sites; and how to avoid financial aid scams.

Beginning with the 11 a.m. broadcast and running until 2 p.m., financial aid experts from around the state will take phone calls at MPT to provide detailed answers to financial aid questions. The toll-free number to call is 800-222-1292. Persons can also get information and links to financial aid resources online at mpt.org.

"You Can Afford College 2002" is produced by Elliott Wiley for Maryland Public Television and underwritten by Maryland National Guard, Sandy Spring National Bank, and Fannie Mae.

Free Assistance With Court Paper Filing Available

The Family Law Assistance Program of the Garrett County Family Services Coordinator's Office will have a representative available in various locations over coming weeks to provide legal assistance and help any interested citizen fill out forms to file court papers.

The service will be available at the Oakland Town Hall on the Fridays of Jan. 4 and Feb. 8, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.; at the Grantsville Town Hall on the Thursdays of Jan. 10 and Feb. 14, from 3 to 5 p.m.; at the Friendsville Community Building on the Mondays of Jan. 14 and Feb. 18, from 3:30 to 6 p.m.; and at the Deer Park Town Hall the Tuesdays of Jan. 22 and Feb. 19, from 2 to 5 p.m.

These offerings are in addition to the regular office hours of the Family Service Coordinator's Office each Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The office is located on the third floor of the Garrett County Courthouse rotunda. Those Wednesday sessions are dedicated strictly to assistance with forms.

For further information, persons may call the Randy Whitaker, the county's Family Services Coordinator, at 301-334-7602.

Adorable Adoptables

HOW CAN YOU RESIST THIS FURRY FACE? — This adult male brown tabby is just one of many lovable cats and kittens at the Garrett County Animal Shelter that are looking to start the new year off right by finding a good home. "We also have many dogs and puppies just waiting for the right pet owners to take them home," adds Candy Virts, shelter assistant. Located along Sang Run Road just north of the Oakland Golf Club, the shelter is open for pet seekers on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The shelter is closed Saturdays and Sundays.

Huskies Crush Rams, Edge Beall To Take NHS Christmas Tourney

Santa was very good to the Northern High School boys' basketball team over the recent holidays, as the Huskies took their own NHS Christmas Tournament by downing Turkeyfoot 64-54 in Friday's opening round, and narrowly defeating Beall in a 59-57 championship game thriller Saturday evening. Northern center Jensen Long's strong inside performance earned him Tournament MVP honors, and teammates Josh Swandol and Jason Rice, whose clutch three pointer in the final minute iced the win over Beall, were named to the All-Tournament Team.

The Huskies had to come from behind to catch Turkeyfoot after the Rams jumped out to an 18-8 first quarter lead. Northern responded by reeling off a 22-7 tear en route to its own 30-25 halftime lead, and still held a five-point advantage, 41-36, as the third stanza came to a close. A 28-13 fourth-quarter NHS run put the Rams away for good.

Only a sophomore, Rice paced a balanced Northern attack with 15 points and fellow Husky Aaron Mitchell netted 13. Andrew Frantz recorded nine points. Turkeyfoot's Chance Hinzy led all scorers with 31 points, a tally that included seven buckets from three-point range.

Northern was forced to mount a comeback effort again the following evening against Beall, which had advanced to the title game by downing Westmar 57-50. The Mounties were up 19-16 over NHS after one quarter and 31-23 at the half. The Huskies clawed back into the action by outscoring the guests in the third stanza 19-9, and opened the fourth quarter holding a slim 42-40 lead.

Beall held a 57-55 advantage as the battle entered its final minute of play, but Rice's long-range tré gave NHS a 58-57 lead. The Mounties failed to score on their ensuing possession, and were forced to foul Northern's Landon Southerly, who connected on a free throw to give the Huskies their two-point margin of victory.

Long made the contest a nightmare for his Beall counterpart, scoring 16 points to tie for game-high honors, ripping down 10 rebounds, and terrorizing Mountie shooters by swatting away seven of their shot attempts. Rice tallied 15 points, including a trio of three pointers, and Swandol contributed 13 points while hauling in eight rebounds. Ryan Harper and Joel Greig both recorded 16 points for the visitors.

Turkeyfoot defeated Westmar in the consolation game 65-64.

Joining the afore-mentioned Huskies on the All-Tourney team were Turkeyfoot's Hinzy, Beall's Greig, and Westmar's Bobby Alkire.

Northern (3-4) continues its homestand by hosting Bishop Walsh tomorrow evening. Union pays a Monday visit, and Westmar returns to the Cove Tuesday. Each varsity contest tips off at 7:30 p.m., 90 minutes after the junior varsity game gets under way.

HUSKIES RULE COURT IN HOME TOURNEY — The Northern High School boys' basketball team gave their Igloo fans plenty to cheer about by taking the annual NHS Christmas Tournament with Friday's 10-point opening win over Turkeyfoot and the following evening's exciting 59-57 victory over Beall in the final. Northern capitalized on fine all-around team play over the weekend event, and also among the standout Husky performers was sophomore guard Jason Rice (#52), pictured above streaking up the floor, who scored 15 points in each of the two wins. Among Rice's tally was a clutch three-pointer in the closing minute of the championship game that clinched the crown for NHS. Senior forward Josh Swandol (#34) is shown at the right muscling his way to the hoop to net two of his 13 points against the Mounties, as teammates Andrew Frantz (#14) and Jensen Long (#44), the Tournament MVP, set up under the basket. The 3-4 Huskies are slated to host Bishop Walsh in a 7:30 p.m. match-up Monday evening, following a 6 p.m. junior varsity contest.

Northern Girls Take Turkeyfoot Tourney; Fall Prey To Falcons

The Northern High School girls' basketball team claimed the crown of the Turkeyfoot Christmas Tournament in fine fashion early this week, beating the host Rams 56-50 in the first round before throttling Salisbury 49-35 in the championship contest. Forward Amanda Frantz took Tournament MVP honors, while teammate Heather Lander joined Frantz on the All-Tournament team. Frankfort's Falcons put a damper on the week by taking a 57-34 win over NHS last night in West Virginia.

Last Wednesday, Dec. 26, NHS knocked Turkeyfoot out of its own tournament in Round One. The hosts were up 5-6 after one quarter and 16-14 at the half, but the Huskies chipped away at the lead to take a 31-28 advantage as the final stanza got under way.

Northern's Frantz scored a team-high 17 points on six field goals and a 3-for-4 performance from the foul line. Bridget Frazee netted eight points and grabbed 13 rebounds, and Jolene Brenneman contributed 13 points. Lander scored eight points and sneaked into the paint enough from her guard position to snag 11 rebounds of her own. Game-high scorer was the Rams' Tiffany Rosenberger, who recorded 27 points on her way to being named to the All-Tournament Team along with teammate Janet Augustine, who scored 14 points.

Frantz put on a clinic in the following evening's 14-point title win over Salisbury, hitting for 24 points on 12 field goals. Frazee turned in a superb performance on both ends of the court, scoring 10 points and taking down 14 rebounds. Natasha Munion netted 16 points for the Elks, helping her earn the fifth slot on the All-Tourney squad.

NHS exploded from the opening tip-off, running out to a 19-4 first quarter lead and taking a 29-12 advantage into the halftime locker room. The Huskies widened their margin to 41-23 by the end of the third quarter.

Last night's road trip to Frankfort to take on the powerful (7-1) Falcons met with trouble from the outset. The Huskies were down 13-9 after one quarter, 24-13 at the half, and 37-25 after three stanzas. NHS was outscored 20-9 over the fourth quarter.

Brenneman was the only Northern player to hit for double figures as she netted 10 points on four field goals and a 2-for-2 free throw shooting tally. Frantz added nine points, and Frazee seven. Apryl Frankland scored 23 points for Frankfort.

Northern's junior varsity squad fell to the Falcons, 39-23. Kayla Kamp recorded 10 points for the Huskies, and tying Frankfort's Jenny Moreland for game-high honors.

The Huskies have a 4-4 record heading into Saturday's home battle with the unbeaten Southern Rams, a 7:30 p.m. contest tentatively slated for live broadcast on 92.3 FM. NHS visits Beall Monday, then returns home to host Salisbury in a 7:30 p.m match-up. Junior varsity contests get under way at 6 p.m.

In a match-up of the Mountaintop Basketball League's two undefeated teams, Condoerr maintained control to record a 73-67 victory over the Skiles Bunch in Sunday's action. Plaza Hobby rallied to top Smiley's in the second game, 68-60, and Copeland's defeated an upset-minded 84 Lumber, 57-48, in the third contest.

Nathan Long scored 14 points in the second half of the first game for Skiles Bunch, while Nathaniel Panther hit 13 of his game-high 22 in the second half, but it was not enough to overcome the size advantage of Condoerr. Dennis Gibson with 20 points and Mike Saturday with 16 controlled the offensive glass to ice the win and seize sole possession of first place in the league. Long finished with 21 points and Bryan Panther netted 12, all on three-point buckets, for Skiles, while Tom Stem and Poke Winters also reached double figures for Condoerr with 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Mike Browning paced Plaza Hobby with a 28-point effort against Smiley's, with 18 of those being recorded in the second half. Plaza was down by three at the end of the first quarter, but took the lead for good in the second stanza. They iced the victory by making good on 12 of 17 free throws in the fourth period.

Joe Refosco led Smiley's in scoring with 14 points, with Mike Harvey and Scott Shahan each hitting 13 and Chris Ewing netting 12, all from three-point range.

Just when it appeared that Copeland's was going to run away with the game against 84 Lumber with a 12-point lead in the final quarter, all of a sudden Copeland's was ahead by just two with 90 seconds left. A three-pointer by Doug Copeland, however, put the lead back at five and 84 did not threaten again.

Jason Shreve led the winners with 20 points, Copeland scored 13, and Ryan White finished with 10. Gary Upole paced 84 Lumber with 15 points, with Nate Haskiell contributing 11.

Games slated for this Sunday, Jan. 6, will pit Condoerr against Midas at 1 p.m., 84 Lumber vs. Plaza Hobby at 2 p.m., and Skiles against Smiley's at 3 p.m. Respective scorekeepers are 84 Lumber, Condoerr, and Plaza Hobby.

Condoerr leads the league with a 4-0 mark, followed by Skiles at 4-1, Smiley's at 3-1, Plaza Hobby and Copeland's at 2-3, Midas at 1-3, and 84 Lumber at 0-4.

Dribblers Youth Basketball Club To Open Season

The Oakland Rotary Dribbler's Club will begin its 19th season with games slated for this Saturday, Jan. 5, at the Dennett Road Elementary gymnasium. Any third or fourth grade boy or girl who attends a Garrett County school in the southern half of the county is eligible to participate.

Registration for third grade boys and girls will begin at 8:45 a.m. The registration for fourth grade boys and girls will begin at 10:50 a.m. The third grade boys and girls session will last from 9 to 10:30 a.m. The fourth grade boys and girls session will last from 9:30 to 11 a.m. to noon. Participants can either obtain a registration form from their elementary school or get a form at the Dennett Road gym on Saturday.

"The Dribblers Club provides opportunities for instruction in basketball fundamentals as well as opportunities to play games and tournaments," a spokesperson said. Players should leave their own basketballs at home, as the club will provide basketballs at the gym. For more information, persons may call Dave Bender at 301-334-4390.

Elks Hoop Shoot Contest Set For Saturday At SHS

The 2002 Elks Hoop Shoot competition, a nationwide youth basketball free-throw shooting event, will get under way as Oakland Elks Lodge sponsors the local contest this Saturday, Jan. 5, in the Southern High School auxiliary gymnasium. Registration commences at 11:30 a.m., and all Garrett County youngsters ages 8-13 may take part.

Boys and girls entering the competition will compete in age categories of 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13, and each contestant will have 25 shots at the hoop. The boy and girl in each age group with the best scores in the local contest will advance to the district competition, set for Sunday, Feb. 17, in Frederick. Winners from that contest will travel to Charleston, W.Va., in March for regionals. Winners at the regional level will advance to the national finals in Springfield, Mass., which will take place April 18-20.

Names of the national winners will be inscribed on the Elks National "Hoop Shoot" plaque, which is on permanent display in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield.

League Seeking U-12 Boys' Team

The Northern Garrett Soccer Club of the Mountain West Soccer League is seeking interested persons to form an under-12 boys' soccer team.

The team will play on Sunday afternoons for the spring season. Try-outs will be later this spring provided enough interest is expressed. All Garrett and Allegany County youth are invited to attend try-outs.

Interested persons may contact Lynn or Jan Lais at 301-895-3310 during the evening, or 301-895-5932 during the day.

Registration Dates Set For AYSO Soccer

Casselman Valley AYSO Soccer, Region 861, will be holding registration for the upcoming spring season on Friday, Jan. 11, from 6 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Jan. 12, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Grantsville Elementary School.

The registration fee is $30 per person and will include full uniform (socks, shorts, and team shirt), medical reimbursement plan, subscription to Soccer Now magazine, and an invitation to the soccer picnic to be held June 15.

Registration is open to all boys and girls ages 5 through 19. Players not participating in the fund-raiser will be required to add an additional $15 to their registration fee.

Snow dates will be January 18 and 19 at the same time. For more information, persons may contact Wendell Yoder at 814-634-5219 or Chuck Trautwein at 301-895-3231.

Arsenal Boys' Squads Play In W.Va. Tourney

The Arsenal Football League sent two boys' teams, the U-18 and U-14 units, to take part in the Soccer-In-Schools Tournament in Morgantown, W.Va., recently. Although the squads combined for only one win and one tie in seven outings, the tourney provided some valuable experience against some top-flight competition, according to league spokesperson Mel Menker.

Playing in the U-19 division, Arsenal's U-18 team took its first game over the Bridgeport/Clarksburg Mohawks by a 2-1 score as Bryan Schwalm and D.R. Parsons each scored for the Garrett County squad. The team lost a heartbreaker in its next outing as Olympia Soccer Club squeaked by Arsenal by a 1-0 margin. The U-18 unit fell to eventual division winner Beadling (Pa.) by a 5-0 score.

The U-14 team tied, 2-2, in its opening match against the West Virginia University Soccer Club. Arsenal's James Naylor and Ethan Chorpenning recorded goals, and Naylor assisted on Chorpenning's score. Logan Craig collected seven saves. The second match against an excellent St. Thomas Moore team from Pittsburgh ended in an 18-1 defeat, although Craig made five stops in goal and Taylor Crabtree netted Arsenal's lone score.

As U-14 play continued, the Arsenal squad squared off with another powerhouse in Game 3 against North Central United, but fell 7-1. Ivan Stutzman recorded the Arsenal goal and Brenton Carnell made four saves. Arsenal was downed by the Pittsburgh Strikers. Craig gathered in two saves in that contest.

Looking ahead, three of the Arsenal girls' teams will be taking part in the Frostburg State University Women's Tournament on Sunday, Jan. 13. Arsenal will hile 14 small-sided teams at the Bridgeport Invitational Tournament on Sunday, Jan. 20.

Palmer Leads Four Rams On All-Area Football First Team

Four members of the 2001 Southern High School varsity football team were among players named this past week to the All-Area first team by a vote of area coaches. The group is headed by senior lineman Brad Palmer, who was named the Co-Defensive Player of the Year along with Dustin Bosley of Frankfort.

Other Rams named to the first team, all on defense, were senior linebacker Joel Helbig, senior defensive back Chad Panther, and senior punter Tobi Stoner.

Palmer, Helbig, Panther, senior running back Steve Skipper, and senior tight end Bryson Meyers were also named to the second-team offense, Palmer as a lineman, Helbig and Skipper as running backs, and Panther as end. Skipper and senior Ryan Upole were named to the second-team defense, with Skipper listed among the linebackers.

Receiving honorable mention on defense were Southern linemen Jay Tressler and Matt Howell, and Meyers at the linebacker position. Honorable mention on offense was awarded to Stoner as quarterback, and linemen Nick Gangler and Garrett O'Brien.

Members of the Northern High School team who received honorable mention on defense were linebacker Joel Resh, and on offense, running back Chester Bachtel and lineman Trey Brenneman.

Brad Palmer utilized every ounce of his 6-3, 219-pound frame to rip through opposing offensive lines all season, leading the Rams to a state 1A playoff berth after starting with a 1-4 record.

"Brad is the epitome of what we would like to see in every athlete at Southern High School," stated his coach, Fred Gregg. "He plays with incredible intensity every single down of the game. He was relentless as a pass rusher and, even though he was double-team most of the season, he still routinely found the football and delivered a big hit."

Palmer, who was also named to the second team of the Associated Press Small School All-State selections, recorded 137 tackles and two fumble recoveries this past season. He was a three-year starter for the Rams, and Gregg believes has all of the qualities needed to play ball at the college level.

"He has not only the talent, but also the work ethic and the attitude that is necessary to make it at the next level," Gregg said. "He's also a good student."

JOEL HELBIG

Linebacker Joel Helbig (6-3, 210) was the only player who had more tackles for the Rams than Palmer, as he finished with a team-high 146 and also had a pair of fumble recoveries.

Chad Panther (5-10, 160), playing his first year of varsity football, had 61 tackles for the Rams, including a number of touchdown-saving stops in the secondary. A former soccer player, he also had a successful season kicking field goals and extra points.

Stoner (6-1, 177), who was also playing his first year of varsity ball, led the Rams to their 6-5 record from the quarterback position, but was also named the top punter in the area for his 37-yard average on 28 punts.

The other members of the All-Area first team defense are: Ryan Kesner, Reed Williams, and Jacob Wilson of Moorefield, Bryan Hare and Lloyd Huff of Allegany, Morgan Metz and Jason Sidaway of Frankfort, Alex Lee of Hampshire, Bradley Loffert of Bishop Walsh, and Zach Roberts of

CHAD PANTHER

Beall. The members of the first-team All-Area offense are: Chad Jacovino, Jeremy Sellers, Derrick Jamison, Levi Lutz, John Van Meter, and Billy Orndorff, all of Allegany, Adam Fisher, Daniel Barb, and Chris Green of Moorefield, Richard Kimble, Aaron Stonebraker, and Seth Weakley of Frankfort, Bryan Wright and Scott See of Hampshire, and Brian Brennan of Beall.

Four Huskies Named To MAC First Team

Post-season honors for high school football's Mountain Athletic Conference were announced recently, and Northern High placed four players on the All-MAC First Team squad.

Named to the offensive unit were running back Cheston Bachtel and guard and placekicker Trey Brenneman, who learned his offensive line duties on the fly after being moved from running back to help beef up the Huskies' rushing attack after the season started. Linebacker Joel Resh and punter Ethan DeVore were named to the defensive squad.

Honorable mention kudos went to NHS quarterback Aaron Mitchell, tight end Josh Swandol, offensive tackle Tommy Menges, and defensive linemen Dustin Wiland and Brenneman.

Berkeley Springs placed a team-high seven on the honorary unit, and conference champion Beall had four players named to the squad.

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team returns to action this weekend with an appearance in the Hagerstown Tournament at Hagerstown Community College. The Lakers are slated to take on Mitchell Community College (N.C.) Saturday and Mercer Community College (N.J.) on Sunday. Garrett returns to the Hagerstown gymnasium to battle the host Hawks on Wednesday.

The Lakers have gotten off to a 4-2 start under first-year head coach Steve Willison. The GCC women's last outing was Dec. 15 in Pittsburgh, where they defeated CCAC-South 62-52.

Snowflake Chase To Kick Off '02 Racing Season

The Uno's Snowflake Chase 5 Mile Run/2 Mile Walk will get under way at 10 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 19, at the Deep Creek Lake State Park. The annual event is the first road race of the Queen City Striders 2002 racing circuit.

A portion of each $15 entry fee will be donated to Big Brothers Big Sisters, and each racer will receive a custom designed long-sleeved T-shirt. The awards ceremony will be held at Uno Restaurant, and a complimentary lunch of pizza and soft drinks will be served to all participants courtesy of Uno's.

For more information on the Snowflake Chase, persons may contact David Ritchie by calling 301-359-9579 or via e-mail at www.iPlayOutside.com.

United Way Days Slated At Bear Claw Tubing Park

The Wisp Ski Resort will be setting aside a portion of its proceeds from the new Bear Claw Tubing Park from today, Thursday, Jan. 3, through Sunday, Jan. 6, for donation to the Garrett County United Way. "United Way Days" will benefit the GCUW, which supports a number of local charitable and service-related non-profit organizations.

Two-hour tubing sessions will be available during the following times: Thursday, 3-9 p.m.; Friday, 1-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 4-10 p.m.; and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 4-8 p.m. Children must be at least 3 years old and 42 inches tall to participate.

"We'd like everyone to come out for this exciting new activity and have fun as we help our community," said GCUW 2001 campaign chairperson Jeanette Fitzwater.

Fourth-Quarter Nightmare Costs Rams Tourney Title

A terrible fourth-quarter performance against Catonsville High School led to a 42-30 defeat of the Southern High Rams in the championship game of their own 25th annual Browning's Foodland/Arby's Snowball Classic on Saturday. The Rams had earned a spot in the title game by defeating Frankfort on Friday night, 63-53, while Catonsville disposed of Linganore, 56-40, in the other opening-round contest.

The split left the Rams with a 3-3 overall record, which they will put on the line this Saturday at Fort Hill.

In Friday's victory over the Frankfort Falcons, it was a strong fourth quarter effort that sealed the win for the Rams, as they were tied with their visitors at the end of the first quarter, 14-14, and trailed by one at the end of both the second and third stanzas, 27-26 and 41-40. Led by Chad Panther and J.B. Murphy, Southern outscored the Falcons in the final quarter by a 23-12 margin.

Panther, who led the Rams in scoring with 18 points, recorded eight of those in the fourth period, while Murphy nailed a three-point shot and a two-pointer.

Dennis Tressler was right behind Panther in scoring with 16 points, and Bryson Meyers also reached double figures with 12.

Southern took its first lead, 47-46, with 4:30 left in the game. A free throw by Frankfort's Johnny Markley knotted it at 47-47, but the Rams then erupted for 13 unanswered points to take a commanding 60-47 advantage with 1:30 to play.

Aaron Stonebraker led the Falcons in scoring by matching Panther's total of 18, and he also grabbed a game-high nine rebounds. J. P. Marker scored 16 points.

Scott Clipp, who was named the tournament's MVP, led Catonsville against Linganore with a 25-point effort, and hit a game-high 17 in the defensive championship game Saturday night against the Rams.

The score of that contest remained close until the final quarter, as Catonsville held an 11-9 lead at the end of the first period, the game was knotted at 16-16 at halftime, and the Rams took a 28-26 edge into the fourth. But that final stanza belonged entirely to the Catonsville players, who outscored the Rams by a 16-2 margin to gain the tourney title. The Rams connected on but one of seven shots in the final eight minutes.

Clipp also had a game-high eight rebounds, while teammate Anthony Edwards recorded 13 points and six rebounds.

Tressler was the only Southern player who reached double figures, as he netted 12 points. He also pulled down five rebounds.

Linganore won the consolation game, defeating Frankfort by a 64-56 margin behind a 22-point effort by Leif Jackson and a 19-point performance by Darren Valasko. Stonebraker and Justin Jenkins led the Falcons with 19 and 16 points, respectively.

Stonebraker, Jackson, Valasko, Tressler, and Panther were named to the All-Tournament team, and Edwards was named Most Outstanding Player. Justin Davis of Catonsville won the three-point shooting contest.

After Saturday's game at Fort Hill, Coach Tom Bosley and the Rams will travel to Allegany next Tuesday and to Petersburg next Wednesday.

Rams Cruise To Meyersdale Crown Over Berlin, Raiders

The 8-0 Southern High School girls' basketball team continues to mow down all comers on its way to a hoped-for return to the Maryland state finals. The Rams made mincemeat out of their opponents in the Maple City Holiday Classic tourney early this week, blitzing Berlin 52-33 Thursday, and downing the Meyersdale hosts 67-52 in Friday's championship contest. SHS playmaker Ashley Liller was named Tournament MVP by virtue of her 45-point tally over the two games, and fellow Rams Robbin Gregg and Becca Flanagan garnered All-Tournament team honors.

Berlin's Mountaineers proved no match for the Southern juggernaut in the opener, as the Rams sailed out to a 15-4 first quarter lead and a 24-12 halftime advantage. SHS was up 40-22 as the fourth quarter got under way.

Liller's 25 points led all scorers, as the senior guard connected on 10 field goals, including one from three-point range, and four out of her five free throws. Jennifer Bosley contributed 10 points on five field goals, Justine Pagenhardt handed out eight assists, and Flanagan hauled down eight rebounds. E. Allen led Berlin with 16 points.

The Rams had to work for their 15-point finals win over Meyersdale Friday. SHS was up 12-10 after the first quarter, but the score was knotted at 24-all at the half.

The Red Raiders claimed a 40-39 advantage as the fourth quarter commenced, and the teams were tied with approximately five minutes to play, but Southern's speedy ballhandlers broke through the hosts' press defense to help

SMC Wrestlers Garner Trophies At Walkersville

Ten members of the Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team traveled to Walkersville on Saturday to compete in the Walkersville Holiday Wrestling Tournament. This tournament was attended by top wrestlers from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, and Delaware. There were nearly 500 wrestlers competing.

Two SMC wrestlers won all their bouts in their respective divisions to elaim top honors. Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel won four straight matches, two by fall, to win first place in the Midget 62-pound class. Eighth grader Jeremy Gregory won all his matches by fall on his way to first place in the Intermediate 136-pound class.

Justin Ratliff, a seventh grade student at Southern Middle School, placed second in the 90-pound class. Third grader Lex Ozias won a pair of third-place trophies by winning six of eight bouts in two separate divisions. Also winning third-place honors was Brutus Scheffel in the Junior 62-pound class. Earning fourth-place trophies were Ryan Fitzwater and Coty Rasel. Also competing were Justin Fitzwater and Aaron Friend.

This Saturday the team will travel to Kingwood, W.Va., for another tournament. For more information on the Southern Mat Club, persons may contact any team member or visit the team's web site at www.smcwrestliug.org.

Rams Cruise

net seven straight points. Pagenhardt and Bosley sank field goals and Liller converted a three-point play during the flurry, and SHS sank 11 of 13 free throws over the entire final stanza. The Rams outscored the Raiders by a 28-12 tally over the quarter to claim the win.

Liller scored 16 of her team-high 20 points in the second half, and Gregg, who hit a three-pointer, recorded 15 points, as did Flanagan. Meyersdale's Kara Johnson led all scorers with 23 points.

"It felt good to win this tournament," SHS head coach Don Stemple commented. "It's the first time we've won it in our four years of competing there. We always seemed to lose close games in the finals. Meyersdale put up quite a fight, but I'm proud of the way we hung in there." The tourney title was the Rams' second crown of this young season, as SHS had taken the Martinsburg tournament two weeks ago.

Southern is poised to take on Fort Hill tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Cumberland. "The Sentinels haven't found themselves yet, but when they do they will make a lot of trouble," said Stemple. "They are very talented and give us cause to worry." The contest will be broadcast on 92.3 FM, as will Saturday's outing to Northern High to battle the Huskies. A Wednesday home game against Preston rounds out the week. Each contest tips off at 7:30 p.m. following the 6 p.m. junior varsity games.

Erma Gnegy, Amboy, was admitted Sunday to Ruby Memorial Hospital, and was released on Monday to return home.

Hassaleah Snyder, Amboy, is a patient in Preston Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted last Thursday.

Jerry and Carolyn Laurie, Aberdeen, Ohio, were Christmas holiday visitors with her sister and brother-in-law, Margie and Leroy McWilliams, Horse Shoe Run.

Brian, Kay Ron, and Kamron Taylor Lantz, and Jeremy and Jill Lantz came from their homes in North Carolina to spend the Christmas holiday with their parents, Kirk and Anita Lantz, at Aurora.

Keith and Delores Douglas, Aurora, spent Christmas in Ohio with their children in the Rockbridge home of their daughter, Teresa Downs, and her family.

Frank and Wilda Blamble, Stemple Ridge, were also Christmas guests in Ohio with their children.

Many in this area are ill with colds and flu. Services were recalled Sunday at Aurora United Methodist, not because of the weather, but because Pastor Mary Conley couldn't speak above a whisper.

CASSELMAN VALLEY AYSO SOCCER

The next board meeting will be held Monday, Jan. 7, at 7 p.m. at the home of Lynn and Carol Newman. Plans will be finalized for the spring registration, which will be held Friday, Jan. 11, and Saturday, Jan. 12, at the Grantsville School.

NEW TESTAMENT BAPTIST CHURCH

The Christmas program recently presented to the church was under the direction of Julie Wilburn and Bill Stimmell. Youth participating included Ashley Michael, Brian Squires, Ben Sweitzer, Lucas McKenzie, Aaron Miller, Matthew Wilburn, Carol Jean Wright, Bradley Hoyman, and Chad Wilburn. Following the Christmas program a piano special was presented by Matthew and Julie Wilburn. This was the first church performance for Matthew, as he is taking lessons and hopes to be the pianist for the church.

The service concluded with all the children receiving a treat, which was coordinated by Catherine McKenzie with assistance by Pastor Wilburn.

A Christmas dinner followed the program for the members of the church with a total attendance of 35.

MARS HILL HOMEMAKERS

The members met Tuesday, Dec. 11, for a Christmas turkey dinner at the home of Marlene Beachy. All of the members in attendance exchanged cards and gifts, and each one gave a special Christmas reading. Attending were Norma Bowser, Karen Durst, Ruth Stanton, Bonnie Campbell, Esther Stantion, Anna Sturtz, Clara Wiley, Mary Kamp, Marlene Beachy, and Dorothy Wilburn.

LOCAL SOLDIER VISITED IN BOSNIA — U.S. Army Spec. Rodney H. Bird Jr., a Garrett County native, is shown with Frostburg mayor John Bambacus during the mayor's recent visit to Bosnia. Bird, who is a member of the 372nd Military Police Detachment based in Cresaptown, left for the Baltic nation in August and is slated to return in March. He is the son of Constance and Rodney Bird Sr. of Deer Park, and the fiancee of Jennifer Scripp, whom he is slated to marry in an August ceremony. "Mayor Bambacus called us after he returned to say, 'If it wasn't for the work Rodney and his fellow American soldiers were doing there would be no law and order there.'" Bird himself has told his parents that he is very proud to be serving his nation in uniform, especially when small Bosnian children say, "Thank you for being here and keeping us safe." The 1998 Southern High School graduated from Garrett Community College last May, and hopes to return home to pursue a career in law enforcement in western Maryland.

Intern Probes Issues Of Acid Mine Drainage

Jason Zorn, a student at Garrett Community College, completed his internship study of the effects of acid mine discharge in the Crellin area earlier this year. The acid mine discharge enters Laurel Run, Snowy Creek, and the Youghiogheny River from an old mine located along the Turner-Douglas Road near the Maryland/West Virginia border.

The acid mine discharge flows from the abandoned mine at approximately 500 gallons per minute, at a very acidic pH of 3.0. (A healthy stream typically has a pH of 7.0.) Zorn collected water samples from the discharge itself as well as Laurel Run, Snowy Creek, and the Yough River, which receive the discharge in that order. water analysis, fish collections and aquatic insect analysis were also performed.

Zorn's study showed a severe degradation of Laurel Run, and a smaller degradation in Snowy Creek and the Yough River. To begin the process of neutralizing the acid discharge, the Yough Watershed Association has worked with the federal Office of Surface Mining, Maryland Bureau of Mines, and the Western Maryland Resource and Conservation Council (WMRCC) to obtain a grant for utilizing limestone to control the acid.

The funds will be used to construct a proposed limestone "trench," which is currently being designed by Maryland Department of Natural Resource fisheries biologist Alan Klotz of the Mt. Nebo Wildlife Office. The Office of Surface Mining has granted $100,000, and the Bureau of Mines has agreed to contribute $30,000 toward the project. The WMRCC will manage the project with assistance from the Bureau of Mines. The data compiled by Zorn will serve as base line data before the limestone project begins.

Zorn's study was made possible by an Office of Surface Mining grant, and the Yough Watershed association was the sponsor of the intern. Jeff McCauley, treasurer of the Youghiogheny Chapter of Trout Unlimited, managed the fiscal aspects of the grant, and Klotz supervised the program along with Kevin Dodge, director of the Natural Resources Technology Program at GCC. A copy of the report can be obtained by contacting Klotz at 301-334-8218.

The Yough River Watershed Association is an association of local residents interested in maintaining and, where possible, improving the water quality in the Youghiogheny River and its tributaries. The association was instrumental in obtaining a grant last year for a project to help control acid mine drainage into Cherry Creek and into Deep Creek Lake. For information on joining the association, persons may call Edgar Harman at 301-334-4018.

"ONE FISH, TWO FISH . . ." — It may seem like a Dr. Seuss rhyme, but there's nothing to joke about when it comes to correcting the environmental damage caused by acid mine drainage into a number of the county's local waterways. This photo, taken during July, shows a group of researchers as they conduct a fish population survey in Snowy Creek near Crellin. Shown at the far right wearing an electro-shocking device is GCC student Jason Zorn, whose summer internship through the Office of Surface Mining will help various governmental agencies and other groups come up with a plan to mitigate the mine drainage's high acidity level. The data gathered during this outing was used to help gauge the effects of acid mine drainage, which can render an otherwise healthy stream lifeless.

Van Slides On Snow Before Hitting Tree

A van went out of control along a snow-covered stretch of Sang Run Road early Sunday afternoon and crashed into a tree, necessitating an ambulance transport of an 11-year-old as a precautionary measure. The child, who was not injured, was examined at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and released.

Maryland State Police reported that the accident occurred at 12:40 p.m. when a 1992 Ford Econoline van operated by Franklin O. Smith, 60, Silver Spring, slid on the snow-covered roadway while attempting to make a left turn from Sang Run Road onto Gleanings Drive. The van hit a tree by the roadside.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad made the patient transport, and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene. No charges were filed in the single-vehicle mishap.

Echinacea May Ward Off Infection

Echinacea is an extract of the common coneflower. The herb was used by American Indians for a variety of health purposes and was used in mainstream medicine in the U.S. from the 1880s until the 1930s when sulfonamide anti-microbial agents became available. There is evidence that some flower species may stimulate the body's immune system, helping it to ward off infections or speed recovery from infections.

Like a Windy Day

Gray-white clouds sail across an unsettled lake of ambiguous blue sky on this cold and windy winter day. What will the weather be? One minute we prepare for a snowstorm...the next, streaks of golden sunlight promise a sunny day. You never know what to expect on a day like this one...or do you?

You can always expect God to be in control, not only of the weather but of our lives...if we let Him. You see, life is somewhat like an unsettled day. Situations look bright one minute, then uncertain the next. Perhaps we had the "perfect job" and the company dissolved, or the contract on "just the right house" fell through when we were so sure it was ours. We know disappointments will come, so we need to learn to prepare for them. Therefore, we must establish that relationship with our Creator. Think of it as spiritual insurance.

Whatever the forecast, please worship God each week. There in His house, you will meet those who have learned to survive life's storms by sharing their faith in God's wisdom and love. Begin this week. You can prepare for that windy day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

EPIPHANY 2002!

January 6, 2002

Background Scripture: Isaiah 60 through 61.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 60:17-22.

Apart from it being Sunday, January 6, 2001, do you know what day this is? It is Epiphany (ee-PIFF-eny), one of the most important—if also most neglected—days in the Christian year.

As you read this, our Christmas tree here in Dallas will still be up and lighted, because we celebrate the traditional twelve days of Christmas and tonight is Twelfth Night. Tonight there will be twenty or so of our friends here for our annual Epiphany party. Why, you might ask, do we extend our observance Christmas for twelve days and then observe Epiphany? Is it simply it is a tradition? Not at all. We believe that, despite Christmas decorations and advertising now coming close on the heels of Halloween, the observance of the deeper meaning of Christmas becomes more shallow every year. At our house we observe Epiphany each year because it reminds forgetful Christians, ourselves included, just what Epiphany means. It comes from a Greek word meaning manifestation or appearance and, if your are Greek Orthodox, you certainly know what Epiphany is all about: the revealing of Christ to the world. It is based upon the visit of the Wise Men (Matthew 3) to the infant Jesus. As these men were not Jews, but foreigners, their visit indicates the global, even cosmic significance of the coming of Christ. Epiphany may be called by different names: the Theophany, Feast of the Manifestation, Twelfth Night, Day of the Three Kings, Old Christmas or Feast of Lights.

Arise, Shine!

The Epiphany of Jesus is linked to the prophecies of Isaiah: "Arise, shine for your light has come and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you" (60:1). We remember also Isaiah 9:2: "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light, those who dwelt in a land of deep darkness on them has light shined." The star that guided the wise men to Jesus is symbolic of the light that guides us to the manifestation of God in Christ.

The light of this star is not sent to Christians alone, but to people everywhere who "walk in darkness." But, if many, perhaps most Christians are unaware of the Epiphany message, then what makes us think that Epiphany is either known or understood by those who are not Christians? Good question—I'm glad you asked.

Epiphany is intended not only for us to enjoy, but to manifest it to others. Like most messages from God, this message carries with it a challenge from God. Isaiah tells the people of Israel, "...but...his glory will be seen upon you. And nations shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your arising" (60:2). This is what Jesus told his disciples: "You are the light of the world... Let your light so shine before me, that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven" (Matt 5:16).

To Make Manifest

My computer Thesaurus lists the following synonyms for "manifestation": display, demonstration, exhibition, show, materialization, revelation. Each of these speak to our Epiphany challenge. In our lives we need to display Christ and demonstrate what Jesus has done for us. Our lives should be a living exhibition of who and what Jesus is in our lives. How we live will show others the Christ who works in us. Our lives must be a materialization of what Jesus can do with us and, as Christ is a revelation to us, we must make the way we live a revelation of his presence.

It is very likely that Jesus regarded both Isaiah 60 and 61 as normative for his mission: "...the Lord has anointed me to bring good tidings to the afflicted; he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to those who are bound; to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor, and the day of vengeance for our God to comfort all who mourn..." (61:1,2).

The servant role that Jesus took upon himself is the same servant role to which he calls us so that not only may we see his Epiphany light, but that we may be it to others.

Is [illegible] Epiphany light shining?

SWANTON NEWS

BUCKWHEAT CAKE SUPPER

The second Saturday in the month of January will be the fund-raiser for the Swanton Community Center Inc. An "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be held at the center on Jan. 12, starting at 4 p.m. and ending when the batter runs out. Buckwheat cakes, pancakes, and whole-hog sausage will be served with homemade strawberry jam, homemade apple butter, and sausage gravy. Cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. All are welcome. The co-chairmen are Anne Sweitzer and Carolyn Livengood.

DEER COUNT

Rob McBee at the Swanton Grocery deer checking station reported a deer count of 120 for the two-week muzzle-loader season through Dec. 29. This was one more than last year's count of 119. Most of the deer were brought in the last two days of the season because of the snow cover.

SENIOR CITIZENS' MEALS

Senior meals will be served at the Swanton Community Center on Jan. 8 and 9 at noon. Persons may call Bonita Rodeheaver at 301-387-9191 to sign up.

Thirty-one people were served Christmas dinner on Dec. 17. During the busy day of shots, blood pressures, and exercise, there was still time for Christmas activities. Domenic Pratt and Jessie Skipper won a hand-painted tin full of candy. The tin was painted by Louis DiCarlo of Stained Glass Gallery, Mtn. Lake Park. Rosemary Filsinger also won a tin of candy. Three other small gifts were given.

OTTERBEIN UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Pastor Meredith Ball delivered his message Dec. 30, the first Sunday after Christmas, at the 11 a.m. worship service. The congregation gathered at the altar to receive communion.

Preceding the worship service, administrative board director Linda Fleming presented each 2001 church officer with a certificate of merit. Installation of 2002 officers will be Jan. 13 at the 11 a.m. service.

Regular Wednesday evening activities will continue in the new year, with choir practice at 6 p.m., and prayer and Bible study at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary. All are welcome to attend.

PERSONALS

Mary Storey is usually the first to turn on her outdoor Christmas tree each year. Her son Randy decorates it after Thanksgiving, and turns it on about Dec. 1. It is located in the middle of town. Each year the shape is the same; it is just a size larger. Mary spent Christmas Eve with her daughter Jeri, her son-in-law Frank Lewis, and grandchildren Corey and Seth. She had Christmas brunch at the home of her son and family in Oakland, Randy and Robin Storey and grandchildren Hannah and Madison. Mary hosted her whole family on Christmas Day.

Elva Tasker, age 101, is still recuperating at the home of her daughter, Darlene Otto, after pacemaker surgery. People dropped in to visit over the holidays. Nida and Sonny Warnick came with a fruit basket. Mona Tasker visited. Elva's granddaughter, Brenda Tasker Harvey, also visited. On Christmas, the whole family came. Darlene's daughter Darla and her husband, Vince Culp, came with their children Kalin and Kelly. Kelly and her friend, Jason Garland, are from Columbus, Ohio. Darlene's son Jimmy and his wife Betty, children Jamie and Jimbo, and friend Dale came. Elva's son, Dale Tasker, and his wife, Saddie Wood Tasker, and son Luke from Huntington, Va., were there, as where Elva's son Peach and his wife Beulah. Her son Paul had knee surgery, but visited by phone. Elva's address is 2006 Walnut Bottom Road, Swanton, MD 21561.

The family of Betty O'Brien had Christmas dinner on Sunday, Dec. 23, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Rita and Ron Savage, off Swanton Road. Family attending were: Carolyn and John Livengood, Steve, Sierra, and Lacey Miller, Elaine, Kearstin, and Amber Glotfelty, Jason Miller and Lorrie Filsinger, Jane and Charles Roberson and Brandon, Jeff Droppleman, Ronnie, Kim and Danny O'Brien, Bob and Brenda O'Brien, Misty, Bernard, and Miriah Moon, and Heidi, Mike, Cody, and Cheyenne Harvey.

Mary June Harvey's family celebrated the holidays with her. Ellisa Schofield Woodbrey's family spent the weekend before and after Christmas with her. Her grandchildren, Ellida and Jamie Bernard, and David Schofield also stayed with her. Mary June had Christmas dinner at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Sandra and Brian Schofield, off Bittinger Road. Other family members present were Richard and Renee Schofield of Frostburg, Ellida and Jamie Bernard of Manassas, Va., David Schofield of Hagerstown, and Janice Plauger. On Dec. 26, Mary June traveled to Shepherdstown, W.Va., to visit Mike and Ellisa Woodbrey's family with Sandra and Brian Schofield. On Dec. 29, Mary June hosted a family dinner birthday party for her great-granddaughter, Michaela Woodbrey. There were approximately 14 in attendance.

Fran and Stan Ford, with their children Ryan and Anna, traveled to Glen Burnie Dec. 27-29 to visit Fran's mother, Bonnie Thurston. Also there were Fran's uncle, Bob Nestor, and brother, Tommy Kronawetter.

The family of Helen Winters attended the graduation of her granddaughter, Andrea Sweitzer, at Frostburg State University on Dec. 22. Those attending were Barbara and Jim Swetzer of Carmel, Ind., Jeff and Regina Swetzer, Jason Sweitzer, Carolyn and Sam Snyder of Charlotte, N.C., Robert Winters, and Kim, Tim, Kara, Lyndsie, Elizabeth, Rebecca, Amy, and Michael Rush of Oakland. Andrea received a KITZMILLER AFTER-SCHOOL PROGRAM recently played Santa to area residents. About 70 elementary and middle school students who participate in the program made fruit bags to deliver to Kitzmiller residents. The students decorated and bagged up gift bags with fruit, made cards, and went around town on a hay wagon, singing carols and delivering the bags to more than 50 residents. Shown above is just one group of participants displaying their gift bags. Left to right in row one are Hailey Paugh, Heidi Welch, Meghan Brady, and Dannielle Donne. In row two are Destiny Cook, Brittany Scott, Lawrence Armstrong, Cory Stieringer, and Foster Mills. In row three are Lacy McNobie, Keith Pennington, Paul Tichnell, and Jeremy Tichnel. Shown below are Josh and Justin Nesselrodt delivering bags to residents Shirley and Velma Anderson. Funding for this event was made possible through the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families. Gary Beachy donated the use of his hay wagon, and Joe Lucas pulled the wagon with his vehicle. Both are parents of children participating the in program.

HOSPICE RAFFLE "MEATS" WITH SUCCESS — Hospice of Garrett County announced the winners of its recent meat raffle during a drawing that took place at the organization's annual Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon. Hospice volunteers and staff raised $5,006 in raffle ticket sales after area individuals and businesses purchased the livestock at the 2001 Garrett County Agriculture Fair and donated the meat to Hospice. Baby beef halves were donated by Mettiki Coal, Dr. Dan Miller, Markwood Chevrolet, and Ed Wilburn Construction in memory of Ken Biser; hog halves were donated by Automotive Machine and the Oakland branch of the Terra Alta Bank; and two lambs were donated by Dr. David Tuel and Sheriff Dick Sanders. Winners of half a beef were Roy, Phyllas Maffett, A.J. Hanlin, and Lisa Thayer Welch, all of Oakland, and Michele Messenger of Morgantown, W.Va. Winners of half a hog were Jack Reams and Mildred Stewart of Oakland, Rodney Sweitzer of Swanton, and Jariath Fitzwater-Hight of Mtn. Lake Park. Lamb winners were Freda Quintero of Grantsville and Phil Rexrode of Front Royal, Va. The photo shows some of the raffle winners, donors, and volunteer ticket sellers. Shown above, seated from the left, are ticket sellers Flossie Roy, Bob Winters, Louise Brooks, and Beverly Beard, and donors Jane Roberson and A.J. Hanlin. Standing are Hospice executive director Brenda Butscher, donor Sheriff Sanders, lamb winner Stewart, donor Virginia Dixon, seller Sue Teagarden, and donor Sharon Markwood. Not pictured are sellers Quintero, Jack Turney, and Keith Paugh.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross has released its bloodmobile schedule for January. Locally, the bloodmobile is slated to be at the Proctor Kildow Post 71 Oakland American Legion, located along Memorial Drive in Oakland, on Friday, Jan. 4. Donors will be welcomed from noon until 6 p.m.

To donate blood, one must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Persons can donate blood every eight weeks (56 days). To schedule an appointment, persons may call 1-800-993-667.

For more information about the Blood Services Program, persons may call the Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC at 301-722-1760 or 1-800-361-9481.

Accident Man Faces Burglary, Exposure Charges

A 26-year-old Accident man faces a variety of charges, including burglary and indecent exposure, in the wake of an early morning incident just south of Accident Friday, according to the Maryland State Police.

Robert Harvey Speicher, 26, was apprehended just before 4 a.m. by troopers summoned to check on a suspicious person outside a Pine Ridge Road residence. The homeowner reported that an apparently intoxicated person on her porch had attempted to enter the residence. After being located on the scene, Speicher allegedly refused to obey Tfc. J.P. Grinnan's order to place his hands in clear view, and was observed urinating on the porch while reportedly exposing himself.

Speicher was released from the Garrett County Jail after he posted a $2,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

HOSPICE RAFFLE "MEATS" WITH SUCCESS — Hospice of Garrett County announced the winners of its recent meat raffle during a drawing that took place at the organization's annual Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon. Hospice volunteers and staff raised $5,006 in raffle ticket sales after area individuals and businesses purchased the livestock at the 2001 Garrett County Agriculture Fair and donated the meat to Hospice. Baby beef halves were donated by Mettiki Coal, Dr. Dan Miller, Markwood Chevrolet, and Ed Wilburn Construction in memory of Kon Biser; hog halves were donated by Automotive Machine and the Oakland branch of the Terra Alta Bank; and two lambs were donated by Dr. David Tuel and Sheriff Dick Sandera. Winners of half a beef were Roy, Phyllsa Maffett, A.J. Hanlin, and Lisa Thayer Welch, all of Oakland, and Michele Messenger of Morgantown, W.Va. Winners of half a hog were Jack Reama and Mildred Stewart of Oakland, Rodney Switzer of Swanton, and Jarlath Fitzwater-Hight of Mtn. Lake Park. Lamb winners were Freda Quintero of Grantsville and Phil Rexrode of Front Royal, Va. The photo shows some of the raffle winners, donors, and volunteer ticket sellers. Shown above, seated from the left, are ticket sellers Floasie Roy, Bob Winters, Louise Brooks, and Beverly Beard, and donors Jane Roberson and A.J. Hanlin. Standing are Hospice executive director Brenda Butscher, donor Sheriff Sandera, lamb winner Stewart, donor Virginia Dixon, seller Sue Teagarden, and donor Sharon Markwood. Not pictured are sellers Quintero, Jack Turney, and Keith Paugh.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross has released its bloodmobile schedule for January. Locally, the bloodmobile is slated to be at the Proctor Kildow Post 71 Oakland American Legion, located along Memorial Drive in Oakland, on Friday, Jan. 4. Donors will be welcomed from noon until 6 p.m.

To donate blood, one must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Persons can donate blood every eight weeks (56 days). To schedule an appointment, persons may call 1-800-993-667.

For more information about the Blood Services Program, persons may call the Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC at 301-722-1760 or 1-800-361-9481.

Accident Man Faces Burglary, Exposure Charges

A 26-year-old Accident man faces a variety of charges, including burglary and indecent exposure, in the wake of an early morning incident just south of Accident Friday, according to the Maryland State Police.

Robert Harvey Speicher, 26, was apprehended just before 4 a.m. by troopers summoned to check on a suspicious person outside a Pine Ridge Road residence. The homeowner reported that an apparently intoxicated person on her porch had attempted to enter the residence. After being located on the scene, Speicher allegedly refused to obey Tfc. J.P. Grinnan's order to place his hands in clear view, and was observed urinating on the porch while reportedly exposing himself.

Speicher was released from the Garrett County Jail after he posted a $2,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Foreign Investors Urged To Note Reporting Rules

The Farm Service Agency (FSA) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued a reminder to foreign investors who have bought or sold agricultural land in this county to report the transaction to the local FSA office within 90 days.

The Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act (AFIDA) requires all foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land to report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases of 10 years or more, and land uses to the local FSA office. This law remains in effect, and those who fail to report or are late in reporting face possible fines.

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is defined as any tract of more than 10 acres now in farming, ranching, forestry, or timber production. This includes land in agricultural use when purchased, as well as land later converted to agricultural use. Foreigners who own or have an interest in 10 acres or less do not need to report unless annual proceeds from the sale of agricultural products grown on these acres exceed $1,000. Individuals or companies that specialize in land holdings, land transfers, or management services should contact their local FSA office for details on reporting on behalf of foreign clients.

The Garrett County FSA office may be reached at 301-334-6951. The Preston County (W.Va.) FSA office may be reached at 304-329-1923.

Last Call for the Crop Insurance Workshop

If you are planning to attend the Crop Insurance workshop on January 9, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Extension Office and have not made your reservation, please do so ASAP. Dr. Wes Musser, agricultural economist, University of Maryland, will be the presenter. Lunch will be provided at no charge.

Maryland's Bio-Ethanol Project

The Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB) commissioned a study to determine the economic feasibility of a barley-based ethanol plant for Maryland. This study was funded using Maryland Grain Checkoff funds and financial support from the Maryland Agro-Ecology Center.

The results of the study demonstrate that given certain quantifiable and justifiable circumstances, a barley-based ethanol plant can be a profitable business entity.

I am just going to just touch on a few of the highlights of the project. If you would like a more detail, explanation on the project please contact me.

The study looked into a 15-25 million gallon per year plant. Although the 15 million gallon per year appears to be best size for Maryland, several design features will be included in the plant design to make it readily expandable to 25 million gallons. A 15 million gallon per year ethanol plant using barley will require approximately 7 million bushels of barley. The state's current annual production level is closer to 4 million bushels per year. While MGPUB expects the production of barley to expand with the introduction of a new market opportunity should this not be the case, there are two options to overcome a shortage of barley. One is to expand the area from which barley is purchased into surrounding states and the other is to expand the grains used for production. One of the design features of the plant under consideration is that it will be capable of producing ethanol from all grains, including barley, wheat, milo, corn, rye or triticale.

As of now the location of the plant has not been determined, but you can pretty well bet it would not be in Garrett County. However, considerations in the transportation program would provide farmers shipping farther to reach the plant transportation allowances so all would benefit equally.

To become an investor you need not to be a grain farmer. However, MGPUB is pursing this project to benefit the grower. Generally speaking, although all farmers providing grain to an ethanol plant benefit from the new market opportunity, only those who invest in the plant benefit from the "Value Added" advantages of ethanol production. Although the figure has not been established, an investor could expect to invest a minimum of $5,000. Farmer members would also be expected to commit to providing a certain agreed upon volume of grain.

If you would like to complete the MGPUB survey to show your interest please call my office for a copy.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age or national origin.

GUARANTEED LOAN LIMITS FOR FISCAL YEAR 2002

The Ommbus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1999 increased the Guaranteed Farm Operating and Farm Ownership loan limits to $700,000. In addition, it mandated that the limits be adjusted each year by the percentage change in Prices Paid by Farmers Index.

The maximum Operating Loans and Farm Ownership Loans are as listed below:

- Combined guaranteed farm ownership and operating loan principal balance cannot exceed $759,000;
- Direct and guaranteed farm ownership principal balance cannot exceed $759,000;
- Direct and guaranteed operating loan principal balance cannot exceed $759,000;
- Direct and guaranteed farm ownership and operating loan principal balance cannot exceed $959,000;
- Direct and guaranteed farm ownership, operating, and emergency loan principal balances cannot exceed $1,459,000.

For further information regarding the Farm Loan Program, please telephone the Farm Service Agency at 304-329-1923 or visit the office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza. Farm Loan manager Douglas L. Cyphers maintains office hours in the Preston County office on Wednesdays of each week.

Smallville villain familiar from sitcoms

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Michael Rosenbaum

Q: I love Smallville! But my main attention is on Michael Rosenbaum, who plays Lex Luthor. What can you tell me about him? –M.P.K., Aurora, Colo.

A: A native of Long Island, N.Y., Michael Rosenbaum, 29, was raised in Indiana and started doing theater after he auditioned for a high school play on a bet. He continued to hone his craft onstage at Western Kentucky University, where he earned a degree in theater and communications, and decided he had discovered his destiny while performing in a production of The Heidi Chronicles.

After relocating to New York, Rosenbaum appeared in several off-Broadway productions and independent films, as well as in a recurring skit on Late Night With Conan O'Brien. He attracted national attention in the Tom Arnold sitcom The Tom Show, as well as the horror movie hit Urban Legend and the quirky sitcom Zoe, Duncan, Jack & Jane.

With his classical training, Rosenbaum is constantly in demand for voice work – his credits in that field include The Wild Thornberrys, Batman Beyond: Return of the Joker, The Zeta Project and Justice League – and he will appear in two 2002 movies, Sorority Boys and the comedy-drama G-S.P.O.T.

Rosenbaum, who is single, is an avid fan of the New York Rangers and plays in an amateur hockey league whenever his schedule permits. And yes, he really shaved his head to play Lex Luthor, since he thought wearing a skullcap would look too phony.

Q: What has happened to Pasadena? –The Schultz Family in Springfield, Ore.

A: Despite strong support from some TV critics, ratings for the Fox soap have been absolutely disastrous. Its fate is uncertain at this writing.

Q: Whatever happened to Don Grady, who played Robbie Douglas on My Three Sons? He seemed to have such a bright future, and yet he just disappeared once that show left the air. –Heidi Alden via e-mail.

A: Former Mouseketeer Don Grady, now 57, may be best known to many of us for his on-camera role in My Three Sons, but after that show ended its long run in 1971, he concentrated on his first love, music. Since then, he has worked behind the scenes as a successful industry composer.

By the way, you may not know that Grady was the older brother of Lani O'Grady, the actress who played Mary on Eight Is Enough (their birth name was Agrati). Sadly, O'Grady was found dead of natural causes at her home last September, just days short of her 47th birthday.

In Focus

Hank Azaria stars as a comedy writer in Imagine That, a new sitcom premiering Tuesday, Jan. 8, on NBC.

Josh (Azaria) relies on fantasy to get him through life. His marriage is in trouble, and his wife, Wendy (Jayne Brook, The District), actually enjoys couple's therapy.

Life on the job isn't a bed of roses either, as Josh must contend with his womanizing writing partner, Kenny (Joshua Malina, Sports Night), and his nasty boss, Barb (Katey Sagal), who takes credit for his good ideas.

Wednesday

Sean "P Diddy" Combs co-hosts The 29th American Music Awards, which honors the best in pop, rap, country and more, Wednesday on ABC.

TRIVIA

Gillian Anderson's (The X-Files) marriage to Clyde Klotz was performed by a Buddhist priest on the 17th hole of a golf course in Hawaii.

Dean Cain (Ripley's Believe It or Not!) signed with the Buffalo Bills, but a knee injury ended his dreams of a pro football career.

Chris Isaak (The Chris Isaak Show), voted one of People magazine's 50 Most Beautiful, was valedictorian of his high-school class.

Barbara Eden (Sabrina, the Teenage Witch) was banned from showing her bellybutton in I Dream of Jeannie because of NBC's "no navel" rule.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 13, 1842, a sole British soldier escapes Kabul when a British army doctor reaches the British sentry post at Jalalabad, Afghanistan. He was the lone survivor of a 16,000-strong Anglo-Indian expeditionary force that was massacred in its retreat from Kabul.

• On Jan. 9, 1894, William Kennedy Laurie Dickson copyrights the first motion picture. The movie, filmed in February 1893 at the Edison studio in West Orange, N.J., features 47 images of a man sneezing.

• On Jan. 7, 1903, Zora Neale Hurston, novelist and folklorist, is born in Eatonville, Fla. Although at the time of her death in 1960, Hurston had published more books than any other black woman in America, she was unable to capture a mainstream audience in her lifetime, and she died poor and alone. Today, she is seen as one of the most important black writers in American history.

• On Jan. 8, 1918, in an address before a joint meeting of Congress, U.S. President Woodrow Wilson discusses the aims of the United States in World War I and outlines his "14 Points" for achieving a lasting peace in Europe.

• On Jan. 10, 1920, the League of Nations formally comes into being when the Covenant of the League of Nations, ratified by 42 nations in 1919, takes effect.

• On Jan. 11, 1978, author Toni Morrison wins the National Book Critics Circle Award for "Song of Solomon." Morrison went on to win the Pulitzer Prize in 1988 and the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1993.

• On Jan. 12, 1995, Qubilah Shabazz, the daughter of Malcolm X, is arrested for conspiring to kill Louis Farrakhan, who she believed was responsible for the assassination of her father in 1964. Shabazz admitted her "responsibility," but not her guilt of the charges, and the government accepted a plea bargain.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Few of us have a butler today, but in the 18th and 19th centuries, every well-to-do family had a large house, several maids, a cook and a butler. Furniture and serving pieces used primarily by the butler were often identified by name.

The "butler's cabinet" was a chest of drawers with a top that rolled back to reveal stored utensils. It was a form used from about 1780 to the 1830s. The "butler's sideboard" was a small sideboard that had a center drawer fitted as a desk, so the butler had an office in the dining room when the family was not at dinner. Another piece, the "butler's desk," looked like a chest of drawers, but the top drawer was really a fall-front writing surface. It was kept in the butler's pantry, near the dishes and silverware, or in the dining room. The "butler's serving board" was a chest of drawers with small cupboards on the end that were used to store table linens and serving pieces. It, too, was popular from 1780 to the 1830s.

But the word butler can cause confusion. Gamaliel Butler made Butler furniture in Maryland in the 1780s, and Potter Butler made earthenware in New Jersey from 1810 to 1880. General (The Beast) Butler and his army were known for stealing silver from Southern homes during the Civil War. So Butler pottery, Butler furniture and Butler silver were not used by a house butler.

Q. I have two pair of nylon stockings that were given to me when I was a young girl in 1928. The label on the top of the stockings says "First quality, made of 100% nylon." Are they worth anything?

A. Nylon was not developed until 1937. And it was not marketed for stockings until 1940. So your nylon stockings can't have been made before the 1940s. An unused, boxed pair from that decade is worth about $15.

Dealing with Cats' Smelly Behavior

Q. We seem to be having a problem with our cats peeing in the house. My parents' solution is to either lock them in the laundry room or keep them outside all the time. Neither solution is working. Do you have any suggestions to keep them from peeing on things in the house?

A. I have quite a few, since many cat owners have to deal with this problem.

Your parents' "solution" — keeping the cats out of the house — is merely a preventative measure. What do they do when the weather gets dangerously cold outside?

Indiscriminate urination (and defecation) has many causes, but there are real solutions to them.

First, have all your cats checked out by a vet to rule out physical problems. Parasites, tumors or cysts, and infectious diseases can all play a role in bad toilet habits.

Then, study the environment your cats live in. Could something be stressing them out? Moving to a new house, adding family members or even a new piece of furniture can increase a cat's anxiety.

Note their behavior as well. With more than one cat in the house, felines can become fiercely territorial — even cats that play together. One cat will always be the dominant one, leading to several behaviors, from challenges to his or her authority to a follow-the-leader mentality.

If the dominant cat was first to begin urinating or spraying, the others may be copying his or her actions. The cats may also be intimidating each other — annoying one cat while it is trying to use the litter box, for example — leading to an avoidance of the stressful area. This competition can be more intense if the cats are not spayed or neutered.

BEGINNING for the same at a post on the south side of Walnut Street at the end of a line drawn, South 73 Degrees East, 157½ feet from the northeast corner of Block "B" on Steele's Plan of Friendsville; and running thence with Walnut Street, South 73 Degrees East, 52½ feet to an alley; thence with said alley, South 17 Degrees West, 150 feet to an alley; thence North 73 Degrees West, 52½ feet to a lot formerly belonging to F.G. Fox; thence with said lot line reversed, North 17 Degrees East, 150 feet to the beginning containing 7,875 square feet, more or less.

The Improvements thereon being known as No. 127 Walnut Street.

The Improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "As Is" condition, subject to any existing building violations, etc., and also subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any. Neither the trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representation or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property including without limitation, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, operating and management agreements, physical conditions or to the environmental conditions of the subject property.

A Statement of Mortgage Debt has been filed in the foreclosure case in the approximate amount of $65,000.00.

TERMS OF THE SALE: Cash or certified check deposit in the amount of $10,000.00 will be required of the purchaser (other than the above-named Holder) at the time and place of sale, balance in cash, immediately within thirty (30) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, time being of the essence, and to bear interest at the rate of 8.625% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. In the event the above-named Holder purchases the property at the sale as the high bidder thereat, no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of the interest. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to all other remedies including but not limited to attorney fees, the Substituted Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages. Taxes, water rent and ground rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of deposit.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption from tax sale on the following properties in Garrett County, State of Maryland, sold by Patty L. Glover, Collector of Taxes for the State of Maryland and the County of Garrett to Plaintiff, Bid Low, Inc. The parcels of land are described as follows:

Parcel 1 - All that parcel of land assessed to Clarence E. Whitacre and Naomi Y. Whitacre, situate in Election District No. 10, containing 0.33 acre, more or less, and described in deed for Orval C. Uphold and Grace Uphold, husband and wife, to Clarence Everett Whitacre and Naomi Yvonne Whitacre, dated April 3, 1963, and recorded April 4, 1963, in Liber No. 247, folio 408, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel 2 - All that parcel of land assessed to William J. Stump, situate in Election District No. 10, containing 8.41 acres, more or less, and described in deed from W. Dwight Stover, Personal Representative of the Estate of Elsie G. Rishell, to William James Stump, dated November 13, 1989, and recorded November 22, 1989, in Liber 540, folio 228, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel 3 - All that parcel of land assessed to James G. Brandlen, situate in Election District No. 4, containing 8276.4 square feet, more or less, and described in deed from James G. Brandlen and Betty J. Fazenbaker to James G. Brandlen dated January 6, 1981, and recorded January 7, 1981, in Liber 415, folio 507, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Complaint states among other things, that the amounts necessary for redemption have not been paid. The sale was on June 19, 2001, and more than six (6) months have passed since that date.

It is thereupon this 20th day of December 2001, that the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in one newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for three consecutive weeks, on or before the 11th day of January 2002, warning all persons interested in the properties to appear in this Court by the 18th day of February 2002, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint or thereafter the final judgment will be entered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the Plaintiff to said properties in fee simple, title free of all liens and encumbrances.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Mayor and Council of Kitzmiller will conduct a Public Hearing to obtain the views of citizens on COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND HOUSING NEEDS, and to offer citizens the opportunity to review an application for a CDBG grant to acquire certain properties and design housing units which the town of Kitzmiller proposes to submit to the State on or before the Feb. 1, 2002, deadline for same. The hearing will be held at the Town Hall on Jan. 7, 2002, at 7 p.m.

Citizens will be furnished with information including but not limited to:

- the amount of CDBG funds expected to be made available for the current fiscal year;
- the range of activities that may be undertaken with CDBG funds;
- the estimated amount of the CDBG funds proposed to be used for activities that will meet the national objective of benefit to low and moderate income persons; and
- proposed CDBG activities likely to result in displacement and the unit of general local government's anti-displacement and relocation plans required under 24CFR570.488.

The Maryland Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program is a federally sponsored program designed to assist units of general local government with activities directed toward neighborhood and housing revitalization, economic development, and improved community facilities and services.

Maryland's CDBG Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), in close cooperation with the Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

The Maryland CDBG Program reflects the State's economic and community development priorities and provides public funds for activities which meet one of the following national objectives, in accordance with the Housing Community Development Act of 1974, as amended:

1. give maximum feasible priority to activities which will benefit low and moderate income persons and households having an income equal to or less than the Section 8 lower income limits established by HUD;
2. aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight;
3. meet other community development needs of an urgent nature, or that are an immediate threat to community health and welfare.

The State of Maryland's allocation of federal funds for the fiscal year 2001 is estimated to be nine million dollars.

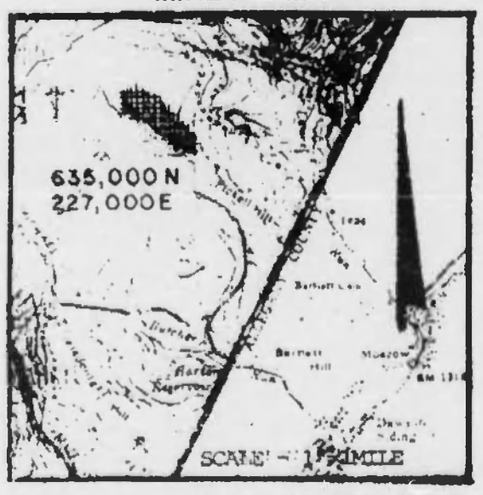
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR STRIP MINE PERMIT



Notice is hereby given that TRI-STAR MINING INC., 2278 Michael Road, Maryland 21521, has submitted an application to the Maryland Bureau of Mines for surface & operations permit. The operation is to be located near Barton, Maryland. The proposed operation occupies a 122 acre tract on the west side of Laurel Run, 2.5 miles northwest of Barton, Election District 11, Garrett County, 635,000N/227,000E. Access to the site is from Russell Road, 1.2 miles northwest of the intersection with Michael Road. The application proposes to mine within 100 feet of the right-of-way of Russell Road. The Maryland Grid coordinates for the segment to be affected are 636,500 N/224,500 E.

Surface and mineral of the area to be mined is owned by BTC Developments, Route 3, Box 17, Rockwood, PA 15557. The permit area is located within the US Geologic Survey Barton, MD, 7.5 minute quadrangle, the boundaries being as shown on the attached sketch.

The application includes plans to construct 3 ponds to control sediment and stormwater on the mining area. In addition to a surface coal mining permit the construction of the ponds will require a separate small pond approval from the Bureau of Mines.

A copy of the application, which includes the pond plans for the small pond approval, is available for public review at the Garrett Soil Conservation District Office, 1916 Maryland Highway, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland 21550, during normal office hours. Questions concerning any aspect of the application may be directed to Robert L. Dugen Jr., DUGAN ASSOCIATES, 301-689-1568 or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Permit Section 301-689-6405. A public hearing will not be held on this activity unless requested. Written comments, requests for a public hearing, and requests to be included on the interested persons list regarding this application will be received until February 23, 2002, by the Director, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532. Attention OPA-01-18.

Future notices about this application will be provided by mail to those persons that submit comments, request a public hearing or request to be included on the list of interested persons.

COVE

Rachel Schmidt and Cassie Adkins went caroling with Rush Baptist Church members on Wednesday evening. They also delivered fruit baskets to homes in the Accident/Friendsville area.

A Friday evening guest at the home of John, Darlene, Pam, and Rachel Schmidt was Kara Alt, who is currently a veterinary student at Tuskeegee University in Alabama.

John, Darlene, Pam, and Rachel Schmidt spent Saturday to Monday in Woodbridge, Va., visiting John's sister and family, Silas and Ruth Gardner. Pamela and Rachel spent one night with Gerald and Jessica Gardner and children in Stafford, Va. Visitors at the home of Silas and Ruth Gardner were Gerald, Jessica, Hunter, and Summer Gardner, and Darrell Gardner.

Christmas dinner guests at the home of John, Darlene, Pam, and Rachel Schmidt were Bryan, Anita, and Tessa Gardner, Brett Hanton, and Joe Conners.

The North Star 4-R Club met last Thursday at the Accident fire hall for a record book workshop. There were 19 present, including Cassie Adkins, Ariana Wilt, Bonnie and Kevin Haenftling, Deane, Nancy, and Kara Savage, Lloyd, Connie, Jennifer, Helaina, and Angela Lamastus, Darlene and Rachel Schmidt, Karen, Annamay, and Tonya Broadwater, Pooh Friend, and Dante. The group also had a soup and sandwich luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fike, Ruffs Dale, Pa., and Mrs. Myrtle Hanft were recent visitors in Cumberland. Mrs. Hanft remained an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Higson and daughters. The five of them were among those attending the Christmas program at Saint John Neumann Elementary School. Lindsay Higson, a kindergarten student, was among the participants.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Beatty and daughters Rachel, Rebekah, and Katharine, Wake Forest, N.C., spent a week with Mrs. Myrtle Hanft. Additional Tuesday overnight guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Needer and sons, Timonium, Miss Teresa Needer, St. Louis, and Miss Laurie Needer, Rochester, N.Y. Carroll Hanft and daughters, Addison, Pa., were also Christmas Day supper guests. In addition to the Beattys and the Needers, other Wednesday supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Higson and daughter, and Elmer Hanft. Mrs. Needer, Teresa, Laurie, and Ryan were Wednesday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff. The Beattys, the Needers, and Mrs. Hanft attended the girls' basketball tournament games at Turkeyfoot High School Wednesday and Thursday evenings with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hanft and daughters, and Mrs. Joyce Holland. Mrs. Holland and her 91-year-old father, Curtis Latshaw, Fredericksburg, Pa., spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hanft.

Roger Beatty graduated from Southeastern University, Wake Forest, N.C., on December 15 with a bachelor of arts degree in biblical studies and will begin studies for a master of divinity degree in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Evans and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Margroff and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Margroff, and Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Margroff and sons all had dinner together at Uno Restaurant and then went to a movie on New Year's Eve.

Mrs. Alice Long and daughter Beth were New Year's Eve visitors of J.R. Thomas and Janet Nickelson and daughter Taylor. Taylor was a New Year's Eve overnight visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long and daughter. New Year's dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Long were Linda Thomas and son Keaton, J.R. Thomas, and Janet Nickelson and Taylor.

Spending a few days with Mrs. Joyce Paugh, Melissa, and Mrs. Josephine Uphold, is Mrs. Geaneva Reese, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Sunday dinner guests and celebrating the Christmas and New Year's holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust were Mr. and Mrs. Luke Maust and children, Leesburg, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Urbane Maust and children, Bel Air, Lois Maust, Columbus, Ohio, Debbie Maust, Bloomington, Ill., Jason Maust, Leesburg, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowser, Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. David Suter, Memphis, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust joined the Miller family on New Year's Day at the home of Mrs. Della Miller, Grantsville.

Thursday dinner guests of Mrs. Alfreda Friend were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bittinger and daughter Stephanie, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson and sons, Josh and Jeremy, Mrs. Gary Carr and son Justin, McHenry, Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va., and Ronald Friend, Romney, W.Va. Saturday visitors of Mrs. Friend were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Friend. New Year's Day dinner guests of Mrs. Alfreda Friend were Mr. and Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va.

CIVIC CLUB NAMES WOMAN OF YEAR — Ann Garber has been chosen as the Civic Club of Oakland's Women of the Year 2001. A longtime Civic Club member, Garber has been involved in numerous community activities sponsored by the group. As a member of the club's Craft Group, she helps make favors for nursing home residents, Salem Children's Trust students, and others. Garber has also chaired the Christmas Tree Committee for a number of years, and helps members decorate and deliver the trees to the rooms of nursing home residents. She is also known as the club's "hot dog lady" for her volunteer cooking chores during the annual Autumn Glory Festival. Garber is shown above, at the left, being congratulated for her Women of the Year honor by Jackie Johnson, coordinator of the Civic Club's Women of the Year special committee.

Commissioners Decline Request For Ordinances

The Garrett County commissioners decided last week not to draft a race track or noise ordinance in response to a request from Mountain Lake Park.

About 25 residents and town officials from Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn met with the commissioners last month to protest the Pleasant Valley Raceway being constructed between their towns. The residents voiced their concerns about noise levels, traffic flow, deflation of property values, and public safety, should the track come to fruition.

County officials from the Health Department and Planning and Zoning said at the meeting that the business constructing the track, Macadayscious, had met all the county health, building, and permit requirements so far.

"They've done everything we asked them to do," said Dave Ritchie of Planning and Zoning.

Leo Martin, mayor of Mtn. Lake Park, said he hoped that the commissioners adopted a "proactive" stand on the matter. "A lot of us aren't going to sit still for this," Martin said about the raceway.

He and the Mtn. Lake Park town council had unanimously voted to ask the commissioners to draft a county noise ordinance that would be more restrictive than the state one and a race track ordinance, in an effort to stop the track from opening.

The commissioners announced last Thursday, however, that they would not draft the ordinances, since adequate state regulations already exist.

THE STILLNESS OF WINTER — While the ski slopes and cross-country trails are often alive with activity and sound, one can still find the quiet places in Garrett County, especially in this coldest season. The snow mutes the noise and the ice stills the waters. A passerby, if dressed warmly enough, can take in the quiet and enjoy the solitude of a frozen forest. The temperatures are far more moderate today than they have been for quite some time, but the snow is to come back over the weekend, according to reports.

Pa. Man Jailed As Suspect In Bank Robberies

A late-morning bank robbery of a Friendsville bank last Thursday, Jan. 3, led to the arrest of a Pennsylvania man in the Somerset, Pa., area approximately five hours later, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. The same suspect, who reports said confessed to the crime, has been also been implicated in a Grantsville robbery, and may be responsible for as many as eight other robberies in three states.

Corbin Jay Will, 29, Berlin, will be the subject of a meeting today between federal, state, and local investigators who will be discussing specific charges that will be filed and whether the case will be handled at the federal level. At last report the suspect was being held in the Somerset County Jail without bond.

Will reportedly entered the First United Bank branch located along First Avenue at approximately 11:15 a.m. last Thursday. After allegedly presenting a teller with a note demanding money, he reportedly fled with an undisclosed amount of cash. No weapons were displayed during the incident, and the robber was believed to have been unarmed.

Suspect information was developed by prior probes carried out by GBI, Combined County Criminal Investigation Unit (C3I) of Allegany County, and Pennsylvania State Police (PSP) detectives who had investigated several previous bank robberies in the region.

Will was located at approximately 4 p.m. by personnel from the PSP and Federal Bureau of Investigation, who were waiting for him as he arrived at his Somerset area residence. The investigators reportedly discovered a demand note and a large amount of currency believed to have been obtained during the incident. During subsequent interviews by GBI, C3I, and FBI investigators that evening, Will reportedly confessed to the Friendsville robbery.

Will is also suspected to be the robber who struck the First Peoples Federal

Commissioners Commit "Dollar For Dollar" For New Grantsville Library

The Garrett County commissioners announced this week that the county would match "dollar for dollar" what the reNew Grantsville's Library Committee can raise in pledges for financial support of the new branch by April 15 of this year.

Only "good, honest pledges," however, will be considered, stressed Commissioner Fred Holliday. According to Cathy Ashby, Ruth Enlow Library director, the commissioners will match all the private funds that the committee has raised since its inception in Feb. 2000.

The financial commitment by the county will include any actual funds appropriated and expended in fiscal year 2002 (budgeted at $15,000). For example, if the committee receives $100,000 in pledges, the county will contribute an additional $85,000, explained Holliday.

"We're very excited [about the commitment]," said Sheila Miller of the reNew Grantsville's Library Committee. "We want to raise as much as we can by April 15. With the commissioners' commitment, federal funds, and donations, we're hoping to meet our goal."

A federal $300,000 grant for the library was approved by Congress in November. Local state law makers will attempt to secure additional funding from the General Assembly, which began its 2002 session yesterday. However, given the state's current economic climate, securing those funds may be difficult.

Additionally, a little more than $175,00 in donations has been collected thus far by the committee, said Miller. The donations have ranged from a single contribution of $25,000 to dimes from school children. A wide variety of fund-raisers have been held, including silent auctions, raffles, and bingo nights.

The committee is planning to hold a potato bar and a day of tubing at the Wisp before April 15, as well as a golf tournament later, as fund-raisers, said Miller.

Donations may be sent to the Grantsville Library, P.O. Box 237, Grantsville, MD 21536. Checks should be made out to the Ruth Enlow Library. Donors are asked to indicate that the donation is specifically for the Grantsville Library Building Fund.

County, Oakland Disagree On Tax Differential

The Garrett County commissioners recently received a letter from Oakland officials again requesting a property tax set-off for the coming fiscal year. The letter lists "parallel" services and programs provided by the town that the county would provide anyway if Oakland were not incorporated.

Town officials believe that Oakland residents are having to pay for these services twice, through both county and town taxes. Therefore, the town is asking the county for either a $494,046 payment for services or a 44-cent property tax rate reduction for next year.

The basic tax rate for county residents last year was $2.59 per $100 of assessable property. Residents of Oakland paid $2.55. Town officials, based on their calculations, asked for $178,429, or 58 cents off the property tax rate of Oakland residents. However, the county maintained that, based on its formula, only a $13,937 possible rebate was due to the town, which amounted to only 3.6 cents off residents' taxes.

The different formulas not only resulted in a monetary difference of $164,492, but also contention between the county and the town.

The commissioners and Oakland officials have disagreed for two years on what formula should be used in computing the tax differential for services provided by the town.

In a lawsuit filed in Maryland Tax Court last year, the court ruled in favor of the county. However, the decision is being appealed by Oakland. The court case and the request for a tax differential will be discussed

Third Street Bridge Project Moving, Slowly

Dwight Emory, an engineer with the Garrett County Roads Department, reported to the county commissioners this week that work toward replacement of the Third Street Bridge in Oakland was progressing well. He estimated, however, that it could take as long as three years for the two-lane bridge with a pedestrian walkway to be completed.

Emory reported that all preliminary paperwork for federal and state funding had been completed and approved. Currently, a design consultant has been hired and will begin surveying and evaluating the site's utilities, rights-of-way, clearances, and vertical alignment, according to the engineer.

Once the consultant has submitted his recommendations, the old bridge and site must be then documented and evaluated by the National Historical Bridge Trust.

The second phase of the project, Emory said, will be a final structural review of the new bridge site in order

General Assembly Begins Session, Faces $200 Million State Deficit

The Maryland General Assembly began its 416th session yesterday at noon. More than 2,300 bills are expected to be reviewed by the legislatures during their 90-day session. Should they pass, several of the bills will directly affect Garrett County.

The main topic of discussion, however, will most likely be the budget plan. Ironically, this time last year law makers had the fortunate dilemma of deciding what to do with the state's $400 million budget surplus. This year the story is quite different, given the state's current economic woes.

"The state is looking at about a $200 million deficit," said Delegate George Edwards, "but the governor has taken steps to correct it. We'll know what the numbers are after the governor introduces his budget bill."

Locally, the state's economic condition may make it difficult for some of the county's legislative wishes to be granted. The Garrett County commissioners have requested that Edwards and Senator John Hafer present a number of bills to the Assembly.

"It's going to be a tough year, fiscally," Edwards said, "but we're going to deal with it. We're going to be doing most of what the county has asked for."

Perhaps the most controversial bill, as far as Garrett County is concerned, is one on bear hunting. Edwards described the bill as a "nudger" to persuade the Department of Natural Resources to implement a bear hunting season. The delegate said that, based on conversations with many area residents, there appears to be a need for a season or, at the very least, a relocation program to remove some of the bears to other parts of the state.

Finding funds for a regional wireless network will also be on the agenda for local law makers. Edwards said he and Delegate Casper Taylor, speaker of the House, will be meeting with officials at the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development to see if there is a particular program that will enable them to ask for funding from the Assembly.

Special Olympics Deep Creek Dunk Set For Feb. 23

Plans are being finalized for the fourth annual Maryland State Police Deep Creek Dunk, the proceeds of which benefit the Maryland Special Olympics program. The event is slated for Saturday, Feb. 23, along the shore of Deep Creek Lake at Uno Restaurant.

Participants collect pledges (minimum of $50) and then brave the elements by dunking themselves in the icy waters of the lake on that date. Last year over a foot of ice had to be cut away from the dunk area to provide access to the water.

A variety of prizes are awarded to the top fund-raisers, with all participants

House Gutted By Fire; Oil Furnace Blamed

A malfunctioning oil furnace resulted in a fire that gutted an unoccupied Swanton area house early Sunday, resulting in an estimated loss of $70,000.

Volunteer firefighters from Deep Creek, Bittinger, Oakland, and Accident were summoned to the one-story, wood-frame house, located at 639 Beekman's Peninsula Road, at 12:10 a.m. According to a report from the office of the Maryland state fire marshal, a neighbor saw fire coming from the house and called 911. Deputy State Fire Marshal Steve Wendling was called to the scene, and his investigation revealed that the oil furnace had caused the fire.

The house, owned by Carroll Hahn, was gutted. The fire, which began in the utility room, was brought under control in about 40 minutes.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT IMPRESSED BY STUDENTS — On a recent visit to Garrett County, State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick was impressed by the high school seniors who are taking the advanced computer training course to learn how to repair computers. Grasmick said she was impressed with the focus of the students and that with classes like this they can pursue career goals that are relevant. Seniors from both high schools take advanced computer training at Garrett Community College, and receive credit and certifications while still in high school. Last year, 19 students took the class, and three had certificates before they graduated. This year, 14 students are currently enrolled in the class. The students learn how to debug computers and how to load operating systems, CD ROM drives, and programs. Pictured above are senior Jocelyn Wotring discussing the class with Dr. Grasmick. Dr. Don Forrester, director of elementary education, and Madeleine Collins, board of education member, observe the class.

KUHN AN ATHLETE FOR ALL SEASONS — Holly Kuhn, a Red House area resident, is a world-class athlete on the slopes — year-round — in snowboarding and mountain biking. After parking her bike this fall, Kuhn has been putting an abbreviated early-winter training season to use at the Wisp ("The best snowboarding slope in the eastern U.S.," she remarked) in preparation for the first qualifying race in the USASA (United States of American Snowboard Association) Mid-Atlantic Snowboard Series. The five-race series kicks off this weekend in Pennsylvania's Poconos, and will hopefully put her on track to return to the USASA National Championships at Mammoth Lakes, Calif., where she earned first place last year in Alpine Overall in the junior women's division. Immediately after this weekend's competition she will be off to Steamboat Springs, Colo., for the weeklong training camp of the USA Junior National Snowboard Team in preparation for the Junior World Championships in New Zealand later this year. Kuhn also races mountain bikes in downhill and dual slalom events, and since joining the professional mountain bike circuit two years ago, has finished 25th, then improved to 17th, in year-end NORBA (National Off-Road Biking Association) standings. She was also a member of the USA Cycling Team, and competed in the 2001 World Mountain Biking Championships. The daughter of Diane and Dennis Kuhn, her racing exploits are sponsored by High Mountain Sports, Tyler Mountain Water, Martin's Auto Parts, Zoo York, and SPY sports glasses.

Christmas Bird Count Includes Rare Sightings

Fifteen local bird enthusiasts participated in the recent 102nd annual Christmas bird count, and among the thousands of birds counted were, for the first time ever during the Christmas count, a common yellowthroat. The yellowthroat is a common bird in Garrett County during the spring, summer, and fall months, according to Connie Skipper, count coordinator, but by November have usually migrated to the Southwest, the Gulf coast, Panama, and the West Indies.

"The yellowthroat was an incredible find," Skipper said. "Because of our unseasonably mild fall and winter to that point, we had several species hang around much later than normal before migrating south."

The latest that a yellowthroat had been seen previously in the county was in October of 1978.

The birders spent over 65 hours counting birds in the field and at feeders. Those in the field traveled a total of 338 miles by car, on foot, and even by mountain bike to record 68 different species.

The mallard led the count in total number with 1,029 recorded, followed by: American crow, 1,012; Canada goose, 799; American coot, 685; European starling, 563; black-capped chickadee, 192; hooded merganser, 170; American black duck, 158; pine siskin, 152; and slate-colored junco, 141.

Sightings of a single bird of a particular species, besides the common yellowthroat, included: wood duck, scaup, common merganser, northern harrier, Cooper's hawk, killdeer, northern yellow flicker, pileated woodpecker, red-breasted nuthatch, and brown thrasher.

Also seen were 100 American pipits, which like the yellowthroat was deemed a rare sighting for this location at this time of year.

Field observers who participated in the local count were Skipper, Fran Pope, Bill Pope, Aaron Holochwost, Courtney Englar, and Kevin Dodge. Feeder watchers were Dessie Bowman, Laura Bowman, Jacob Vitak, Harold and Frances Hoecker, Edith Jack, Barbara Skipper, Roger Skipper, and Mary Kathryn Speicher.

All results of the CBC will be published by the National Audubon Society in American Birds, and can also be found on-line at www.audubon.org.

NEVER SEEN in Garrett County during the winter months is the common yellowthroat; that is, until this year, when one was spotted during the annual Christmas bird count last month. The bird is seen regularly during the spring and summer months, but always migrates to much warmer climates in mid-fall. See story for total results of the local count.

GC Unemployment Rate Up In Nov.; Down From 2000

Despite increasing by nearly 1 percent over the previous month, November 2001 unemployment statistics for Garrett County still indicated a marked decline in the unemployment rate from November 2000. That finding is in direct contrast to this past November's unemployment rates for Maryland and the nation as a whole, both of which increased over the past year.

The county's unemployment rate was measured at 6.4 percent in November 2001, up from a 5.5 percent figure for October; however, the local unemployment rate for the same month the previous year was 8.2 percent. Reductions in construction and services employment were cited as causing unemployment to rise across western Maryland during November.

Maryland's unemployment figure dropped slightly from 4.3 percent in October to 4.2 percent in November, while at the same time the national rate rose from 5.0 percent to 5.3 percent. November 2000 unemployment rates for the state and nation were both tallied at 3.8 percent.

The holiday season got off to a slow start for the state as a whole, with retailers reflecting their concern over restrained consumer spending and curbing hiring. The weak employment situation, compounded by weather-related slowdowns in seasonal injuries, caused employment levels to subside. Employment reductions, however, were moderated by labor force declines which helped to ease the unemployment rate down.

During November, Maryland hiring activity, while much slower than the norm, was centered primarily in the retail trade. Among retailers, job gains were reported at general merchandise stores, in miscellaneous retail establishments such as card, book, and jewelry stores, and in restaurants. Hiring in retail trade was complemented by upturns in select services and insurance industries, and by further recalls in education.

"Maryland's economy remains strong and continues to surpass that of the national economy," Governor Parris Glendening remarked. "Our prudent fiscal decisions have allowed the state to weather the economic slowdown now being felt by other states across the nation. We will continue to work hard to provide our citizens with the opportunity to obtain good, family-supporting jobs and to ensure Maryland families continue to enjoy a better quality of life."

Drinking Party Leads To Eight Civil Citations

Maryland State Police troopers checking on a drinking party in the Deep Creek Lake area last night issued civil citations charging eight persons with underage consumption of alcohol. All of the suspects are out-of-town visitors who reside either in Washington, D.C., or the city's nearby Maryland suburbs.

Troopers were summoned to the area shortly before midnight to check on a suspicious vehicle along Fox Den Road. Upon further investigation it was ascertained that a party was in progress at a nearby vacation residence in the 20600 block of Garrett Highway. The home was found to be the scene of a gathering where no individual was 21 or older, and alcoholic beverages were allegedly being consumed.

Charged with possession of alcohol under the age of 21 were: Mark D. Middleton, Thomas S. Chen, Samuel Kidron, and Andrew A. Baxt, each a 19-year-old Washington, D.C., resident; John W. Hurley and James R. Bergeron, both 20 and of Monrovia; and Megan P. Earl and Siobhan M. Woods, both 19 and of Silver Spring. Each suspect was released after being issued a civil citation.

Truck Crashes Through Oakland Store Window

A pickup truck smashed through a plate glass window of the BP service station located at the intersection of Oak Street and Garrett Highway yesterday evening. Although no one was injured, the driver faces charges filed by the Oakland Police Department.

At approximately 7:30 p.m. Aaron Lee Beckman, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, had just finished pumping gas into his 1998 Ford Ranger when he got behind the wheel and pulled up to the store to pay. His foot reportedly slipped off the brake onto the gas pedal, and the truck jumped a curb and went through the window, coming to a stop about six feet inside the building. Several panels of glass were destroyed and an ATM machine was damaged.

Beckman was charged with failure to control his vehicle to avoid a collision.

Board Named To Allocate Shelter Funds

A board consisting of local representatives will assist the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) in determining how the Emergency Fund and Shelter Funding awarded to Garrett County will be allocated.

The local board is made up of representatives from the county commissioners, Mt. Top Ministerial Association, Catholic Charities, Department of Social Services, and American Red Cross, as well as a former homeless person.

The selection was made by a national board chaired by FEMA and consists of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities USA, National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA, and United Way of America, which will provide the administrative staff and function as the fiscal agent.

The board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high needs areas around the country.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must: be non-profit, have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, practice nondiscrimination, have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board.

Persons wanting more information on the program may contact Linda Green, director of Community and Emergency Services, at 301-334-9431, no later than Jan. 18.

Single-Vehicle Crash Leads To Medevac Flights

An icy road shoulder was cited by Maryland State Police troopers as contributing to a single-vehicle accident Friday afternoon along Route 40 just east of Keyser's Ridge. No charges were filed in the accident, which resulted in the 16-year-old driver and her mother, both Grantsville residents, being airlifted to Cumberland Memorial Hospital via helicopters.

At approximately 4:38 p.m., Barbara Garde was operating a 1993 Pontiac Grand Prix when she lost control of the car as it traveled partially off the roadway and struck a patch of ice and snow. The vehicle continued off the road, struck a telephone pole and a mound of dirt, and become airborne. It struck several trees and overturned before coming to rest on its roof down an embankment.

Garde and her passenger, 36-year-old Elizabeth Viola Garde, were trapped in the vehicle, and had to be extricated by emergency personnel with the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The driver was then flown by MSP helicopter Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial, where she remains hospitalized in stable condition. The elder Garde was airlifted by West Virginia Healthnet helicopter to the same facility, where she was treated and released.

In a second accident later that same day, a two-vehicle collision along Garrett Highway in the Deep Creek Lake area injured two McHenry residents, both of whom were treated at Garrett Memorial Hospital and released.

The crash took place at 6:34 p.m. as a 1987 Subaru Legacy operated by Richard Condon Browning, 78, struck another vehicle from behind along southbound Garrett Highway at the intersection with Pysell Road. Browning had come up behind a 1988 Chevrolet Nova operated by Amber Lane Wisniewski, 37, who was stopped along the highway waiting to make a left turn. Browning's Subaru struck the Nova from behind, slightly injuring both drivers.

State troopers charged Browning with failure to control his speed to avoid a collision.

Man Jailed For Violating Court Protective Order

An Oakland man was arrested by Maryland State Police troopers Monday afternoon after he was discovered inside a Garrett Highway residence in violation of a protective order.

Todd William Riley, 26, was located at 3:17 p.m. hiding in a closet in a home at 17955 Garrett Highway. A court order was issued in November banning him from the premises of the residence and from attempting to contact Vicki Curtis, who was in the home at the time.

Riley remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail on a $1,000 bond.

DUI Arrests

MSP troopers charged two suspects with driving under the influence (DUI) this week. They were Michael Vincent Likar, 24, Accident, and William Kenneth Hebb, 19, Oakland.

Bridge Project

to receive more federal and state funding, which could take up to six months. "The state will handle the contract bidding for the actual construction of the bridge," he said.

The preliminary rough estimate of the total cost of the project, including purchase of rights-of-way, design cost, and removal of the old bridge, is $1.2 million, said Emory. Eighty percent of the funding will come from federal and state monies, while the remaining cost will come from local funds and CSX.

"CSX has been very helpful," Emory said. CSX officials indicated that once they receive the final design of the bridge and the exact total cost of the project, then they would be able to give him the exact amount of their contribution toward the 20 percent, he said.

It may be three years before the new bridge becomes a reality, however. Emory told the commissioners that because the project is federally funded, federal specifications and guidelines must be adhered to and approved before funding and construction can begin, which makes for a lengthy process.

Additionally, because of the historical significance of the old bridge and its site, the Trust must be involved. The Trust may take up to one year to review the site, which could be the most time-consuming part of the whole project, according to the engineer.

The final stage of the project, the actual construction of the new bridge, may only take four to six months, Emory said. The commissioners noted that while the county has been acting on behalf of Oakland, it has been understood that the town will be the actual owner of the bridge, once it is completed.

The mayor of Oakland is expected to officially sign off on the project before the final structural review and the construction of the new bridge.

MPT To Present Series To Help State's Families

Maryland Public Television (MPT) will premier a new series this year concerning services available to Maryland families. The show, titled Hard Working Families, is designed to educate people who are eligible for services from the Maryland Department of Human Resources (DHR), but who are not using these services because of "welfare stigma," or because they are not aware of what is offered.

It is also to increase the public's awareness of DHR partners' roles in serving Maryland's children and families, according to a spokesperson from the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

PASSING ON THE GAVEL — Dr. Wandell Teets presented Madeleine Collins, center, with a "very unique, one-of-a-kind" gavel which was signed by the Board of Education members for serving as board president of 2001. The incoming president for the new year is Camilla Rawe, on the left. The presidency rotates yearly among the four-year term board members. This year's vice president, not pictured, is Charlotte Sebold.

Hard Working Families will air twice monthly on MPT beginning Sunday, Jan. 13, at 7 a.m. and repeated the following Saturday, Jan. 19, at 11 a.m.

The shows on the production schedule thus far are as follows: January, energy assistance; February, aging (maintaining independence and caring for the elderly); March, life after welfare reform; and April, a focus on young children, child care, and child well-being.

For more information, persons may contact local Social Services staff members Barbara Pentz or Dora Hanlin at 301-533-3000.

Firestone Tire Restitution Notices Mailed

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. announced this week that Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. recently mailed out approximately 30,000 notices to consumers nationwide regarding the restitution program established by the attorneys general $51.5 million settlement with Bridgestone/Firestone announced in November 2001.

"We want to make sure all consumers understand the need to take timely action in this matter," Curran said. "We believe it is vital for anyone who feels they have been wrongly denied reimbursement to be afforded every opportunity available for reconsideration."

These notices are being sent to consumers who were previously denied refunds. The consumers will need to return the reconsideration form no later than March 11, 2002, in order to have their requests reconsidered. The form should be addressed to State Attorneys General Multistate Working Group - Attn: Bridgestone/Firestone Settlement, Post Office Box 5155, Des Plaines, IL 60019-9971 to be eligible under the attorneys general settlement. Consumers will also receive a list of contact information for any questions they may have about the settlement.

In late January, an additional 100,000 notices will be sent to consumers who requested reimbursement and received a partial denial from Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. Again, consumers will have a 60-day period to return the reconsideration forms to Bridgestone/Firestone to be eligible for the restitution program.

Consumers who return the reconsideration form will have their denial reviewed by Bridgestone/Firestone. Bridgestone/Firestone will either: (1) pay the request for a refund or (2) contact the consumer and let the consumer know the reason for the denial and that the consumer has the right to send the denial to an independent arbitrator for review. The arbitration process is provided at no cost to consumers. A request for arbitration review must be requested within 45 days by returning the request for arbitration form.

Awarded Child Care Credential

Sandra Noble of Kitzmiller has been awarded a Child Development Associate (CDA) Credential in recognition of outstanding work with young children. Noble is an assistant teacher with the Kitzmiller Head Start Center of the Garrett County Community Action Committee's Head Start Program.

The credential was awarded by the Council for Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C., which represents the early childhood profession. CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluating and recognizing the skills of individuals providing care.

"Parents who use child care are especially concerned today about their children's welfare," a CDA spokesperson said. "With this in mind, as part of the CDA assessment process, every candidate for the CDA credential is observed working with young children or families by an early childhood professional. In addition, the candidate must demonstrate the ability to work with families to develop children's physical and intellectual capabilities in a safe and healthy learning environment."

Noble resides in Kitzmiller with her husband Brian and their three children.

Unlocking Their Potential...

Among the criticisms of the public education system for some time now is that, while intellectually gifted children and those students with special needs, be they physical, emotional, or intellectual, are provided many different forms of extra support and assistance in school, there is a large, middle-of-the-road group of students sandwiched in between those two groups who receive little or no such extra attention. Within this group are many youngsters who earn average grades, but some who undoubtedly have as yet untapped, and unrecognized, potential to perform well above average. Sadly, this potential is sometimes never discovered, and a student concludes his education with high school, possibly never realizing he has the abilities to move on and be successful in some form of post-secondary studies.

However, a new program in Garrett County is addressing this problem head on. It's called GEAR-UP, an acronym for Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs. Student participants are eighth graders who nave been identified as having the potential of being successful in college or some other post-secondary level of education (e.g., trade school). The purpose of the program is to unlock that potential and to provide both the academic preparation and the personal encouragement to make college a reality for these students upon their completion of high school.

Approximately 50 program participants from Northern and Southern middle schools are spending this week at Garrett Community College, receiving a variety of enrichment classes while gaining confidence and excitement about being on a college campus. The ultimate goal is, of course, to significantly increase the number of Garrett County graduating seniors who go on to the next level of education.

A number of these youth are from families whose members do not have a history of receiving any formal education beyond high school, which is often the only reason that many of these students would most likely not go on to college without extra encouragement from outside the family. So the parents of these youth, particularly as the students move into high school this fall, will be kept informed and intimately involved in the process of getting the students on the correct pathway in high school that leads to the post-secondary level.

According to Southern Middle School principal Jack Rickman, the early indicators as to the effectiveness of the program are exciting, as the youngsters are seizing the opportunity and are already far exceeding the achievement goals that were initially set for them.

Our hats are off to all involved with this effort, particularly JoAnn Vent, supervisor of career and technical education for the Garrett County Board of Education, who is evidently the quiet, driving force behind the program; to Kurt Lear, who is overseeing the program; to principals Rickman and Bill Carlson; to our school counselors; and to the many cooperating teachers.

Helping youth realize and utilize all of their gifts which can lead them to becoming content, productive members of society as adults is the ultimate goal of education, and surely the most rewarding accomplishment for the educator.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to express appreciation to some wonderful people who have been a blessing to us this past year. Over a year ago, we discovered that, contrary to what we had been told by a lawyer about 20 years ago, we did not have a clear title to our respective lands. As one can imagine we were worried about how this would affect our property. There could be many people who would need to sign our deeds, and any one person could create a problem.

Upon advice from our lawyer, we decided to file suit in court for a clear title. To do this, we needed to contact 61 descendants of Samuel D. and Sarah Brenneman. Only 17 descendants lived locally. A number of the descendants lived in Ohio and the others were scattered from New Jersey to Montana and Florida to California. All descendants were contacted in person or by registered mail. Then we anxiously awaited their responses. How grateful we were when each response came back as "no contest." Only 12 of the 61 descendants did not respond, and in so doing accepted the suit to clear title by default. So on January 12, 2001, the titles to our lands were declared cleared in court before the judge.

When often we see people trying to take what they can get, we were blessed to be able to work with this family and find such understanding and unselfishness.

We pray that God will richly bless this family for their kindness. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

To the Editor:

I witnessed the Southern Garrett Invitational wrestling tournament held January 5 at the Southern Garrett High School. First, I would like to make the comment that this area has a lot to be proud of in terms of their wrestlers, and I think the tournament was handled in a first-class manner.

However, there was an incident at the tournament that troubles me greatly. I am not going to specify the particular coach, wrestler, nor school represented, other than to say it was not the host team, that acted in a most unsportsmanlike and unprofessional manner. I wrestled in high school, and I remember the closeness and camaraderie that we felt as wrestlers. In fact, I would even venture to say that we tried to emulate our coaches.

This particular coach acted in a manner that I believe would have been more appropriate in the WWF than at a high school wrestling tournament. A wrestling coach screaming at officials, and watching an angry wrestler kick over a trash can, is not proper behavior for any scholastic athlete, nor for his coach. The fact that the team which the coach represented lost a point in the team standings proves that the officials and referees running the tournament understand the importance of sportsmanship in such competitions.

I would hope that the coach who behaved so badly would at the very least apologize to his own team, and explain to his team that his actions were not the proper way for any true sportsman to act. To do anything else would condone his actions and would encourage the wrestlers under him to act in a similar manner.

I hope that I never again witness such outrageous behavior from one who is supposed to be a peer and teacher to the children of our communities. There are plenty of awful situations in this world already without our creating more of them.

To the Editor:

The right, and especially the religious right, is exploiting the war on terrorism. Books are being pulled from stores and libraries as "contrary to the national interest." Dissent is being stifled at colleges. Hatch may push his flag desecration amendment, and Ashcroft could prosecute demonstrators as terrorists. The religious right may push a school prayer amendment and posting of the Ten Commandments. Theocracy (rule by clerics) is on a roll.

Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson, two leaders of what we should call the American Theocratic Party, have actually explained 9-11 as an angry God lifting His protection and thus allowing "the enemies of America to give us probably what we deserve" for the sins of pagans, abortionists, feminists, gays, lesbians, the American Civil Liberties Union, and People for the American Way. "We point the finger in their face and say, 'You helped this happen.'"

Not content with this appalling slander, the American Theocratic Party has introduced in Congress a bill that would allow churches to spend up to 20% of their yearly income on lobbying elected officials and to use offerings for direct support of political candidates.

Maybe it's time for the churches to pay taxes. Heretofore they nave gotten a free ride because they were considered groups which improved the community. That is now in doubt.

How about a 20% church income tax — 10% for the state, 10% for the county/city? And churches take a lot of land off the tax rolls. Let's put it back on. How about a nice little church real estate tax? It could buy textbooks and help repair old public schools.

What to do about the American Theocratic Party? We can squelch their legislative efforts, send them no money, avoid Falwell's Liberty "University," tune out Robertson's 700 Club, support the First Amendment, and not let America go through the Puritan experience twice.

To the Editor:

This letter has been forming in my mind and stirring within me after reading the front page of both The Republican and the Weekender's first yearly edition for the last three years. Let me first begin by stating that a Victorian mindset does not rule my thinking. My purpose for writing this letter is to praise and congratulate the many young men and women living in and round Garrett County for their responsible choices and behavior.

No matter how many churches or parents preach on the subject, there will never be an end to teen pregnancies and babies "out of wedlock" — and I do not support the wearing of a Scarlet Letter in those instances. Surprised parents and "babies having babies" need all the support we can give them.

It is my feeling, however, that by advertising, glamorizing, and rewarding the births of those parents, who have for whatever reason not married, we are not giving the due praise and recognition to the young couples who are making responsible choices.

Yes, it may be just a matter of timing or luck that determines the success or failure of a planned pregnancy, but then let us consider saving the publicity and recognition of the "first birth of the year for just those couples. Otherwise, we teach our young people and our community no values, and that it really doesn't matter that they at least try to make responsible choices.

Not always, but too often, unplanned babies lead to emotionally and financially distraught parents, which can then lead to emotionally and physically abused babies and children.

Let's encourage the future parents of our community to be responsible for their own and for our community's future, by next year congratulating and celebrating the first birth of the New Year with the married couple who succeeded in their attempt to make responsible choices.

Free and confidential birth control and counseling are available at our health department for those individuals who can't afford to purchase responsibility.

Concerned,

To the Editor:

On Friday, January 10, 1992, at 9:30 a.m. my car slid on a patch of ice on White Rock Road and hit a tree head-on. It has been 10 years today and still that moment seems fresh in my mind. At times I wish I could forget it, but I know it's there to remind me how far I've come. At one time I was nothing more than a badly broken girl trapped in her own car.

Today as I sit here reflecting on the past 10 years, my heart wants to celebrate. I want to climb a mountain and shout, "I'm alive!" There are still more painful days than "good" days, but I try to convince myself that, if the pain weren't there, I might not feel anything at all. When I lay trapped in my car for that hour, I talked and sang and prayed out loud. I knew that as long as I could hear my own voice, I was still alive. I try to use that same idea with my pain, but to be honest, it doesn't really work most days.

I am 29 years old now, and I owe that to God and every person who has prayed for me over the years. I know of prayer groups that spent hours praying for me those first few weeks. People I'd known my whole life, and many I'd never met before, were pleading for God to grant a miracle. I am alive and walking today because their prayers were answered. I wish I could hug each one of these people today. They are what makes life beautiful!

How many folks today have the faith to move mountains? I for one am truly blessed to have had such people in my life. Two of those people are my parents, Getty and Wilma Keefer. They spent hours calling up those beloved prayer warriors, praying together, and holding my hand. My mother slept in a chair beside my hospital bed for three weeks. She learned everything she needed to know to be my "nurse" so she and Dad could take me home. I wasn't living at home anymore, so they did not have to do that, but they did it anyway.

We don't always remind our loved ones how much they mean to us. I am writing this letter to do just that. I want to send out a special "I love you" to every person who went to God on my behalf, who sent cards to lift my spirits, and all my family and friends who've been beside me from the start. I know with all that is in me that God put each of these people here for a purpose, and I'm so thankful that he did.

I have learned that God answers prayers! I know if I share my needs with others, God does grant miracles. Right now I am in need of just such a miracle. Since the wreck my calcium goes to my damaged bones. Because of this, my teeth became brittle shells. Last January 1 had to begin the process of having them pulled. My MCO doesn't pay for dentures unless they are "medically necessary." That means I must be malnourished, and then teeth would be necessary to keep me alive. I find it completely ridiculous that the ability to chew food isn't considered a necessity. I can't help wondering who made this rule, and how they would feel if they were in my position.

The reason that I'm bringing this to your attention is that I'm stuck. The money from SSI isn't enough to pay all my bills some months, so there isn't any left to buy dentures. I am hoping that I can ask those faithful warriors to pray for me once again — to pray that God will provide a way to pay for the oral surgery I need and a set of dentures after that. I know that if we all join together in prayer, this mountain will move.

And so, today, January 10, 2002, I'm praying for another miracle while being truly grateful for the one I received 10 years ago. That miracle saved my life!

God bless you all.

HARRY POTTER AGAIN

The rage and outrage over Harry Potter continues. The British author, J.K. Rowling, has given the world a figure and a story so enchanting that her books have to be released out of school hours in order to prevent a major storm of absenteeism. First showings of the film based on her first volume, Harry Potter and The Sorcerer's Stone, were sold out all across America.

At the same time, there is a chorus of conservative Christians who say that "enchanted" is the word and the problem. Harry Potter is a wizard, and the books are cast mostly in the world of wizardry. The fear is that the Harry Potter books will tempt children into the occult.

I am concerned about the growth of the occult in our society. I am also concerned that the Harry Potter books could make children vulnerable to occultic temptations. That concern increases when I consider the later books in the series.

Such concern should be taken seriously, and constructively countered. Such a constructive approach does not, however, include public denunciations and book burnings. There is much good in the Harry Potter books. In my judgment, that good overwhelmingly outweighs what isn't good in them.

I have read all of the Harry Potter books published to date. My son and I saw the first of the Harry Potter films released before Christmas.

J.K. Rowling has given her books a strong moral framework. Both implicit and explicit in the books is that there is right and there is wrong, there is good and there is evil; further, it is every person's duty to choose between them. In this age of moral relativism what an incredible breath of fresh air that is!

Though Rowling's books are by no means Christian allegories (in the way that the Narnia Chronicles by C.S. Lewis are), they contain truths which are derived from nothing other than Christianity. The most important of such truths in her books is the depiction of evil.

The evil figure in the series is Voldemort which I translate "full of death." In both the books and the film he is depicted as having no independent existence. He must live parasitically on some good thing in order to have existence. This is the Christian understanding of evil as authoritatively set forth by the fifth century theologian, St. Augustine of Hippo. Evil is the privation, or absence, of good, and is never a thing unto itself.

Rowling's orthodox Christian depiction is so remarkable a representation today when evil is often depicted not only as something unto itself, but also as something attractive, really as a viable alternative to what some people call good. All too often the present culture says, "Take your pick: good or evil; it's only a matter of taste." Against such a backdrop Rowling is a clear, if perhaps not intentional, ally of Christianity.

Second, the essential premise of the Harry Potter stories is that he owes his life to his mother's self-sacrificing love. When Voldemort tried to kill the infant Harry, Harry's mother interposed herself, and died in her son's place. It was also her self-sacrifice which defeated Voldemort, depriving him of the substance he had sucked from others, and thus forcing him to begin again, as a thing hardly existing.

In an age of me-ism, when sacrifice is mocked as foolishness, Rowling has given us a message very near the cross of Christ. In Harry's mother's self-sacrifice there is an opportunity to explain how Christ's death on the cross saves us ("substitutionary atonement" for the theologians among us) and also defeats evil.

Popular culture rarely gives Christianity a potent teaching tool. I can think of none more potent over the past century than the Harry Potter stories.

I am also an enthusiast for domestic wisdom. J.K. Rowling delivers such wisdom in small, carefully administered doses for greatest effectiveness.

At the end of The Sorcerer's Stone the school headmaster ("principal" in American parlance) says to the assembled pupils and faculty, "It takes a great deal of courage to stand up to your enemies. It takes even more courage to stand up to your friends." Triumph springs from that humble truth both in the book and in life.

I have only begun to draw out the virtues of the Harry Potter stories. My hope is that parents and pastors alike will read those stories and watch the films with an eye toward ways of teaching and explaining the Christian message to tens of millions of young people whom Rowling has prepared to receive it.

at a public meeting sometime soon, according to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator.

The commissioners are considering asking the General Assembly or the courts to assign one basic formula in order to reduce both legal fees and animosity between the two governing bodies.

Oakland is also asking the county to consider all parks and recreation services as parallel services, since it has recognized the town's sesquicentennial celebration and the train station's improvements.

The county has recognized parallel services for police and highways for two years.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

Now that winter has officially arrived, town employees need your help to help them do a better job with snow removal. In a few areas, contractors and homeowners are putting snow on already plowed roadways. This creates conditions for potential hazards and endangers not only our snowplow operators, but anyone else using these roadways. It's also a violation of state law to put snow on plowed roadways, with fines up to $120.

We're also asking for people not to park on town roads. This will help us do a more thorough job of snow removal. And where there are parking meters, we ask that cars be removed by midnight, especially in the areas along Alder Street from Second to Fourth; along Second Street from Center to Oak; and along Third Street from Oak to Green.

People in town should watch for snow removal equipment, avoid those areas at night, and park in the town parking lot and not on downtown streets. People working downtown should not park at a meter but should use the town parking lot instead.

We've already had a half dozen houses damaged by frozen water lines. If you own property and have the heat turned off, make sure you make provisions to keep the water pipes from freezing. If you need your water shut off, contact the water department or city hall at 301-334-2694. If your building is unoccupied, you should check it on a regular basis.

If you've had frozen water lines in the past, contact the water department at 301-334-3836 to arrange for means to protect your pipes from freezing.

Governor Glendening Releases Legislative Redistricting Map

by Thomas Kim
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The battle for political power in Maryland was officially joined Wednesday with Gov. Parris N. Glendening's release of a new map for legislative district boundaries. Reaction to the highly anticipated Legislative Redistricting Plan was mixed among members of the Maryland General Assembly.

Glendening's plan revises the plan drawn by the special panel he appointed last year in 33 of the state's 47 districts. District 33 in Anne Arundel County and District 23, which includes Anne Arundel and Prince George's counties, had the most changes.

"The redistricting commission did a good job," Glendening said. "We had made some modifications of that, but basically we have a fair, equitable plan that meets all the constitutional obligations that we're expected to do."

But not everyone agrees.

Republicans in the General Assembly said the new lines give Democrats the edge.

"Republican districts tended to be the largest, and the Democratic districts are the smallest, and that's a little more than coincidental," said Paul Ellington, executive director of the Maryland GOP.

Democrats already hold much of the state's political power, with majorities in the House and Senate and control of the governor's office.

Traditionally Republican districts were clumped together, making them larger and giving them less of an opportunity to gain seats in the Senate and House, he said.

Maryland GOP Chairman Michael Steele, the party's first black chairman, had proposed a novel approach to drawing legislative district lines — scrapping the current 47 three-member districts for 141 single-member ones. Steele has said the GOP plan would give minorities more of a voice in government by creating at least 38 House districts where black and Hispanic voters would have a majority, according to published reports.

Ellington said Wednesday that the GOP plan would be "a truer cross-section of Maryland and increase minority representation."

Other Republicans have also questioned the constitutionality of the governor's map.

The plan violates constitutional mandates that county and Baltimore City lines be observed, said Delegate Robert Flanagan, R-Howard County.

"It carves up the state like a turkey," he said.

But even Democrats are not satisfied with the new plan.

Sen. Clarence M. Mitchell IV, D-Baltimore City, threatened to bolt the Democratic Party if the panel's plan had gone through because he said it diminished minority representation. He said Wednesday he would stay put for the time being.

Mitchell, in an interview conducted a few hours before the release of the governor's map, said he would take a wait-and see approach. He was unavailable for comment after the revised map was posted on the Internet late Wednesday, but said earlier he would first try to fight offensive portions of the plan with traditional legislative remedies — amendments.

Other Democrats remained supportive of the plan, however.

"We tried to be as fair as possible," said Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, who helped with the revisions. "It's the best possible work we could do."

Miller said both parties suffered from the redistricting.

"It amounts to shared pain," he said. "Consequently, we have friends now... who are not going to be in the Senate or the House anymore."

Even with their problems with the map, Republicans said that they don't anticipate putting up much of a fight.

"The chances of getting a map overturned are a long shot," Flanagan said. "We need to make plans based on the way the map has been drawn to recruit and train the best candidates possible (for the next elections).

New Security Measures Taken At State House

The general public, state lawmakers, and employees in the Annapolis legislative complex found enhanced security measures in place when the 2002 Maryland General Assembly opened Wednesday. Everyone who enters the State House and three legislative buildings must have a state-issued ID card or pass through metal detectors.

Department of General Services (DGS) Police, in consultation with the Governor's Office, legislative leaders, and the Maryland State Police, have implemented the new security measures. "It's not significantly different from what you see in most major public buildings in the wake of the September 11th attacks," said DGS Secretary Peta N. Richkus. "There will be more security, and it may require a short period of adjustment for both state officials and the general public. We have worked very hard to make sure our government is as open as possible and to ensure the safety of the people who work and visit here."

For visitors to the State House, there are two public entrances on the Lawyers' Mall side of the building: the stairs off State Circle leading to the first floor lobby and the handicapped-accessible entrance under the stairs leading to the ground floor. Everyone who enters is required to show a photo ID and pass through a metal detector. Handbags, backpacks, briefcases, boxes, and packages are being searched. Each person is then issued a color-coded date- and building-specific visitors' pass.

The Miller Senate Office Building, the Lowe House Office Building, and the Legislative Services Building have only one public entrance each. The Senate entrance is on Bladen Street between the James Senate Office Building, now being renovated, and the Miller building. The House building entrance is also on Bladen Street. Visitors to the Legislative Services Building enter from Lawyers' Mall, just behind the Thurgood Marshall Memorial. People using those entrances are required to show a photo ID and pass through a metal detector. Handbags, backpacks, briefcases, boxes, and packages are being searched. Each person is then issued a color-coded date- and building-specific visitors' pass.

Members of the Senate and House, their staffs, and state employees who work in the buildings are being issued state photo ID cards. Lobbyists and reporters are being issued frequent visitors' ID cards.

In addition to entrance security, visitors will notice an increase in the number of DGS police officers patrolling the State House and its grounds, as well as the legislative buildings. New travel and parking restrictions ban trucks from State Circle between North and School streets.

Education Reform Means More Money, Some Changes For Maryland Schools

by Catherine Dolinski
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland educators and officials are trying to sort out the implications of a sweeping new federal school reform that could boost federal funding to the state by almost 17 percent, but force changes in state education policies.

Maryland will likely have to fine-tune its statewide student-testing program, and some districts could be forced to allow school choice for students in troubled schools. But while details are still being worked out by bureaucrats, state officials this week were cautiously optimistic.

"I'm very enthusiastic. It's the right thing to do, but that doesn't mean that Maryland doesn't have work to do in order to be compliant," Maryland State School Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick said Wednesday.

Grasmick was in Washington with other educators, students, and lawmakers to celebrate with President Bush, who signed the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 on Tuesday.

The bill increases federal education spending by $8 billion this year, to $26.5 billion, and gives states more flexibility in how some of that money is spent. In return, states will be required to test every student in grades 3 through 8 annually in reading and math, to offer expanded school choice to students in failing schools, and demonstrate improved school performance within 12 years.

For Maryland, the new law could raise federal education funding by $92 million to $642.6 million in 2002, according to the U.S. Department of Education. Title I funding, which goes to help poor schools or students, could increase by about 25 percent, to more than $176 million.

But that money depends on the state's compliance with stricter accountability standards — like the annual testing of all students.

The state's current test, the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program, does not test children at every grade level that the new law requires, and it is designed to assess school-wide rather than individual student performance. That means it will have to be tweaked, officials said.

"We were poised to look at this, anyway," said Assistant State Superintendent Ron Peiffer, adding that Maryland has the advantage of "reworking an assessment system, versus reworking from scratch."

"We're already No. 1 in standards and accountability," Peiffer said. "For us, the job in 2002 is to go back and look at what we've done, and what we need to do to be compliant with federal law."

"The question is going to be, are they going to put the financial burden of this on the local jurisdictions?" said Wanda Hurt, vice president of legislation for the Maryland Parent-Teacher Association.

Grasmick said that if federal funds for the changes do not cover all the costs, the state may be able to make up the difference by shifting money from other areas that the federal government will now be paying for under the act.

Hurt is also concerned about the expansion of school choice for students. The act requires that local districts offer students in failing schools the option of transferring to better public schools in their district. School districts must also use at least 5 percent of their Title I funds to cover the costs of transporting those students to their chosen schools.

"I understand why parents want to transfer their children out, because they're looking out for their child's education," Hurt said. "But oftentimes, those are the very parents you need in [a troubled] school. They're the ones who will fight for better education... There has to be a better solution."

She said she would not oppose the policy, however, as long as transfers are restricted to public schools and private school vouchers are not involved. Jim Dryden, executive director of the Maryland Association of Elementary School Principals, echoed Hurt's reluctant endorsement.

"As long as taxpayer money is only going to the public schools, I don't believe it's a real problem," Dryden said.

Providing school choice for Title 1 students is nothing new, but school districts had been allowed to block transfers in the past if local law prohibited it or if the transfer would have resulted in an overcrowded school. Under the new law, only a state law prohibiting school choice would exempt localities, a U.S. Education Department official said.

Grasmick was not concerned Wednesday with the choice element, calling it just another tool to improve the state's schools.

"We have a very strong system already in Maryland, but this infusion of emphasis and resources is going to help us look at how to make it even stronger," she said.

September 11 Events Dominate Opening Of General Assembly

ANNAPOLIS — The Maryland General Assembly opened as scheduled Wednesday, but the session had a morning-after feeling — more like Sept. 12 than Jan. 9.

Onlookers queued up for metal detectors. Lobbyists and other regulars sported newly issued ID badges, a Muslim imam delivered the House of Delegates' opening prayer, and the House and Senate passed a joint resolution expressing sympathy for victims of the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, 2001.

Mohamad Bashar Arafat, president of Islamic Affairs Council of Maryland, prayed before the House of Delegates in Arabic and then in English.

"Help us view our diversity as a source of strength and richness so it will not lead to discrimination and hate," Arafat told the lawmakers.

Arafat was chosen, Speaker of the House Casper R. Taylor Jr. said, to show Maryland's continued commitment to religious tolerance.

"I thought it was important, especially at this time, to open this historic session with a prayer led by a man of God, a person of God, of the Islamic faith," Taylor, D-Allegany, said.

America's response to the Sept. 11 attacks demonstrates "how much we can accomplish when we are at a common purpose, and how much we can care for each other," Taylor said.

The terrorist attacks and subsequent national economic recession will impact the Legislature's priorities this session, senators and delegates said.

"It's affected our budget and what resources we have available," said Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, who was elected to his 16th consecutive term as Senate president. "It's affected our daily lives because people who have visited us for years now must be inspected by metal detectors."

Security guards and state police monitored the entrances and halls of the State House. All regular visitors to the State House, including media, lobbyists, and some family members were issued photo identification cards.

"Most of us remember wandering aimlessly through these halls. Because of Sept. 11, those days are over," said Sen. Robert R. Neall, D-Anne Arundel.

From a security standpoint, opening day was a huge success, said Dave Humphrey, communications director for the Maryland Department of General Services. "There were no complaints. In fact, police officers received compliments on how quickly people were able to move through security."

Although the mood in the State House was light, senators and delegates know they must deal with a session of "redistricting, re-election, and recession," or the "three R's" as Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, called them.

The state's shrinking budget is its most pressing problem. The revenue decline could mean a budget shortfall of $1.7 billion by June 30, 2003, according to legislative budget analysts.

"It has made us focus more on our priorities," said Sen. Jennie Forehand, D-Montgomery. "I was here years ago when we had a recession. You don't ask for things that would be nice but just aren't necessary."

Taylor agreed, saying, "We still face the dilemma of 'two Marylands' — the successful, prosperous Maryland that some of us enjoy, and the second Maryland, the one made up of the distressed counties that are still lagging behind their sister jurisdictions."

The mood was the same on the Senate side of the State House.

"It's going to be a tough year," Miller said. "We've had some times when there has been great abundance ...and there are other times when the budget is going to be a little tight."

SWANTON NEWS

BUCKWHEAT CAKE SUPPER

An "all-you-can eat" buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be held at the center Saturday, Jan. 12, starting at 4 p.m. and ending when the batter runs out. Buckwheat cakes, pancakes, and whole-hog sausage will be served with syrup, sausage gravy, homemade apple butter, and homemade strawberry jam. The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children, and free for those under age 5. Carolyn Livengood and Anne Sweitzer are co-chairmen.

SENIOR CITIZENS' MEALS

The opening of the 2002 New Year was observed Monday, Dec. 31, 2001, at the noon meal for senior citizens at the Swanton Community Center. "Happy New Year" caps and crowns were distributed to the men and women. Jesse Skipper said the girls should be served first. Mary June Harvey was the first in line. The "make-it-yourself" ice cream Sunday bar (part of the menu) was a big hit. "Auld Lang Syne" was sung.

Ms. Ronnie Padmos of Area Agency on Aging will be the guest on Tuesday, Jan. 15. She will speak on "Healthy Cooking," and prepare a "healthy pizza" for all to sample. To sign up, persons may call Bonita at 301-387-9191.

OTTERBEIN UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Epiphany Sunday, Jan. 6, Brian Schofield filled the pulpit for Pastor Meredith Ball during the 11 a.m. worship service.

Sunday school is held each Sunday morning at 9:45 a.m. The opening is held in the sanctuary. There are classes for all ages. Mrs. Linda Fleming is the new Sunday school superintendent. This was her first Sunday. Her predecessor, Orval Teets, has served in this capacity for approximately 40 years. The congregation greatly appreciates his faithful service.

The new leaders for the 2002 year will be installed during the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday, Jan. 13.

The Administrative Board meeting will be held in the sanctuary at 7 p.m. on Tue., Jan. 15.

RAY BOLTZ CONCERT

A Christian music concert will be held March 14 at 7 p.m. at the Craig Civic Center in Kingwood, W.Va., featuring singer, Ray Boltz. Tickets may be purchased from Linda Fleming by Jan. 18, or from Steve and Lucinda Davis at 304-329-2566.

PERSONALS

Gertrude Annarelli was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Jan. 4. She was expected to return home yesterday.

On Christmas Day, Luella Baker's son, Robert Baker, with his wife Delores and daughter Debbie, came to visit his mother. They stayed until Friday, Dec. 28.

Ray and Carol Sweitzer were visited by evangelist Dave Boylan from Florida on Dec. 26. Their son, Donald Browning, supports David's Living Water Restoration Ministry in Florida. It involves street ministry, and a ministry to families in need by the distribution of food along with the sharing of the gospel.

Glenna Sweitzer's grandson and his wife, Bob and Kim Sweitzer, hosted a New Year's Eve party. Those in attendance were Denver and Alverta Sweitzer, Kendra Biser, Mandy and Shayna Sweitzer, Rodney, Barbie, Beth, Sara, and Billy Sweitzer, Tammy and Alexis Cropp, and Chad Fridley.

Robert and Fannie Rizer, Savage River Road, were visited on New Year's Day by their daughter and son-in-law, Wandell and Steve Feaster of New Creek, W.Va., and Orval and Mareva Teets.

Betty Wildesen had lunch with Mary June Harvey Thursday, Jan. 3, at her home on Bittinger Road.

Alverta and Den Sweitzer, grandparents of Shayna Sweitzer, attended a reception at Broad Ford Elementary School last Thursday to honor the December Students of the Month. Each class (K-5) selected and presented a student with a "helpful and caring" certificate. Shayna was selected from Mrs. Perando's fifth grade class to be Student of the Month for December.

Friday, Jan. 4, was the birthday of Mareva Teets. She was visited by her grandson, A.J. Fleming, and her cousins, Bob and Fannie Rizer. Mareva was taken out to dinner by her husband Orval and her daughter and son-in-law, Linda and John Fleming.

Ray and Carol Sweitzer had their family as dinner guests Friday. Present were: son James Browning, wife Sandy, and granddaughter Erin of Kitzmiller; son Bill Browning, wife Pam, and grandchildren Shannon, Sandy and Codie of Kitzmiller; granddaughter Angela Paugh, husband Jason, and great-grandchildren Haily and Jason Jr. of Kitzmiller; and grandson James Browning, Stephanie, and greatgrandson Jimmy Jr. of Kitzmiller.

Amy Sweitzer visited her son and his wife, Ray and Carol Sweitzer, on Saturday night for gospel music and a pizza bash. Other guests were Artie Sweitzer of Swanton, Jim Miller and Marty Duncan of Frostburg, Al and Joan Evans from Cresaptown, and Joan's mother and her friend, Sarah Ketterman, and Bob Shaffer, also of Cresaptown.

Mary June Harvey hosted a birthday dinner Sunday, Jan. 6, for her granddaughter-in-law, Renee Schofield. Other guests were Renee's husband Richard, Renee's in-laws, Sandy and Brian Schofield; and her father and his wife, Rusty and Kathy Mathsens.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Five couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court.

Jody William Francisco, 26, and Laura Lockard Hedeman, 33, both of Baltimore.

Eric Allen Feaster, 22, and Amy Cheree Bowser, 19, both of Maysville, W.Va.

Jerry Dale Paugh, 49, and Tina Frances Oakley, 32, both of Oakland.

Franklin McKinley Harvey, 37, and Georgia Ann Stephens, 33, both of Oakland.

Matthew Todd Newcomb, 25, and Kelly Marie Avona, 23, both of Oakland.

MOUNTAINEERS VISIT CORTLAND ACRES

An annual birthday celebration and visit to residents of Cortland Acres Nursing Home was made Dec. 31 by members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club. They provided refreshments, tray favors, and visited with patients to whom they've been sending cards during the year.

Making the trip were Ashley Bachtel, Sara Lewis, Kaitlyn Schalker, Caitlin Roth, Tracy Teets, Robin Martin, Trevor Spaid, Debbie Collins, Bridgette Strawser, and leaders Elaine Roth and Linda Lewis.

PASTOR VISITS

Pastor Phillip Ryder and his wife Dianne of Belington have begun establishing a Church of the Brethren at Bowden, and were at Maple Spring Church, Eglon, on Sunday to tell how a 1985 vision of establishing a church in that community to replace the one lost in the flood, is now coming to fruition.

The West Marva District Churches of the Brethren will support the effort, and the pastor is visiting those churches to explain how he expects to develop the church. The Ryders were accompanied by a friend, David Knotts, who has roots in this community, being a grandson of the late Harvey and Merle Knotts.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Aurora Community Library will be closed until March because of the extreme weather conditions and difficulty in parking. Historical materials can still be obtained by calling Alice Penzo at 304-735-5471.

A list is being compiled of all currently owned genealogical records, census records, cemetery and church records, plus family histories, for a planned community genealogical library.

Aurora Area Historical Society members are collecting photos and stories for spring meetings. Any materials of churches past and present in Union District, the topic of the first meeting, should be sent to Penzo for duplication. The second program will devoted to Eglon/Horse Shoe Run, and the third program will consist of a demonstration presentation on the process of making maple syrup. Volunteers would be appreciated, and are asked to contact Penzo.

PERSONAL MENTION

Among the Christmas Day guests in the home of Ken and Joyce Kisamore, Terra Alta, were Barbara Heckert and Pam Garrett of Eglon. On Dec. 26, Ms. Heckert was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strawser in Rowlesburg.

Don, Neva, and Missy Frantz visited with Heather and Wyatt Frantz at their Dover, Del., home, Dec. 28-30. Wyatt's father, Donnie Frantz, is serving a term of duty in Korea.

Wilma Knapp is now living in the Amboy home of her daughter and son-in-law, Alice and Jim Bolyard. Her husband, Floyd Knapp, is a resident of Cortland Acres Nursing Home and spent Christmas with the Bolyard family, all their children, and their families. The couple had observed their 70th wedding anniversary on Dec. 20, and the day's celebration included the family dinner, opening of gifts, and singing, observing both the anniversary and Christmas. There were 35 present.

Norman Fike of Belington was accompanied by his friend Carolyn, and her granddaughter Jamie, who was visiting from Kansas ou a New Year's visit with his mother, Louella Fike, Aurora.

Hassaleah Snyder of Amboy was transferred last week to Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown from Preston Memorial Hospital, and was to be released Sunday but, due to the road conditions, this was postponed.

A belated New Year's dinner was held Friday evening in the home of Mary Rembold and her sons, Shawn and Craig, Stemple Ridge. Attending were Gary Roth, Ron and Avenell Parsons, Bill, Sandra, and Wade Hauser, Beth and Chad Bishop, and Joe and Stephanie Hauser.

Stanley Harsh has been unable to return to his home at Amboy after Dec. 26 surgery at a Pittsburgh hospital. His wife, Eloise, and daughter, Connie Fint, have remained there with him.

Lonnie Shaffer was taken Thursday to Preston Memorial Hospital for evaluation and returned later to his home at Brookside.

Julie Whitehair returned last week to her home at Horse Shoe Run, but is still reportedly quite ill.

Jeremiah Feather was a December graduate of West Virginia University, receiving a master's degree in Spanish. He is living in Morgantown and is presently employed as a substitute teacher by the Monongalia County Board of Education. Garv and Robin Feather of Eglon are his parents.

Harold "Van" Kisner of Aurora was recently evaluated at Morgantown, rather than at Pittsburgh, but awaits an appointment at the latter location.

Also, it was the Darrell Radford Sr. family who hosted a Christmas gathering of family at their Aurora home. Fred is their son.

Mt. Storm Blood Drive Rescheduled

The American Red Cross blood drive originally scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 16, for the Mt. Storm community has been postponed.

The drive has been rescheduled for Wednesday, March 13, from noon until 6 p.m. at the Mt. Storm fire hall.

Alzheimer's Group To Meet In Kingwood

The Preston County Alzheimer's Caregiver Support Group will meet at 7 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 21, at Heartland of Preston County, located at 300 Miller Road in Kingwood. The one-hour support group meetings are open to any community members dealing with a loved one with Alzheimer's Disease and who would like to have support in caregiving.

Free on-site and in-home supervision is available for a loved one during caregiver meetings, which are held at Heartland on the third Monday of each month. Persons may call 304-329-3195 for more information.

New Area Animal Advocacy Group Formed Recently

Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety Inc. (PAWS), a new animal advocacy group in Garrett County, held its first public meeting on Jan. 2 after several months of organizational meetings and planning. The group is stepping out with 18 charter members on board, according to a spokesperson.

The main items of business at the January meeting were the introduction of board members and officers, the approval of the organization's bylaws, and reports on progress toward 501c3 status. After the business meeting adjourned, the membership present participated in a general brainstorming session to discuss and plan programs, events, and fund-raisers.

PAWS, an all-volunteer organization, has as its mission four main goals, the spokesperson said. These are to prevent cruelty to animals through a comprehensive, county-wide program of education; provide volunteer support to the Garrett County Animal Shelter, work with animal and community care professionals to ensure the safety of animals and their owners by bringing attention to the link between animal abuse and family violence; and reduce the suffering of unwanted animals by promoting pet population control through spay/neuter programs.

"Our main goal is to improve animal welfare, and in some cases human welfare, by increasing the public's knowledge of animal issues," said Annette Robinson, PAWS president. "We hope to accomplish this by doing everything from offering humane education materials and resource people to the county's schools to inviting nationally known experts to conduct animal cruelty investigation cross-training workshops for law enforcement officers, animal control officers, state's attorneys, and social service workers."

The public's awareness of the connection between animal abuse and family violence is one issue that PAWS members feel is especially important, Robinson noted.

"When animals are being abused, people are at risk," she said. "The progression from chronic or serious animal abuse and neglect to the capacity to perpetrate violent acts against people is well-documented." In recognition of this issue, a member of PAWS is currently a member of the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition.

PAWS volunteer support currently being offered at the county animal shelter includes a member with previous shelter experience who helps out for several hours on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays as her schedule allows. PAWS has also picked up the animal rescue program at the shelter.

Sixteen dogs have been transported to various breed rescue programs by the volunteers since the end of November. These rescue programs place the animals into the homes of families or individuals who have applied to adopt them, and have passed a thorough screening process. All rescue animals are spayed or neutered either prior to entering the rescue or prior to adoption, depending on time and/or financial considerations.

Plans are currently under way for PAWS involvement in a spay/neuter program slated for March, the details of which will be published in The Republican as the project nears.

As a non-profit organization, PAWS will rely primarily on donations from individuals, businesses, and civic groups, as well as possible grant monies, to fund its programs. Anyone wishing to make a contribution or to find out more about the organization and how to join may write to: Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety (or PAWS), P.O. Box 745, McHenry, MD 21541.

NEW ANIMAL ADVOCACY GROUP FORMS — Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety Inc. (PAWS) is a new animal advocacy group in Garrett County. The goals of the new group are many, but all focus on improving the quality of life for animals by increasing public knowledge about proper care and about animal-human abuse links. Pictured above are members of the PAWS board of directors. Seated are Kathy Newman, Friendsville (left), and Connie House, Friendsville. Standing from left are Polly English-Ramsay, Swanton, Caroline Robison, Oakland, and Barbara D. Glover, Friendsville. Not available for the photo was Christopher J. Csonka, Oakland.

GCC Offering Computer Classes "Just For Kids"

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College will be offering two computer programs designed for children in grades 1-4. These programs will be held at the new Grantsville Outreach Center.

The first program will be held on Saturdays, January 12 to February 2. Grades 1-2 will attend from 9 to 11 a.m. and grades 3-4 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. This course consists of a variety of children's computer and Internet games, and applications for hands-on learning of mouse and keyboard.

The second program, Keyboarding for Kids, will be held Saturdays, February 16 to March 9, for students in grades 2-4 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. This introductory, nonconventional way to keyboarding will offer fun techniques using the mouse and keyboard.

Since each student will have his/her own computer terminal, enrollment is limited. Snacks will be provided. For additional information, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

Adorable Adoptables

DOG I.S.O. HUMANE TREATMENT — Cooper is in search of a warm heart and a warm hearth to shelter him from the elements. The 1- to 2-year-old male collie/yellow Lab mix was recently rescued from being forced to live on a very short chain for several months with no shelter. The friendly, playful pooch has been pronounced "fit" by a local veterinarian and is up-to-date on his shots. Persons interested in taking Cooper into their home may call 301-387-3132 or -3046, or 304-789-2569 or -6704, and are asked to leave a message on the machine with a return number in the event no one is available to take the call.

Farming On The Mountaintop

DISCUSSING A POSSIBLE FARMER'S MARKET — Two members of the Maryland Department of Agriculture recently met with town officials to discuss the possibility of developing the former Ward's Bar and Restaurant property, located on the corner of Second and Oak streets, into a year-round farmer's market with a strong Amish influence. The tour was followed by a meeting to discuss the possibility with Jim Sims, extension agent; Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action; Asa McCain, Oakland mayor; Fred Learey, owner of the property; and Glenn Tolbert, Main Street manager. Tolbert is in the process of preparing a grant to the USDA to do a feasibility study, and once that is complete a survey of the interest of the Amish community. "This would benefit both the agricultural community and the town of Oakland," Tolbert said. Pictured above, from the left, are Learey; Valerie M. Gonlin, Agribusiness Development Program administrator; Bradley H. Powers, deputy secretary for the Department of Agriculture; and McCain.

Attention Sheep and Goat Producers — New Federal Rules
by Dr. James Fearer, DVM
Maryland Department of Agriculture

New identification methods and health certification rules for sheep and goats took effect November 19, 2001, as part of the USDA Animal Plant and Health Service's (APHIS) new Scrapie eradication program. The new rules state that most sheep and some goats 18 months and older must be officially identified. Breeding sheep and goats must obtain a certificate of veterinary inspection-interstate health paper — to move into interstate commerce. This federal program is aimed at eradicating Scrapie in the U.S.

The categories of sheep and goats that must be identified include:

- All sheep 18 months and older
- All breeding sheep regardless of age
- All Scrapie exposed, suspect, test positive and high-risk animals
- Breeding goats except low-risk commercial goats
- All sheep and goats for exhibition other than castrated animals

The following groups do not need identification and have no movement restrictions:

- All sheep under 18 months of age moving into the slaughter channels
- All goats moving into the slaughter channels
- Low-risk commercial goats raised for fiber and/or meat; not registered or exhibited; have not been in contact with sheep; not scrapie positive, high-risk or exposed animals; not from an infected or source herd.
- Wethers for exhibition
- Animals moving for grazing, if no change in ownership occurs

Under this new program there will be indemnity for high-risk, suspect and Scrapie positive sheep and goats, which the owner agree to destroy. Also, since one of the main purposes of this program is to give the ability to trace infected animals to their flock/herd of origin, the owner/producer will have the chief responsibility of implementing the new identification system. Owners/producers need to contact their Veterinary Service Area Office (part of APHIS) or State Veterinarian's Office and request a flock identification number and free ear tags and pliers. Producers will also receive an information packet explaining the details of the program.

Owners/producers in Maryland may contact the following sources for further information and sign-up:

- On the web at www.aphis.usda.govvsscrapie.htm
- Maryland's APHIS/VS Area Office at 1-866-873-2824 or 1-410-349-9708
- MD Dept. Ag. State Veterinarian's Office at 1-410-841-5810

More information can also be obtained by contacting the Extension Office at 301-334-6960 or the Oakland Animal Health Lab at 301-334-2185.

RECOGNIZING YOUNG WINNING WRITERS — The students who placed or received honorable mention in the recent essay contest for third graders titled "Caring and Giving" were recognized and given their awards at the recent monthly Board of Education meeting. The contest was sponsored by Jim and Betty Rollins, in memory of their son Michael, and in coordination with the Garrett County Character Education Program. The board room was filled to capacity with families, students, teachers, and principals. Each winner received a plaque and a savings bond. "The teachers in Garrett County have impressed me to no end," Jim Rollins said. "Their products are here tonight, and I am constantly amazed by 8-year-olds." In the top photo, from the left, are Jennifer Shaffer, first place, from Accident Elementary; Jim Rollins; and Carson Paige Quigley, second place, Yough Glades Elementary. Kristie Wagner, the third place winner from Yough Glades, was not able to attend. In the back row are Randee Craig, coordinator of the contest; Camilla Rawe, president of the board; and Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. The honorable mention winners are pictured below. They are Shelly Moreland, Yough Glades Elementary; Katelyn Gnegy, Yough Glades; Kristi Warnick, Kitzmiller Elementary; Christina Ferrell, Accident Elementary; Chantal Craig, Crellin Elementary; Paula Bender, Grantsville Elementary; Megan Wilhelm, Grantsville Elementary, and Rollins. Bryanna Coddington, Crellin Elementary, was absent. In the back are Craig, Rawe, and Dr. Teets.

HONOR BAND PARTICIPANTS - Eight members of the Southern High School band were among the top 150 musicians from 29 schools in four states who were selected to participate in the Frostburg State University Honor Band Festival Concert last month. The SHS members also fared well in the chair position auditions, with three earning first chairs: Katie Richter, first chair, first flute; Suzanne Gilbert, first chair, first French horn; and Holly Reese, first chair, second clarinet. Dr. Kenneth W. Dye, director of bands and professor of music at the University of Notre Dame, was the guest director for the concert, which was performed in FSU's Pealer Recital Hall. The repertoire included several marches honoring America, a hymn, and a Broadway show medley, among others, some of which were arranged by Dr. Dye. Because over 200 names were submitted for the honor band, Noel T. Kunkle, FSU band director, announced that the 2002 festival will be a two-band format, with both bands performing in concert on December 7. Pictured above are five of the eight SHS band members who were selected for the 2001 festival. From left, front, are Holly Reese and Rikkilee Rose. In the back are Katie Richter, Suzanne Gilbert, and Ashley Shaffer. Also selected from Southern, but electing not to participate, were Brett Lambert, Kasey Bell, and Robbie Kutchman.

Garrett Slates Art Offerings

Five art courses will be offered at Garrett Community College during the upcoming spring semester. The first day of classes is Tuesday, Jan. 22.

Four of these are "hands on" courses that will meet in the art studio (Room 010).

Basic Design II (ART 102), scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m., will give students opportunities to work with three dimensional design in various media including sculptural processes. It will be taught by art professor Ron Skidmore. Drawing I (ART 201) is scheduled for Mondays and Wednesdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m., with Skidmore providing instruction in freehand drawing. Printmaking (ART 208), also be taught by Skidmore, will be offered on Thursdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m. This course is an introduction to the processes of relief, intaglio, and serigraphic printmaking.

Shannon Nichols will teach Visual Imagery (ART 115), on Wednesdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m. The course will provide experience and theory in art techniques, media, and teaching methods for early childhood and elementary education majors.

Art Appreciation (ART 103), a lecture course, will be taught by Skidmore on Mondays and Wednesdays from 10:10 to 11:40 a.m. This course introduces the student to art in various forms and includes a survey of media, styles and structures, as well as theory and criticism of art.

Students may register for these art courses and other GCC courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Persons interested in further information about the art offerings may call Skidmore at 301-387-3044.

Big River To Be Performed At Frostburg State

The award-winning musical Big River: the Adventures of Huckleberry Finn will be presented at Frostburg State University's Performing Arts Center in the Drama Theater on Sunday, Feb. 3, at 2 and 7:30 p.m. and Monday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p.m.

Based on Mark Twain's literary classic The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, the show sweeps the audience down the mighty Mississippi as the irrepressible Huck and his friend Jim, a runaway slave, escape to freedom. "Their hilarious, suspenseful, and heartwarming adventures feature a motley crew of unforgettable characters ranging from the virtuous to the villainous," stated a program spokesperson.

Time magazine describes Big River as "a classic American musical with the most fetching score of the decade," composed by country songwriter Roger Miller and performed by a live pit orchestra. "Miller skillfully interweaves the distinctly American musical styles of country, blues, gospel, and jazz into America's favorite form of entertainment, the Broadway musical. The result is a celebration of the American spirit," the spokesperson said.

Big River was the big winner of the 1985 Tony awards, with a clean sweep of seven awards, including Best Musical. Ticket prices are $20 for adults and $10 for under 17. Discounted tickets are available for FSU staff and students.

Dinner theatre specials are available prior to the performance at the following dinner theatre partner restaurants: Fratelli's Italian Restaurant, Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant, JB's Steak Cellar, Leone's Italian Restaurant, and Oxford House. Each special includes a uniquely designed meal with non-alcoholic beverages, tax, and gratuity. Dinner theatre specials can be purchased through the CES Box Office.

For information and ticket purchases, and for dinner-theatre menu selections and reservation purchases, persons may contact the FSU CES Box Office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX CES. Order requests can also be faxed to 301-687-7049 or e-mailed to CES@frostburg.edu. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the Performing Arts Center Box Office one hour prior to the

Lakers Whip Dragons, Lions, Despite Three-Week Break

The three-week break for the holidays evidently had little negative effect on the Garrett Community College men's basketball team, as the Lakers returned to action Monday with a convincing 84-62 Maryland JUCO Conference victory over visiting Howard CC, followed by a 97-84 conference win over host Dundalk last night.

The pair of victories upped the Lakers' overall record to 11-3. They will host Cecil CC this Saturday and travel to the Community College of Baltimore next Wednesday.

In Monday's win over Howard, Kortaa Hall continued to pace the Lakers in scoring as he poured in 32 points, with 21 of these being scored on seven three-point buckets. Teammate Duke Cooper finished with a triple-double — 10 points, 10 rebounds, and 13 assists. He also recorded five steals. Jontae Harrington grabbed a game-high 13 rebounds.

The Lakers took the lead early in the game and never trailed, holding a 37-28 advantage at intermission.

Matching Hall's offensive output was Howard's Lester Jones with 32 points and 10 rebounds, while Esosa Imoisilo scored 17 points and blocked seven shots. Scott Pfifer finished with 10 points and four steals.

"Considering our 20-day layoff, we played pretty well," stated Gibson. "Kortaa and Duke are one of the finest guard combos in the league, and they played very well on both ends of the floor."

Hall continued his scoring dominance last night in the Lakers' win over Dundalk, as he netted a game-high 30 points on 10 field goals, including six three-pointers, and was 4-for-5 at the foul line. He also grabbed a game-high 11 rebounds.

Teammate Jontae Harrington recorded 19 points, Sam Brown netted 14 points and dished out seven assists, and Duke Cooper finished with 10 assists, four steals, and a pair of blocked shots.

The Lakers, who held a 43-38 edge at halftime, also out-rebounded their hosts by a 54-37 margin.

Eric Brown and Melvin Curry led Dundalk's offensive effort with 19 and 18 points, respectively, and Uriah Harris also reached double figures with 12 points. Kevin Green led his team in rebounding with nine.

No other information about the game was reported.

MEETING CONSIDERABLE RESISTANCE under the hoop and in the lane were these Garrett Community College Lakers during a game played Monday evening against the Howard CC Dragons, but Coach Dennis Gibson's team found the hole anyway and recorded a convincing 64-62 victory. It was the Lakers' 10th win in 13 starts. Going up for two for Garrett in the photo at left is Sam Brown (#25), while teammates Jontae Harrington (#42) and Darren Stackhouse (34) position themselves for a rebound. Above right, Garrett's Darvus Gray looks beyond a pair of Howard defenders with hopes of recording an assist. The Lakers played again last night and topped host Dundalk, 97-84. Kortaa Hall scored a total of 62 points in the pair of victories. Photos by John McEwen.

Garrett Women Endure Three Road Losses

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team traveled to Hagerstown this week to take part in three contests, and came away with three defeats against tough opposition. Nationally ranked Mitchell downed the Lakers 80-39 in Saturday's opening round of the Hagerstown Tournament, and Garrett just missed taking the next day's consolation game in a 54-51 loss to powerhouse Mercer. Last night the Lakers dropped a 62-44 game to the Hagerstown Hawks. Garrett's record stands at 4-5.

GCC gave both Mitchell and Mercer a run for their money in the early going of the tourney contests. The Lakers used a pressing defense to hold Mitchell, which has only lost twice this season, to a slim 27-20 halftime lead. Mitchell used overwhelming speed and strength to wear Garrett down during the second half to take the win.

Crystal Kimble paced the Lakers with 12 points, Donna Lyles recorded seven points and seven rebounds, Christi Edgell dished out four assists, and Charlena Reeves snagged three steals.

Garrett was down by an even slimmer 27-21 halftime margin the following day against Mercer, which was an honorable mention team in national rankings earlier this season. The score was knotted at 48-all with less than two minutes to play, but Mercer hit two straight field goals and a pair of free throws to go up by six. Edgell sank a clutch three-pointer with 10 seconds to go, but GCC was unable to come up with a steal to get the ball back before time expired.

Edgell led Garrett with a 16-point tally, which included a trio of three-pointers, while also handing out four assists. Mindy Miller recorded 14 points and three steals, and Lyles hauled down 10 rebounds.

The halftime score of the Hagerstown game last night was Hawks 34 - Lakers 19. Edgell finished with 13 points and four assists on the night, while Kimble contributed 10 points. Lyles had eight points and eight rebounds, and Reeves recorded six rebounds. Miller and Carrie Pardue snagged a pair of steals apiece.

Lying ahead for GCC this week are a Saturday home contest against Baltimore at 5 p.m. and a road trip to Frederick Wednesday.

Rec. Basketball Scores Reported

The Recreational Basketball League returned to action Sunday after a holiday hiatus, and the Barracudas nipped Markwood Citgo 78-75; Mettiki downed Quality Machine 60-54, and Patterson Boat Company chalked up a forfeit win by an unlikely 2-0 tally when Gonder Insurance failed to show up for play.

Jon Price and Ryan White led the Barracudas to their win by netting 21 and 16 points, respectively, while Tom Stem recorded 16 points for Markwood's and teammate Jerry Myers contributed 15. Kevin Liller took league-high scoring honors for the day by hitting for 28 points to pace Mettiki over Quality Machine, which was led by a 14-point performance by Greg Inglese.

Games scheduled for this Sunday are: Patterson Boat vs. Quality Machine, 6 p.m.; Markwood Citgo vs. Mettiki, 7 p.m.; and Barracudas vs. Gonder, 8 p.m.

Correction Noted To Hoop Shoot Date At Southern

The local Elks Hoop Shoot competition, sponsored by the Oakland Elks Lodge, will take place this coming Saturday, Jan. 12, in the Southern High School auxiliary gymnasium. The date had been reported incorrectly in last week's sports pages.

Registration for the basketball free-throw shooting event commences at 11:30 a.m., and all Garrett County youngsters ages 8-13 may take part. Boys and girls entering the competition will compete in age categories of 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13, and each contestant will have 25 shots at the hoop. Winners in each age group will have the opportunity to advance through district, regional, and national competition.

For further information, persons may call the local Elks Lodge at 301-334-1119.

Mtn. Top Hoops Action Features Two Close Games

The competition in this week's Mtn. Top Basketball League play featured some hard-fought contests, as a shorthanded Condoerr's squad held on for a 52-51 win over Midas, Smiley's downed Skiles 66-57 in a battle that had been tied with less than two minutes to go, and 84 Lumber was awarded a 2-0 forfeit win over Plaza Hobby.

Condoerr had only four players take the court against Midas, but the gamble to go ahead and compete paid off with the exciting one-point triumph. Mike Saturday and Tom Stem led Condoerr with 16 and 15 points, respectively, and Mike Saturday Jr. netted the final go-ahead bucket on a driving lay-up with 15 seconds on the clock. With only one team foul, Condoerr then intentionally fouled to use up the remaining time, and Midas turned the ball over on an inbound pass with four seconds to go to seal its own fate.

Smiley's and Skiles were embroiled in a 57-all deadlock with time approaching the one-minute mark. Smiley's Mike Harvey recorded a field goal and a foul shot for a three-point play that gave his squad a 60-57 lead, and Skiles, playing without the services of leading scorer Nathan Panther and teammate Johnny Orendorf, was not able to regroup. Harvey paced all scorers with 27 points, and teammate Joe Refosco added 10 points. Skiles's Nathan Long hit for 17 points, Stan Skiles had 13, and Justin Stephens recorded 10.

The league's schedule for this Sunday features Condoerr vs. Smiley's at 1 p.m., Midas vs. 84 Lumber at 2 p.m., and Copeland's vs. Skiles at 3 p.m. Respective scorekeeping duties will be filled by Midas, Smiley's, and 84 Lumber.

Rams Top Fort Hill, Allegany, Petersburg To Take Top Spot

Defeating two different #1 ranked area teams within five days made for a huge week of basketball for the now-#1 ranked Southern High School boys' varsity. The Saturday through Wednesday stretch featured a big overtime victory over host and top-ranked Fort Hill on Saturday, followed by a tough, two-point win at Allegany on Tuesday and a 66-54 defeat of host Petersburg last night. The three victories upped the Rams' Western Maryland Interscholastic League record to 3-0 and their overall mark to 6-3.

Dennis Tressler had his finest performance to date for the Rams against Fort Hill, as he recorded 23 points and 11 rebounds. Tressler hit nine of 12 shots from the floor (75%) and a perfect five of five at the free-throw line. He hit two of his foul shots with just 9.7 seconds left in the overtime period to put the Rams up by four points and virtually seal the victory.

Also excelling for Coach Tom Bosley were the backcourt tandem of Ricky Reams and Chad Panther, who scored 18 and 10 points, respectively, while Bryson Meyers just missed double figures with nine points. Panther also finished with six assists and five steals.

The contest was close throughout, with Southern holding leads of 12-8 and 26 15 at the end of the first two quarters, and the Sentinels (5-2) up by four, 46-42, at the close of the third period. Fort Hill dominated the third quarter by hitting nine of 11 shots from the floor and taking its biggest lead of the evening, 42-34, at the 3:25 mark.

Southern rallied in the final three minutes of the third quarter behind a three-point play by Meyers and a three-point shot at the buzzer by J.B. Murphy. The Rams kept the momentum early in the fourth stanza and scored 15 of the first 20 points of the period to give them a 57-51 advantage with just 1:01 to play.

The Sentinels rallied again, however, and scored nine points in the final 48 seconds of regulation. Josh Repac, who finished with 18 points, had a chance to win the game for the home team when he went to the foul line with 1.3 seconds left on the clock. He had been fouled on a three-point attempt, so he had three free throws. His first two were good, which tied the score at 60-60, but his third attempt rimmed out, sending the game into overtime.

The score was tied at 65-65 with 1:03 left in the extra period. An inside bucket by Murphy put the Rams up for good, and Tressler's final pair of free throws put the game out of reach for the Sentinels.

Leading Fort Hill's scoring effort, along with Repac, was Robert Grapes, who hit his first nine shots and finished with a 10-for-13 effort (77%) for 20 points. He also grabbed a team-high eight rebounds. Nick Mazzone also reached double figures with 13 points.

The loss broke a 28-game home-court win streak of the Sentinels, with their last defeat in their gym being recorded in March 1999.

The Rams actually won the game at the foul line, as they were edged in baskets by a 26-24 margin, but hit 80% of their free throws (20 of 25). They converted eight of 10 in the fourth quarter and five of six in the overtime period.

The Sentinels were also assessed a rare technical foul for a scorebook error, as a wrong number was listed for a player. The Rams connected on one of the two subsequent free throws.

The Rams also won the game with their dominance of the boards, as they finished with a 31-19 advantage in rebounds.

"Until tonight we really had not been a good rebounding team, and Fort Hill has been a very good rebounding team," stated Tom Bosley. "But that was one area of our game that we really challenged the kids, and they responded.

"This was certainly Dennis Tressler's best game, both scoring and rebounding," he said, "and Chad and Ricky both provided the level of play and leadership that we expect from our senior returning starters."

The Rams held the lead throughout most of the defensive game Tuesday evening with upset-minded Allegany, but it took a put-back shot at the buzzer by Chad Panther to give Southern the victory.

The Rams were on top by six, 18-12, at the end of the first quarter, led by nine at halftime, 27-18, and held a seven-point margin going into the final period, 33-26, but the Campers battled back by scoring seven of the first nine points in that fourth quarter to knot the score at 35-35.

Southern then went into a ball-holding mode and set up for a final shot, which came from three-point range. The ball bounced off the rim and into the hands of Panther on the baseline, who put it back up and in at the buzzer.

Panther was the only Ram to reach double figures, as he finished with 10 points, while Aaron Laffey netted a game-high 12 points for the Campers, who dropped to 2-8 overall and 1-3 in the WMIL standings. Camper Jonathan Rebuck had six rebounds.

The Rams had only six shots at the foul line, but connected on all six of them.

The junior varsity game was just as exciting, as the SHS jayvees won in overtime, 57-55. Anthony Ablonczu and Corey Bosley paced the Rams in scoring with 14 points apiece, while Shane McDade and Jeff Parks netted 15 and 13 points, respectively, for the Camper jayvees.

Tressler and Panther were the big guns for the Rams again last night in their mild upset of the Petersburg Vikings, as Tressler finished with 19 points and Panther was right behind with 18.

The game was decided at the foul line, from which the Rams converted 34 of 49 shots. Southern scored 38 points in the second half of the game, but hit just three baskets. The Rams also dominated the boards once again, finishing with twice the number of rebounds (32-16).

Southern led from the opening tip-off, holding a 16-11 advantage at the end of the first quarter, up 28-25 at intermission, and taking a 44-30 lead into the final stanza. The Vikings finished with an 18-15 advantage in field goals.

Petersburg (6-2) rallied in the final period and pulled to within five points with about three minutes remaining, but had to begin fouling the Rams, who made good on 19 of 24 opportunities from the line in the fourth period.

Eleven of Tressler's 19 points came on 12 attempts from the line. Ricky Reams also finished in double figures with 11 points, and nine of his were recorded in 12 opportunities at the line.

Pacing the Vikings in scoring were Shawn Kesner with 17 points, Simon Buric with 12, and John Harman with 11.

The Southern junior varsity was defeated in the preliminary game by the undefeated Viking jayvees; however, a score of that game was not reported.

The Rams will be back on the road again this Saturday at Tucker County, and will play at Westmar next Tuesday.

NHS Stopped By Spartans; Conquers Union, Wildcats

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad evened its record at 5-5 this week with two victories and one loss. Although the Huskies got off on the wrong foot in a 64-46 loss to Bishop Walsh Friday, a pair of long-range shooting shows by sophomore guard Jason Rice helped shred the nets en route to Monday's 59-45 win over Union and a 48-30 thumping of Westmar's Wildcats Tuesday. Each of the contests was played on the NHS home floor.

The Huskies fell behind early in Friday's contest with Bishop Walsh, as the visiting Spartans went up 14-6 after one quarter, 36-23 after two stanzas, and 51-35 after three quarters. BW held an 18-point lead at the final buzzer.

The balance of Northern's offensive output came from hustling Aaron Mitchell's 13 points, which included a bucket from three-point range, and Rice and Rico Alston, each of whom scored 12 points. Rice sank a trio of three-pointers on the way to his dozen points. Kevin Orndorf led all scorers with 18 points for Bishop Walsh (5-9).

Northern's junior varsity fell to their Spartan guests, but the score was not reported.

Rice put on a long-distance shooting show against Union Monday, bombing away for five three-point buckets on his way to a game-high 21 points. That shooting accuracy helped lead the Huskies beyond a 15-all first quarter tie to a 30-21 halftime advantage, and a 42-34 lead after three quarters of play.

Connecting on five of nine three-pointers, Rice led all scorers while grabbing eight rebounds. Swandol muscled his way to 11 rebounds and 15 points as he collected a well-earned double-double, Mitchell contributed 11 points, and Alston had nine rebounds and six points. Dewaine Jones paced Union (4-4) with 12 points.

The Husky jayvees were defeated in their contest with Union, but the score was not available.

Rice cemented his "Mad Bomber" reputation Tuesday against Westmar as he sank an amazing seven of nine attempts from three-point range. The trés accounted for all 21 points of his second straight game-high tally.

"Jason took over the game with his three-point shooting," NHS coach Paul Edwards observed afterward. "We've known all along that he was a fine shooter, and lately our big guys have been setting a lot of picks to free him up to shoot. This is helping to open up the entire offense, because as the defenders work to get at Jason they end up leaving one of our other guys open underneath."

The Huskies jumped out to a 12-7 lead after one quarter of play and remained on top throughout the night, holding a 21-16 advantage at the half and running up a 35-22 margin as the final stanza opened.

Frantz contributed eight points to the Husky effort.

Ram Girls Smoke Sentinels, NHS, Knights By Combined 120-Pt. Tally

Dreams of a return to the Maryland 1A state title game may be dancing in the heads of the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball players, as the Rams ran their unbeaten record to 11-0 with a trio of handy wins this week. SHS stormed Fort Hill 74-35 on Thursday, Jan. 3, smoked Northern Saturday by a 68-28 margin, and smote the Preston Knights 77-36 last night. The three victories came by a combined 120-point margin, as the Rams outscored their opponents 219-99.

"We've exceeded our expectations so far this year," Southern head coach Don Stemple remarked. "We're very surprised at the ease with which we're winning our games; but we can't look too far ahead, because our toughest week of the year might be coming up this week when we play Keyser and Petersburg back-to-back," the SHS guru warned.

The Rams wasted no time in showing Fort Hill who was boss last Thursday on the Sentinels' home floor as Southern ran out to a 12-6 first-quarter lead. The wave continued to gain momentum throughout the contest, and SHS held a 28-15 halftime lead and a 54-23 third-quarter advantage on the way to cresting 39 points on top at the final buzzer.

Liller led all scorers with 26 points on 11 field goals and a 4-6 free-throw tally. Jennifer Bosley netted 14 points, Justine Pagenhardt and Becca Flanagan each recorded 10 points, and Robbin Gregg turned in eight points, six assists, and five steals. The Sentinels (5-4) were paced by Jessica George's eight points.

Southern's junior varsity met with a 26-16 defeat at the hands of their Fort Hill counterparts, despite a fine showing by Jasmine Scheffel. Leah Gonzalez's 10 points led the hosts.

Saturday's cross-county showdown at Northern saw the Rams criss-cross the Igloo floor seemingly at will. Southern's fast-breaking offense reeled off 21 points to the Huskies' four in the first quarter, and SHS was up 37-18 at the half en route to a 49-24 advantage as the fourth quarter got under way.

Liller's 24 points on 11 field goals and a 2-for-3 free-throw performance paced all scorers. Justine Pagenhardt netted 16 points on six field goals and a perfect 4-for-4 free-throw tally. Bosley recorded 13 points on five field goals and a 2-for-2 tally from the charity stripe, and Gregg connected on five field goals for 10 points. Overall, the Rams sank 10 of 13 foul shots.

NHS was led by Amanda Frantz and Heather Lander, each of whom hit four field goals and two free throws to record 10 points apiece. Bridget Frazee led both teams on the boards with 10 rebounds.

Southern's junior varsity was trumped by a clutch last-second shot by the Huskies' Kayla Kamp, who gave NHS a 17-16 win. Kamp finished with nine points, and Julia Bosley scored six for the Rams.

The Rams turned last night's homecourt joust with Preston's Knights into a runaway win in short order. SHS streaked out to an 18-5 advantage after one quarter, were up 38-17 at the half, and held a 59-20 lead as the final stanza opened.

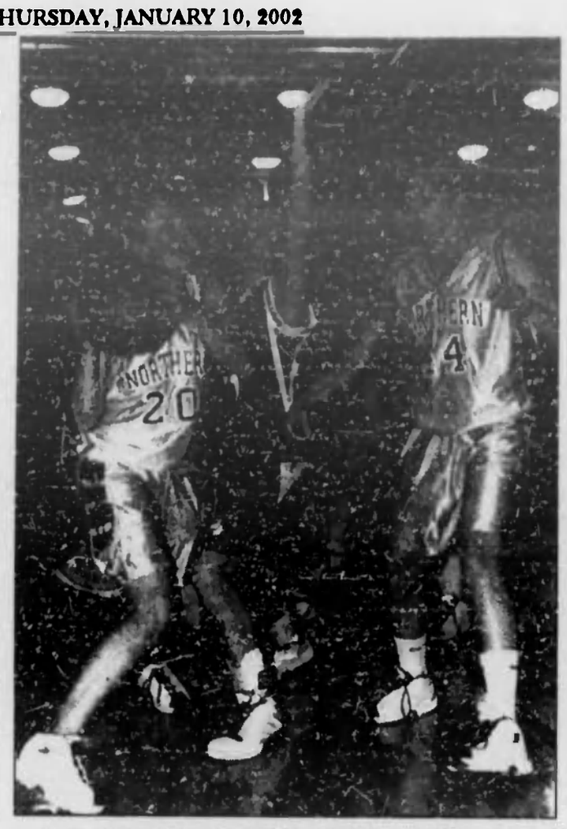
Flanagan led all scorers with 20 points on nine field goals and a pair of free throws, and Liller hit for 16 points, including a three-pointer. Gregg netted 13 points, dished out nine assists, and snagged six steals. Preston was led by Kara Jenkins' nine points on a trio of three-pointers.

Southern dropped the JV game as Preston took a 38-31 win. Jasmine Scheffel scored 13 points for the Rams, and Gina Adams had 10 points for Preston.

Southern's offensive varsity firepower is turning out to be obvious in its team and individual point tallies, especially as Liller keeps shredding the nets on her way to a possible "three-peat" as WMIL Player of the Year; but, as coach Stemple pointed out, the Rams are showing great strength in all facets of the game. Rebounding and steals are helping kick the devastating SHS fast break into gear, and unselfish passing is keying a number of uncontested shots close to the basket.

Several revealing statistics were available going into last night's Preston contest, especially noteworthy because of the numerical balance spread among several players. Leading in the assists category was Pagenhardt with 50, Liller with 44, and Gregg with 43. Steals leaders were Bosley with 30, Gregg with 26, and Liller with 24.

The Rams continue their season's major homestand tomorrow night as they host Keyser's Golden Tornado, and on Monday they receive a visit from Petersburg's Vikings. Allegany pays a Wednesday evening call. The junior varsity contests get under way at 6 p.m., followed by the 7:30 p.m. varsity battles.



THE INTENSITY SHOWED IN THE FACES of these Northern and Southern High school girls' varsity basketball players as they battled during Saturday's contest in the Cove. Despite taking a lopsided 68-28 win, the Rams had to work hard on both ends of the court against their determined Husky hosts. NHS forward Amanda Frantz (#20) is shown above maneuvering for shot in the face of some dogged defense by Southern's Ashley Liller (#21), as Northern teammate Bridget Frazee (#44) looks for an opportunity to set a pick. On the other end of the floor, Liller is pictured at the right going up for a short jumper, while fellow Ram Nina Stoner (#23) successfully screens an NHS defender to provide an unimpeded line of sight to the hoop. Southern hosts Keyser tomorrow night, and Northern hosts Fort Hill Monday. Both contests get under way at 7:30 p.m.

NHS Girls Fall To Southern, Crush Salisbury

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team split in this week's hoops action, dropping a 68-28 contest to Southern Saturday (see SHS account) before throttling Salisbury's Elks 55-23 last night in Accident.

No details were provided from last night's win, which evened the Huskies' record at 5-5.

Wisp Ski Club Reorganization Is Announced

A reorganization of the Wisp Ski Club, which has been "dormant" for a number of years, is now under way, and in order to help determine the level of interest in this effort, a wine and cheese reception will be held this Saturday, Jan. 12, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in the Embers Room at the Wisp Resort.

The club was active for many years, and successful in promoting skiing at Wisp, both recreational and competitive. It organized a number of local, national, and international ski trips, and also held or participated in charitable events. The new mission statement of the club will include the preceding, as well as the promotion of snowboarding and snow tubing.

Club memberships will be available for individuals, couples, and families.

All are welcome to attend the reception, and persons with questions may telephone 301-387-5035.

State Park Sets Sledding Event, X-C Ski Lessons

Herrington Manor State Park will offer two winter-related activities this weekend to help persons of all ages enjoy the snowy weather of late. A free evening of sledding is set for 6 to 9 p.m. tomorrow night, Friday, Jan. 12. The sledding path will lighted, and a fire will be burning to warm participants in-between runs. A limited number of sleds will be available for rent.

Cross-country ski lessons will be offered at the park this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 12 and 13. The 30-minute lessons will begin at 11 a.m. both days, and will cover the basics of cross-country skiing. There is a $5 per-person fee, and skis can be rented at the Herrington Manor lakehouse on a first come first serve basis. Class size is limited, and persons are asked to call 301-334-9180 to register. Ski conditions may be checked on-line at www.skimaryland.com.

Skiing Programs For Special Olympians Begin

The downhill skiing program for Maryland Special Olympics participants will begin today, Jan. 10, from 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the Wisp ski area, and will continue every Thursday through Feb. 21. Cross-country skiing for the special athletes will be held at Herrington Manor beginning on Sunday, Jan. 13, from 1 to 1:30 p.m.

Participants will also be able to attend the bowling program, which will start on Friday, Jan. 18. The program is held at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland from 5 to 7 p.m. every Friday and will continue through the last week of March.

Chad Brown, director of Special Olympics in Garrett County, also noted that the annual Deep Creek Dunk will take place on Feb. 23 (see separate story). Volunteers to assist with the programs are always welcome, Brown said, and all of the programs are free to the participants and volunteers.

For additional information, persons may contact Brown at 301-895-3793.

Mitchell added seven points while dishing out eight assists, and Alston, a big (6-5) sophomore, continued to show promise underneath the basket by snagging eight rebounds.

"We have our own player rating system based on a compilation of statistics, and Rico has the highest rating on the team right now," said Edwards. "He's playing close to three quarters a game, and is developing rapidly.

"One player who's been overlooked lately as other players have begun to blossom is Aaron Mitchell. He's been our steadiest performer all year, and leads the squad in steals and assists, and is third in rebounding," the Husky skipper said. "We know we can count on him."

Northern's JV fell in a 48-29 loss, as Westmar's Russell Miller netted 15 points. Billy Jones paced the Huskies with 13 points.

Only one outing lies ahead for the Huskies this week, as they travel to Fort Hill Tuesday to take on the always-tough Sentinels.

Flockhart, Sharon Named To All-WMIL Volleyball Squad

CHRISTIE FLOCKHART

JESSICA SHARON

The names of the 2001 Western Maryland Interscholastic League volleyball all-star team members were announced this week, and Northern and Southern High schools are both represented on the honorary unit. NHS senior Christie Flockhart and SHS junior Jessica Sharon were named to the first team, and named to the second team were Northern seniors Jolene Brenneman and Nicole Sisler, along with Southern junior Kristen Rollman. NHS junior Heather Lander received honorable mention accolades.

Flockhart helped lead the Huskies to an excellent 13-5 overall (4-1 WMIL) record this past season, and was named the team's Outstanding Hitter for the second consecutive year. She tallied 63 service points, 191 attacks, and 15 kills while recording a 76 percent service efficiency, an 81 percent passing efficiency, and an 83 percent blocking efficiency.

"Christie is a team player who handles herself well on and off the court," NHS coach Linda Wengerd remarked. "She's improved greatly since her freshman year, and worked to improve her skills by attending camps and working over the summer. Flockhart intends to continue her volleyball career next fall at Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, W.Va., where Wengerd said she expects her former athlete to excel on and off the court.

Sharon, who earned the nod as Southern's Most Outstanding Player of 2001, helped spark a complete turn-around for the 10-6 (2-3 WMIL) Rams this season. She led the way on offense by collecting 78 kills, and was also singled out for her outstanding defensive play by SHS coach Sue Newton.

"Jessica has become the player she is because of the hard work she puts into the game," commented Newton. "She was a team leader on and off the court, and we look forward to her leading us to continued success next year."

Joining Flockhart and Sharon on the All-WMIL first team were Kristina Hanft of Allegany, and league champion Fort Hill's Robyn Waltz, Jessica George, and Becky Vance.

Huskies Second In Annual Invitational; Rams Sixth

The Huskies of Northern High School amassed 141 team points on Saturday to place second in the annual Garrett County Invitational wrestling tournament, hosted this year by Southern High School. Braxton County of West Virginia won the team championship with 182 points, while host Southern finished sixth in the nine-team event with 81 points.

The Huskies finished just one point against third-place Francis Scott Key with 140 points, Keyser was fourth with 105, and Lansdowne finished fifth with 95 points. Placing behind Southern were Linganore with 51 points, Robert C. Byrd with 47, and Crossland with 35.

Three members of Coach Scott Stough's NHS squad captured individual titles, as Darric Kamp pinned Jason Weeks of Southern in the finals of the 145-pound division, Kris Knox pinned Glenn Tanner of Braxton County to take the 160-pound division title, and Trey Brenneman earned a technical fall (18-3) over Nick Hoover of Keyser to capture the 275-pound division championship.

Earning second places for the Huskies were Pete Stein in the 125-pound division and Jordan Brenneman in the 152-pound class, while Weeks was the only runner-up for the Southern Rams.

Winning their consolation matches and taking third places were Justin Gregory (112), Scott Wildesen (130), and Geoff Tressler (160), all of Southern, along with Mitchell Guard (140) of Northern.

Placing fourth for the Huskies were Eric Garlitz (119), Michael Wolf (130), Lee Yoder (171), and John Beachy (189).

The Huskies are still perfect (8-0) in regular-season matches, as they defeated University and Fairmont Senior last Wednesday, and the Rams, coached by Dave Taylor, defeated Allegany last Thursday and competed in a tri-match Tuesday against Fort Hill and Keyser (see separate stories). The Huskies and Rams will face each other this evening at Northern and again next Thursday at Southern.

SMC Wrestlers Win 45-Team Kingwood Event

Twenty-six members of the Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team competed in a tournament in Kingwood, W.Va., this past Saturday. There were 45 other teams competing in this annual event. In the end, the local team finished on top, bringing home the first-place team trophy. This is the first team award the local club has earned this season.

Individually, the local athletes brought home 22 trophies for 4th place or better, including six first-place awards. Placing first in their respective divisions were Justin Ratliff, Jakob Scheffel, Lex Ozias, Jeremy Gregory, Ryan Bennett, and Jason Warnick. Each of these wrestlers won all their bouts in their class to earn top honors.

Second-place award winners included: Justin Ratliff (2nd division), Brutus Scheffel (two separate divisions), Jeremy Gregory (2nd division), and Nicholas Brant. Placing third on Saturday were Gavin Murphy, Bubba Scheffel (2nd division), Lex Ozias (2nd division), Coy Ozias, Tyler Gregory, Chris Tepper, Ryan Fitzwater, and Clay Todd. Fourth-place finishers were Coty Rasel, Joseph DeWitt, and Justin Fitzwater.

Other SMC wrestlers who competed, but were unable to place in the top four, were Dillan Bennett, Aaron Friend, Woody Knotts, Travis Newton, Cooper Thomas, Brad Shaffer, Matthew Shaffer, Tristan Nazelrod, Landon Todd, and Davey Sweitzer.

The final top three team scores were: Southern Mat Club, 58 points; East Fairmont, W.Va., 48 points; and Northern Garrett Mat Club, 38 points.

The team will travel to Pittsburgh this Saturday for another tournament. For more information on the Southern Mat Club, persons may contact any team member or visit the team's web site at www.smcwrestling.org.

A tri-match sweep by the Northern High School wrestling team last Wednesday kept the Huskies perfect in regular-season competition and upped their record to 8-0, as they rolled over Fairmont Senior, 52-23, and topped University High of Morgantown, 45-30, at Fairmont.

The Huskies then placed second in the Garrett County Invitational on Saturday, hosted by Southern High School (see separate story).

Against Fairmont Senior, five Huskies won their matches on pins, including Pete Stein in the 125-pound division, Michael Wolf in the 130-pound clash, Darric Kamp in the 145-pound class, Lee Yoder in the 171-pound match-up, and Trey Brenneman in the 215-pound division.

Gaining decision victories for Northern were Eric Garlitz at 119 pounds, Mitchell Guard at 140, and Jordan Brenneman at 152, while Randall Frantz won the 103-pound division via a forfeit.

Recording pins for Fairmont were Alan Ford (112), Hunter Delligatti (135), and Jay Singleton (275).

Stein, Wolf, Kamp, Jordan Brenneman, and Trey Brenneman all won by pin against University High, while Kris Knox (160) won on points. Awarded forfeits were Mike Moyer (135) and Yoder.

Pins for University were earned by Bantolo Earle (103), Kyle Turnbull (112), Matt Thompson (189), and Tony Blosser (275).

The Huskies will entertain county-rival Southern this evening, then travel to Southern for a return match next Thursday.

Thank You!

We, the Crellin Community Center (U.C.S. Inc.) and Paw Prints, would like to thank all of those who came to our Annual Christmas Party held again this year. We are proud to have been able to provide such a wonderful and enjoyable event for the children. Each one of the children had a visit with Santa and was given a gift and a bag of treats. We the members enjoyed ourselves as much as the children themselves. This was only possible because of the help and support that we've received throughout the year. The party was pulled together with the help and support of the members and others from the community. We also had prizes that we gave for the Prettiest Christmas Lights in the community, along with door prizes and two turkey dinner giveaways. Those who won the two turkey dinner giveaways were: Sandy Lewis and Becka Spiker; and the prettiest Christmas lights of the community were; Bud and Grace Reckart and Billie and Carrie Ashby. Several door prizes were also given away. We hope to see all of you again next Christmas.

Thanks to all of those who helped and have supported us this year; it's been greatly appreciated!

Ski, Snowboard Competitions Slated At Wisp

The Ford Big Air Series, a series of four ski and snowboard competitions open to interested snow sport enthusiasts, will get under way this weekend, Sunday, Jan. 13, in Devil's Arena Terrain Park at the Wisp. The events will include individual and cumulative freestyle competitions and will be judged on several criteria, including style, originality, and height.

Competitors can register at the Wisp Ski School from 8 to 10 a.m. on event day, with open practice from 10 a.m to noon, and the competition commencing at 1 p.m. Border-cross will immediately follow the Big Air contests.

Registration fees are $10 for a single event or $25 for the entire series, and each entrant will receive a Ford Big Air T-shirt. Prizes include accessories from Rossignol, K-2, High Mountain Sports, and Rudy's Outdoor Adventures. The series will continue on the Sundays of Jan. 27, Feb. 24, and Saturday, March 2. The March event will take place during the Wisp WinterBlast weekend of March 1-3.

For further information on the Ford Big Air Series, persons may call the Wisp at 301-387-4911, or visit the web site at www.skiwisp.com.

Ram Grapplers Defeat Campers, But Fall To Keyser, Fort Hill

The wrestling team of Southern High School recorded a 45-24 victory over visiting Allegany last Thursday, but was then defeated Tuesday night by both Fort Hill, 48-25, and Keyser, 36-33, in a tri-match hosted by the Sentinels.

The Rams also placed sixth as a team in the Garrett County Invitational, which they hosted on Saturday (see separate story).

In the win over Allegany, Southern grapplers recorded seven pins and a decision. Earning pin victories were Jeff Gregory in the 112-pound division, Justin Gregory at 119, Scott Wildesen at 130, Chris Hayhurst at 140, Jason Weeks at 145, Nick Rush at 152, and Riff Browning at 171. Winning by decision was Nathan Sines in the 125-pound clash.

David Dayhoff was the only Camper who actually won on the mats (by pin, 275-pound division), as three other Alco competitors were awarded forfeits.

Getting pins against Fort Hill last night for the Rams were Joe Ashby in the 125-pound division, Hayhurst, and Weeks, while Justin Gregory recorded a major decision in the 119-pound bout. Anthony Oliverio also won by decision in the 275-pound class.

Gaining pins for the Sentinels were Roy Payne (112), Chris Brown (130), Artie Butler (135), John Wertz (152), Austyn Williams (160), and Josh Tart (171).

The Rams were leading going into the final bout against Keyser, but a pin by Nick Hoover in the heavyweight division sealed the team victory for the Golden Tornados.

Jason Weeks and Jeff Tressler (160) were the only pinfall winners for the Rams, while Wildesen and Hayhurst won on points, and Jeff Gregory and Nick Rush were awarded forfeits.

Keyser pins were recorded by Corey Kyle (135), Corey Likin (171), and Hoover.

The Rams, now 2-7, will face their toughest dual meet challenge to date this evening when they travel to Northern to meet the undefeated Huskies. They will then host the Huskies next Thursday. Tonight's clash will get under way at 7 p.m.

Fall Turkey Kill Numbers Bounce Back During Fall

The 2001 fall turkey hunting season kill statistics for the state's three westernmost counties show a marked recovery from 2000's dismal figures, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. However, the latest count still lagged behind the fall harvest for each of the other years spanning back through the previous decade.

Hunters took 293 wild turkeys during the recent fall season, a 36 percent increase over 2000's low 188-bird tally which DNR wildlife biologists had attributed to an extremely wet spring that year which killed a number of turkeys, followed by a summer drought. The rebound in turkey kills this past fall is attributed to favorable weather conditions throughout the preceding spring and summer.

The fall 2001 season opened Oct. 27 and closed Nov. 3. Allegany County reported the highest harvest with 127 turkeys killed, followed by Garrett County's 118 kills and Washington County's 48. DNR field staff reported good to excellent reproduction for wild turkeys in western Maryland during the past summer. The state's spring turkey hunting season opens Thursday, April 18.

CARRYING ON A FAMILY TRADITION — Kenny Wilburn, 14, of Grantsville is shown with the first buck he has ever bagged with a muzzleloader. He killed the fine six point, 130-lb. specimen on the last day of the recent muzzleloader season while hunting with his dad Greg and grandfather James on the McHenry farm purchased by his great-great-grandfather in the late 19th century. A ninth grader at Northern High, Kenny is from the fifth consecutive generation of Wilburn men to take a buck on the family property.

Decline Request

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel said that business owners were concerned that more restrictive noise ordinances could adversely affect county businesses. He also noted that enforcing noise restrictions could lead to additional costs to the county.

Several residents at the meeting in December also asked the commissioners about the possibility of adopting a zoning ordinance.

John Nelson, director of planning and zoning, noted that past attempts to draft a countywide zoning ordinance had failed, due to strong opposition from county residents.

"It's a hot-button issue," Nelson said, adding that Garrett is the only county in the state that does not have a countywide zoning ordinance.

Beitzel said on Tuesday in a meeting with Nelson that he did not want to see the county get into a situation, as Montgomery County has, where property owners are greatly restricted on how they can use their own land, due to zoning policies.

The commissioner suggested that the county look into the feasibility of adopting a "performance standard," in lieu of a zoning ordinance.

"A performance standard wouldn't restrict property owners," Beitzel said, "as long as they could meet certain requirements." He explained that the requirements would be general, yet address specific issues. The requirements would not, for example, say that a property owner could not operate a certain business in the county, only that the business had to comply with noise regulations, be located a certain number of miles from a town, etc.

"It's not telling people what they can do with their land," Beitzel said, "yet it provides protection for the whole county."

Nelson said that a performance standard policy sounded like a "reasonable approach." He noted that a performance standard case study had been conducted in New England, and that he would give the commissioners more information about the policy later.

"If there's not a program," Edwards said, "I'm not optimistic about our chances of getting the funding."

Legislation allowing the county to create a debt of up to $7.5 million for a new wing to house emergency and laboratory facilities at Garrett Memorial Hospital has also been requested by the commissioners. "We're working with them to get the appropriate budgeting," Edwards said.

Additionally, Edwards will again ask for legislation to remove the restriction prohibiting the Maryland Land Preservation Foundation from requiring that natural gas companies give up mineral rights on farm land before farmerers can join the foundation. The bill failed to pass last year due to the governor's veto. Edwards said he will meet with Gov. Parris Glendening next week to explain the bill to him more fully, and will try to persuade him from vetoing it again.

Because Garrett and Allegany counties have more natural resources, such as coal and natural gas, than other parts of the state, farmers in this area are disadvantaged if they wish to join the foundation, the delegate said.

The commissioners have also asked that recent legislation mandating 25 percent of state contracts to go to minority-owned businesses be modified to include HUB zone-based businesses. The modification would allow some county businesses to have the same priority as minority-owned businesses when bidding for state contracts. HUB zones are designated by the federal government based on unemployment income.

Senate Bill 57, introduced by Senator Leo Green of District 23, may also benefit the county. Green's bill authorizes the creation of a state debt of $620,000, to be used as a grant by the board of directors of the Maryland 4-H Foundation Inc. "for the construction, renovation, and capital equipping of facilities at 4-H educational camping locations throughout the state," according to the General Assembly's web site.

Locally, Ann Sherrard, Garrett County Extension Office educator, said that the county's portion of the funding would be used to make some of the cabins at the Pleasant Valley 4-H Center handicapped assessable.

Glendening will deliver his State of the State Address next Wednesday, Jan. 16. Wednesday is also the final date for the governor to introduce his budget bill to the Assembly.

The General Assembly is scheduled to adjourn April 8.

UNO'S SNOWFLAKE CHASE SET - Uno Restaurant, Deep Creek Lake, will host the annual Snowflake Chase 5-mile run/2-mile walk on Saturday, Jan. 19, and local health enthusiasts are encouraging participation in the event, a portion of the proceeds of which will be donated to the Garrett County Big Brothers Big Sisters organization. The Garrett County Health Department staff urges its "Just Move It" program participants to lace up their walking shoes for this event. Pictured above, from left, are three sisters, Brenda Pike, Barbara Heilig, and Beverly Haines, along with Suzanne Wilburn of BBBS, all of whom belong to the "Just Move It" exercise program. The run and walk, which will begin at 10 a.m., will begin and end at Deep Creek State Park. Post-race activities are slated at Uno's and will include an awards ceremony and complimentary lunch of pizza and soft drinks for all participants. Applications for the Chase can be obtained at the Community Health Office of the GC Health Department along Memorial Drive, by going to the web site www.IPlayOutside.com, or by telephoning race director Dave Ritchie at 301-359-9579. The first 150 entrants will receive a custom-designed, long-sleeved T-shirt on the day of the race. Persons interested in learning more about the "Just Move It" program may telephone the health department at 301-334-7730.

receiving a dunk sweatshirt and a complimentary lunch at Uno's. Those collecting $500 in pledges also receive an embroidered fleece pullover; those at the $1,000 level also receive a baseball cap and sports bag; those at the $2,500 level also receive Cal Ripken Jr. autographed memorabilia; and those at the $5,000 also receive an autographed Muhammad Ali item (limit 5).

Prizes are also awarded to the dunkers who raise the most money, to law enforcement personnel who raise the most money, and to those with the best costumes worn on the day of the dunk.

Persons can obtain applications at various locations in the county, or on the Internet at www.somd.org.

The 2001 dunk raised over $50,000 to benefit the 9,000 athletes of Special Olympics Maryland, a nonprofit organization devoted to sports training and competition for children and adults with developmental disabilities.

Medicines Used to Correct Infertility

Major causes of infertility among couples wishing to have children include numerous problems related to sperm production, sperm quality; ovulation; the fallopian tubes; or cervical mucus. The good news is that over 50% of couples who haven't conceived after 12 months of effort eventually will conceive, with or without medical intervention.

Clomiphene (Clomid) is commonly used to help women who haven't ovulated in an extended period of time. However, a menstrual period must first be induced with medroxyprogesterone acetate (Provera) for clomiphene to work properly. Due to a risk of ovarian cancer, clomiphene treatment cycles in infertile women are limited and usually are carefully monitored. Clomiphene also is prescribed for men to help increase sperm counts. This medicine does not, however, improve the sperm's ability to move around, nor does it reduce the number of abnormal sperm. Human menopausal gonadotropins (Repronex) may be injected into a woman's thigh muscle to stimulate ovarian follicles maturation. A new drug for infertility treatment called human urinary FSH or Vitropin, is expected to be approved soon.

HIGH SCHOOL ASSESSMENTS

The High School Assessments are given on the following dates. Parents, please encourage your child to attend on testing dates: biology, January 14; algebra, January 15; geometry, January 17; and English I, January 28.

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

The Leadership Academy would like to offer suggestions to live by. The following are weekly suggestions for all students and staff to make as a part of our everyday lives at Southern High School: Jan. 7 - Jan. 11, "Feel others' pain," and Jan. 14 - Jan. 18, "Put yourself in others' situations."

"RANDOM ACTS OF MATURITY" (RAM) RECOGNIZED

The new character program, "Random Acts of Maturity" (RAM), recognized another student awardee this week. Recognized RAM students help others, promote positive attitudes, lead by example, and show maturity in our school community. Our Southern RAM student of the week is Corey Burrell, nominated by Mrs. Linda Garris. She noted, "Corey demonstrated compassion in helping his fellow classmate." It is these kinds of selfless acts that make our school such a wonderful place to learn and grow. Mr. Bob Bonser awarded Corey a free pass to the Garrett Eight Cinemas in recognition of the outstanding character he has demonstrated. Congratulations, Corey!

STUDENT COUNCIL SPONSORS TEACHER OF THE MONTH

Each month the students at Southern High School choose a Teacher of the Month. A committee from Student Council divided the Southern faculty into seven groups by departments. All the students in the school choose one of the teachers from the group to be honored as the Teacher of the Month. They are to base their vote on the following criteria: 1) the teacher's willingness to provide extra help when needed, 2) the teacher's ability to teach, 3) the teacher's use of creative teaching techniques, and 4) the teacher's demonstration of enthusiasm, excitement, and pride in his or her subject. Jane Avery, who currently teaches theatre and has taught at Southern for 29 years, was chosen by the students as the December Teacher of the Month.

PARENT HELP GUARANTEES AFTER-PROM SUCCESS

Parents of sophomores, juniors, and seniors are asked to help with planning and organizing the 11th annual after-prom event, slated for April 27. Decisions will need to be made concerning theme, activities, prizes, and refreshments. Meetings will begin Wednesday, Jan. 23, at 6 p.m. in Lisa Bender's room. The meeting will conclude by 7:15, so parents can attend the Lady Rams' home game against Northern. Meetings will be held approximately every three weeks through March 15. Look for more details in upcoming Ram Notes or call the school for more details.

NATIONAL ART HONOR SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Elected officers of the National Art Honor Society are: president, Matt Burner; vice president, Matt Frederick; and recording secretary, Elizabeth Everett. The National Art Honor Society is a program specifically for high school students grades 10-12. It was established by the National Art Education Association for the purpose of inspiring and recognizing those students who have an outstanding ability in art. Membership includes April Harvey, Jodi Kulak, Laura Bonser, Kim Durbin, and Christen Coddington. Chapter advisor is Mrs. Sonia Pratt.

QUEBEC TRIP CANCELED

Because of insufficient interest, the proposed joint Northern-Southern high schools' field trip to Quebec City, Canada, for the last week of March has been canceled.

NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK

Please welcome the following new additions to the staff of SHS this year. The Alternative Education teacher, Kathy Doyle, has been promoted from a long-term substitute in this position. "I loved it last year," she said. "The people here are very friendly and supportive," she stated. She plans to increase the use of technology in the classroom this year. "Knowing that some of my students and former students will be graduating this year is my greatest satisfaction."

John Coffman has proved to be an exceptional addition to our Media Center. As our new library media specialist, he has been cleaning up our library. When asked why he chose this career, he replied, "Cash...Baby...Cash." He appreciates the supportive staff and a friendly student body. He also added, "My goal for this year is to survive!"

Rodger Bowman is a current mathematics teacher. He recently transferred from Preston after 18 years of teaching. His favorite thing about working in this school is the size, in terms of the number of students. He also expressed his desire to do some bonding. "I would like to get to know more students and improve on my teaching techniques." He then added his greatest satisfaction, "being able to fit into the faculty and seeing students who really want to learn."

NO MAD IN MADDY

Mr. Maddy has proved to be an exceptional addition to Southern High School as coordinator administrative assistant. Although many authority figures appear to be intimidating, Mr. Maddy is here to help the students, not scare them. Although, if you're a troublemaker with a last name from A to L, watch out, because Mr. Maddy is in charge of your discipline. Besides determining appropriate consequences, he performs general tasks, such as scheduling student and teacher course offerings, and obtains the substitutes that we students all appreciate. His duties are not finished yet. Mr. Woods also assigns him miscellaneous tasks, such as parking permits.

"I was always impressed with the athletes of Southern High School and their sportsmanship on and off the field. I believed their attitude was a good representation of the student body. Knowing I would be working with excellent students made my decision an easier one to make. Although I aspired to become an assistant principal and eventually a principal, I did not think it would happen this summer. After being offered the position, my wife and I decided it was an opportunity that I should not pass up. I am very pleased to be the assistant principal of an outstanding school."

Mr. Maddy enjoys working with the students and staff members. His future plans are to become certified to be a high school principal this year.

"There are so many good and exciting things going on at our school that it is difficult to pick one thing that has given the greatest satisfaction. I am thankful that the staff here has been very welcoming to me. I was extremely pleased at the way our students and staff reacted to the September 11th tragedy. The singing of "God Bless America" with students and parents leading was absolutely wonderful! The Martinsburg football game was spectacular! It is that determination and unwillingness to give up that give me great satisfaction to be involved with the students and staff at SHS."

Mr. Maddy is enjoying his career here. However, he did express time away from his family is difficult. "I am grateful for their support and understanding. Stop by my office and I will be happy to share their pictures with you." He also wanted to include a "thanks" to the students and staff for making SHS a great place to work.

JANUARY RAM PARTNER OF THE MONTH

Since 1994, 113 South 3rd Street, Oakland, has been the home to one of Garrett County's most dedicated and community-orientated businesses. The January Southern Garrett High School Partner of the Month is the Renaissance Learning Center, which provides the community with a wide array of services and continues to grow, adding more benefits for area residents as the need arises. In the beginning the center offered only after-school tutoring for students. As time passed however, and the needs of the county grew, it began offering driver's education classes for Garrett Countians of all ages.

The center changed again just recently, when it began offering pre-kindergarten classes for young children. The purpose of the class is to involve young students in interactive educational programs rather than less stimulating day care settings and empty homes.

Educational opportunities are now being offered outside school to expand the horizons of students seeking help and to provide thorough driver's training, as well as involve young children in positive interactive atmospheres. The goal of the Renaissance Learning Center is to: "Work closely with area schools in an attempt to fill in certain areas that perhaps the schools do not wish or are unable to provide to students," says Mr. Fred Gregg, owner. The center continues to provide the community with opportunities to learn and grow. Thank you, Renaissance Learning Center. Your support is appreciated!

HUSKY Notes

by Annie Winter and Steve Rounds

ALL STUDENTS

The Counseling Center has received a shipment of ACT booklets and registration packets. All interested students should stop in and pick up a packet.

SCHOLARSHIP NEWS

Garrett Community College Scholarship booklets have arrived for those seniors planning to attend GCC next fall. Be sure and stop in the Counseling Center between classes to pick up a copy.

DAWG POUND GANG

Student who received the "Dawg Pound Gang" T-shirts are encouraged to wear them to school on days that the basketball team has a game.

SERVICE LEARNING WITH BENEFITS

A service learning project award is available for any class, club, or individual interested. A $200 cash award will be presented each month to the project that best meets the Seven Best Practices, which are: 1. Meet a recognized need in the community. 2. Achieve curricular objectives through service learning. 3. Reflect throughout the service learning experience. 4. Develop student responsibility. 5. Establish community partnership. 6. Plan ahead for service learning. and 7. Equip students with knowledge and skills needed for service.

The submission deadline for the next project is March 1. If you have any questions, please see Mrs. Law or Mrs. Ahern.

OCTOBER STUDENTS OF THE MONTH

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to lineman and kicker Trey Brenneman, running back Cheston Bachtel, linebacker Joel Resh, and punter Ethan DeVore for being selected to the First Team All-Mountain Athletic Conference Football Team. Aaron Mitchell was selected to the second team defensive unit. Honorable mentions were Tom Menges and Aaron Mitchell on offense, and Dustin Wiland and Brenneman on defense.

Brenneman, Mitchell. Bachtel, and Resh were also selected as honorable mentions to the Cumberland Times-News All-Area Football Team.

The winners of the sophomore raffle were Angela Kamp and Steve Rounds.

Mrs. Jean Richardson was the winner of the VICA afghan raffle. Thanks to all who purchased tickets and supported VICA.

SPORTS

The Husky wrestling team improved its record to 8-0, defeating Fairmont Senior High 52-23 and University High School 45-30.

The Husky wrestlers participated in the Berkeley Springs Tournament on Dec. 15. As a team, the Huskies finished in 12th place. Three Husky wrestlers earned medals. Trey Brenneman placed second, and Pete Stein and Danny Ganoe placed fifth.

The Husky wrestlers defeated Beall on Dec. 20 by a score of 37-34.

READ TO SKI PROGRAM

Remember students, if you read a book in December and earn a ski certificate you may use the ski certificate in January or February. Keep reading in January and February.

FACULTY-LETTERMEN BASKETBALL GAME

The Northern Lettermen took on the faculty in the annual charity basketball game on Dec. 21. The faculty improved their record to an astonishing 12-0.

FAFSA ARRIVES

The 2002-2003 FAFSA forms have arrived in the Counseling Center. This form determines eligibility for federal and state aid for higher education.

ATTENTION FIRST-TERM HONOR ROLL STUDENTS

The Counseling Center has received information on purchasing discount tickets to attend a Wizards game and see Michael Jordan and Richard Hamilton. All interested honor students should stop by the Counseling Center for a form.

YET ANOTHER DANCE

The Lettermen's Club will sponsor its annual Snowball Dance on Saturday, Feb. 2, from 8 to 11 p.m. Sign-up and more information will be available the week prior to the dance.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Congratulations to the 2001-2002 newly elected officers for the National Honor Society: Todd William Foley, president; Karla Buckel, vice president; Micah Plevyak, secretary; and Nicole Sisler, treasurer.

SOPHOMORE CLASS DUES

By now all sophomores should have paid at least $20 in dues. So far 39 have done so, while 10 have paid $10. Sophomores are encouraged to pay their class dues to Mrs. Deem or Mrs. Grimm in order to provide a junior prom and class trip. We need you to do your part.

Casselman Lumber Do-it Center

wishes to offer a heartfelt Thank You to all those who offered assistance during the recent fire, cleanup and rebuilding effort. So many of you offered time, equipment and support and I know I cannot begin to name everyone who helped. My apologies to those I miss but I feel it important to name some of the key individuals and businesses that supported me and my employees in this experience.

First I want to mention the heroic work of Chief Duane Stein and the following fire departments whose valiant efforts and wise decisions in fighting the fire saved most of the facilities.

Grantsville Vol. Fire Dept.
Bittinger Vol. Fire Dept.
Salisbury Vol. Fire Dept.
Frostburg Vol. Fire Dept.
Deep Creek Vol. Fire Co.
Eastern Garrett Vol. Fire Dept.
Accident Vol. Fire Dept.
Addison Vol. Fire Dept.
Friendsville Vol. Fire Dept.
Shaft Vol. Fire Dept.
Air Cascade
Northern Garrett Rescue

and all the volunteers of these fine organizations

In addition we owe a debt of gratitude to the following organizations that assisted the day of the fire.

Maryland State Police
Maryland State Highway Adm.
Allegheny Power

And many individuals who provided food and drink for the firemen and workers

After the fire so many, many individuals and businesses set aside their important work and leisure time to help out in the cleanup and recovery. A special thanks to:

Keystone Lime
Beitzel Corporation
Dave Stein Const. and Crew
Bender Builders and Crew
Hey Pizza
Pastor Joe Byler and the Oak Dale Mennonite Church
Mennonite Disaster Service
Byco Enterprises
Rigidply Rafters

Don and Wayne Beitzel of Beitzel Corporation and Doug Bender of Bender Builders for their help in organizing and planning

Don Brenneman, Olen Rembold, for organizing the clean up day and to my sisters Kris Graber and Charlotte Tice for spearheading the organization of the food for volunteers. The food that was supplied by so many individuals and organizations was greatly appreciated.

There are the dozens of kind individuals who helped in so many ways, including planning, cleanup, rebuilding, loaning equipment, or financial assistance; they include:

Mike Broadwater, Tony Bender, Keith Bender, Wayne Beitzel, Willis Beitzel, Corby Graber, Daniel Miller, Rick and Ryan Critchfield, Rodney House, Joe Byler, Randy Spangler, Eugene Kinsinger, Ken Miller, Lynn and Debbie Atkins, Bruce Kern, Ed Yoder, Barry and Nate Maust, Conrad Maust, Ken Maust, Phil Tice, Sheldon Maust, Gerald Maust, Jack Ternent, Merlin Beitzel, Melvin Beitzel, Wesley Yoder, Jim Brenneman, Adam Brenneman, Olen J. Yoder, Phillip Bender, Jeff Bender, Edgar Rembold, Wayne Schrock, Bill Maust, Dwayne Overholt, Danny and Darla Tice, Leonard Maust, Darrell Yoder, and many others who may not have been mentioned - you know who you are and I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

I especially want to thank all of our dedicated employees who pulled together to do what needed to be done. Many of you sacrificed your hunting season and worked long hours to see to it that our customers were served.

Several of our suppliers also played a very important role in the recovery effort. Thanks to:

Conestoga Wood Specialties
Baer Supply
Country Woodcrafts Cabinet Supplier
Rigidply Rafters

Finally, I want to thank our Cabinet and Millwork customers who were inconvenienced by the fire. Without you we have no business! Thanks to all of you for hanging in with us and for your patience. The employees of Casselman Lumber and I are forever grateful. Again I want to mention a few:

Pat Woodburn and Woodburn Custom Cabinets
Penny Eckhart with Design Studios and all of her patient clients - Lauer, Graham, and Bell
Jeff and Vicky Hostetler
Bill Quigley and Wisp Resort
John and Jennifer Lapp
Foxcraft Home Builders and all their patient clients - Morgan, Long, Durham and Folk
Jim Summers
Richard Mehler
Rauser Professional Contracting
Judy Cadwell
Debra Jackson
Gerald Maust
Sam Lamanna
Kitchen Doctor
Mark Kubas
Humberson Homes
Scott and Kristiann Germain
Ron Campbell Jr.
Fechheimer of Grantsville
Dale and Wanda Broadwater
Pete Mellits
JC Penney, LaVale Store
Catherine Delaney

I want to also thank my friends and family who showed so much support during this difficult time. Without you the decision to rebuild would have been much more difficult.

Again, my apologies to the many of you that I did not mention. The outpouring of support received from the people of this community was very encouraging. Although our cabinet operation is not operating at 100% capacity, we are back in operation and looking forward to a great year. Again, thank you all for your support and we look forward to seeing you!

May God bless you all,
Dave Maust, Owner

4-H Club News

BITTINGER
by Darryl Glotfelty

The Bittinger 4-H Club had its annual Christmas dinner on January 6. Attendance was good, despite the snowfall. The dinner included green beans, sauerkraut, sweet potatoes, mashed potatoes, gravy, turkey, and dressing. Each of the families in the 4-H club brought a dessert. Many thanks to our cooks, Don and Jane Sealing, Jenny Marple, and Vicki Teets for the wonderful meal.

At the dinner, we also initiated the new officers for the year 2002. The president from last year, Robbie Glotfelty, was voted in as president for the year 2002. The secretary, Blakely Glotfelty, and the vice president, Claire Sussman, were re-elected also. Darryl Glotfelty and Jody Brenneman will be the new reporters for 2002, and Elliot Glotfelty is the new treasurer.

The Bittinger 4-H Club did not have any new members join so far this year, but all area youth are welcome. The members of the Bittinger 4-H Club for the 2002 year are Matthew, Emma, and Scott Bass, Blakely, Robbie, Elliot, and Darryl Glotfelty, Claire, Caity, and Mere Sussman, Charlie and April Hockman, Eric, Alex, and Brian Beitzel, Jody Brenneman, Jordan Brenneman, and Trey Brenneman.

After all of the officers were initiated, the club exchanged gifts which everyone enjoyed. A short business meeting followed to alleviate the need to meet again on Monday. At the meeting it was decided to have the required livestock exhibitors' training at the March meeting. Speeches will be given at the February meeting.

Get well wishes to the Ron Beitzel family.

Oak Hill 4-H Club Hears Timely Message

During the holiday season, most people resolve to eat sensibly, despite the temptation that surrounds them during this festive time of the year. The members of Oak Hill 4-H Club of Accident and their families are certainly no exceptions. Each year the club hosts a covered-dish dinner during the holidays, and as at most of these gatherings, no one goes away hungry.

However, this year club members were given some "food for thought" before indulging in the evening's feast. Approximately 70 club and family members participated in a hands-on presentation about military MREs (Meals Ready to Eat).

Garrett County native James Reed Rodeheaver, a branch chief of the United States Department of Agriculture Processed Fruits and Vegetables Division, gave the presentation. Rodeheaver has served with the USDA for more than 30 years and is currently headquartered in the Washington, D.C., office.

As Rodeheaver explained, MREs are meals that are prepared by the USDA and distributed to U.S. military personnel while they are on duty in the field. The meals are designed to sustain individuals who are engaged in strenuous activity, such as military training or actual operations, when regular food service facilities are not available.

The MRE is a totally self-contained ration consisting of a full meal packed in a lightweight, flexible bag that fits easily into military clothing pockets. Each meal contains an entree and has an average of 1,300 calories, which provides 1/3 of the military daily allowance of vitamins and minerals, as determined by the Surgeon General.

Except for beverages, the meal is ready to eat. The entrée may be eaten cold if necessary, but can be heated in several ways. Typically, MREs are heated by submersing the sealed packages in boiling water. Since 1992, a flameless ration-heating device has also been packed into each meal bag to heat the entrée. This device will heat the meal to 180 degrees with no flame in a matter of minutes.

MREs can be safely stored at 80 degrees Fahrenheit for up to three years.

According to Rodeheaver, the USDA currently maintains a menu cycle of 24 different varieties of MREs. They include rice, fruits, bakery items, crackers, spreads, beverages, snacks, and candy, as well as an accessory pack containing tea, coffee, condiments, matches, hand cleaner, and toilet tissue.

Rodeheaver said that the contents of the accessory pack are "treasured" by the troops, and various contents are often used by soldiers like currency and are traded back and forth for other commodities.

Each person at Rodeheaver's presentation was given an MRE to taste. "The aroma of the waiting feast that filled the air was in stark contrast to what each participant found inside his or her particular MRE," said Terri Rodeheaver, 4-H mother. "This served as a solemn reminder of the conditions that the U.S. military troops are enduring this year as they fight to defend the freedom we all treasure."

After the MRE presentation, the troops were remembered during the blessing offered before the 4-H members and their families enjoyed their home-cooked feast.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT — Members of Oak Hill 4-H Club and their families were recently given a small "taste" of what it's like to be a member of the U.S. military serving in Afghanistan. Former Garrett County resident James Reed Rodeheaver, branch chief for the USDA, gave a presentation to the club on MREs (Meals Ready to Eat). Rodeheaver is shown above, far left, displaying the MRE contents. Also pictured are Ashley Rodeheaver and Shane DeWitt, club members. See story.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The big winter storm arrived Sunday. I don't know if the rest of Garrett County got as much as we did here in Bittinger. The annual 4-H dinner with the installation of the new officers for 2002 was held despite the snow. Don Sealing started preparing the dinner early Sunday morning, along with the help of his granddaughter, Jenny Marple, and wife, Jane Sealing. They worked all day on the delicious meal and there was no way that it could be canceled. A delicious turkey dinner was served to the leaders, guests, parents, and 4-H'ers.

The club gave a vote of confidence for the past and this year's presiding presidency to Robbie Glotfelty. Claire Sussman was elected vice president. Also returning tor another term as secretary is Blakely Glotfelty. Andrew Hady handed over the financial book as treasurer to Elliot Glotfelty. Darryl Glotfelty will share the duties of reporter with Jodi Brenneman. The traditional candle-lighting installation was held following the dinner. The rest of the members assembled for the candle-lighting and group photographs.

Except for the Beitzel family, who had several members down with pneumonia, and the Brenneman family, all the club was in attendance. It seems as if a lot of Bittinger people are flirting with that illness, including mother Ruth DiPaolo, who has so far been fighting it off.

The 4-H Club chose to hold its January meeting while members were already assembled instead of their regular Monday evening, as the expected snowfall is to get worse. They also did their annual holiday gift exchange.

I would say that this about wraps up Christmas festivals in Bittinger. In my old neighborhood in Manhattan today would be their Eastern Orthodox Church Christmas. My old neighborhood had tons of immigrants from all parts of the world — Italians, Polish, Asians, Ukrainians, and Greeks. I can still hear in my mind those Christmas bells ringing on their Christmas. It was a great place to go Christmas shopping, with all kinds of little foreign shops selling native handicrafts. I was very lucky to find in a little, shabby, used bookstore an affordable gift good enough for my ultra rich employer who lived in the fox-hunting area of New Jersey. I found an old volume of Fox Hunting Ghost Stories. It was inexpensive, but possibly very valuable, and it was perfect for the Sher family.

The following portion I wrote last week for my column. It belonged in that column, but my typist and mother decided I had enough other things in the column and left it out. But I had a point to make and I will not be muzzled.

During the holiday season I happened to turn on the History Channel and saw some excellent program about World War II, which was an old film starring Gregory Peck as a priest and about the tough choice he experienced when the Nazis occupied Rome. My girls hate to watch anything about the Nazis or war, but it was too good a chance for them to learn about the war; better than just learning about the list of battles and dates and names. I know when I was a student in high school it did not seem real, and didn't realize the awful ethical choices faced by people of Europe and the rest of the world, and how to deal with ultimate evil that the world would ever face, the Nazis.

I asked my daughter, "Could you be a friend to a former Nazi?" I had to examine a friendship I enjoyed back in the late 1970s when I worked with the wealthy horse people of New Jersey. The sweetest girl I ever knew had a father who, as we stood out in a cold rainy gale at a Long Island horse show, asked my colleague Betty, "See this scar on my face? I got that in a prison camp in Siberia after World War II, and I learned a valuable lesson that if you want to light up in a high wind, you have to face the wind."

That possibly can be applied to other areas of life than just lighting a cigarette. We sometimes confront something so horrible that we wish we could just turn our back on it and not face it. That is why I think that my girls must face the ugly story of the Nazis.

He further stated, "I remember that America and Russia were allies, and the only people who were in the prison camp in Russia were the Nazis." That fact collided with this person whom I was very fond of. He was kind, friendly, and as my friend Betty said the other day on the phone when I chatted with her about him, "a lovely man." She worked for him, but on one occasion when I was holding Kim's horse for her, my wallet was stolen with about $50 in it. He handed me a crisp $100 bill, and I was worried about where that money had come from. I know Henry was not an idealistic Nazi, but he just happened to be born into a family who made their fortune by being a major player in the Nazi war machine. After the demand for tanks, they switched to automobiles. Now their company is wealthy, all capitalism that Americans hold dear, and that is why Americans should welcome him. If I heard that he was a wanted man for war crimes, would I turn him in? As much as I despise the Nazis and everything that they stand for, I saw nothing in him 20 years later, and I am sure I couldn't cause pain to his lovely wife and daughter. He also had a warm and close relationship with a working-class, young Jewish man who worked at the stable where Kim rode.

As always in January, except for a few years in my late teenage years when I loved to ski, the more it snows now the more unhappy I am. This year I never have that feeling as much, but I can't turn my back or face the bitter wind that blew on me in Bittinger this year because there is nowhere to run, no place to hide from the disaster I now face. I want to run away with Betty to my old neighborhood on the Lower East side of New York. She plans to go up with a friend in late January. Or even if I could find a way to go down to Middleburg, Va., where she now lives. She is the only person who understands everything about me, my thoughts and my feelings.

But it looks like I am snowbound in Bittinger wishing I could hit the road. Today my girls forbid me to go out in the car. I can't stand to be a prisoner in my own home. I am not eager to go out in the cold, but I think the snow blanket did warm up a little after the bitter cold that we had before the snow. I have nowhere to go and no one to see. But I think I could probably get my car out of my lane if I had to do it.

On the way to the 4-H program last evening I enjoyed the beautiful scene of the big hemlock trees along the south side of Rock Lodge Road across the road from the Brenneman Grove. It is simple, perfect winter scenery. Those big branches bowed down under heavy, but soft pillows of sparkling snow and, of course, the old split rail fence was capped by zigzagged lines of white. It is too bad we did not get this storm about a month ago, because it finally looks like Christmas in Bittinger, just when it is over.

Thank goodness the snowstorm did not prevent Lloyd from making it back to return the girls from their annual holiday visit with their grandparents, Ruth and Al Sussman of Leisure World in Silver Spring. They rolled in as usual, loaded with lots of new fashionable clothing and new games, etc. Even a couple presents for me from my former in-laws.

By the way, Sunday afternoon on the way to the 4-H dinner we saw a snowmobile outside the Poholsky house with a couple excited Steeler fans holding the Steeler banner after the Steeler victory over the Cleveland Browns. The win wasn't too important, as the Steelers are already playoff bound. All the Steeler fans from Bittinger are confident that they will go all the way to the Super Bowl, but not quite as sure that they will win it.

Although hundreds of people get letters saying that they are a finalist in the Publisher's Clearing House Giveaway, my hopes have not diminished that I may be that big winner on Super Bowl day. I doubt anyone could use that $10 million more than I. I thought that I would be a winner in the many drawings that I was entered in around here, but to no avail. I have thought of what I would do with that $10 million and started a list of worthy friends, and of course, would cut a big check to Doctors Without Borders, Christian Children's Fund, Peace Corps, etc., and many more people who would benefit than just my family. So, Fate, listen to me, let me get a chance to change a whole bunch of lives. I don't want to buy an expensive new car, as I would be happy with a car with under 100,000 miles, but have the knowledge that I can pay any bill without a second thought and that my girls' college would not be a problem. It would mean to me peace of mind" since all the problems that I hear about these days worry me to death. Money is not the key to happiness, but "peace of mind" goes along the road to happiness.

I worry about doctors and nurses that go into the most dreadful places without enough equipment or medicine. It causes extreme anxiety in me. Believe me, I don't need that worry these days. Sometimes I wish I could stop thinking and feeling about things that most people are unaware of or that they are so far away that it doesn't bother them. I never want to be "a bleeding-heart liberal," but the world does need them.

I wish I could ask one question of former President Jimmy Carter. I would ask him how he can stand the terrible suffering in other people which he is aware of and he can't do anything about it. He was the first winning presidential candidate that I voted for, and it is one vote that I am proud of. Because, as the Bible says, "Blessed are the peacemakers." That is what he was, and he never stopped trying to make a better world for all people everywhere.

At around 4:00 on Monday when the weather was so blustery, I decided I should take my car to the end of the lane. I just barely made it out. But the only way to turn around was to go up the road. But unfortunately for me, suddenly the visibility turned to zero and I went off on the shoulder, and that meant that I went into a deep ditch. The girls decided to call Gram and, of course, that gave her a chance to yell at me that I had no right to go out. Luckily a couple of nice guys showed up with a positive attitude and a four-wheel-drive pickup and snow shovel. Then it was no problem.

I can't do things I should, like picking up my girls in a blizzard. But I am sure I am not the only driver who got stuck today. It is surprising how many good Samaritans there are to help with stranded cars. I see this many times around here. I did not get the chance to get their names, but to John and his friend, "Thank you."

Recent dinner guests of the Poholskys were Dave and Nancy Beachy, Denny Buckel, Cindy, Sam, and Aaron Stanton, and Ferne Beachy.

Dinner guests of Beulah Moon for an early New Year's celebration were Jay Moon and family, and Larry and Ellen Moon, all of Finzel, James and Hyun Joo Moon, Savannah, Ga., and Brad Moon. Beulah and Brad also spent Christmas Day with family at the home of Larry and Ellen Moon. They also visited "Skip" and Celeste Golden and family near Pocahontas.

Mary Salik, mother of Lenny Poholsky, died Thursday at the Allegheny County Health Center in Kittanning, Pa. Funeral services were held Saturday. Mary was 91 years young.

Barry Glotfelty, Frederick, visited his mother, Ruth DiPaolo, on Saturday evening.

Chamber Working On Calendar Of Events For 2002

The 2002 Calendar of Events is currently being compiled by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce staff. Local organizations, groups, and agencies are encouraged to submit information for inclusion in the printed calendar and on the chamber's web site.

The calendar will be published in two segments, spring/summer and fall/winter.

"There is no charge to be included in the calendar of events, which provides terrific exposure for our community activities," said Ken Wishnick, chamber president. Approximately 70,000 copies of the events listings will be distributed locally and throughout Maryland.

For more information on calendar listings, persons should call Jonni or Regina in the chamber office at 301-387-4386.

Blind Skier Guides Sought For Training

A training session will be held for volunteers who are interested in becoming ski guides for blind students from the Maryland School for the Blind. The training will take place from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Jan. 12, at the Garrett County Visitors Center in McHenry, and is open to all interested high school students and adults.

Prospective volunteers should be good skiers, and those volunteering for the first time are especially encouraged to attend the training session. The Blind Skier Program, annually sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, is slated to begin on Tuesday, Jan. 15, and continue each Tuesday through Thursday for a total of five consecutive weeks.

For further information, high school students should contact Barbara Law at Northern High and Rhonda Tasker at Southern High. Adults may call 301-387-2218 before 9 p.m.

Peace Mass Date Changed By St. Peter's Church

St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church has changed the previously announced date of its monthly Mass for Peace to Tuesday, Jan. 15, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the chapel in the lower level of the parish center. The service normally takes place on the second Tuesday of each month.

During the Mass a list of the names of local persons who are active in the military, or who have died in service to their country, will be mentioned. Persons may call the parish office at 301-334-2202 to have the names of family and friends in the military added to the list.

GCMH CEO Participates In Leadership MD

Donald P. Battista, president and CEO of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, recently completed an eight-month-long leadership development program sponsored by Leadership Maryland, which celebrated its ninth anniversary, and honored this Oakland resident, along with 51 statewide classmates, at a black-tie reception and banquet held at the Harborplace Hotel, Baltimore.

Leadership Maryland, an independent, educational leadership development organization, informs top level executives from the public and private sectors about the critical issues, challenges, and opportunities facing the state of Maryland and its regions. After participating in a broad range of experiences, these statewide leaders are prepared to serve as important participants in the unified effort to shape Maryland's future.

"To be informed about statewide and regional issues, and having the opportunity to engage and interact with leaders who put themselves on the front line everyday, has prepared these individuals to be the catalyst for positive change in Maryland," said John W. Dillon, Leadership Maryland board chairman. A 1993 graduate of the program, Dillon retired in 2000 from Verizon, where he held the position of vice president, external affairs.

"It was an honor to be chosen to participate with such a select group," Battista said of his participation in Leadership Maryland. "I was proud to represent Garrett County and share our county's health care and economic development vision with other influential leaders from around the state."

"These are the leaders to watch in the millennium," said Nancy Wolff, Leadership Maryland executive director. "Their experience confirms that the quality of leadership affects the success of the solutions. Problems are solved when committed, dynamic leaders with vision and passion are willing to take the risk to lead."

Battista has been employed at GCMH since 1986. He received his bachelor of science degree from Penn State University and his master of business administration degree from Frostburg State University. He and his wife reside in Oakland and are the parents of two grown children.

ALI

Rated R - Running Time: 2:38 - Released 12/25/01

Apparently, there was a fair amount of revision to the original screenplay for Ali, Michael Mann's epic and reverent 2½-hour tribute to the man who could arguably be described as the most famous heavyweight boxer in history. The first version, written by Stephen J. Rivele and Christopher Wilkinson, based on the story by Gregory Allen Howard, was reportedly over 200 pages long. Although the final text, boiled down by Eric Roth and director Mann, is presumably much more sparse, Mann chose to compensate with a slow pace and plenty of arty mood scenes wluch basically translate to dead air. Though the film is beautifully captured by cinematographer Emmanuel Lubezki and well-acted by Will Smith and his large supporting cast, Mann's treatment is overindulgent and scattered, with numerous cinematic statings and re-statings of the same points set against a laidback soul soundtrack that seems to emphasize its slow pace. Heck, if each of its wordless, emotionally pregnant scenes were filled with dialogue, Ali could easily have filled 300 pages.

This is not to say I didn't like it. Smith has obviously done his homework on Muhammad Ali, not only capturing his mannerisms and his slow, soft-spoken vocal characteristics with uncanny precision, but gaining 35 pounds for the role, and the boxer's life is indeed a fascinating subject. The film starts with his ascension to the heavyweight title in 1964, spanning through his conversion to Islam and subsequent dropping of his original "slave" name, Cassius Clay, his legendary friendships with civil rights leader Malcolm X (played by Mario Van Peebles) and sports announcer Howard Cosell (Jon Voight, caked with makeup), and his refusal to go to Vietnam and the resulting loss of the championship belt. It culminates with his 1974 fight to recapture the heavyweight title in Zaire against George Foreman. But in this long, slow-moving film, whose running time should be sufficient to cover the life of any sports figure, Ali's life, even his career, is not fully discussed. We see bouts against several of his more famous opponents, such as Sonny Liston (Michael Bentt), Joe Frazier (James Toney), and Foreman (Charles Shufford, a real-life heavyweight boxer), two of his three championship wins, and his marriages to two of his four wives (played by Jada Pinkett Smith and Nona M. Gaye), but no mention is made of his 1960 olympic gold medal win, his third and final 1978 championship victory over Leon Spinks, his famous battle with Parkinson's disease, his triumphant torch-lighting appearance in Atlanta at the '96 olympics...

Surprisingly, the film seems focused at least as much on Malcolm X as Ali, covering portions of the political leader's career and death in detail (one gets the impression Mann was wishing he could have been eulogizing him instead; this film bears more than a passing resemblance to Spike Lee's 1992 masterpiece). Also featured are Ali's turbulent relationships with his Jewish drug-and-alcohol-addicted coach, Drew "Bundini" Brown (sensitively portrayed by Jamie Foxx), his father (Giancarlo Esposito), and his Islamic advisor, Howard Bingham (Jeffrey Wright).

Ali was and is an ever-fascinating figure, both in sports and political history, whose story deserves to be told. But director Mann, while producing a beautiful and thoughtful tribute, seems somewhat unfocused in his delivery. Ali contains much information, lots of emotional depth, and a triumphant performance by Smith, but its dragging pace and tendency toward digression often seem to work against its good intentions. ★★★★

THE MAJESTIC

Rated PG - Running Time: 2:32 - Released 12/21/01

Jim Carrey resumes his bid to be taken seriously with another standout performance in Frank Darabont's The Majestic, a whimsical feelgood romance written by Michael Sloane with dark overtones and heroic aspirations. Darabont, director of similarly-toned films The Shawshank Redemption and The Green Mile, produces another nice story that forces us to overlook many practical considerations to achieve its emotional impact. Regardless of its shortcomings, The Majestic is a good popcorn movie, especially since it is partially based on the Hollywood of the early 1950s and begins with its main character eating popcorn at the movies.

Carrey plays struggling screenwriter Peter Appleton, who is just on the brink of success with what he considers his breakthrough masterpiece when he is blacklisted for being a communist sympathizer. Despondent, he goes for a drunken road trip which results in an accident, a bump on the head, and a classic, TV-sitcom case of "bump on the head amnesia." It happened to Fred Flintstone dozens of times. When he comes to, he is discovered by an old man (James Whitmore) who leads him into the nearest town. As it turns out, Lawson, California, has lost so many young men to World War II that it received honorable recognition from President Franklin Roosevelt. As it turns out, nearly every household in the sleepy village mourns the loss of at least one of its sons. And as it turns out, Peter Appleton, who has no recollection of who he is, looks exactly like one of those lost boys: Luke Trimble.

Welcomed with open arms by most of the community, Peter (now going by the name Luke) tries desperately to remember what everyone keeps telling him was his life. His father Harry (Martin Landau), who owns the town's decrepit and long-abandoned movie theater, The Majestic, regales him with stories of how they filled it with jujube-chewing patrons until the war; his aspiring-lawyer girlfriend Adele (Laurie Holden) takes him to all their former romantic spots; his piano teacher (Susan Willis) tries to get him to play Liszt like he used to. But nothing registers. Still, embracing his newfound home with cautious enthusiasm, Luke joins his dad in the reconstruction and re-opening of the theater, starts banging out boogie-woogie tunes, and gets busy making out with Adele. Then, just as his new life couldn't get any sweeter, his former life finally catches up with him. The HUAC-sponsored G-men, who have been on Peter Appleton's red trail ever since his suspicious disappearance from L.A., trace him to Lawson and arrest him.

As I mentioned, this film is not one for credibility enthusiasts. But its performances and its creepily homey atmosphere divert our attention away from this. Although it is not explained how a missing soldier from the European theater of WWII would wash up 9 years later on the beach of his former hometown, Landau's tragically hopeful Harry definitely believes. While a beautiful young girl, having learned of her fiancé's demise in 1945, would have probably moved on and married someone else in the intervening years, somehow, Holden makes it seem feasible. And Carrey, whose role calls for him to be emotionally and mentally confused throughout most of the movie, again restates his ability to rise to the challenge with grace and believability. Also notable are David Ogden Stiers as Adele's father, the town doctor, Gerry Black as the wise and friendly ticket-taker, and Bob Balaban as the stern congressman who vows to nail Peter and all his red friends to the cross.

The Majestic is an old-fashioned film, and its dated tone and subject matter may turn some viewers off. But there's no question that it showcases Carrey's talent and that of its capable supporting cast. ★★★★

GOP WOMEN END SUCCESSFUL YEAR — The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club ended 2001 with a Christmas party, hosted by Joanne Glotfelty, ways and means chairperson. About 30 members and guests attended the holiday celebration, which included a covered-dish dinner, story telling, and letters from Kitzmiller Elementary School students thanking them for the world globes that the club donated as part of its "No Child Left Behind" program. Members also donated items and held a fund-raiser auction. Shown above is J.R. Glotfelty, the auctioneer for the event, with a painted sled that was purchased by Sheriff Dick Sanders. Guests at the event included Delegate George Edwards, Commissioner Fred Holliday, and Dave Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court.

Noted With USSA Multiple Awards

Andrew Hill, a junior at Southern High School, has been recognized by the U.S. Achievement Academy as an All-American Scholar, American Character and Citizenship Award winner, and United States National Band Award winner.

The honors entitle Hill to a number of the benefits associated with the organization's recognition, including qualification as a candidate who can apply for a USAA college scholarship.

Nominated for each of the awards by SHS band director Richard Clever, Hill is a member of the Southern High Stage, Concert, Winter Percussion, and Marching bands. He also performs with the school's drama department, and volunteers as lighting technician with Our Town Theatre in Oakland.

Hill is the son of Melodee and Richard Hill of Oakland.

"FISCAL FITNESS" WORKSHOPS TO START JAN. 29 — Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. is offering this economic literacy program, which is designed to assist those individuals and families who are having difficulty making their money stretch from payday to payday. Loring Young, director of Community Development Programs, said that the community support for this program is very encouraging. M&T Bank provided the funding for this program, said Pam Nelson, vice president for Community Services and Family Development. According to Donna Rose, the coordinator for the program, the series of modules are offered not to tell people how to spend their money, but to help them understand the importance of good money management. "Some of us do not make good financial decisions," Young said. "Our program is dedicated to helping people manage finances wisely. Though it is geared for low-income, we're ready to help anyone." The modules should last approximately 1-1½ hours. Representatives from First United Bank & Trust, F&M Bank, M&T Bank, and WEPCO Federal Credit Union will be conducting the modules, which start Jan. 29 at the Mary Browning Center of Community Action and will continue about every two weeks. Reservations should be made by Jan. 18, because space is limited. Certificates will be issued to those completing all of the modules. Those interested should call Rose at 301-334-9431, ext. 162, or toll-free at 1-888-877-8403. Sitting, from the left, are Irmgard Koscielniak, Cooperative Extension educator; Tom Rosser, assistant director of Garrett County Department of Social Services and member of the GCCAC board of directors; Lana Bittinger, vice president of WEPCO Federal Credit Union; Brenda Donhan, assistant manager of M&T Bank; Jason Rush, assistant vice president and community office manager; and Dan Selb of Mt. Top Mental Health Association Inc. Standing are Rose, GCCAC housing case manager; Young; and Nelson.

Evening Courses Slated At GCC

A number of evening courses at Garrett Community College in the spring 2002 semester are still open for enrollment, according to a college spokesperson. There are a variety of courses and locations to choose from.

Greenhouse Management and Production (HORT 132) will be taught by Laah Broadwater on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5 to 7 p.m. in the greenhouse and adjacent classroom. This course focuses on structure, equipment, maintenance, and procedures and methods associated with commercial greenhouse operations.

Introduction to Management (BUS 170) is scheduled for Thursday evenings from 5:30 to 8:30 at the Grantsville Outreach Center. This course focuses on principles and responsibilities of managers, plus theories and practical applications of management techniques.

Two computer courses are scheduled at the National Guard Armory in Oakland. Introduction to Computer (CS 105) will be taught by Herbert Lambert on Wednesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. Microsoft Excel (CA 183) will be taught by Wayne Callis on Monday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m.

Other computer courses scheduled in the evenings at the GCC campus are: Microsoft Windows 2000 (CA 115), on Wednesdays from 6:35 to 10:00 p.m., Jan. 23 — April 10; Desktop Publishing (CA 223) on Thursdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.; Microsoft Word (CA 224) on Tuesdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.; Accessing the Internet (CA 251) on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 6:30 p.m., Feb. 19 — ending May 2; and Microsoft Office (CA 261) on Mondays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.

Two English courses will be offered in the evening during spring semester. Expository Writing (ENG 101) is scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at GCC; and Intro to Literature (ENG 102) will be offered on Mondays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Outreach Center.

Other courses coming up are: Water Quality Assessment (ENT 225), scheduled on Thursdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.; Environmental Science (NRW 106) on Tuesdays from 5 to 9 p.m.; Society and the Environment (HUM 210) on Mondays from 5 to 8 p.m.; and Cultural Geography (GEO 201) on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Other courses are: Intro to Criminal Justice (LE 110), meeting on Tuesdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.; Criminal Law (LE 210) on Thursdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.; Instrumental Music - Community Band (MUS 119) on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.; Pipes and Drums (MUS 120) on Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.; Intro to Philosophy (PHL 101) on Wednesdays from 5 to 8 p.m.; and Psychology of Human Relations (PSY 150) on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Additional courses are: Principles of Sociology (SOC 101), which will meet Tuesdays from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Grantsville Outreach Center; Introduction to Communication (SPC 101) on Wednesdays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Outreach Center; and Technical Theatre: Lighting, Costume and Sound (THE 106) on Mondays 6:35 to 8:05 p.m in the GCC auditorium.

In addition, three welding courses are still open for enrollment. These are: Fundamentals of Welding (WT 135) on Mondays; Intermediate Welding II on Tuesdays; and Intermediate Welding II on Thursdays. Each of these courses will meet in the shop area from 6 to 10 p.m.

Students may register for these evening courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., with extended hours until 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday beginning Jan. 14. For further information, persons may call 301-387-3044.

Driver Stopped Twice In Same Night By GCSO

An Oakland man was stopped by Garrett County sheriff's deputies twice in one night.

Thomas Melvin Cosner Sr., 59, was stopped shortly after midnight Sunday along Maryland Highway near Commerce Drive. He was placed under arrest after not completing field sobriety tests to the officer's satisfaction.

Cosner was charged with failure to drive right of center, driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), and driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI).

He was later released, police said.

At approximately 2:30 a.m., deputies attempted to make another traffic stop along Hutton Road in Hutton. The driver, Cosner, was finally stopped in Corinth, W.Va.

Cosner was taken into custody by Preston County sheriff's deputies. Charges are pending.

Tax Packages Mailed; E-Filing Is Encouraged

The Internal Revenue Service kicked off the 2002 tax-filing season for Maryland taxpayers last Wednesday, with the mail-out of more than 700,000 tax packages in Maryland — 40 million nationwide — and some 400,000 computer-filing brochures — 23 million nationwide — for taxpayers who, in previous years, used a computer to file. In all, IRS expects to receive about 2.6 million individual income tax returns from Marylanders — 132 million nationwide.

The agency is encouraging taxpayers and tax practitioners to take a fresh look at e-filing following a recent independent study spotlighting the program's growing popularity with users.

"The secret is getting out about e-file," said IRS Commissioner Charles O. Rossotti. "People who use it like it. It's fast, accurate, dependable, and delivers refunds in as little as 10 days."

More forms have been added this year to allow access to e-file for virtually all individual taxpayers. Nationwide an estimated 45 million taxpayers — up from 40 million last year — should use this safe, secure e-filing system, which delivers refunds in half the time of paper tax returns. When combined with direct deposit, using e-file delivers refunds in as few as 10 days.

"In Maryland last year, over 700,000 taxpayers used e-file," said Jim Dupree, a spokesman for the IRS in Maryland, "and we expect that figure to increase considerably this year given the [29] new forms that can now be e-filed."

Dupree encouraged taxpayers, and tax practitioners, who already use computers to consider e-filing. About 40 million tax returns are prepared on computers each year, but are still sent in on paper. With little effort, these returns could be sent electronically.

This year there are relatively few changes over the 2000 year tax returns, so filing should be easy for most taxpayers. There are, however, some changes as well as new and expanded services, features, and credits to help taxpayers take the headache out of tax time this year.

WHAT'S NEW FOR 2001?

•Tax Rate Reductions — The tax rates, above 15 percent, are lower by one-half a percentage point, reflecting a rate reduction that took effect July 1. Thus, these rates are 27.5%, 30.5%, 35.5%, and 39.1% for 2001.

Taxpayers also have the benefit of a 10% tax rate on the first $6,000 of taxable income ($10,000 for a head of household; $12,000 for a married couple). Most people received this benefit as an Advance Payment check during the year and need not do anything on their 2001 tax returns. Those who did not get the maximum amount ($300, $500, or $600, depending on filing status) may be able to claim a Rate Reduction Credit on their 2001 returns. Dependents, who were not eligible for the Advance Payments, should check the instructions for a Tax Computation Worksheet, which will give them the benefit of this 10% rate.

•Easier problem solving — A new feature on the 1040 form allows a taxpayer to designate a trusted family member, friend, or tax professional to talk directly to the IRS about any tax return processing questions. Last year, 37 million filers selected a smaller-scale paid-preparer-only version of this timesaving feature.

•Capital Gains Rate for Five-Year Property — The 10% maximum tax rate on capital gains dropped to 8% for property held more than five years. The 20% rate will drop to 18%, but only for property bought after 2000. Taxpayers have the option of treating investment property as though they sold and repurchased it at the beginning of 2001. They would thus begin a new holding period, with a view toward reporting future gains after 2005 as resulting from five-year property.

•Child Tax Credit — The maximum credit amount rises to $600 per qualifying child. The credit may now be refundable for any taxpayer if it exceeds the tax liability, with the refund generally limited to 10% of the amount by which the taxpayer's earned income exceeds $10,000. Some taxpayers with three or more children may qualify for a larger refundable amount.

•IRA Deductions — If covered by an employer retirement plan, these workers can deduct all their contributions to a traditional IRA: a single person or head of household with income under $33,000; a married person filing jointly or a qualifying widow(er) with income under $53,000. If their income is less than $10,000 above these amounts, they may deduct some of their contributions.

•Alternative Minimum Tax — The exemption rises to $35,750 (up $2,000 over 2000) for a single person or head of household, $49,000 (up $4,000 over 2000) for a married couple or a surviving spouse.

•Holocaust Victims — Restitution payments to those persecuted by the Nazis or their allies are excluded from income and from other tax computations.

•Standard Mileage Rates — Taxpayers may deduct 34.5 cents a mile for all business miles driven during 2001 (up from 32.5 cents a mile for 2000). Taxpayers may deduct travel related to qualifying medical or moving expenses at a rate of 12 cents per mile (up from 10 cents a mile for 2000).

•Student Loan Interest Deduction — The deduction limit is now $2,500 (up $500 over last year).

The IRS has also added other features to provide taxpayers and tax practitioners with better service. IRS adjusted its toll-free telephone service hours to provide assistance during periods of traditionally heaviest use. Taxpayers can get this help by calling 1-800-829-1040 weekdays, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Saturdays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Taxpayer offices across the country will provide face-to-face help for resolving taxpayer problems (see list below for taxpayer assistance offices in Maryland). Also, tax practitioners will have access to the new Practitioner Priority Service, a nationwide, toll-free technical support system by calling 1-866-860-4259 after Feb. 15.

Finally, as part of this year's efforts, the IRS is redesigning its web site at www.irs.gov. The new look, which will premier later this year, will add new navigation tools and useful information to help taxpayers visit what is already one of the world's busiest web sites.

Dupree urged Maryland taxpayers to get an early start on their taxes and not wait until the last minute.

"Our advice is simple," he said. "Start early, take your time, try e-filing, and remember we're here to help."

Earns Degree At Frostburg State

Jason Bernard, Glendale Road, was recently graduated summa cum laude (with top honors) from Frostburg State University. He majored in accounting and minored in business administration. He has been accepted into FSU's graduate program and will pursue a master's of business administration degree. He also plans to take the certified public accountant exam after meeting the 150-hour requirement.

Bernard, who is an honor graduate of Southern High School, is the son of Alvin and Nancy Bernard.

Deep Creek Area UM Churches Set Joint Ministries

The Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries, representing Paradise Methodist Church and Hoyes United Methodist Church, have combined their ministries for the winter season.

Combined Sunday worship services are being held at 10 a.m., and are immediately followed by Sunday school at 11 a.m., at Hoyes UM Church, located at the intersection of Friendsville and Hoyes roads across from Schoolhouse Earth. Sunday school classes are available for both adults and children, and are open to all. The Hoyes church also hosts a weekly "Companions in Christ" Bible study program from 7 to 8:30 p.m. each Wednesday evening.

The Deep Creek UM Youth Ministries group holds a monthly fellowship activity, with the upcoming gathering set for noon on Monday, Jan. 21, at the Sunset Ridge residence of church members Bob and Shannon Tinnell. The afternoon will include a pizza party, sled riding, and cookies and hot chocolate. Interested persons may call 301-387-4115 for directions. This and all future activities of the Deep Creek UM Youth Ministries group are open to all area youth.

STUDENTS VISIT NURSING HOMES — More than 120 students and staff from Broad Ford Elementary School visited the two Oakland nursing homes recently to deliver handmade cards and decorations and to sing Christmas carols to the residents. The entire school was involved in making the cards and ornaments as part of their character lesson for December on caring and giving. The classes that went to Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home were Mrs. Gilpin's fifth grade class and Mrs. Weimer's and Mrs. Wood's first grade classes. The Bobcat mascot uniform was worn by Samantha Gibson. Those visiting Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home were from Mrs. Britner's kindergarten class and Mrs. Stewart's and Mrs. Ellinger's second grade classes. The mascot's uniform was worn by Mike Kozier. Some of the students are pictured above singing for the residents.

Local Students Among Grads At Frostburg State

A number of Garrett County students were among the over 400 who were awarded degrees at the 119th winter commencement of Frostburg State University on Saturday, Dec. 22. The students completed requirements for their degrees either in December or last August at the end of the FSU summer session.

Earning master's degrees in business administration were Phillip L. Rodeheaver, Oakland, and Timothy B. Schwinabart, Swanton.

Completing master of education degrees were: Tara J. Braskey and James R. Friend Jr., Grantsville; and Michael T. Woods, Mtn. Lake Park.

Local students receiving bachelor of science degrees were: Emily A. Carey, Grantsville; Chad L. Montgomery, McHenry; Courtney L. Colaw, Meredith M. Martin, and Rita M. Powell, Mtn. Lake Park; Ruby L. King, Chad A. Maroney, Michelle C. Molz, Laura A. Reams, and Steven E. Shaffer, all of Oakland; and Jason A. Bernard, John C. Shaw III, and Christine L. Thompson, Swanton.

Jerry Bridges Will Speak At Mountaintop '02

Organizers of Living for Christ Conferences have announced plans for their 16th annual get-away conference, Mountaintop 2002, to be held March 1-3 at Lakeview Scanticon Resort in Morgantown, W.Va.

The featured speaker will be acclaimed author Jerry Bridges, who is on staff with The Navigators Collegiate Ministries in Colorado Springs, Colo. He is former vice president for corporate affairs and is now involved in staff training and also serves as a resource person to those ministering on university campuses. His seasoned teaching abilities make him sought after at conferences and retreats, both within and outside the United States.

"The events of September 11 have caused many of us to step back, to question our understanding of God, to ask tough questions," said Anne Robinson, co-founder of Mountaintop. "This year's conference, 'Trusting God When Life Hurts,' will help answer those questions. Jerry Bridges will talk about how we can know and understand God in a deep and meaningful way and how that knowledge can literally transform our lives.

"When he (Bridges) spoke at Mountaintop several years ago, his teaching had tremendous impact on our attendees. He is highly respected and trusted as a reliable teacher, a real source of spiritual wisdom who always leads his audiences to the source of all things right and true: God. We are thrilled that he's returning to our 2002 conference."

Bridges is the author of eight books, including The Pursuit of Holiness, which has sold over 1 million copies.

In addition to Jerry Bridges' teaching, Richard Allen Farmer, celebrated pianist and vocalist from Upland, Ind., will appear in concert at "A Festival in Celebration of the Sovereignty of God!" Joining him will be the international theatrical company Peculiar People.

Several seminars will expand the weekend: Time Management 101 (practical helps for maximizing one's time) presented by Richard Allen Farmer; The Jealousy of God (a look at a seldom-discussed attribute of God) led by New Martinsville, W.Va., businessman Bill Forbes; The Three Chairs (discovering one's true focus) by Mark Elfstrand, "Morning" host, WMBI FM, Chicago; and Drama and Storytelling in Worship (instructions in reaching others in a not-so-new medium) with Peculiar People's Ruth and Charlie Jones.

"This weekend is for those who want to get away from the rush and pressures of daily living for a time of deep renewal and refreshment," said Robinson. "With Jerry Bridges' engaging style and straightforward teaching in an atmosphere with folks from many denominations at a wonderful site, Mountaintop is the perfect place for that to happen!"

Registration fees, including all programs, two nights' lodging, and four meals, begin at $188 per person (for a room). Registration brochures and information are available through the nonprofit, nondenominational sponsor, Living for Christ Conferences, 169 East Thistle Place, New Martinsville, WV 26155; 304-455-5322; web site: www.living4Christ.com.

Arrest Results From Suspicious Person Complaint

A Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., man was arrested Saturday evening when Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Spring Glade Road in reference to a suspicious person complaint.

Deputies observed Robert Allen Kight, 49, slumped over the steering wheel of his 2001 Ford truck. According to police, after Kight failed field sobriety tests he was arrested.

A search of the vehicle revealed an alleged controlled dangerous substance and paraphernalia.

Kight was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI), driving while impaired (DWI), CDS possession, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Kight was released from the Garrett County Jail on $5,000 bond.

Natural "Medicine" for Heart Disease

According to a recent study, a natural compound known as coenzyme Q-10 or ubiquinone may be useful in a number of conditions involving the heart. Ubiquinone was first identified in 1957. Today, according to some reports, it is one of the "medicines" of choice in treating heart disease in Japan, where 250 different commercial ubiquinone products are available. These products are used for congestive heart failure, high blood pressure, and heart irregularities. Other uses include increasing exercise tolerance and protecting the heart from low oxygen blood levels. Although ubiquinone is not an herb, it is included in some herbal formulas.

One study of ubiquinone involved persons with mild to moderate heart failure. Improvements in edema, shortness of breath, and palpitations (being able to feel the heart beat) were reported. In another study of chronic heart disease patients, there was an increased ability to tolerate exercise with ubiquinone.

SPIRITUAL SURVIVAL

Scenes of winter can be breathtakingly crisp and surreal in their ghostly splendor. Yet, this season has another face. Sometimes, winter can bring unpleasant surprises such as frostbite and frozen pipes... but a little preparation can save a lot of aggravation.

For most of us life is generally pleasant, sometimes exceptionally exciting, but unwelcome events can catch us ill-prepared to deal with our emotions. Pent-up frustrations and unresolved bitterness can freeze out the warmth in our heart. How can we ensure our spiritual survival?

2 Timothy 4:2 advises... "be prepared in season and out of season." Begin this Sabbath to prepare your spirit for survival. At your local church or synagogue, you will find warmth and understanding. You will not only survive, it is likely you will grow

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE EMPTINESS

January 13, 2002

Background Scripture: Isaiah 55.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 85:4-9.

Last evening we went to a party and there was a magnificent buffet. I had some of this and some of that, in total quite a bit more than our normal evening meal. Still, when we got home from the party, I felt strangely unsatisfied. Instead of filling my emptiness, the great abundance of food left me feeling that I was lacking something.

Have you ever experienced something like that? Maybe not with food, but with some thing that promised to fill a void within you, but didn't? It is well known that many people who overeat are not satisfied with the quantities of food they ingest and it has been suggested that they eat to fill a void that cannot be filled by food. Some people drink to excess for the same reason. More of us, I suspect, try to fill the void with things.

The exiled Jews in Babylon were probably startled with Isaiah's message: "Ho, every one who thirsts, come to the waters; and he who has no money, come, buy and eat" (55:1). He is talking about the basic necessities of life—water, milk, wine, bread—but the exiled Jews are probably more affluent than they were in Judah. Some scholars believe that it was in Babylon that the Jews learned to be merchants. They had come to Babylon as exiles, but they prospered there.

'Money Theism'

Still, for all of their success and ease in Babylon, many of them felt a sense of emptiness that the 'good life' there could not fill. Isaiah knows this and he goes on to say, "Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy?"

These words, I believe, are just a relevant for us today. Some of us are 'moneytheists'—money and the things money buys frequently take the place of God. Despite what we may profess on Sundays, it is that to which we look for our help, salvation and fullness that constitutes the object of our true faith. Our society is fascinated today with the gospel of Consumerism. Instead of the Kingdom of God, the 'smart money' today is on a 'global market.' Does not Isaiah also speak to our complacency?

God's call is one of grace. It is offered to those who have "no money", the true essentials of life are offered "without money and without price." That which we can never earn from God, He gives us as a gift. All that is required is an awareness that the 'emptiness' we experience can be filled only by his grace and a willingness to accept that gift. That is the irony isn't it? We try to buy things to fill the void that only the free gift from God can fill. This is the "God-shaped blank" that H.G. Wells said is in every person's heart.

Sins of 'Good Men'

The good news of restoration which Isaiah brings here is also a call to repentance. "...let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord... for he will abundantly pardon" (55:7). Although God offers his free gift to all, it cannot be received by the unrepentant. Very often this is because the unrepentant does not even realize he or she has anything of which to repent. Reinhold Niebuhr once said that much evil is not done by evil men, but by good men who do not know they are not good. We do not know the depths of our own sinfulness because we generally do not think about it. "It is for want of thinking that we are undone" says Thomas Wilson.

The good news of God—'Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price'—always comes with a call to examine ourselves by the teachings of Jesus Christ, not the standards of society. As far as society is concerned, we may be OK, fine or even outstanding. But we must remember that God's thoughts "are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, says the Lord" (55:8).

So, now is the time for us "return to the Lord," even if we didn't realize that we had been away from him. "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near" (55:6). God is always near, always to be found, but there are times in our lives when we can be more aware that He is ready and waiting to fill our emptiness.

Explorer Program To Provide Police Work Introduction

The local Maryland State Police detachment will introduce its Explorer Program for teens and young adults ages 14-18 who may be interested in law enforcement careers during a 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 17, meeting at Barrack W, located at the junction of Friendsville Road and Garrett Highway. The program pairs youth with law enforcement professionals, and provides numerous opportunities to participate in a varicty of service-oriented, learning, and social activities.

This month's 90-minute introductory session will begin in the barrack's conference room with refreshments, followed by a tour of the facility and a discussion of upcoming Explorer Program events and activities. Attendance at the initial meeting does not require further participation, but participants are asked to bring $7 to cover the program's annual membership fee in case they decide to join. Parents are welcome to attend the introductory meeting as well.

For further information, those interested in participating can speak to their high school guidance counselor, or call Barrack W at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101 on weekdays from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. and ask to speak to communications supervisor Kevin Mack.

McHenry MSP Barrack Notes Dec. Activity

Maryland State Police Barrack W, located in McHenry, has released its police activity summary for the month of December.

The personnel assigned to the local barrack logged 1,608 calls. They were responsible for 16 arrests of adults on criminal charges, none of which were drug-related. One juvenile was arrested on criminal charges, none on drug charges. Eight guns were seized over the course of the month.

Troopers charged seven suspects with driving while under the influence. Twenty-seven vehicle accidents were investigated, none of which resulted in a fatality. There were 271 speeding tickets issued, 147 of which were for speeds in excess of 65 miles per hour along Interstate 68. An additional 224 warnings were issued to speeding drivers. Troopers issued 59 seat belt citations, and no citations for non-use or improper use of child safety seat restraints.

Troopers responded to five domestic violence-related cases, closing each of them.

To contact the local MSP barrack for general information or to request non-emergency police assistance, persons may call 301-387-1101. All emergencies should be reported by dialing 9-1-1.

Library's Teen Book Club Sets Jan. Discussion

The Teen Book Club of the Ruth Enlow Library has chosen to discuss Stargirl, a young adult novel by Newbery medalist Jerry Spinelli, during its upcoming meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 19, in the Oakland library. Any youth ages 13-18 who are interested in participating can call or stop by the library at Second and Center streets to reserve a copy of the book. (A new book discussion group is currently being formed for 10- through 12-year-old children, and will be publicized as details become available.)

"For our January meeting we will add a ukulele-strumming, pioneer-costumed sophomore named Stargirl Caraway to our list," library associate and Teen Book Club facilitator Keela Pfaff said of the 186-page novel. "Spinelli evokes the thrill of first love as narrator Leo Borlock falls for the new girl in town; however, this is not the typical 'boy-meets-girl' story. The object of Leo's affections is Stargirl, a girl who seems to shun conformity at every chance.

"The students at Mica High in the Arizona desert are at first puzzled by this girl, who leaves special presents on everyone's desk and sings "Happy Birthday" to students in the lunch room. Gradually, Stargirl wins everyone over with her easy-going manner, and the Mica High students are swept up in Stargirl's enthusiasm. She even secures a spot on the cheerleading squad--the ultimate symbol of high school acceptance.

"However, this enchantment with Stargirl begins to crumble as she is suddenly shunned for everything that makes her different. In an attempt to save his reputation and help Stargirl regain her popularity, Leo pleads with her to become the one thing that [illegible] her—normal[illegible]!

The library's [illegible] Club meets every [illegible] to discuss a popular young adult novel chosen by the members. Past club discussions have involved stories covering a wide range of topics and [illegible] modern [illegible] tions, [illegible] cerebral palsy, [illegible] third children in a future society, and a historical mystery story.

Persons may call the library at 301-334-3996 for more information on the Teen Book Club.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I recently inherited several dozen fruit jars that were used on our family ranch during the 1930s. They are various shapes and sizes. Some have turned wonderful shades of both purple and green because of age. Have older fruit jars become collectible, and is there any way that I can date the ones that I have? — Susan in Houston

A. Although fruit jars were first used in America as early as 1830, they did not become commonplace until the decades that followed the Civil War era of the 1860s. Collectors are intrigued by early jars, especially those that have unusual closures, shapes or colors. More than 5,000 different types and variations of fruit jars are known to exist.

The rarest are black glass jars that were crafted in New England during the early Victorian era. Others of special interest include a cobalt Millville container and a scarce amber jar issued by Van Vliet. Both jars often sell at well above the $5,000 mark. Current shop prices have included a Gem midget, $45; a Eureka, circa 1870, $125; an Atlas Mason with unique sunflower design, $70; and a black jar, probably made in Philadelphia during the 1840s, $3,750.

When buying fruit jars, check carefully for any chips or cracks. Pay close attention to the lids or closures. As jar manufacturers tried to improve upon their seals, designs changed. Some of the more desirable lids are jars with tapered necks to accommodate glass stoppers, ones with threaded necks and zinc lids, and glass lids with metal screw bands. Always look for the odd or unusual.

The revised fifth edition of "1000 Fruit Jars" by Bill Schroeder (Collector Books, $5.95) has just been issued and is available at most larger bookstores. It is one of the better reference books for collectors and is especially helpful for identifying and determining the values of American fruit jars.

Paw's corner

by Sam Mazzotta

Last month, I was thrilled to attend the AKC/Eukanuba American Dog Classic in Orlando, Fla. This was the first national event ever sponsored by the American Kennel Club, and dog lovers from all over turned out to see champion breeds show their stuff.

Only the top 20 competitors in each breed of dog were invited to the Classic, making for really tight competition in each of the 10 arenas set up in and around the T.D. Waterhouse Center, as well as an eye-popping array of well-groomed canines.

As someone with a bigger soft spot for mutts than purebreds, I entered the competition area with some trepidation. Would I be met by snooty dog owners who had no time for a lowly reporter? Would any of the many varieties of dogs passing each other on the way to their next competition snarl or snap at each other? Would I really be able to figure out just how the judges scored each competitor?

Surprisingly, all my fears were unfounded. I met owners and AKC club members who were incredibly friendly — despite the high-stakes drama in the ring — and who were as willing to tell people about their specific breeds of dog as I was to find out about them. The canines — experienced show dogs, all of them — passed each other without so much as a sniff. And my questions about scoring were answered by a patient aficionado during a preliminary event.

In short, I had a blast. I recommend that anyone wanting to bring a dog into their home first visit an AKC-sponsored dog show — small, local competitions are held throughout the year, across the country. You'll have the opportunity to talk with owners about specific breeds, and get in touch with reputable breeders.

Special Times Just Right — the bichon frise who won Best of Show at Westminster in 2000 — took Best of Show at the Classic, as well. But what I remember most about this breed was visiting the AKC club's table before the show and being "assimilated" by one of these lovable, furry white dogs.

Futterman leaving Judging Amy for family

By Taylor Michaels

Dan Futterman

Q: Will Vincent of Judging Amy be coming back? If not, that's a shame. –Jeanine via e-mail.

A: Don't hold your breath. Actor Dan Futterman and his wife, who make their permanent home on the East Coast, welcomed a baby daughter last spring, and the actor – who has a healthy stage and independent film career going – opted to give up his very popular role on this hit Los Angeles series in exchange for more quality time with his family. Occasional guest appearances are not out of the question, however.

Q: Could you please tell me what happened to Alan Autry from In the Heat of the Night? Did he ever play football for the University of Alabama? –Jim Dougherty, Philadelphia.

A: Autry, 49, began serving a four-year term as mayor of Fresno, Calif., last January. He played football at his alma mater, the University of the Pacific in Stockton, Calif., before being drafted by the Green Bay Packers, for whom he played in the 1975 and 1976 seasons.

Q: Did the actor who played the bully Scut Farcus in A Christmas Story grow up to play Dave on Titus? They look so much alike! –Terri VanSchyndel, Abrams, Wisc.

A: As a matter of fact, yes. Titus co-star Zack Ward, now 28, was only 9 when he worked on A Christmas Story, his movie debut.

Q: What other shows has Paige Turco done before The Agency? I know that I have seen her somewhere before. –B. Keene via e-mail.

A: Turco, 36, has been a cast member on Guiding Light (1987-89), All My Children (1989-91), Winnetka Road, American Gothic, NYPD Blue (1996-97) and Party of Five (1997-98).

Q: Tell me about the guy who plays Bob on Becker. –David H. Troutman, Port Charlotte, Fla.

A: Best known for his recurring role as Willy the Snitch on Buffy the Vampire Slayer, character actor Saverio Guerra previously played Sammy Feathers on EZ Streets and Caesar Santos in Temporarily Yours. He also has appeared on Mad About You, Caroline in the City, Homicide: Life on the Street and Public Morals.

Q: Can you please identify the actress who plays the judge in the Perry Mason TV movie The Case of the Maligned Mobster? She has played a judge before, I believe, and resembles Jane Russell to me. By the way, what is Miss Russell doing now if she is still alive? –Chuck, an avid reader in Toledo, Ohio.

A: Actress Betsy Jones-Moreland, who played Judge Elinor Harrelson in the TV movie to which you refer, played similar jurists in no fewer than six other movies in the Mason series.

As for Russell, now 80, at last report she was making her home in Arizona with her third husband.

In Focus

Rudy Boesch, the former Navy SEAL who shot to fame in the original Survivor series, returns as a camp commander in producer Mark Burnett's Combat Missions, premiering Wednesday, Jan. 16, on USA Network.

The show features four teams of highly trained men competing in the Mojave Desert. Losing a mission means discharging one man from the team.

Each of the 15 episodes features combat training, hostage rescues and enemy attacks.

Wednesday

Richard Chamberlain (right), in his first sitcom role, guest stars as Mr. Wick's (Craig Ferguson) mother on Drew Carey Wednesday on ABC.

Trivia

People magazine named Jon Bon Jovi (Ally McBeal) one of its 50 most beautiful people in 1986 and sexiest rocker in 2001.

Madeleine Stowe (The Magnificent Ambersons) – before she became famous – pretended to be a reporter so she could meet John Travolta.

Chi McBride (Boston Public) played eight characters in the play Nagataki Sake. It was directed by Robert Downey Sr.

John Turturro (Monday Night Mayhem) is the son of a former amateur boxer, and his dad taught him how to spar.

Trivia

In Focus

Kevin James (The King of Queens) hosts the 28th annual People's Choice Awards Sunday, Jan. 13, on CBS.

Unlike awards chosen by peers, the People's Choice Awards are chosen by regular folks. The Gallup Organization polls the public about favorite TV shows, movies and music.

Among those nominated this year are Drew Carey, Kelsey Grammer and Ray Romano for favorite male TV performer, and Shrek for favorite film.

New REL Section Features Local, Family History

The Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County has assembled a new collection titled "Genealogy and Local Information." All library materials which would interest family history and local history researchers are now conveniently located in one section of the Oakland facility. The new collection features items concerning Maryland, West Virginia, and some Pennsylvania history, plus instructional guides for genealogical research.

"Any person conducting research on Garrett County and the surrounding area will benefit from a visit to the library's collection," said library associate Keela Pfaff.

Published county histories are available for Garrett, Allegany, Tucker, Preston, Randolph, Barbour, and Summers counties, plus many more. Small publications can also be found for towns including Oakland, Grantsville, Deer Park, and Crellin, and the collection contains the 1957 Code of the Public Laws of Garrett County.

Recent additions to the Genealogy and Local Information collection include the following guides: Organizing Your Family History Search by Sharon DeBartolo Carmack; The Genealogist's Computer Companion by Rhonda R. McClure; Map Guide to the U.S. Federal Censuses by William Dollarhide; and A Genealogist's Guide to Discovering Your Female Ancestors by Sharon DeBartolo Carmack.

The library attempts to collect all published materials of local interest. Several local family histories have been donated over the years and a surname file is available to help put researchers in contact with one another.

A variety of non-book items such as maps, vertical file materials, and microfilmed records are also available for research purposes. The Oakland library has a map of the Garrett County military lots surveyed in 1787 and handed out to the Maryland Revolutionary War veterans in honor of their military service, and another map showing the Indian trails that formerly ran through the county.

The library also purchases all Garrett County census records as they are published. Although the 1790 Maryland census records are located in book form, all other published census records are available on microfilm. Researchers can also consult the full run of The Republican (1877-present), which is housed at the library. All but the most current issues are on microfilm.

"The Internet has become an indispensable resource for genealogists, most of whom must conduct research from a distance," Pfaff said, noting that six computer terminals with free Internet access are available at the Oakland library. For information on how to obtain vital records in each of the fifty states, persons may visit www.vitalrec.com. General information on genealogy and local history in counties across the country is making its way on-line through the work of volunteers at www.usgenweb.org. Researchers may also want to visit the web sites of the National Archives at www.mdarchives.state.md.us, and the Enoch Pratt Free Library of Baltimore City at www.prattt.lib.md.us.

To visit the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County on-line, persons may go to www.relib.net. In the near future the library's holdings will be available in an on-line catalog. For more information, persons may call the Oakland library at 301-334-3996.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption from tax sale on the following properties in Garrett County, State of Maryland, sold by Patty L. Glover, Collector of Taxes for the State of Maryland and the County of Garrett to Plaintiff, Bid Low, Inc. The parcels of land are described as follows:

Parcel 1 - All that parcel of land assessed to Clarence E. Whitacre and Naomi Y. Whitacre, situate in Election District No. 10, containing 0.33 acre, more or less, and described in deed for Orval C. Uphold and Grace Uphold, husband and wife, to Clarence Everett Whitacre and Naomi Yvonne Whitacre, dated April 3, 1963, and recorded April 4, 1963, in Liber No. 247, folio 408, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel 2 - All that parcel of land assessed to William J. Stump, situate in Election District No. 10, containing 8.41 acres, more or less, and described in deed from W. Dwight Stover, Personal Representative of the Estate of Elsie G. Rishell, to William James Stump, dated November 13, 1989, and recorded November 22, 1989, in Liber 540, folio 228, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel 3 - All that parcel of land assessed to James G. Brandlen, situate in Election District No. 4, containing 8276.4 square feet, more or less, and described in deed from James G. Brandlen and Betty J. Fazenbaker to James G. Brandlen dated January 6, 1981, and recorded January 7, 1981, in Liber 415, folio 507, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Complaint states among other things, that the amounts necessary for redemption have not been paid. The sale was on June 19, 2001, and more than six (6) months have passed since that date.

It is thereupon this 20th day of December 2001, that the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland,

ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in one newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for three consecutive weeks, on or before the 11th day of January 2002, warning all persons interested in the properties to appear in this Court by the 18th day of February 2002, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint or thereafter the final judgment will be entered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the Plaintiff to said properties in fee simple, title free of all liens and encumbrances.

STANDING TIMBER FOR SALE
Contract: PG-05-02
Piney Powerline

The Maryland State Forest & Park Service is offering for sale the following timber on 29 acres of Compartment 46 of Garrett State Forest. Said timber is estimated to cut 179,602 Bd. Ft. of live hardwood sawtimber, more or less, according to the International ¼" Saw Kerf Rule, along with 128 standard cords of pulpwood. All tallied trees 11" DBH and larger with at least one 16' log to an 8" top DIB with less than 50% defect were tallied as sawtimber.

Timber is located approximately 0.3 mile east of Piney Mtn. Road, immediately north of the powerline. Access will be by way of a planned skid trail to be entering Piney Mtn. Rd. approximately 100 yards north of the powerline. Timber is offered for sale subject to the following conditions:

1. Timber will be shown at 9:00 a.m. on Thursday, January 24, 2002. Interested persons should meet at the intersection of Sang Run Rd. and Piney Mtn. Rd., at the above date and time.

2. Contract/Bid Forms will be available at the showing or from Potomac-Garrett State Forest Hdqtrs., 222 Herrington Ln., Oakland, MD 21550, 301-334-2038.

3. A Security Bond in the amount of ten percent of Bid amount must be posted upon submission of the bid to the Maryland State Forest & Park Service.

4. The operator must be a registered Forest Product Operator to be awarded successful bidding.

5. A Performance Bond in the amount of ten percent of bid amount must be posted upon acceptance of the contract by the State of Maryland. The Security Bond may be applied to cover the Performance Bond.

6. Bids will be received until 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, February 7, 2002 at which time they will be opened publicly.

7. Bidder may pay 50% of bid price on acceptance of Contract, with the remaining 50% payable within 90 calendar days from bid acceptance. If Buyer selects this option, the delayed payment must be covered by a payment surety bond in form acceptable to the State.

8. All timber volumes noted in this offering are estimates. Parties bidding on this timber should determine such volumes to their own satisfaction. No adjustments on the basis of volumes will be made with buyers.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park will hold a Public Hearing pursuant to Section 4.04 of Article 66 B and Section 1103 of the Mountain Lake Park Zoning Ordinance for the repeal of the existing Zoning Ordinance and the adoption of a new Zoning Ordinance. The adoption of the proposed new Zoning Ordinance is pursuant to the action of the Mayor and Town Council taken December 19, 2001.

A fair summary of the proposed Ordinance is as follows:

An Ordinance regulating and restricting the height and size of buildings and other structures; establishing building lines, minimum frontages; depths and areas of lots, the size of yards, courts, and other open spaces; the density of population and the location and use of buildings, signs, structures and land for trade, industry, residence, recreation, public activities and all other purposes within the Town of Mountain Lake Park Maryland; and dividing the Town into Districts for regulating the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings, structures or land; and providing for the administration and enforcement thereof, as said Districts are shown on a map, adopted as part of the original Ordinance and entitled: "Zoning Map of Mountain Lake Park, Maryland." In particular, the new Ordinance adds a new Zoning District to the Town known as a Preservation District which is designed to preserve the residential and/or historical character of neighborhoods to which it is applied as well as to preserve the uniqueness of any part of the Town of Mountain Lake Park.

A complete copy of the proposed Zoning Ordinance for Mountain Lake Park is available for review by the public at Town Hall and may be viewed by members of the public during business hours from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Copies of the Ordinance are available at a small cost reflecting the Town's costs to prepare them.

Notice is given that the Public Hearing on this Ordinance will be held on January 30, 2002, at 6:00 p.m. in the Town Hall located at 1007 Allegheny Drive, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland.

By Authority of the Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park
By its Town Attorney,
Robert E Watson

JUST TWO OF SANTA'S HELPERS — About 70 students in the Kitzmiller After-School Program recently decorated fruit bags and delivered them to more than 50 residents. Josh and Justin Nasselrodt are shown above delivering bags to Kitzmiller residents Shirley and Velma Anderson. The students rode through town on a hay wagon, singing carols as they delivered their gifts.

STUDENTS NAMED AT KITZMILLER — Students from Kitzmiller Elementary School were recently chosen as students of the month for November and December. These students were chosen by their teachers for displaying the outstanding character traits of caring and giving. Parents also attended an awards assembly at which the children were recognized. In the front row, from the left, are Logan Tichinel, kindergarten; Thomas Beamen, first grade; and Destiny Lloyd, second grade. In the back row are Daniel Lambka, third grade; Meghan Brady, fourth grade; and Tori Tichinel, fifth grade.

METTIKI DONATES TO SCHOOL—Kitzmiller Elementary School received a $1,000 donation from Mettiki Coal Corporation and the Maryland Coal Association. "This generous donation will be matched by a School Enhancement Program, which will enable our school to purchase a large amount of quality literature for our library," commented Barbara Baker, Kitzmiller's principal. Baker is shown above receiving the donation from Dave Thomas, Mettiki's corporate affairs manager.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Air Force Airman Joseph B. Burns has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training and special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Burns, who is the son of Larry Burns of Swanton, is a 2001 graduate of Westmar High School, Lonaconing.

Introductory Camera Course Slated At GCC

"Getting to Know Your Camera," a three-session evening course, is set for 6 to 9 p.m. on two Tuesdays and one Thursday, Jan 24, 29, and 31. The course will provide knowledge of how a camera works, and students will learn how to choose a camera (mid-range, advanced range, and single lens reflex) and film, and how to load the film, and will discuss tips on camera care and maintenance.

The course will be taught by photographer Torrey Witt. Students may bring their own camera and one roll of film to the first class, or attend the class prior to purchasing a camera in order to learn what would best meet their needs.

For further information on the course, persons may call the GCC Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080 or 301-387-3089.

Masons Set To Install Officers

Oakland Lodge 192 AF&AM will hold its installation of officers ceremony at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 12, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, located at the corner of First and Liberty streets in Oakland.

Most Worshipful Grand Master Bennie G. Owens and his Grand Line of Officers will install the new officers for 2002.

The installation is open, and members, family, and friends are invited to attend.

Temporary Rent Help Available

Garrett County Community Action announced this week that Rental Assistance Program (RAP) funds are available.

The program is designed to provide temporary rental assistance to those who are experiencing a reduction of income due to layoffs, reduction of work hours, or medical reasons, according to Yolanda Massey, Community Action RAP coordinator. For families that qualify, the funding may pay a portion of their monthly rents for up to six months.

Assistance depends on family size and requires a satisfactory unit inspection by Community Action's housing quality staff. Families must also show sufficient income to pay their share of the rent and household expenses.

For more information, persons may contact Massey at 301-334-9431, ext. 165. Applications are available at Community Action's Housing Services, located along Center Street in Oakland. The office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Burglars Strike Three Oakland Establishments

After-hour burglaries early Tuesday morning of three Oakland establishments — the Elks Lodge, Grand Central Station, and the Trackside restaurant — appear to be related, according to the Oakland Police Department. The public's assistance is sought as authorities continue to investigate the three incidents, which took place within a few blocks of each other.

Oakland police officers were first summoned to check an activated burglar alarm at approximately 2 a.m. at the Elks Lodge, located at 100 Elk Street. They discovered that a basement door had apparently been kicked open, and approximately $130 was missing from a glass jar kept in the bar area. Although some tracks leading from the lodge were visible in the snow, the trail ended on bare ground just inside a patch of nearby woods.

Later that same morning the proprietor of Grand Central Station at 312 South Third Street reported that her business had been burglarized during the night. A back door had been forcibly opened on the Fourth Street side of the business, and the perpetrator(s) took approximately $75 from an open cash register at the front counter, and entered an office and removed a container that held approximately $300 in cash from an unlocked safe.

Shortly after receiving that call, police were notified that the Trackside bar at 308 South Second Street had been burglarized as well. A backdoor located adjacent to the parking lot showed signs of being jimmied open, and the locked cash register, which was empty at the time, was severely damaged. However, a combined total of approximately $560 was determined to be missing from other locations inside the premises.

"These incidents underscore the importance of business owners and managers getting their day's receipts to their bank each and every day," Oakland Police chief John Sines remarked. "It can seem inconvenient, but it would go a long way to foiling a burglar and protecting your business's assets."

Persons with information on any of these incidents are asked to call the Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100. Anonymity is guaranteed.

SOME OF THE BEST BUCKWHEAT CAKES In the land are those prepared by Dottie Uphold of Englander's Grill in Oakland, and because of that fact Dottie has been invited to supervise preparation of said cakes for the annual Legislative Breakfast in our state's capital, set for Friday, Jan. 25, at the ritzy Loews Annapolis Hotel. Well over 400 people intend or have been invited to attend the event, including all of the members of the Maryland Legislature. Keynote speaker for the breakfast will be Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. A reception, expected to be attended by over 600 people, will be held the previous evening at the same location. (See stories about both events in this section.) Dottie said that she will not actually do the cooking of the cakes, but will mix the batter and instruct the head chef of the Lowes Hotel how to bake them. "It's quite an honor," Dottie said, "but I'm petrified. Can you imagine little old me telling the Loews Annapolis Hotel chef how to cook?" (You'll do fine, Dottie. Just fine.)

Sheriff Updates Commissioners On Department

The Garrett County commissioners heard an update from the Sheriff's Office this week. Sheriff Dick Sanders reported on several items, including the new pension plan, new trainees, the work release program, and the new detention center. The sheriff also went over data on the department's activities for last year.

Sanders said the new pension plan, recently approved by the commissioners, would benefit the county. The plan, which will enable county officers to retire after 25 years of service, instead of 30, will help the department retain employees, attract more applicants, and attract a broader base of applicants, saving the county money in the long run, according to the sheriff.

Under the plan, officers will be able to draw 50 percent of the final average of monthly compensation. Approximately 12 employees have more than 10 years of service.

"It's good for the county," he said. "The county will be much further ahead." The sheriff added that most of his officers are local and are involved in various community activities, including 4-H, Little League, and the county fair.

Commissioner Fred Holliday asked if new trainees had to pay the county back for their training if they decide not to work in the county.

Sanders said all trainees had to sign two-year agreements to stay. If they leave, they have to reimburse the county for their training. Applicants must also take both a polygraph test and a stress analysis, he added, which makes them more closely screened than they would be at some other police departments, including the State Department of Corrections.

The sheriff reported that two openings for officers had recently been filled in his department. The trainees, a female Northern

Lt. Gov. Townsend To Attend Reception, Speak At Breakfast

The Mountain Maryland PACE Committee announced this week that Maryland Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend will be in attendance at the PACE Reception in Annapolis on the evening of January 24 at the Loews Hotel. In addition, she has agreed to be the keynote speaker for the Legislative Breakfast the following morning, January 25, also at the Loews Annapolis Hotel.

Committee co-chairs Cristine Kepple Sweitzer, Garrett County, and John Korpela, Allegany County, indicated that final arrangements are well under way for both events. In addition to the Lt. Governor, members of the Maryland Senate and House of Delegates, along with the senior staff of the governor's cabinet, are expected to attend. The pair stresses the need for interested locals to purchase their tickets as soon as possible for the events. A single price of $75 admits one to both the PACE Reception and the Legislative Breakfast.

Tickets may be purchased by calling the Allegany County Department of Economic Development at 301-777-5967. The committee noted that overnight accommodations are no longer available at the Loews Annapolis Hotel, but arrangements have been made for special rates at the Annapolis Marriott Waterfront, which can be reached at 800-336-0072.

SEVERAL ISSUES TO BE DISCUSSED

The Mountain Maryland PACE Committee has re-emphasized the importance of the two scheduled events in Annapolis with regard to local pending projects and funding. "In the past the Allegany County PACE Reception and the Garrett County Legislative Breakfast have been instrumental in attracting millions of dollars of state investments in projects for economic development," stated a committee spokesperson.

For the 2002 Mountain Maryland events, the committee is emphasizing seven critical issues, projects, and funding requests. They include: One Maryland Infrastructure Funding for Fiscal Year 2003; North/South Interstate Corridor Project; Adventure Sports Complex; Oakland By-Pass Design Funding; Adequate State K-12 Education Funding; Adequate Funding for Garrett Community College and Allegany College of Maryland; and Funding for the Allconet2 Telecom Project.

BREAKFAST GIVEAWAYS

All of those in attendance at the Legislative Breakfast on January 25 will be eligible to win a variety of prizes that will be awarded via a drawing. Those prizes include: a $500 gift certificate from Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations toward a stay in one of its properties; fly-fishing instruction for two by Gary Yoder; two weekend stays for two people at the Wisp Resort, with golf and/or ski passes; one night's stay and a meal at Grantsville's historic Casselman Inn, donated by the Grantsville Mayor and Town Council; green fees and cart rentals for two foursomes at the Oakland Golf Club course; four free tickets for the Western Maryland Scenic Railroad; a weekend stay for two at the Braddock Best Western, including breakfasts and dinners; Rocky Gap Murder Mystery package for two, including two-night stay;

Caution Urged When Venturing Onto Lake Ice

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has issued a reminder to winter season lake users to use extreme caution when venturing on or near the ice covering Deep Creek Lake State Park and all other ice-covered bodies of water.

"Although the lake may be frozen, ice thickness can vary widely," stated a DNR spokesperson. "Stream run-off, sunlight, snow cover, roadway run-off, and wildlife activity can all contribute to ice deterioration. Fluctuations in the lake's water level can also impact lake stability."

Ice fishing is an especially popular activity on Deep Creek Lake, and anglers should be aware that snow cover could hide unsafe ice. Traveling on lake ice, whether by walking or cross-country skiing, can also present potentially dangerous situations. Strong sunlight can melt the ice near the shoreline or around obstructions through radiant

Man Jailed For Drugs After Flipping SUV

An Illinois man who escaped serious injury during a single-vehicle crash early Sunday morning near Gorman was subsequently arrested when Maryland State Police troopers learned that he was wanted in Missouri, and after a search uncovered a large quantity of suspected marijuana hidden inside his vehicle.

Recardo Rydell Bonner, 32, East St. Louis., was driving eastbound on George Washington Highway at 1:31 a.m. when he lost control of his vehicle on the snow-covered roadway east of Callicoat Road near Gorman. The 1998 Lincoln Navigator overturned three times, went over an embankment, and

County, Oakland Officials Discuss Tax Differential

The Garrett County commissioners, the Oakland mayor, and the town council of Oakland met this week to discuss the tax differential issue. As was reported last week, the county and the town have disagreed for several years on what formula to use to compensate Oakland for services the town provides.

Town officials believe that Oakland residents are having to pay for these "parallel services" twice, through both town and county taxes, and have asked the county, based on the town's formula, for either a $494,046 payment or a 44-cent property tax rate reduction for next year.

However, using an entirely different methodology, the county maintains that the town is not entitled to anywhere near that amount. The meeting was scheduled in an attempt to resolve the issue before the two governments approved their budgets.

"We still feel that [our] formula is the proper for-

Messenger Receives 20 Years For Manslaughter, Assault

Michael Todd Messenger, 35, Davis, W.Va. was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court this week by Judge Jim Sherbin to 10 years in the State Department of Corrections on one count of first-degree voluntary manslaughter, 10 years on one count of first-degree assault, and 10 years on a second count of first-degree assault.

The assault charges are to run concurrently, but consecutively with the manslaughter charge, which brings his total sentence to be spent in the DOC to 20 years, said Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney.

Messenger pleaded guilty to the charges back in October. He had originally been charged in an 11 count indictment, which included first degree murder, four counts of first degree attempted murder, four counts of first degree assault, one count of use of a handgun in the commission of a felony, and one count of malicious destruction of property.

The manslaughter charge involves the shooting death of a 21-year-old Mtn. Lake Park woman, Sharyn Burch. The first-degree assaults stem from another female patron and the bartender of Shorty's Bar and Grill, Gortner.

Messenger had been involved in an altercation in the bar the evening of Feb. 12, 2001, and had been removed from the establishment. He had reportedly broken a window at the bar and had gone to his pickup truck, when the bartender, Burch, and three other patrons went outside. Shortly after, Messenger reportedly fired a number of shots from his truck and fled the scene. Messenger was arrested early the next day at his residence in Davis.

Burch was shot in the abdomen during the 11:10 p.m. incident and later died at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Thayer Welch said in October after Messenger's trial that her decision to accept his plea to the manslaughter charge was "based on [her] considerations, including the expected testimony of numerous witnesses, the desire to limit appeal issues, and the effect of a lengthy trial on the victim's family."

Burch, the mother of one child, was the daughter of Michael Bruce Burch, Deer Park, and Carol Jane Metz, College Park, and the granddaughter of Jerry and Jane Burch, Mt. Storm, W.Va., and William and Vennie Metz, College Park.

Members of Burch's family were at the sentencing hearing Tuesday and were given an opportunity to address the court on her behalf.

"In every case," said William Ferry of the state's attorney's office, "the victim has an opportunity to speak," in accordance with Maryland law.

Messenger will not be eligible for parole for at least 10 years, half of his sentence, said Ferry.

Fair Board, Officials Discuss Building Multi-Purpose Hall

Members of the Garrett County Fair Board met with the county commissioners and other local officials last Thursday evening at the Mary Browning Senior Center to discuss plans for a 30,000 square foot multi-purpose exhibit hall at the fairgrounds.

Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action, said his office's role was to facilitate the project to the point where fund raising could begin. But first, he said, the fair board needed to have an opportunity to comment on what it would like to see in the building and to voice its concerns.

"Without your input," he told members, "we won't get very far with this project."

"This could be a tremendous asset to the county as a whole and the fair board," said Commissioner Fred Holliday. The commissioners' inspiration for the project was the Howard County fairground, which always seems to be hosting an event, he said.

The project's architect, Doug Devlin, a former resident who has worked with Community Action on other projects, said he grew up with the fair. "We're not interested in changing the tradition of the fairgrounds," he said, "just enhancing, building, and complementing existing uses."

The architect added, however, that the structure should do more than just provide a roof over a variety of activities, such as indoor soccer, dances, trade shows, and weddings, that could generate income. It should project an image and create interest, yet blend in with the surrounding area. "This is a capital investment," he said, "You only get to do it once, so we should try to do it right. The idea is not to get hemmed in. The key is flexibility."

Devlin's preliminary plan shows a green and tan barn-like building, with a central, three-story high arena, with seating and a variety of smaller rooms along the sides, including a kitchen, offices, dressing rooms, and restroom facilities. The tentative site for the structure would be where the 4-H exhibit building/stage currently stands, with large doors opening onto the center of the fairgrounds. The Quonset huts and other structures at the grounds would remain. Devlin said, however, that his plan was flexible and asked for members' suggestions.

J.R. Glotfelty, president of the fair board, said board members had reviewed the plan and had toured Allegany County's new fair exhibit hall, noting several concerns with both structures.

The board's main concern, the president said, was removal of the old 4-H building, possibly displacing 4-H members, as well as other faithful exhibitors.

"We want to be more accommodating to those who have always been there,"

Black Bear Bill Hearing Slated

Delegate George Edwards announced today that the Environmental Matters Committee of the Maryland General Assembly will hold a public hearing on House Bill 10. The hearing will be held in Annapolis on Wednesday, Jan. 23, in the Lowe Building, Room 160, at 1 p.m.

The bill, sponsored by Edwards and several other delegates, requests that the Department of Natural Resources establish a limited black bear hunting season in a region where the black bear population exceeds the region's carrying capacity. The bill also asks the DNR to establish a lottery for purposes of distributing black bear hunting stamps.

NAMED TO FSU HALL OF FAME — Steve Zumpano, a 1985 graduate of Northern High School, was inducted into Frostburg State University's Bobcat Hall of Fame recently for his baseball prowess while attending FSU. Zumpano was named the Bobcats' Most Valuable Player in both his junior and senior seasons, and earned All-ESAC and honorable mention All-America honors for the same two campaigns. The FSU baseball record book ranks Zumpano second in career walks, seventh in runs scored, eighth in runs batted in, tied for eighth in home runs, and ninth in hits. The stellar outfielder also holds career defensive statistics that place him in the top five in putouts, assists, and chances. His superb two-way play helped the Bobcats to a 90-46 record over his four seasons with the team. Shown above at the FSU Hall of Fame banquet, from the left, are former GCC and FSU baseball coach Phil Caruso, former Bobcat baseball coach Bob Wells, and Zumpano, who now resides in St. Mary's County. Zumpano's mother Patricia still makes her home in the northern end of Garrett County, and his father Gene lives in the area as well.

Court Dismisses Charges Against Day Care Owner

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch dismissed charges of child assault and assault against an Oakland area woman in Garrett County Circuit Court last week, citing "unanswered questions about the injuries received by the victim that would cause reasonable doubt for a jury."

Sandra Kay Tressler, 32, was charged in Sept. 2000 by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, who were called to Garrett Memorial Hospital by medical personnel treating a 7-month old for injuries reportedly received while at Tressler's day care facility, according to Thayer Welch.

The state's attorney advised the court further that the "officers certainly had more than probable cause" at the time the charges were placed.

Local Businesses, Organizations To Have Displays At Annapolis Events

The Mountain Maryland PACE Committee announced this week that a unique collection of corporate and community-based organizations will provide the displays for the PACE Reception on January 24 and the Legislative Breakfast on January 25.

Among those displaying at the Mountain Maryland events will be: Hunter Douglas, Gilbane Construction, Garrett County Micro Works Program, Wisp Ski Resort, Adventure Sports Program, Allegany County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Allegany Racing, and the proposed Allconet2 Project. In addition, there will be a "Mountain Maryland Higher Education" display featuring Frostburg State University, Garrett Community College, and Allegany College of Maryland.

According to a PACE committee spokesperson, the displays are intended to provide the state's leadership with a sample of the Mountain Maryland community that dispels negative stereotypes of poverty and depression. Along with the images of higher education, Hunter Douglas will showcase its new multi-million dollar production facility, and Gilbane Construction will display its involvement in the construction of the Appalachian Lab and the Compton Science Center at Frostburg State. Garrett County will have the combined displays of the Wisp Ski Resort and Adventure Sports Program to highlight the growth and future for tourism, and the Micro Works Program to showcase its efforts to assist small businesses.

Committee members stress that tickets for the events are still available. A single price of $75 admits one to both the PACE Reception and the Legislative Breakfast. Tickets may be purchased by calling the Allegany County Department of Economic Development at 301-777-5967. The committee noted that overnight accommodations are no longer available at the Loews Annapolis Hotel, but arrangements have been made for special rates at the Annapolis Marriott Waterfront, which can be reached at 800-336-0072.

Wishnick To Be Speaker At GOBA Meeting

The quarterly meeting of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) will feature a discussion with Ken Wishnick, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, who will present information about the chamber's promotional efforts for the county's small towns.

"The invitation to Mr. Wishnick was made after it became apparent that the chamber was making a concerted effort to promote much more of the county than simply the lake area," said Glenn Tolbert, Oakland Main Street manager. "During the past year, the chamber has published numerous brochures that illustrate to our visitors that our county has much more depth to it than just our wonderful lake. Those of us involved in the betterment of our towns want to see how we can participate in that effort."

Some brochures published recently by the chamber are "The Antique Guide," "Specialty Shopping," and "Visit Our Working Farms."

"All of us involved in promoting the county feel that these publications are a great step in the right direction," Tolbert said. "Now with a renewed interest in 'small town America,' we need to hear from our chamber of commerce how to best tap into its highly effective marketing and promotional strategies."

Residents and community leaders from all eight of the county's towns are urged to attend the meeting, especially, Tolbert said, in light of a new grant received by Garrett County Community Action known as 'Community Legacy.'" Tolbert said the grant is designed to assist participating county municipalities with the development of overall management plans, and with the writing of various grants and proposals.

Refreshments will be served at the meeting. For more information, persons may call Tolbert at 301-334-4431, ext. 153.

Driver Becomes Ill, Crashes Car Along Rt. 40

A Cumberland man remains hospitalized in stable condition at Cumberland Memorial Hospital following a car wreck along Rt. 40 Tuesday, according to a report from the Maryland State Police.

William Crawford, 72, was operating a 1994 Buick LeSabre westbound along Rt. 40. East of Little Savage Lane, Crawford became ill, according to the report, which caused him to swerve the vehicle off the road. It crossed a yard and struck an embankment, and then continued over the bank before coming to a stop.

The Frostburg ambulance company transported Crawford to the hospital. A passenger, Pauline Crawford, 62, was reportedly unhurt in the mishap.

Brick Sponsors Still Sought By Historical Soc.

The Garrett County Historical Society continues to invite persons to purchase bricks for the sidewalk segments being installed at Dailey Park in downtown Oakland.

One section of sidewalk, which leads to the front steps of the Deer Park Hotel porch replica, is to be constructed of bricks in memory/honor of past and present residents of Deer Park. The other segment, which leads from Second Street to the side entrance of the porch, is to be constructed of bricks that bear the names of past and present members of the Garrett County Historical Society.

"For the Deer Park section, we were pleased to have recently received an order for 18 bricks from the Garrett family in Baltimore," stated Robert Boal, society president. "However, there are a number of historic Deer Park families of which there are no longer any living members. We're hoping there might be some descendants, or others, who would like to purchase bricks in memory of these families."

Boal said that some examples of these "lost" families are those of: Carrie Harvey, Emil Droege, Elmer Hinebaugh, Bill and Emily Uhl, Van and Pearl Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Landis, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lashorne, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sebold, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Mayle. "There are many, many more, though," Boal said.

He said that some 200 bricks have already been sold for the Deer Park segment; however, only about 40 have been sold for the GCHS membership section.

The cost of a brick with one line of type is $25 and for two lines, $30. Persons wishing to purchase bricks for the Deer Park section of the sidewalk may telephone Robert Moore at 301-334-9078 for a form and/or more information. Forms for any of the bricks are also available at the Garrett County Museum in Oakland (open Thursday, Friday, and Saturday during the winter months), or can be requested from the Garrett County Historical Society by mail at P.O. Box 28, Oakland, MD 21550.

warming. Areas near bridges could also have weak ice because of salt and abrasion runoff.

"A person who falls through the ice can fall victim to cold-water immersion and hypothermia within minutes. Bulky clothing can absorb large amounts of water and hinder the person in trying to escape the water," the spokesperson said. "The office of the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area does not verify the thickness or safety of the ice. If you do venture onto the ice, exercise caution and good judgment."

Ice safety experts recommend that persons participating in activities on ice should take proper precautions, including wearing PFDs (personal flotation devices) and carrying two long spikes to use for climbing back onto the ice. When traveling in groups, individuals should keep their distance from each other to prevent the whole group from breaking through.

In the event of an accident, persons should immediately dial 9-1-1 for emergency assistance.

Tax Differential

mula," said Asa McCain, mayor of Oakland. He said that, despite what has been reported in the media, the ruling in the lawsuit filed in Maryland Tax Court last year by the county did not favor the county.

Jeff Bloomquist, an attorney representing the town, said his interpretation of the ruling was that the judge said he did not have the jurisdiction to make a ruling and did not mention the formula.

However, Gorman Getty, the county's attorney, maintains that the judge found the methodology used by the county was not incorrect and ruled in favor of the county.

The town has appealed the decision, and based on the outcome of the appeal, is planning to file a civil suit against the county on behalf of past and current Oakland residents, according to Bloomquist. Because of the pending litigation, he said, "Our official position can't change." He added, however, that "there is always room for negotiation,...but not in a public forum." He also pointed out that the state does not require that any certain formula be used.

"There is a enormous gap between the two figures," Commissioner Ernie Gregg said. "We need to resolve the issue."

Commissioner Fred Holliday said that the town was essentially asking the county to contribute to 30 percent of the town's budget and asked the representatives to justify such a large amount.

Council members cited the town's annexation of Wal-Mart and the Garrett County Health Center areas, street maintenance, town police assisting county deputies, water provided by the town for fire service in the southern end of the county, Oakland's attraction for potential businesses, services provided to Bausch and Lomb, and debts incurred due to Bausch and Lomb.

McCain also pointed out that the old Third Street Bridge was owned by CSX, not Oakland, and, therefore, the county was not working on behalf of the town on the new bridge project, as the commissioners had stated at a recent meeting.

"I don't think this has to be an adversarial position," said Jay Moyer, Oakland council member. He pointed out that the more Oakland could attract new business, the more the county would benefit from a higher revenue base.

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel indicated that Oakland, in turn, benefited from the revenue base because the county provides better services for everyone.

"Are you willing to negotiate?" council member Mary Lou Stemple asked the commissioners.

"We're willing to take under advisement what we've heard today," said Beitzel. He pointed out, however, that tax rates and budgets for past years have already been set. "We need to look forward," he said.

The commissioners and Oakland officials decided that representatives from the county and the town would meet again in private and discuss the tax differential more.

Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, suggested that the representatives meet soon, since the county's budget needs to be approved by Feb. 1.

Traffic Stops Lead To Drunk Driving Charges

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made several traffic stops over the weekend that resulted in the arrest of the drivers for drunk driving.

The first stop occurred along Garrett Highway at George Washington Highway early Friday morning.

Ronald Blaine Swiger, 30, Oakland, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) and failure to drive right of center.

He was released from the Garrett County Jail on his own recognizance.

Early Saturday morning another traffic stop was made along West First Avenue in Loch Lynn, and the driver was arrested.

Susan Marie Warner, 43, Oakland, was charged with DUI.

She was released from the jail after posting $1,500 bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

Several charges were brought against a driver stopped late Saturday night by deputies along Route 219, ½ mile north of Oakland.

Deputies observed Traci Lynn Holland committing several traffic violations while operating a 1999 Chevy truck.

Holland, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested after not passing the field sobriety tests to the deputies' satisfaction.

She was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), DUI, DUI per se, and failure to obey designated lane direction.

Oakland Dance To Kick Off '02 Relay For Life

A benefit dance at the Oakland Elks Lodge, set for Saturday, Jan. 26, will kick off official preparations for June's Garrett County Relay for Life American Cancer Society fund-raiser. The kick-off event is open to the public, especially former and prospective Relay for Life participants, and is designed to be a family-oriented, alcohol- and tobacco-free event.

The evening's festivities will get under way at 7:30 p.m. with an opening reception, during which sponsors will be recognized along with event winners from last year's relay, and new team information will be distributed. Dancing begins at 9 p.m. with oldies music provided by Dave Zimmerman. Participants can come for either or both portions of the evening. Refreshments will be available.

The cost for the event is $5 per person, and a lottery drawing during the evening will select five 2002 relay teams that will split the evening's proceeds. All prospective relay teams will have the opportunity to sell items at the dance to help raise funds for their relay efforts and the Cancer Society.

In the event inclement weather forces a cancellation, the snow date for the dance will be the following Saturday, Feb. 2. The 2002 Relay for Life is scheduled for June 7-8. Persons may call Linda Fike at 301-387-3049 or Terry Riley at 301-334-5684 for more information on the dance benefit and the relay itself.

Doctor's discovery may end obesity

HILTON HEAD, S.C. – A doctor believes that a natural formula containing the extract of a small Asian fruit can help cause significant weight loss.

Anthony A. Conte, M.D. reported in an American Medical Journal that the formula, now called Bio-Rex 3000®, caused patients to lose more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to reduce the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

Dr. Conte says that animal studies suggest the mechanism behind the weight reduction is due to interruption of the "Krebs Cycle", an important step in the body's fat storage process. He says it may work the same way in humans. According to Dr. Conte, "The best part of this unique discovery is that it is not a drug, but a dietary food supplement. The Asian fruit, called garcinia, is similar to citrus fruit found in the United States with one big exception-- it may help some people fight obesityl While Dr. Conte's study may be preliminary, the exclusive North American distributor, Phillips Gulf Corp., is calling the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement "Nature's Ideal Diet Aid."

Suggested retail price for a four week supply of Bio-Rex is just $19.99. Available through pharmacies and nutrition stores or call 1-800-729-8446. www.hcdsales.com

Simulcast Event For Christians Set For Feb. 9

"Enlarge My Territory" is the name of a television simulcast expected to be watched by over 100,000 people in North America on Saturday, Feb. 9, and a local church will sponsor a site for that all-day event. The program, which is presented by Bruce Wilkinson, author of The Prayer of Jabez and Secrets of the Vine, and Rick Warren, author of The Purpose Driven Church, is designed to "help lead people to a deeper understanding of God's purpose for their lives," according to a spokesperson for the program.

Bethel United Methodist Church in Mtn. Lake Park will host the local simulcast in the cafeteria of Broad Ford Elementary School. The program will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until 5:30 p.m., with lunch provided for donations. Tickets are $25 per person.

Wilkinson is the founder and president of Walk Thru the Bible Ministries in Atlanta, Ga., a nondenominational ministry that conducts 7,500 biblical training seminars each year in 52 countries. The ministry has published more than 100 million of its nine devotional magazines. Walk Thru also has an international arm of the organization known as World Teach, the mission of which is to spread the gospel of Jesus Christ by placing an indigenous Bible teacher in every nation. To date, the program has trained over 8,000 Bible teachers in more than 40 countries.

Rick Warren is the founding senior pastor of Saddleback Church in Lake Forest, Calif., which he and his wife started with just one family in 1980. Today over 16,000 attend services each weekend. The church has also planted 35 "daughter" churches in Southern California.

Over 1 million copies of Warren's book, The Purpose Driven Church, have been distributed in 17 languages. Over 200,000 pastors and church leaders from more than 100 denominations have attended a Purpose Driven conference or seminar.

Persons may register for the local seminar by contacting Rev. Mark Hickman, pastor of Bethel UM Church, at 301-334-4488, or Angie Teagarden at 301-533-1036, or via e-mail at ateagarden@iceweb.net, no later than February 3. Checks should be made payable to Bethel United Methodist Church.

Persons may also find out more about the program by calling 1-800-443-5221, or checking the web site www.walkthru.org.

Sheriff Updates

High School graduate and a male with military experience, are currently in their second week at the police academy. Sanders said they were doing well, having survived "hell week" — one of the toughest weeks at the academy.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg asked the sheriff about the work release program. "It's been a great benefit to the county," Gregg said.

"I still believe the benefit you get from inmate labor far outweighs the criticisms," Sanders said. The sheriff reported that there have never been any problems with the inmates while they have been out in the community working. They have done a variety of jobs, including constructing buildings at State Highway Administration sites.

"The inmates enjoy being out," Sanders said. "They do a really good job." At a previous meeting with the commissioners, the sheriff indicated that the inmates not only get exercise while they are working, but they are also more relaxed when they come back to the jail, which makes them less likely to cause trouble.

Sanders also reported that the detention center planning committee had had its first meeting and would hold its second this week. The biggest question facing them, he said, was where to place the center.

The commissioners and the sheriff discussed possible locations for the site. Gregg pointed out that in order to receive priority funding for the project, the center would have to be in a designated funding area, which greatly limits site options.

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel suggested that the committee form a subcommittee to develop criteria about the site, research possible sites, and advertise for property.

A report was also given by the sheriff on his department's activities for last year. Sanders said that officers responded to 16,400 incidents in 2001, which is a 9.3 percent increase over the previous year. The number of papers served, however, 3,989, was down 1.9 percent from the year 2000. The number of adult and juvenile arrests were also lower. Adults were down 6.2 percent and juveniles were down 27.7 percent from the previous year. DWIs, however, were up about 17 percent, according to the sheriff.

came to rest upright in a ditch.

Bonner was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released to police custody. While emergency medical personnel were tending to Bonner, MSP troopers learned that a warrant was on file charging him with an offense in Missouri.

That knowledge led to a K-9 scan of the Navigator, resulting in a positive finding by the drug detection dog. A brick of marijuana, later determined to be 274 grams in weight, was discovered duct-taped underneath the driver's seat, and an additional bag of suspected marijuana and several burnt cigarettes of suspected marijuana were located elsewhere in the vehicle.

Bonner was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was booked at the Garrett County Jail, where he remains incarcerated on a $25,000 bond.

Personnel from the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene of the accident.

In other state police news, a Saturday morning traffic stop along Interstate 68 led to the arrest of two Calvert County men, one for drug possession.

At approximately 9:23 a.m. Joseph Patrick Mattingly, 22, Chesapeake Beach, was driving a 1995 Ford Explorer that was stopped for speeding along westbound I-68 east of Old Frostburg Road. A computer check revealed that Mattingly's driver's license and the vehicle's registration were both suspended, and he was placed under arrest.

An ensuing vehicle search located a quantity of suspected marijuana lying on the center rear floorboard of the SUV, reportedly in plain sight. The passenger, David Bryan Isenberg, 22, North Beach, reportedly admitted that the substance belonged to him. Isenberg was then arrested for marijuana possession.

Isenberg and Mattingly were both transported to the MSP's McHenry barracks for processing, and later released without being incarcerated.

DUI Arrest

Michael Stephen Arthur, 19, Greensboro, was arrested at 3:42 a.m. Saturday morning for driving while under the influence on Interstate 68 east of Keyser's Ridge.

Glendening Rescinds Tax Cuts To Get State Budget In Balance

by Kathleen Johnston Jarboe
Captial News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Legislators who want to continue state income tax reductions will have to find other programs to trim since the governor's 2003 $22 billion budget, released Tuesday, relies on rescinding a 2 percent tax cut to balance the budget. Although the budget grew by 2.7 percent from 2002, it provided no new program funding.

Required school spending was maintained and previous school initiatives were protected, while new money was earmarked only for an expanded Medicaid program.

"We have always maintained that education is our top priority and we are not wavering from this," Gov. Parris N. Glendening said.

The General Assembly would have to pass legislation to delay the tax cut so Glendening could use the $175 million in expected revenue for other purposes. The original 1997 tax cut measure provided for a total 10 percent reduction spread over five years.

There is little support for such a measure, said Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller, D-Calvert.

Senate Budget and Taxation Committee chairwoman Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, agreed, saying the suspension of the cuts was politically undesirable.

Add to that the fact that Glendening is at the nadir of his power — he is in the final year of his term and barred from running again — and the likelihood of such a bill passing decreases.

Legislators who promised to complete the tax reduction this year will have to face constituents at the polls this fall.

Taking away the tax cut is "virtually a tax increase," said Senate Minority Leader Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset. A recession is not the time to be increasing taxes, he said.

Stoltzfus blamed the governor's spending in part for budget problems.

Transit and environment programs could be cut to allow for the tax cut, he said.

However, according to the governor's plan, legislators couldn't continue the tax cuts or create new programs without cutting other essential state programs.

"It is going to be hard for legislators to find money" for the tax cut, said Mike Morrill, Glendening's communications director.

Late last year, the state was predicted to have a $521 million revenue shortfall for 2003, largely blamed on the slumping economy and increased security costs following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Glendening announced $205 million in cost-saving measures over two years, including a hiring freeze, to bring the budget in line.

Funding sources, such as removing tobacco settlement funds from escrow in the state's dispute with lawyer Peter Angelos, would not cover recurring costs, Morrill said.

The proposed $229 million expansion in education funds covers increased student enrollment and a continuation of existing programs, including higher teacher salaries and lower classroom size efforts.

The budget also adds $367 million in Medicaid spending to maintain existing Medicaid recipients, eliminate the state debt for the program, and allow for new applicants in this time of recession.

"We should remember that we are a civil society," said Glendening, referring to the Medicaid funding. Maryland should be ready to help its citizens through difficult times, he said.

Other state programs were maintained at current funding levels. Budget saving measures announced last year, as well as the tight budget released Tuesday, keeps the state in the black through 2003, said Morrill. However, if the economy continues to sour, or another catastrophic event occurs, the state could be in serious budget difficulty in 2004 and beyond, he said.

Glendening was quick to point out that Maryland's budget this year fared much better than that of many other states, which faced large program cuts in order to balance books.

"Maryland is facing the budget slowdown from a position of strength," said Glendening.

The state's continued balanced budget and good economy have allowed it to put away 5 percent of revenues per year in a rainy day fund. Those measures help it keep a triple-A bond rating, which allows it to get lower bond interest rates.

Clock Runs Out, But Benefits Don't For Those Reaching Welfare Limits

by Michelle Krupa
Capital New Service

WASHINGTON — Time ran out on Jan. 1 for 384 Maryland families who have been on public assistance continuously since 1997 — but benefits didn't.

Under the welfare reform act of that year, recipients had five years to get off public assistance or they would be kicked off. But the 384 families will continue collecting federal Temporary Assistance to Needy Families grants because of an exemption that lets states extend aid if recipients can show they are working to get off welfare.

"The fact is that some people, despite their best efforts, needed to stay on past the 60 months," said Richard Larson, policy and research director at the Maryland Department of Human Resources. "And the state of Maryland has decided that those people, as long as they're following their plan...need the forbearance that's allowed in the federal law."

The exemption allows states to continue benefits to people for more than five years, as long as the number of long-timers stays under a certain level. If that group grows larger than 20 percent of the state's total welfare caseload — which officials here say will not happen before October 2004 — the state could be docked 5 percent of its annual federal TANF block grant.

Maryland gets about $230 million in TANF funds from the federal government each year.

Maryland's exempt recipients, three-quarters of whom live in Baltimore City, are just a fraction of the roughly 62,000 families who signed up for assistance when the state started doling out TANF funds in 1997. They make up less than 2 percent of the total caseload, officials said.

Many of the 384 families qualified for continued benefits because limited education, health problems, or lack of child care prohibited them from earning enough to support their families, Larson said. Substance abuse, lack of transportation, and mental health problems were also among reasons for an exemption.

While the number of exempt recipients is small, figures are certain to rise as more people hit the five-year wall each month. The rules limit TANF benefits to 60 months, whether or not they are consecutive.

In addition, some people who left the rolls during the economic boom will likely return because of layoffs, pushing their totals toward 60 months, said Catherine Born, associate professor at the University of Maryland's School of Social Work.

State officials say that as more recipients push the five-year mark, caseworkers will watch closely to ensure that only those who face legitimate hardship and who are making an effort to climb out of extreme poverty win an extension of benefits.

Pete Sepp, spokesman for the National Taxpayers Union, said restrictions should remain strict so that an exemption does not become a presumed extension of the limited program.

"Obviously in the current economy there are hardships and there may be legitimate reasons to except people," Sepp said. "But will this definition broaden when the economy starts to get back on its feet again?

"The key here is ensuring that the hardship exemption is applied properly and supervised very heavily," he said.

Aiding and Abetting...

The members of our news staff have a cooperative agreement, an understanding, with local law enforcement officials when it comes to ongoing criminal investigations or impending arrests, and the publishing of such information. Occasionally there is an investigation about which the information is public record and available to us, but we honor the request of the police when they ask us to postpone publishing any coverage. To do so could negate their efforts in cracking the case. We wait to publish the results when the investigation is completed.

Our armed forces in Afghanistan have been unsuccessful so far in capturing Osama bin Laden. He has evidently escaped. What a surprise. It's almost as if he knew exactly where we were looking for him!

There is no doubt in our minds that Osama himself or some of his cronies spend most of their days listening to news broadcasts from the United States, or constantly checking the web sites of CNN, ABC, CBS, NBC, FOX, and others. Thanks to the "public service" of our major news media, bin Laden has known precisely, practically day by day, where our troops are looking for him. The man is evil, but he is far from stupid. Wouldn't it make sense for him to make sure he is not where we think he might be?

Even now we are all told by the media where bin Laden may have fled. The latest is that he probably escaped into Pakistan and has possibly gone by boat to either the east coast of Africa or the Philippines. Thank you once again for letting bin Laden know where he shouldn't go.

The most recent assessment by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld is that bin Laden is probably still in Afghanistan. Secretary of State Colin Powell said this morning, "I don't know where he is." We like Secretary Powell's answer best. If those in authority simply don't provide the information to the media — which is sometimes a good thing, such as in the best interest of national defense — then the media will have nothing to report.

A person who cannot get much lower on America's list of undesirables is John Walker Lindh, the American turned Taliban/al Qaida fighter who has been charged with conspiracy to kill U.S. citizens. It seems clear that he was aiding and abetting the enemy." But it also seems that some of our national media are guilty of like activity when they release information that is helpful to the enemy, and thus endangers the lives of our own troops and the success of their mission.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the welfare and living conditions of the inmates of the Garrett County jail! It is not known what the exact temperature of the various cell blocks inside the jail is because the thermometers have been removed from the walls, but it is cold enough that at times you can see your breath, and in most cells you can feel wind blow through the windows! In at least two cells there is ice that forms on the wall when it's extremely cold. The response is one extra blanket for the occupants of said cells. To the rest of the inmates even an extra blanket is denied!

In the past, space heaters were issued for each cell block, and even then it only knocks the edge off the cold! But since there has been a change of command, with Warden Rumor retiring, we are even denied the use of the space heaters, even after several requests by the inmates, who simply want nothing more than to be warm and to be treated as humans and not as animals. After all, this is not Florida; it does get cold inside a building of concrete and steel!

When asked to turn the heat up, the C.O.'s answer is that the heat is set for the comfort of the occupants in the courthouse, not for the inmates!

I'd appreciate if this would be printed in The Republican for the benefit and welfare of the inmates.

Thank you,
Ronald D. Smith

To the Editor:

I am a landowner with 5,442 feet of my 12,543 boundary line bordering state forest land. I am opposed to Sunday hunting because of constant trespassing.

I have three grandsons, ages 11-13, learning to hunt, plus other family members and friends who cross-country ski, hike, and exercise their dogs on the property. The property is heavily posted by signage and blue paint. For the most part, properties are posted for safety and to know who is on the land, not because hunting is not allowed.

The last day of muzzleloader season, three men drove deer over half of the farm. One was chased and caught. He was identified and so were three pickup trucks. DNR police were called and a citation was issued. Six hours later the trespasser filed a charge of assault.

Trespassers always remove the required fluorescent orange before entering my property. They carry their license in their pocket and won't show it on request, nor give a name.

Bring back the back tag. Once we have a number, we sure will not forget the face.

Think about the landowner. We give hunters a place to hunt. Is it fair to us to have to defend our families and friends every day of the week from September to January from trespassers and lawsuits?

No Sunday hunting until hunters learn to read, can identify colors, and show respect for private property.

Sincerely,
C.W. Newhall Jr.
Oakland

To the Editor.

As we grow older, and hopefully become wiser, things seem to change in line of importance. We no longer want the whimsical things in life. I have found that I am thoroughly captivated by the stories of our older generation.

My husband Sidney and I are blessed to have the opportunity of providing alternate Sunday morning church services at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home. The patients who come to services are a big part of our life now. We have grown to love them and respect them. These folks are the same as family to us; they have taught us many things through their experiences.

Another person who has been a light in my life is my father-in-law, Paul Nazelrod. He is over 80 years old and is a vibrant and dignified man. He is the eldest of the real estate agents in Garrett County, the treasurer of our church, and a wonderfulgreat-grandfather to my grandchildren. He has taught my granddaughter many old songs that I didn't even know. I so enjoy hearing him tell about his life through the years. Starting out with his father putting him in the oven when he was born to warm him after he was born and thought to be dead, he's been going strong ever since. Customers stopping by our office in Loch Lynn see the coati-mundi that he brought home after seeing it killed on the highway many years ago. No one in the five years that I've been here has ever been able to guess what animal is it.

May I urge folks to not forget our elders who have made it possible for us to have this life that we now enjoy. It would be wonderful if there were an award given to all of these "trail blazers." But, there is the ultimate award; it is called Heaven, and isn't that the most important one?

With sincere appreciation,
Sandra Nazelrod

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to a letter written last week by Sherry O'Shell concerning the "New Year's baby."

The letter was very inconsiderate to our community members! It was unnecessary and did not need to be written. She must be an "old folk" who does not realize that this is the 21st century and not the "olden days."

As young adults in this community, we have grown up hearing of babies being born to unwed parents! To us this has not corrupted our way of learning right from wrong. We understand that many babies are born to unwed parents, and in last week's letter the writer stated that emotional and physical abuse were often factors of children born out of wedlock.

However, she did not consider the other side of the story. Let's say that the pregnancy was an accident, like most unwed pregnancies, and the parents got married for the baby's sake. After the child's birth, the parents fought constantly, the abuse began, and finally it led to divorce. These circumstances could be more damaging to the child emotionally, mentally, and physically than if the parents decided not to be married. Therefore, you should take a close look at all of those unwed parents out there who are taking excellent care of their children by themselves.

Speaking as an unwed mother, your letter was very upsetting. I take very good care of my daughter, who is now 15 months old. She is happy, healthy, and very much loved. She does not suffer from any emotional or physical abuse. She loves both of her parents immensely. Just because we are not married does not mean that we do not love our child any less than a married couple should.

One last thing before we end. Last week's letter said that unwed parents have financial problems. Living in the 21st century, jobs are hard to find. Even if you are married, when a child is born you may never be financially stable.

Therefore, the "New Year's baby" should be the first baby of the new year, whether the parents are married or not! Speaking for all unwed parents, keep your nose where it belongs and out of our lives.

Sincerely yours,
N. Warnick
D. Lewis

To the Editor:

It's an instinctive reflex. The moment a baby is born parents check the fingers and toes for reassurance that their child is healthy. But that's only the start of testing for newborns. Parents are often unaware that, while nearly all babies born in the United States undergo newborn screening tests for genetic birth defects, the number and quality of these tests vary from state to state. These often low-cost tests, done immediately after birth, may mean the difference between a healthy life or a severe disability for a baby.

As part of the January observance of Birth Defects Prevention Month, the March of Dimes is announcing it has widened its core list of newborn screening tests to include the metabolic disorder called medium chain acyl-CoA dehydrogenase (MCAD) deficiency. The other tests that make up the March of Dimes-recommended list are phenylketonuria (PKU); congenital hypothyroidism; congenital adrenal hyperplasia (CAH); biotinidase deficiency; maple syrup urine disease; galactosemia; homocystinuria; and sickle cell anemia.

MCAD deficiency affects about 1 in every 15,000 infants born in the U.S., and can lead to mental retardation or death if not identified shortly after birth.

In addition, the March of Dimes advises a hearing test for all newborns, but remains concerned about the current level of technology and intervention. Whether a baby gets a hearing test or not, parents should be alert throughout childhood for hearing impairment.

Approximately four million infants are born annually in the U.S., and nearly 72,000 infants are born in Maryland each year. The March of Dimes believes that every baby should receive the same core group of screening tests, regardless of which state he or she is born in. In Maryland, all of the tests described above are given to newborns with the exception of the MCAD.

View From My Window

A MILD WINTER?

Just how mild is this winter? Weather patterns vary from region to region and district to district, but this is the mildest winter I can remember in quite awhile. I have been reviewing my weather records, which — good obsessive-compulsive chap that I am — I have been keeping, off and on, since childhood.

For the past 10 years I have been keeping track of heating degree-days. The assumption of degree-day calculations is that the perfect day is 65°F. If the average temperature is above that, then the difference between the average and 65°F are cooling degree-days. If the average is below that, then the difference between 65°F and the average are heating degree-days.

This winter is the mildest of any during the past decade by 300 fewer degree-days than the next mildest winter. The mildness of this winter is accentuated by following two winters that were colder than average.

What usually happens by this point in the season — and what could still happen — is a mild period balanced by a severe period. Last winter, for example, was just about average until Thanksgiving when it got extremely cold for November and December, but by the end of January the hardest part of the winter was over.

As much as I enjoy cold weather, my feelings are not hurt that I have only used a half tank of fuel oil thus far this winter. Some days it has even been too warm for me to run the woodstove in the kitchen. Mind you, I break out in a sweat when the indoor temperature rises to that magic number of 65.

During the late fall I kept working out of doors. The granary windows got painted, for example, at a time the year before that paint would have frozen in the bucket. During a respite last week, I worked on straightening up a shed and the garage, jobs I would usually find a reason not to do in the middle of January.

The mild days have also been suitable for letting the hens out to hunt for tidbits among the leaves or in the grass. These Buff Orpingtons love to get outside, more, I think, than any other hens I have ever had. When I open the door to the henhouse I have to block the opening with my body to prevent a few of the most eager from flying past me. When they are allowed out, they seem to enjoy themselves in a variety of activities. They hunt for food, of course. They also, on dry days, find places to ruffle their feathers, all the while talking to each other. Some free-range activity makes for healthier, happier birds, as long as they are not nabbed by predators. That has never been a problem if I close the henhouse door at dusk.

How long will the mild weather last? Perhaps we shall get all of our winter in February or even in March. Easter comes early this year (March 31). That sets the stage for an Easter blizzard. In 1997 Easter fell on March 30. It was 70° that day.

On Easter Monday we had a full-scale blizzard here in which quantities of very wet snow fell in short order. The wind blew so hard that there were white-out conditions. In spite of the wetness of the snow, the wind drifted my lane shut tight. My wife, as she was then, and I were out with two of our children that night. She was driving, and did a great job. I was convinced we would never see home again, but she got us here safe and sound.

The snow melted quickly. By Thursday it was in the 60s. The experience was memorable, and perhaps should be interpreted as an April Fool's Day joke. I would have laughed a little harder had I watched the storm from my fireside rather than from the driver's side.

The weather comes and the weather goes. We keep talking about it. Thousands of people make a living by incorrectly predicting the weather. What is not clear is if the weather means something, and if so, then what.

I shall continue my chronicle of temperatures, degree-days and weather conditions, in general. The older I get the more becoming such activity is. After all, it is very nearly my turn to opine, "We don't have weather like we used to. When I was young...."

GOING SOUTH, MEETING THE MOUSE

by Mary Sincell McEwen

I can't believe it's over. For 10 years, John and I have been scheming, planning, and anticipating a grand trip to the vacationland of the universe, Disney World USA. It actually came to pass this month, after all those years, and now it's over. Wow. And what a week it was. I think it warrants my first actual series of columns, because there's no way to write the experience in just one essay. So here we go:

PART ONE:

The Iron Horse That Drove Over My Nerves

Our mode of travel to Florida was by Amtrak. This is not because of Sept.-11-related flying fears, though. I got these tickets secured in August. We chose the train because both John and I went to Florida via the rails when we were kids and the whole experience was way cool, and we wanted our boys to also experience the way coolness of it. Well, the said coolness wore off on the way down, as you will see.

After a madcap, frenzied Christmas, we — the three boys, John and me, and my mom, Hannah — stuffed ourselves into the van on the morning of Saturday, Dec. 29. Because the route to Florida is direct only from Washington, D.C., we drove to the capital city to catch our train. Being a rather anxious type, I kept checking and re-checking my stuff to make sure I had the train tickets. (The little sleep I had gotten the night before was rife with nightmares of us getting to Washington and not having our tickets. Wow, was my ulcer alive and kicking!) We picked up my cousin Carter, who lives close to the city, to drive us into the train station. On the way, we gazed at the hole in the Pentagon, astonishing in size and magnitude. "That's where those bad guys flew the plane?" Alex asked, staring at the damage. We told him it was. For the first time in the trip, the boys were quiet for a minute.

Then we entered the city. We started rapid-fire pointing and shouting, "There's the Capitol Building! There's the Lincoln Monument! There's the White House — that's where President Bush lives!" The boys' heads were whipping around like they were watching a pingpong match. As we passed the Washington Monument, Michael said it looked like a big pencil. And it did.

At last we stopped at the train station. Quickly, with my ulcer chugging along, we grabbed all our bags and straggled into the enormous first hall. What a huge place! The ceiling is so high and so ornate, you can't help staring up at it. Michael only looked up once, though.

"Michael, look up!" I said.

"I don't want to anymore. It scares me," he said, staring at the floor. I understood.

We bustled along, Mom and me both counting heads constantly, and finally found our way to our gate, only to discover that the Silver Star, our train, was running over two hours late. And being the conscientious traveler I am, I had made sure we were there an hour before we were supposed to leave anyway. Great. Three hours to wait for our train with three boys shot full of adrenalin. And we were laden with about eight pieces of bulky luggage to boot. Gad!

We managed to while away the time, though, using Mom as the luggage guard while we took the boys on various jaunts through the train station. There was the food and beverage excursion, the information desk excursion, and the recurring bathroom excursions. The most fascinating thing by far to both Alex and Michael was the escalator. It remained at the top of the entertainment list for Michael until he discovered the electric eye toilets and sinks at Disney World. That's a later subject, though.

At last the Silver Star pulled into the station. Families and elderly were let on first, and as my mom kept saying, we had both. So, dragging the few bags we hadn't checked, we fronted the crowd down the escalator and then along a windy, freezing cold walkway beside the track. It was dark by that time, and we were being herded along by shouts and pointing hands, all from railroad people who seemed to be a little stressed out. We hurried and hurried, walking past car after car, holding tight to our tickets in the frigid wind. Michael began to panic in the frantic pace, his squeals of anticipation changing over to whimpers of fear. So I started shouting above the noise to him, "It's all right, Michael, we'll get there!" But I was screaming this at him, which isn't so comforting. We were quite relieved to finally reach our car and step inside.

We were directed to our seats and the boys literally bounced into them, so excited to be on the train at long last. When we felt the brakes release and the wheels begin to roll, I admit I was almost as excited as they were. Little did I know . . . But I digress. We passed back through the now lit city, with the recovered Michael shouting, "I see the big pencil!" We do have a beautiful capital city, at least in parts.

So we were off. The first few hours were passed blissfully enough, with the boys engaged in exploring the entire train, weaving along the aisles and through the connectors, where the train cars jostled visably right beneath their feet. The club car was a frequent destination, as were the tiny bathrooms. When it came time to settle down to sleep, the boys found it quite comfortable on the floor in front of our seats. They all three went right to sleep, while we three adults wished we could. Sitting up is not conducive to sleep. When you're a kid, maybe, but not when you're full-grown. So we bounced along, trying to read but getting too sleepy, and envying our sons who were at full snore.

Somewhere in the middle of North Carolina, at about 2 a.m., the train stopped. And it really stopped. There was no power at all — no lights, no fans — dead. And there we stayed, in the dark, for nearly two hours. No one came to tell us what was going on. As we sat and sat, John and I both got very antsy. After about 90 minutes, we ventured through the cars, finding other antsy people. After some difficulty in hunting down a porter, we were finally told that our engine had died and a new one was being sent to us. Lovely. So we sat in the dark for a bit longer, wishing for sleep and for movement. At long last we started again, now over five hours behind schedule.

And here I am, all the way to the bouom of the page, and we're not even in Florida yet. Very similar to the train ride. Next week: Our weary arrival in Kissimmee, and the trip with TreacherousTaxiDrivers.com.

To be continued . . . (I've always wanted to write that.)

Plenty Of Blame, Few Answers To Problem Of College Affordability

by Catherine Dolinski
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — A study rankiug Maryland's colleges among the most expensive in the country has state educators, lawmakers, and officials haggling over who's to blame for the problem and how to solve it.

While the University System chancellor last week said it is "unrealistic" to expect tuition cuts, lawmakers rejected his suggestion that the state has not spent enough on higher education and financial aid.

"On balance, I think it's real easy for people to blame others for their problems," said Sen. Donald Munson, R-Washington. "I do believe that the General Assembly, over the last seven to eight years, has stepped up to the bar to provide scholarship aid to students."

A report by the Lumina Foundation for Education, released last week, said Maryland's higher education system is among the least accessible for students from families with incomes less than $28,380. Nine of the state's 13 four-year public colleges and universities were deemed financially out-of-reach in the report, as were 11 of Maryland's 15 private, fonr-year institutions. "Affordability" was determined by whether students could cover tuition costs using family and financial aid resources.

University System of Maryland Chancellor Donald Langenberg said there is a "myth...that universities are fat-happy places where no one keeps their eye on a buck, but that's exactly what it is — a myth."

"It's as phony as a three-dollar bill," said Langenberg. "It's unrealistic to expect individual institutions to lower their tuition rates."

Langenberg blamed the state for historic underfunding of higher education.

"Maryland is still lagging [behind] a great many states in investing in education," he said. "We all know things are tight at the moment in Annapolis, but we need to keep focusing on education."

The right response, he said, is to increase need-based state financial aid to students. But Annapolis lawmakers suggested the problem lies elsewhere.

Delegate Martha Klima, R-Baltimore County, said making education more affordable should be "a matter of prioritizing" existing state funds for higher education, not increasing them.

"I'm on the side of the student," said Klima, a member of the House Appropriations Committee. "Are these funds being utilized for higher salaries for professors? And if so, where does that leave those youngsters trying to get into college?"

Munson also bristled at the suggestion that the state has been stingy with higher education funds. Munson, a member of the Budget and Taxation Committee, said not all families plan for college or apply to existing financial aid programs.

"My contention is, there's a lot of people out there who don't take advantage of it," he said.

Maryland Secretary of Higher Education Karen Johnson also defended the state's spending.

Johnson, whose office recently finished a study on the education needs of low-income students, pointed out that state funding for financial aid has doubled in recent years to nearly $82 million.

"These numbers suggest there's a serious focus in the state on affordability," she said.

While she said it is "no secret that as states go, we're ranked pretty high for tuition costs," she stopped short of blaming the state's poor showing in the Lumina study on tuition prices.

"It's definitely an issue, but I think the institutions recognize that," she said. "No university president wants to be in the position of raising tuition rates."

But George Cathcart, spokesman for the University of Maryland, College Park, said that campus might have to increase tuition because spending is outpacing state funding of university budgets.

"Right now, we get less than 38 percent of our total budget from state appropriations," Cathcart said. He said the university is "committed to making higher education more affordable," and has made financial aid a major priority in its $400 million fund-raising campaign.

The College Park campus, where in-state tuition is $5,341 this year, is among those labeled "unaffordable" in the Lumina study.

Johnson said the state is working to address the problem of affordability, but suggested that there may be no one single answer.

"I don't necessarily see a new solution on the horizon," she said. "I don't know what the silver bullet is."

Gov. Glendening Does Not Accept Education Funding Recommendation

by Kelley Benham
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Education spending will increase under Gov. Parris N. Glendening's $22 billion budget released Tuesday, but no money will go to a state commission's recommendation to equalize finances between poor and affluent districts.

Glendening's 2003 budget increases public school funding by $161 million, up 6.5 percent, and higher education funding by $68 million, or 5.3 percent. The increases will pay for ongoing programs and expected growth.

"We have always maintained that education is our top priority and we are not wavering from this," Glendening said.

The budget brings elementary and secondary school funding to $2.6 billion, a 70 percent increase from when Glendening took office seven years ago, according to the governor's budget summary.

But the state Commission on Education Finance, Equity and Excellence, commonly called the Thornton Commission, had recommended a much bigger boost — $130 million this year, and $1.1 billion over five years — to equalize funding for poorer jurisdictions such as Baltimore and Prince George's County.

Glendening has said he supports the commission's proposals, but the state can't afford to begin them this year.

That leaves legislators searching for ways to find the money anyway.

Prince George's County would have received $40 million this year and $305 million over five years under the Thornton Commission's plan.

Delegate Rushern L. Baker III, chairman of that county's delegation, said the budget release marks the beginning of a long negotiating process.

"Certain jurisdictions have to be funded now," he said. "We are going to push to make sure we get the down payment this year. We can't afford to put it off. We have to find another way."

Montgomery County schools, which opposed the Thornton Commission proposal because they would have received the smallest share, weren't ready to comment on the budget Tuesday afternoon.

The governor's budget was not a surprise, said Renee Spence, a lobbyist for Prince George's County schools. She said it is too early in the negotiating process to be disappointed.

"It will go through the normal legislative process," she said. "You'll see the powerful chairmen of the budget committees negotiating with the governor in the weeks ahead."

Legislators can cut programs from the governor's budget but not add them.

To find money for the Thornton Commission's plan, other programs will have to give, said Mike Morrill, Glendening's communications director. The General Assembly would have to cut current services, take away from health care or education increases, or reduce money set aside as a safety net, he said.

"You'd have to shut down programs wholesale. You'd have to stop giving people health care," Morrill said.

Education comprises the largest share — 35 percent — of the governor's general fund budget. Most of that spending is mandated by state formulas that provide money for general expenses, transportation and special education. Student population growth and inflation have driven required spending up 5.6 percent, or $118 million.

Spending not required by law rises by 8, percent or $32 million, under the budget. That money pays for programs already in place that prop up teacher salaries and keep class sizes low.

"We've made a promise to the teachers and students of Maryland that the money would be there," Morrill said.

The budget also continues funding for early childhood initiatives already in place, providing $19 million for improvements in pre-kindergarten through third grade, and $19.3 million for a program that targets at-risk 4-year-olds.

Any new, ongoing programs such as the Thornton Commission recommendations would require a new, ongoing source of revenue, Morrill said.

The governor supports a House bill to create a commission assigned to find new sources to pay for education, health care, and transportation — the state's top three budget items.

Even if the Legislature comes up with such a plan, implementing it would take time, Morrill said.

Glendening, who is in his last year as governor, would spend new revenue on education if it were available, Morrill said, and lawmakers can revisit the commission's proposals if the economy improves next year.

"The governor would like to see the recommendations of the Thornton Commission go forward," he said. "How and when becomes what we argue about."

Air Pollution Permit Bill Now In House

by Thomas Kim
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - A bill to reinstate the Maryland Department of the Environment's authority to issue air pollution permits is scheduled to reach the House of Delegates floor Friday. The House Environmental Matters Committee Wednesday unanimously approved the measure, just five days after the bill was introduced on the first day of the General Assembly session.

"I think the chances [of the bill passing the House] are excellent," said Chairman John A. Hurson, D-Montgomery. "There really isn't any opposition."

The bill also has the support of Gov. Parris N. Glendening and House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., D-Allegany.

The Maryland Department of the Environment was stripped of its authority to issue air pollution permits last December when it failed to comply with Title V of the Clean Air Act. The act regulates the states' largest air emission sources.

Maryland law previously only allowed adjacent property owners to object to a permit application from industrial plants and other facilities. The bill would broaden citizens' right to complain.

As a result, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency took over Maryland's air pollution permit program. Even though the EPA had assumed control, the federal agency still delegated authority to the Maryland Department of Environment to process applications following federal standards.

EPA's action came from a lawsuit settlement with the Sierra Club, which sued the federal agency for its failure to force compliance with Title V. Under the settlement, 35 states had until Dec. 1, 2001, to complete compliance with federal standards.

To the Editor:

Psychiatric rehabilitation began in the late 1940s in New York. By 1950, the National Council of Jewish Women took on the plight of ex-psychiatric patients as a nationwide project. They were instrumental in forming several programs in major cities, such as the Council House in Pittsburgh. Over the years, psychiatric rehabilitation services have evolved in a unique combination of attitudes, practice, and theory.

The importance of these services cannot be overestimated. All of the psychiatric rehabilitation programs that Garrett County Lighthouse Inc. operates provide social rehabilitation to individuals with mental illness. Typical characteristics among those receiving services are: isolation, inability to establish relationships, periodic regressions that alienate others, and an overwhelming sense of failure. A good deal of the effectiveness of our rehabilitation services is due to the dedication of personnel guiding the individual toward stabilization.

Our goal is to engage individuals in the development of new meaning and purpose in life, to go beyond the catastrophic effects of mental illness. It is also about the individual's ability to recover from stigma that has incorporated their lives, from the lack of opportunity for self-determination, from the negative effects of unemployment, and from crushed dreams. Garrett County Lighthouse personnel are helpers that facilitate recovery through rehabilitation.

All funding for psychiatric rehabilitation is through the public mental health system. It is a managed care system in which services are said to be authorized based on medical necessity. However, because of the Mental Hygiene Administration's deficits, Maryland Health Partners, the administrative service organization, has begun to aggressively manage the care into decreasing the number of services that individuals receive, regardless of need.

Considering the fact that we serve a chronic population who are stabilized because of hours of support services which have successfully prevented re-hospitalization seems to be of no importance, other than to prove that individuals do not need the services.

We are asking that you join with us in advocating for individuals with mental illness, for our personnel who have devoted themselves to working in rural health care, and for the financial future of rehabilitation services. Please take a moment to write to Delegate George Edwards, P. O. Box 658, Grantsville, MD 21536. Please send us a copy of your letter.

On behalf of Garrett County Lighthouse, thank you for your support.

Sincerely,
Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski

HULDAH JOY WHITE

Huldah Joy White, Oakland, peacefully entered into the arms of God on Sunday, Jan. 13, 2002.

Joy was born on Dec. 19, 1943, in Crellin. She passed from this life at the Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., on Jan. 13, 2002, following an extended period of illness.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Oscar and Anna Lee; brother, Harry; and sister, Laura.

As the baby of her family, Joy is survived by brother George; and sisters Norma, Leatrice, Marion, Phyllis, and Sandra.

Joy was the cherished mother of Amy White, Lori White, David Tressler, and Tami Rosage. Her children's lives were lovingly touched by her selfless example and gentle spirit.

Daughter-in-law Sandra Tressler, together with son-on-law Bernie Rosage Jr., sadly grieve the passing of this special woman.

Grandma White shared her life with grandchildren Lyndsey, Whitney, D.J., Kyle, Dylan, Nevin, Annu, Hanna, Olivia, and great-grandson Christian. Their young lives will be forever imprinted by their Grandma White's priceless influence.

Joy donated her body to the Human Gift Registry of West Virginia University Medical College.

A memorial service was held in remembrance and celebration of her life on Monday, Jan. 14, at the Loch Lynn Church of God. Our comfort is in knowing that peace is hers, and that we will see our precious Joy again.

Due to Joy's passion for books and reading, the family requests that memorial contributions be directed to the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland.

ON A PERSONAL NOTE
by Lucretia Sines

Here we are three weeks into the year 2002, and I am just now getting my recap of the year 2001 happenings together. I guess I'm just getting slower with age.

The year brought many improvements to the town of Friendsville by way of donations and grants. An outdoor area was placed next to the town library with benches and a picnic table. Also, the main roads and walks were redone, which included wheelchair accessible curbing. The reconstruction was a definite inconvenience for many, but they are an improvement to our town. Also, new drainage was laid down and the town "square" was redone. The town park was also improved with a new Little League field, new bleachers, a paved road for walkers, and benches and trees placed throughout the park. The elementary school, partnered with the National Tree Trust, planted 50 trees in the school yard for habitat.

February brought the municipal town election, with the installation of new council members Ed Kelley, Robert Sines, and Herschel Allen. On July 19, Wayne Friend replaced Herschel Allen, who resigned because of business commitments.

February also brought about the 97th birthday of Chauncey Friend, who was given a surprise birthday celebration by the senior citizens at the Senior Center. Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle presented Chauncey with a key to the city, a very memorable moment for Chauncey, I'm sure.

In March, the Friendsville Elementary School was selected to be a Korean War Commemorative School by the Dept. of Defense. A ceremony was held for the dedication of the Korean War Memorial Wall in the front foyer of the school. It salutes the memory of Pfc. William Blaine Friend and Sgt. Robert Umbel, who lost their lives in that war.

The Old Mill Grill restaurant reopened under the management of Robin Bittinger on March 1, with the gratitude of many patrons.

A panic went through the community when in March, the Northern Garrett Co. Rescue Squad expressed desire to consolidate Accident and Friendsville stations into a McHenry station. Town meetings were held, petitions were signed, and voices were heard, because it was announced at the May meeting of the NGCRS that the station would remain in Friendsville.

May saw the opening of the "time capsule" at the elementary school, and a National Day of Prayer was held in the yard of Jessie Sines for all citizens to attend.

On May 16, over 30 volunteers gathered to help in the Upper Yough River Clean-Up. The trash was hard to find this year due to previous years' collections. Good job!

The Friendsville Town Park was the center of much activity, including a Spring Fling egg hum sponsored by the RAD Group, a Memorial Day service and rededication of the WWII tank, Picnic in the Park sponsored by the Community Watch, the 37th annual Fiddle and Banjo Contest, Friendsville Days, the Unity in the Community Picnic sponsored by Rescue 3-1, and the town's annual light-up night. There just seems to be more growth and commitment to our town each year by everyone. I look forward to even more.

We saw our first snowfall of the new winter on Oct. 26, but then Nov. seemed like spring again, with unseasonably warm, sometimes hot, weather through the second week of Dec. I think it was the nice weather that got so many residents involved in decorating their homes, swimming pools, yards (you name it — it was glowing) with Christmas lights! The winners of the town decorating contest were: Getty and Wilma Keefer, Raymond Metheny and Chris Sines, and Richard and Ethel Artice for residential, and Joe and Mary Ellen Sessa's Sunset Inn and Hair Care for commercial.

Some of our Friendsville area "news makers" for the year 2001 were: Renelda Thomas, who became the author of her first novel published, "Loser's Three"; Kelly Carr, daughter of Kenny and Carla Carr, who was a lucky senior at Northern who was chosen to attend the inauguration of George W. Bush, Blake Huber, Mark Wolf, and Jeremiah Guard, three of the four members of the NHS wrestling team, who competed in the National High School Wrestling Coaches Association Senior Nationals at the University of Delaware; and Jeremy Robinson, son of Bill and Rita Robinson who was one of two U.S. college students selected to make presentations at the International Conference of Physics Students in Dublin, Ireland. Jeremy also was named Towson University's Man of the Year, an honor earned out of 80 students who were nominated.

This was a year that will not be forgotten by anyone, when on Sept. 11, terrorists struck our great nation. It brought out the human side of us all, as tears were shed, disbelief was felt, and compassion was a word in our vocabulary once more. We were startled beyond all thinking and turned to the church and our leaders for some answers. Patriotism was heightened to show that no one, no thing could dash our American spirit. Little do we know what lies ahead for the year 2002, but one thing stands clear — All who have suffered from this act will be in our hearts and minds for a long time to come.

A new year is ahead for us to look forward to, but let us also reflect on the lives of those from the Friendsville area who have passed away in the last year and will be greatly missed by many: Marie Sisler, Agnes Higgins, Larna Savage, Jessie Sines, Maxine Combs, Kenneth Reed, Kenneth Hardesty, Sarah Leone Lytle Schroyer, Edna Wright, Perry F. VanSickle, Mason Rodeheaver, Regina Glass, Mary Hoff, Ivan Casteel, Oliver Teats, James King, Brian Boomer, Donald Frazee, Robert Hill, William Shoemaker, David Humberson, Opal Sisler, David Duncan, Edith V. Thomas, Floyd Frazee, Raymond Schlosnagle, Robert Fairfax, Mary Suter, Zelda Green, Sophie Benedict, Sherman House, Lloyd Casteel, Paul Schroyer, Walter Friend, Charles Ross, and Nellie Staub (who died on Nov. 9, 2000, and was mistakenly omitted from the recap of 2000).

Memories of these friends and loved ones will be carried on in our hearts forever, and the touch that they had on our lives will be eternal.

PROMOTING FAMILY LITERACY — Head Start/Early Head Start is promoting literacy through its publication of a parent newsletter. The newsletter, published by parents four times a year with an additional mini-issue during the Christmas season, is designed to provide parents with information on Head Start/Early Head Start's age-appropriate learning readiness activities for their children. The newsletter includes suggestions to help promote family literacy and announces opportunities for parent training and parent volunteer involvement. Pictured above, from the left, are Becky Heath, Early Head Start parent winner of the "Name the Newsletter" contest, and Jennifer Lowdermilk, Head Start parent editor of this year's "Tiny Times" newsletter. Persons interested in volunteering as guest readers in the classroom or obtaining further information about the agency's literacy program may call Barbara Hornyak at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403, ext. 126.

Salisbury VFD Slates Dinner

The Salisbury Volunteer Fire Dept. and Ambulance will sponsor an "all-you-can-eat" roast beef dinner on Sunday, Jan. 27, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Salisbury fire hall, Ord St., Salisbury, Pa. The dinners will consist of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, noodles, vegetables, cole slaw, choice of beverage, and dessert. Takeouts are available. The cost is $6 for adults, $3 for children under 12, and free for children under 5.

Md. Job Service Offering Resumé Writing Course

The Maryland Job Service will conduct a one-hour resumé writing workshop beginning at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 29, at its Oakland office at 221 S. Third Street. The free session will include information on how to create resumés and cover letters that can assist in a job search, how to decide the type of resumé that best presents a specific work history, how to market oneself more effectively, and submitting on-line resumés.

Persons interested in attending should register for the class by 4 p.m. Monday, Jan. 28, by calling the Maryland Job Service at 301-334-3972 or 301-245-4137. The Maryland Job Service is a division of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation.

Goodwill Home Seeks Donations For Bus Purchase

The Goodwill Mennonite Home is seeking financial assistance in order to help raise money for a new 15-passenger bus equipped with a wheelchair lift. The bus will enable residents to take frequent trips into the countryside for sightseeing and reminiscing, spring trips to view fresh flowers, summer trips for ice cream, fall trips for residents to view the autumn colors, shopping excursions, and day trips to Lancaster, Pa., to attend shows at Sight and Sound.

The cost of the bus is $60,000, and several donors have already came forward. All donations for this undertaking are tax deductible, because Goodwill is a qualifying non-profit charitable organization.

For more information, or to send donations, persons may contact Linda Beitzel at 301-895-5194 or Goodwill Mennonite Home, P.O. Box 310, Grantsville, MD 21536.

Members Sought For Concert Band, Pipes And Drums

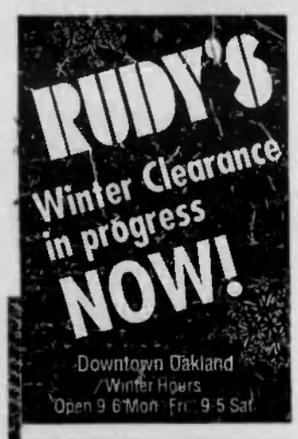
The Garrett Community Concert Band will resume practice from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 22, in the Garrett Community College auditorium. The band is always ready to accept new members, according to director Jerry McGee.

"Anyone who has had some experience playing a musical instrument in a band is invited to attend a practice," McGee stated, adding that a band member who enrolls through the college can receive one credit in instrumental music for the spring semester.

McGee also directs practice sessions of the GCC Pipes and Drums from 7 to 9 p.m. each Wednesday evening at St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, which are preceded by bagpiping instruction from 5:45 to 6:30 p.m. A student can enroll in this class and receive one college credit in instrumental music. New members are welcome to join the pipe band either as pipers or as drummers, and it is not necessary to have a bagpipe.

The GCC Pipes and Drums will be the host band for this spring's annual McHenry Highland Festival, scheduled for Saturday, June 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The band will also play at the annual GCC commencement exercise in May.

Those interested in further information about these musical opportunities may call McGee at 301-387-6315.



Library Forms New Book Club For Children

The Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County is forming a Young Readers Book Club for children ages 10 through 12 which will meet at the Oakland library every six weeks to discuss a book chosen by the participants. The club's first book discussion is set for 4:15 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31, and the book selection is A Year Down Yonder by Richard Peck.

This newest story by Newbery Award-winning author Peck, A Year Down Yonder paints a "lively" picture of small-town America during the Depression years. "It's 1937, and 15-year-old Mary Alice is sent to live with her formidable Grandma Dowdel after her father loses his job," library associate Keela Pfaff said in explaining the book's premise. "Mary Alice has always spent one week during the summer with her grandma, but her brother Joey was always around. Now Joey is grown and has a job with the Civilian Conservation Corps and Mary Alice is left alone with Grandma Dowdel for a whole year.

"If her grandmother's eccentric ways don't ruin her stay, the two-room hick school she must attend just might. Despite Mary Alice's worn-out coat and too-tight shoes, the other students consider her the rich girl from Chicago.

"While Grandma Dowdel's outrageous schemes embarrass Mary Alice, they provide readers with endless laughs. As Mary Alice's stay comes to an end, she begins to understand her grandmother and the reasons behind her schemes. Who knows? Maybe Mary Alice will even carry on the tradition."

To reserve a copy of A Year Down Yonder, children or their parents may visit the Oakland library or call the library desk at 301-334-3996. The library also offers book discussion clubs for older youth and adults. Book clubs, which have grown exponentially in popularity over the past few years, allow readers of similar ages to share their thoughts and opinions of a story with each other in a safe, relaxed setting. Persons may call the library or visit its website at www.relib.net for more information on any of the book discussion clubs.

Valentine's Day Poetry Contest Entries Sought

The fourth annual Valentine's Day Poetry Contest is seeking submissions revolving around this year's topic of "love." The prize for this year's winning entry will be a gift certificate for dinner for two at Oakland's Towne Restaurant, donated by proprietor Rita Liller.

"Entries should focus on the characteristics of love," explained contest sponsor Debra Wolf, Garrett Community College poetry instructor. "Specifically, love is generous, kind, patient, does not keep account of wrongs done, but forgets and forgives. When love exhibits these traits, it never fails."

The contest guidelines are: one entry per person; poems can be either typed or handwritten; and the poems should include name, address, and telephone number of the writer. Poetry will not be returned, so copies should be kept. Submissions should be mailed to: Valentine's Day Poetry Contest, P.O. Box 2203, Oakland, MD 21550, no later than Sunday, Feb. 10.

Sincell Lands "Romeo" Role In National Tour

Matthew Sincell, Weehawken, N.J., was recently awarded the role of Romeo in a national tour of William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, produced by the Biggs Risotti National Theatre Company of New York. Rehearsals are now under way in New York City, where the play will open on February 13. The tour will span seven weeks, include 34 performances, and encompass 21 different states.

Sincell is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School and a 2001 honor graduate of West Virginia University. He was named the most outstanding graduate in the WVU's nationally acclaimed theatre program, from which he earned a bachelor of fine arts degree.

He has performed numerous roles in a wide variety of theatre genre, with classical/Shakespeare experience including roles in Macbeth, Romeo and Juliet, Richard III, and The Taming of the Shrew. He had other leading roles at WVU in productions of An Ideal Husband, Dancing at Lughnasa, Snow Orchid, Arcadia, and The Seagull, among others.

A film credit for Sincell is his portrayal of a young Union soldier in a scene of the Civil War epic Gods and Generals, produced by Turner Broadcasting and starring Robert DuVall, Stephen Lang, and Jeff Daniels. It is slated for release late this year.

Sincell is the son of Don and Suzie Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park.

WVPT To Use European Theatre Festival Setting

Because of renovations taking place at the West Virginia University Creative Arts Center in Morgantown, West Virginia Public Theatre (WVPT) will present its 2002 summer season outdoors in a European Theatre Festival setting. The performances will take place within a portable vinyl structure, which is air-conditioned and has padded seats (unlike the tent in which WVPT had its start 18 years ago). Performances will be presented in-the-round, allowing all patrons unobstructed views of the action on the stage.

Seating for performances is reserved, and WVPT has been receiving group orders, "early-bird" subscriptions and individual ticket orders since early November. Patrons who reserve before the "early-bird" deadline of March 1 receive priority seating and discounts on subscriptions.

Beginning June 18, WVPT will present a show per week for eight weeks. The productions for the 2002 Summer Season are: Forever Plaid, Smokey Joe's Cafe, Footloose, Chicago, Jekyll & Hyde, Godspell, My Fair Lady, and The Music Man.

For information on early-bird specials, reservations, or the new venue and seating, persons may call the WVPT box office at (304) 599-6785 or, toll-free, 1-877-999-WVPT (9878).

Memoir Of Rural Poverty Topic Of Book Discussion

The Ruth Enlow Library's book club for adults will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 28, in the Oakland library to discuss Barbara Robinette Moss's compelling memoir, Change Me Into Zens's Daughter. The 319-page work chronicles the true story of Moss's upbringing in rural Alabama during the late 1960s.

The book opens with Moss's mother slowly spooning pesticide-coated corn and beans into her mouth as her children watch. If two hours pass by and their mother has not fallen ill, she will share the poisoned seeds meant for next year's garden with her seven starving children.

"That is just one of many moving moments from the author's childhood," library associate Keela Pfaff said. "With an alcoholic father who cannot seem to keep his children clothed and fed, we learn of the horrors of malnutrition, neglect, and cruelty imposed upon his children. Unlike her brothers and sisters, however, the author wears this neglect on her face — disfigured from years of malnutrition and a complete lack of medical and dental care.

With a caring mother devoted to art and literature, Barbara and her siblings are able to glimpse some of the beauty found in this world. What readers will remember is not the self-pity and tales of abuse, but the quiet strength of the author, her siblings, and their mother as they strive to find a place for themselves in spite of their father's abuse."

The library's book discussion club for adults meets monthly to discuss a book chosen by the group's members. Each discussion is led by a participating member on a volunteer basis. Persons may call the library at 301-334-3996 for more information.

IT IS NOT REALLY A SECRET
WHEN IT IS LIKE THIS

Perhaps somebody has heard about the mountain breeze
When winter becomes spring, the lakes no longer freeze.

Perhaps somebody has gone and told
Now, the secret we can no longer hold.

Our lures and lakes bring people near.
The growing population, we fear.

Deep Creek Lake was supposed to be a secret,
but it's not.
Deep Creek Lake is the perfect spot!

SWANTON NEWS

COMMUNITY CENTER

The buckwheat cake and sausage supper held Saturday evening at the center had a sold-out crowd. Over 200 dinners were served. Anne Sweitzer and Carolyn Livengood expressed appreciation for everyone's patronage.

The February fund-raiser will be a buckwheat cake supper on the second Saturday, Feb. 9.

The regular meeting of the Swanton Community Center Inc. will be held at the center on Monday, Jan. 21, at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

SENIOR MEALS

Exercise with Jesse Skipper and bingo will be on the agenda with hot meals on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 21 and 22. Seniors may sign up by calling Bonita Rodeheaver at the center, 301-387-9191.

OTTERBEIN CHURCH

During Sunday's worship service, Pastor Meredith Ball performed the service for installing the new officers for the year 2002.

January is House of Hope month, during which persons are invited to bring donations of groceries and household goods to help replenish the shelves at the House of Hope. Persons should contact Mary June Harvey for more information.

The United Methodist Women meet the second Tuesday of each month. The UM Women met Jan. 8 at the home of Mareva Teets on Green Glade Road for the first meeting of the new year. President Mary June Harvey conducted the meeting. Local missions were reviewed. Mary June and Luella Baker told of Arthurdale, W.Va., the model town created by Eleanor Roosevelt in 1934. Mrs. Roosevelt was an orphan who believed the poorest of the poor should be able to have a home. There were 11 present. Refreshments were served.

A men's prayer meeting was held at the church Tuesday evening, led by lay leader Carl Lee.

RAY BOLTZ CONCERT

A Christian music concert will be presented March 14 at 7 p.m. at the Craig Civic Center in Kingwood, W.Va., featuring singer Ray Boltz. Tickets may be purchased from Steve and Lucinda Davis at 304-329-2566.

PERSONALS

Robert Winters was a patient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital last week. He was admitted Monday and discharged Thursday evening.

Helen Winters was visited this past week by her daughter, Barbara Sweitzer, from Carmel, Ind. She arrived Wednesday and returned home Tuesday, Jan. 15.

The Elva Tasker family (all except Paul) took their mother out to the buckwheat cake supper at the center Saturday evening. She talked with many of her friends and family. On Sunday, Elva went to Sunday school at the Walnut Bottom Assembly of God Church, where she has faithfully served as secretary for approximately 60 years.

For Sunday dinner, Elva went to her son Dale's home where they celebrated the birthday of her granddaughter, Rhonda Tasker. Later, she attended Sunday night services with her daughter, Darlene Otto. The Rev. Gary Coleman spoke from the pulpit.

Elva Tasker's first outing, while recuperating from pacemaker surgery, was on New Year's Eve. Every year she goes to the home of her grandchildren, Belinda and Bill Harvey, on Walnut Bottom Road for New Year's Eve dinner. She stayed until midnight. She usually shoots the gun; however, she left it up to the younger ones this year. The gun shooters who helped bring in the new year were Dale Tasker, Bill Harvey, B.J. Harvey, John Tichnell, Terry Lewis, Rick Tasker, and Dale's new step-son, Luke Wood. On New Year's Day, Elva visited her grandson and his wife, Jimmy and Betty Otto.

Elva, age 101, said she appreciated the Christmas carolers this past year. Carolers came from the Highway Assembly of God Church, the Mt. Zion United Methodist Church, and the Walnut Bottom Assembly of God Church. They all brought fruit baskets. Dewey Warnick came with a fruit basket, as he does every year.

Sharon Lohr hosted the Lohr family Christmas dinner this season at her home on Green Glade Road. The family gathering included Joe Browning, Dale Lohr, Lewis and Pat, Karen, Patty, and Dawn Lohr, Freddie and Carrie Lohr, Mary and Eugene Shreve, and Bonnie, Rob, and John Robert Major. Also there were Sharon's sister and brother, Katherine and Jack, and her niece Becky.

Betty Wildesen celebrated Christmas a week early. She spent the week before Christmas at the home of her son and his wife, Harold and Chris Wildesen in Crellin. Her granddaughter, Tara Lynn, with her daughter Megan from Nashville were there. Also, her grandson Andrew came home from the Air Force. Betty visited her son Gerald and his wife Sheila on Christmas Day at their home in Mtn. Lake Park. Her son Darrell also came to see her during the holidays.

Pastor Meredith Ball and his wife Maxine traveled to Fairfield, Pa., to celebrate Christmas and New Year's with all their family over a long weekend of Jan. 6. They all met at the home of their son and his wife, Mike and Franci Ball. Their daughter Monoca and her husband, Cory Dillo, came from Omaha, Neb. Their daughter Marla and her husband, John Boniford, came from Cincinnati. Meredith and Maxine said they had "a wonderful time" with their grandsons, Michael and Hunter.

Orval and Mareva Teets attended the NARVRE, Unit 103, luncheon meeting on Jan. 9 at the Ponderosa in LaVale. They were visited Saturday evening by Pastor Meredith and Maxine Ball, and Linda and John Fleming.

Linda Fleming, Mary Wilson, and Eileen Augustine of Addison, Pa., traveled to Mercer, Pa., Friday for the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Ruth VanSickle Teets. She was the wife of the late Ivan Teets, formerly of Friendsville. Ruth and Ivan Teets had four children: Landon, Pat, Ivan Jr., and Peggy. All their families were present for the funeral.

Dotty and Melvin Beckman visited Dotty's aunt, Ildra Frantz (Room 139), and Charles Grubb at the Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland on Saturday.

Mary June Harvey celebrated Christmas this past weekend with her daughter-in-law, Betty Harvey, from New Martinsville, W.Va., and her granddaughter, Rosella Hague, of Philadelphia. Mary June and Betty were breakfast guests of David and Mary Wilson on Monday.

Sunday dinner guests of Freda Teets were George and Freda Rexroad and Dave, Mary, and Joni Wilson.

On Monday, Jan. 21, Karen, Patty, and Dawn Lohr, daughters of Lewis and Pat Lohr, will fly from the Pittsburgh airport to Miami, Fla., where they will board the Carnival Cruise ship for an eight-day vacation to the Caribbean Islands.

ENJOYING MOTHER GOOSE TOGETHER — Florence Moreland, a resident of Cedar Hill Assisted Living, spends time reading Mother Goose to Kayle, Vanessa, Nathan, and Clarissa. Cedar Hill, operated by John and Kim Orendorf, is a new facility in Bittinger which offers 24-hour quality care for the elderly.

HICKORY

Garrett County Schools' Environmental Education Center

by Joseph L. Winters Coordinator

This school year we are recognizing classes as "Hickory's Finest" based on the following criteria: pre-trip preparation, appreciation and respect for nature, dressing for weather conditions, listening skills, attentiveness, appropriate manners, working with partners/teams, inquiring minds, and fun to be around.

As of December 12, these elementary school classes had been recognized: Broad Ford, first grade (Martha Neville); Dennett Road, fifth grade (Dianne Dean-Anderson); Kitzmiller, second/third grade (Patty Smith).

SCHEDULE OF CLASS VISITS

These classes are scheduled from Jan. 12 through Feb. 12: Yough Glades, fourth grade (Glenda Newcomb); Dennett Road, fourth grade (Darlene Taylor); Accident, fifth grade (Amy Sutton); Dennett Road, fifth grade (Pat Bonafield); Accident, fourth grade (Twylah Stewart); Broad Ford, fourth grade (Rhonda Savage); Friendsville, fourth grade (Donna Deal, Jarrod Hauser); Swan Meadow, grades six/seven/eight (Elizabeth Gilbert); Yough Glades, fourth grade (Robyn Nazelrod); Broad Ford, fifth grade (Virginia Grove); Dennett Road, fifth grade (Irene Sigel); Accident, second grade (Mary Jo Johnson); Crellin, fifth grade (Rebecca Sanders); Broad Ford, fifth grade (Terri Perando); Grantsville, fourth grade (Ruby Thompson); and Broad Ford, fifth grade (Debra Hinebaugh).

IN A NUTSHELL

There is a new wind chill index (chart) replacing the old one in use since 1973. The new chart factors in heat loss and the skin's resistance to cold. It includes a frostbite indicator (how long a person's skin can be exposed, given wind speed and temperature, before it will become frostbitten).

Interested persons can view the new National Weather Service wind chill chart on Hickory's web site at ga.k12.md.us/schools/hickory, and click on "weather." Our web site also has information concerning our school, class visits, weather, etc.

Hickory can be reached by phone at 301-746-8461, or via e-mail at HEEC@Excite.com.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Cedar Hill Assisted Living, a new facility located in Bittinger, offers a "country home atmosphere in a private setting."

John and Kim Orendorf operate the business, which offers 24-hour quality care, with three home-cooked meals and nutritious snacks for the residents.

"We are excited with the opening of our business," Kim said. "We have been married 10 years, [and for] nine of those years we have had an elderly person living with us. We also have children, which the elderly enjoy, and our children are looking forward to helping out with activities."

Cedar Hill is a licensed facility in the state of Maryland and it is a participant in the waiver programs. At the facility, they provide meals, assistance with medications, laundry service, and planned activities.

The facility is ground-level handicapped accessible. Kim is trained and certified in CPR, basic first aid and food safety. They also have a registered nurse on call at all times.

"We are looking forward to helping and serving the elderly in the area," John said.

Cedar Hill is located at 1318 Orendorf Road, Bittinger. Persons wanting more information may call the Orendorfs at 301-245-4448.

BOY SCOUT TROOP #53.

Troop #53 met at the United Church of Christ on Sunday. Election results for the new year were as follows: senior patrol leader, Eric Wood; Wolverine patrol leader, Adam Rounds; Wolverine assistant patrol leader, Zach Trautwein; Stag patrol leader, Brent Beachy; and Stag assistant patrol leader, Chris Wood.

Information on a Venture Patrol was given to all the Scouts who are at least 13 years old and first class.

The Scouts will again be participating in the Klondike Days Frozen First Aid Meet, which will be held at New Germany State Park this Saturday, Jan. 19. The cost is $5.

The Potomac Council 2002 popcorn sales are under way and will continue until Feb. 3. Scouts are to turn in their orders on Sunday, Feb. 3, and product delivery will be on March 3.

The next meeting will be held Sunday, Feb. 3.

NEW FIRE TRUCK READY TO GO — The Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department recently placed into service a new fire engine. Engine 81 is a 2001 Spartan six man cab chassis with a Four Guys body. It is powered by an ISL 370 Cummins motor and carries 1,000 gallons of water and is equipped with a 1,500 GPM Hale pump. The total cost of the new unit was $265,000, with $165,000 financed through the Fidelity Bank of Frostburg. Eastern Garrett thanks all community members, local businesses, and civic organizations that gave donations for Engine 81, a spokesperson said.

Named To JMU Dean's List

Heather Hanline, Oakland, has been named to the dean's list for the fall 2001 semester at James Madison University, Harrisonburg, Va. The 2000 Southern High School graduate is a sophomore at JMU, where she is majoring in communication sciences and disorders.

Hanline is the daughter of Pam and Terry Hanline of Oakland.

Third Phase Of Reading Program Begins At NMS

Northern Middle School has just finished the second phase of its new reading program and are embarking on Phase 3.

From Thanksgiving until Christmas, approximately 155 students read a total of 3,974 hours. The students will receive a "Build Your Own" ice cream sundae party as a reward.

Phase 3 is under way and runs until Valentine's Day. School administrators ask parents to encourage their children to read and keep track of their hours. Students needing a calendar to keep track of their hours may contact anyone on the reading committee.

Correction Noted

Incorrect information was submitted last week regarding a donation to the Garrett County Humane Society. Terry Boggs and Sherry Blank made a personal donation of 1,000 pounds of dog food, and were not affiliated with any business in doing so.

Local Students Earn Honors At West Virginia

A number of Garrett County students were among those who were named to the president's list and/or dean's list for outstanding academic achievement during the fall 2001 semester at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

In order to be named to the president's list at WVU, a student must earn a perfect 4.0 grade point average. Those earning a 3.5 to 3.9 average are named to the dean's list. Students must also take at least 12 credit hours of study.

Named to the president's list were Nicholas Rohrbaugh, a senior visual art major from Oakland; Richard McCrobie, a senior agricultural and environmental education major, also from Oakland; and Stephen Hinebaugh, a senior forest resources management major from Friendsville. Rohrbaugh and McCrobie are graduates of Southern High School, and Hinebaugh is a graduate of Northern High School.

Local students named to the dean's list were: Peter Winter, sophomore music major, Accident; Laurel Wolf, senior exercise physiology major, Friendsville; Jeremy Tharp, senior premathematics major, Grantsville; Anna Snyder, junior forensic and investigative science major, Mtn. Lake Park; and Stacy Lewis, foreign language/secondary education major, and Andrew Zimmerman, sophomore mechanical engineering major, both of Oakland.

"At WVU, we strive to give our students every opportunity to meet and exceed their goals, and these students have made the most of those opportunities," stated WVU president David C. Hardesty Jr. "They can be proud of the academic excellence they have achieved, and we share in that pride."

GCCAC Offering Long-Term Care Insurance Tips

Long-term eare (LTC) insurance, designed to provide coverage for nursing home placement by protecting assets, involves a major lifetime decision and is not an appropriate purchase for everyone, according to the Garrett County Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging.

"We tell people 'buyer beware,'" said June Heselbach of the Area Agency on Aging. "LTC insurance is an expensive product and the language is not standardized, so policies can be difficult to compare and evaluate."

Heselbach advises persons investigating LTC insurance policies to evaluate their support systems, a nursing home's proximity to family members, and their own living arrangements. Among the options available are senior apartments, home health care, assisted living, adult day care, and nursing home care.

"Consider buying LTC insurance if your assets (excluding your home and car) are worth $100,000 to $500,000, and your individual annual retirement income is over $30,000," Heselbach said. "Buy LTC insurance only if you can pay for it without making a lifestyle change, and can afford a possible 20 to 50 percent increase in future premiums. It is also important to understand your rights under the Spousal Impoverishment Law, which protects people from having their assets depleted to pay for nursing home care. Even people with large estates are protected under the law.

"Always fill out the application yourself and check it for accuracy, as it is a legal document and you are responsible for all information. Ask questions if anything is not crystal clear to you, and ask for any clarification you need in writing on the insurance company's letterhead. Do not sign a contract or make a payment, especially in cash, before you have shopped carefully and read the actual contracts — not just marketing materials, which can be misleading. It is also wise to indicate a Second Party notification on your contract," Heselbach explained.

Free counseling is available from with the Senior Health Insurance Program (SHIP) at the Area Agency on Aging office. Interested persons may contact Heselbach for details at 301-334-9431, ext. 142, or toll-free at 1-888-877-8403.

PAWS Offering Free Bedding To Area Pet Owners

The newly formed Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety, or PAWS, is providing free bales of straw while the supply lasts for owners of outdoor dogs. The bales will provide adequate bedding for the animals during the winter season.

The bales are available at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, 152 Oakland-Sang Run Road. Small donations for the straw will be accepted, PAWS spokesperson Caroline Robison said. Unless otherwise arranged, the limit will be one bale per household.

Robison said Garrett County winters can be extremely difficult for outside pets if owners do not take proper precautions to protect them from the harsh elements. The group has provided some tips for pet owners whose animals reside outside:

Proper housing is a definite necessity in cold climates, she said. Doghouses should be dry and draft-free, and large enough to allow the dog to sit and lie down comfortably, but small enough to hold in its body heat. The doghouse should be turned to face away from the wind, and the doorway should be covered with waterproof burlap or heavy plastic. The floor should be raised a few inches off the ground and covered with a thick layer of cedar shavings or straw. Owners should check this insulation periodically during the season and replenish or replace bedding that has become damp or trampled to the point that it has lost its insulating properties.

"Cats, short-haired dogs, and very young or older dogs have an especially hard time surviving cold winters outdoors, and should be kept inside if at all possible, especially at night," Robison said. Cats that are kept out at night often climb inside car engines for warmth. Before starting a vehicle in the morning, drivers should slap the hood to give a warning to the cat to get out of the way of the moving fan blades.

Pet owners should make sure there is plenty of fresh drinking water available, Robison said.

"Animals can't burn calories without a fresh supply of water, and if they can't burn calories, they'll get cold," she said. "Use a tip-resistant ceramic or hard plastic water bowl rather than a metal one, as your pet's tongue can stick and freeze to cold metal." Robison added that outdoor pets should be given extra food to burn the calories necessary to produce more body heat.

GCC Students Named To Fall 2001 Dean's List

The following full-time students of Garrett Community College have been named to the dean's hst for fall semester 2001, according to Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of Academic & Student Affairs. Academic requirements for this recognition are the attainment of a grade point average (GPA) of 3.50 to 4.00 with a minimum of 12 credit hours attempted.

Of the 38 dean's list students, seven attained a perfect 4.00 GPA. They are: Laurel J. Ellison and Craig R. Wishnick of Accident; John P. Gregory and Kristen P. Gregory of Grantsville; Stephanie A. Friend of McHenry; Marianne A. Unger of Mtn. Lake Park; and Adam T. Schoch of Oakland.

Other dean's list students are: Marcia L. Brenneman, Mark H. Roberts, and Leo Schlosnagle of Accident; Brian V. Haley of Cockeysville; Lauren Stillwagon of Cumberland; Ryan R. McKelvey of Delmar; Sue E. Smith, Heather D. Umbel, and Marcie A. Wampler of Friendsville; Terry M. Beachy, Heidi R. Beal, Jackie C. Resh, and Marcie K. Wilt of Grantsville; Tiffany M. Holtschneider, Lisa R. Jones, and Erin E. Lucas of Kitzmiller; Daniel E. Dockray and Erin M. Neil of McHenry; Tiffany M. Sears, Kristen E. Shaffer, and Michael R. Shahan of Mtn. Lake Park; Joanna C. Abe, Mary R. Evans, and Marla J. Fowler of Oakland; Brian P. Roderick and Danny A. Shawley of Swanton; Jason R. Blakeney of Fryeburg, Maine; Eric S. Durante of Brookville, Pa.; Dorene S. Uphold of Albright, W.Va.; Ave Kikas of Otepaa, Estonia; and Haiku Sikka of Tallinn, Estonia.

Students named to the honors list must achieve a GPA of 3.00 to 3.49 with 12 credit hours attempted. The following full-time students are recognized for this accomplishment: Seth W. Fratz, Carrie A. Hahn, and Janis C. Miller of Accident; Eric T. Preston of Elkton; Brett E. Friend, Melanie L. Harvey, Heather R. Nugent, and Janelle R. Sines of Friendsville; Laura J. Williams of Frostburg; Henry D. Elsea, Renee L. Meyers, Heather R. Miller, and Emily C. Rawe of Grantsville; Carly G. Friend, Kellee A. Gomola, and Melissa A. Hollar of McHenry; Megan D. Hickman of Mtn. Lake Park; Diana P. Laughlin of New Market.

Maria N. Evans, Amanda L. Gregory, Scott L. Jamison, Jonnie Jo L. McDaniel, Wendy A. McKenzie, Delilah A. Miller, Wilma S. O'Brien, Bonnie K. Riley, Michael A. Saturday, Tasha M. Farming

1.1 Million Acres Enrolled In Nutrient Management Program

Maryland farmers have submitted required information for approximately 1.1 million acres of cropland with the Maryland Nutrient Management Program by the Dec. 31, 2001, filing deadline, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister announced this week.

"During the final weeks of 2001 we saw a dramatic increase in activity for the program," said Secretary Mister. "We are pleased with this initial response by Maryland's agricultural community to comply with the law. However, many farmers still need to submit their plan information to us. To that end, the Maryland Department of Agriculture will work with any farmer who makes a sincere effort to comply with the law."

The information submitted includes 2,152 completed nutrient management plans covering 338,392 acres of Maryland cropland. Another 2,993 farms accounting for 757,535 acres of cropland submitted information through the Justification for Plan Submission Delay Forms, which excuses them from the deadline as they continue to work with a consultant to complete their plans.

"We encourage farmers who have not yet done so to get their plan information to us as soon as possible or let us know where they stand regardless of having missed the Dec. 31, 2001, filing deadline," Mister added. "We stand ready to assist anyone who takes steps to comply."

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 requires all Maryland farms grossing $2,500 or more or raising 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight to have a nutrient management plan by Dec. 31, 2001. Implementation deadlines vary depending on the type of fertilizer used. Farmers using chemical fertilizers are required to have a nitrogen- and phosphorus-based plan in place by Dec. 31, 2002. Farmers applying animal manure, biosolids, or other organic nutrients are required to have a nitrogen-based plan in place by Dec. 31, 2002. Development of a phosphorus-based plan for these operations is required by July 1, 2004, with implementation due by July 1, 2005. Farmers who fail to meet these deadlines or do not demonstrate that they are making a sincere effort to comply with the law may face fines or other penalties.

The Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service reports that there are approximately 1.7 million acres of crop and pastureland in Maryland. However, estimates vary on the amount of farm acreage that is required by law to have a nutrient management plan because income- and animal-number thresholds do not exactly parallel the statistical tracking framework currently used.

According to Royden H. Powell III, assistant secretary for the Office of Resource Conservation, the average size of farm operations submitting completed nutrient management plan information is 150 acres. Delay forms were submitted for larger, more complex operations, averaging more than 250 acres.

FSA COMMITTEE ELECTION RESULTS ANNOUNCED

This year's FSA Committee election was held in Local Administrative Area (LAA) 2, which is the Kingwood, Valley, and Portland districts. The new committee members and alternates took office on January 1.

Patrick Foley was re-elected by farmers in LAA 2 to represent them on the county committee and will serve a three-year term. The Foleys operate a beef cattle/sheep farm. He serves on the board of directors of the Preston County Livestock Association, and has served several years on the FSA county committee.

At the January 9 county committee organizational meeting, the following positions were determined: chairperson, Patrick Foley; vice chairperson, Dayton Bolyard; and regular member, Milford Gibson. LaDeana Teets serves as county committee advisor.

The county committee has the responsibility of administering the USDA-FSA programs for the coming year. The regular meeting day has been established as the Wednesday of the first full workweek of each month, beginning at 9 a.m. All regular sessions are open to the public.

The following persons were elected to serve on the LAA 2 Community Committee: Paul Peaslee, chairperson and first alternate to the county committee; Jean Grose, vice chairperson and second alternate to the county committee; and Joseph Montgomery, regular member.

The Preston County Farm Service Agency thanks all of the farmers who took the time to vote in this year's election. For further information regarding the role of the county and community committees' role in administering USDA-FSA programs, persons may telephone the county office at 304-329-1923.

Marketing Forest Products: Making It Happen!

The harvest of timber is something that most landowners only do once or twice in a lifetime. Whether or not the experience is a positive one will depend upon whether or not you use professional forestry assistance. Below are some common questions and misconceptions of forest landowners:

* Leaving my woodlands alone is the best for wildlife and tree growth! FALSE! No necessarily! Leaving your woodlands alone may not produce optimal wildlife habitat. Most forms of wildlife require varied types and ages of vegetation for food and shelter. In an unmanaged forest, overcrowding often retards tree growth, makes forests more susceptible to disease and insect damage, and reduces the diversity of wildlife habitats. Selective thinning provides more growing space and nutrients for desirable trees, which, in turn, reduces the stress and improves forest health. Other management techniques can be used to create needed wildlife habitat diversity. Why harvest forest products? The planting and harvest of trees is not only a way to receive some income from your property, but is also a major opportunity to improve wildlife habitat, access for recreation, and other forest benefits. However, this requires careful planning and objectives.

* Managing my woodlands takes a lot of money and time! FALSE! Improving your woodlands can actually increase your income while maintaining the environmental integrity of the landscape. Careful selection of your firewood or timber can increase the value of your woodland for wildlife, timber resources, recreation and other forest benefits, while providing income. These harvest assets can be used to build roads, improve wildlife habitats, or implement other practices that would not be otherwise affordable. Improving your woodlands does not need to take much of your time either. State foresters and wildlife biologists, as well as private consulting foresters, are available to help you develop and implement a forest stewardship plan. These professionals can assist you in enlisting the services of reputable logging operators to implement the plan. In this way, you can achieve your financial goals and enhance your woodlands.

* Careful management is a good idea, but my woodlands are too small! FALSE! Woodland areas of any size can be managed to improve wildlife habitat and tree growth. Through careful management, even small parcels of land can be maintained as scenic areas and also provide favorable conditions for wildlife. In many cases, owners of adjacent property can work together to improve management and reach shared goals.

If you would like to have more printed information on forest stewardship and marketing timber, contact my office.

Crop Insurance Workshop Rescheduled

The Crop Insurance Workshop will be held on February 5, 2002, 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the Garrett Extension Office. The originally scheduled workshop in January had to be postponed due to illness of the presenter. Dr. Wes Musser, agricultural economist, will be on hand to explain the advantages and procedures for obtaining crop insurance which now is heavily subsidized by USDA. Personally I think that farmers should take a good look at using crop insurance to manage risk of crop failure or below average yields.

Lunch will be provided; therefore, I will need your reservation by calling 301-334-6960. Those people who originally made reservations will not need to call.

Rams Are Area's "Dominators" In Crushing Keyser, PHS, Alco

Fans of the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball squad are catching their breath this morning after the top-ranked Rams ran all over Keyser, Petersburg, and Allegany this week. SHS blew away the third-ranked Golden Tornado 71-53 on Friday, slew the #2 Vikings 68-37 Monday, and scalped the Campers by a 68-34 tally last night. The trio of victories came by an average margin of 27 points, which corresponds with the Rams' average victory margin for the entire season to date.

Southern's record stands at a perfect 14-0, a string attributable to strength in all areas of the game, especially unselfish passing, and incredible quickness and hustle on both ends of the floor for 24 solid minutes per outing. At this point it would appear that the only thing that could down the Rams would be a string of injuries to key players, and although star guard Ashley Liller and standout forwards Becca Flanagan and Jennifer Bosley have been playing in pain lately, each appears on the road to mending and are expected to start against Beall Monday night.

Liller is pacing the squad, and the entire area, with a 22-point scoring average, and sophomore teammates Robin Gregg and Flanagan are both averaging in double figures as well. Fellow sophomore Justine Pagenhardt has rolled up a free-throw shooting percentage that exceeds 90 percent — a figure nothing short of amazing, and which leads all players in the area.

In a showdown befitting two of the area's top three squads, Friday night's contest with Keyser was a pitched battle through the first three quarters. The Golden Tornado, which brought a five game winning streak to Oakland, led throughout the opening period en route to a 15-13 first-quarter lead. The two combatants then exchanged the lead four times through the second period as SHS rebounded to go up 29-25 at the half. The Rams held a 45-40 lead as the fourth quarter opened, then ran away with the game in the final stanza by outscoring the visitors 26-13 as Liller scored 12 points over the last eight minutes.

Southern took full advantage of Keyser's second-half switch from a 2-3 zone defense to man-to-man coverage by using its speed to push the ball up the court in what has become a fearsome fast-break offense. "Even though we were only ahead by five at halftime, and Keyser was fired up thinking about an upset, I felt good because we've been a very good second-half team all year," Stemple commented of his squad's success.

That observation began to be borne out beginning in the closing seconds of the third quarter, as Liller hit a field goal to put the Rams up by five. The guard continued on a tear as the fourth quarter got under way by scoring five more consecutive points to double Southern's lead to 50-40 with 6:13 to play. "When the game was close Ashley either scored for us or the ball was in her hands, which drew the defense to her. One or two passes later, we would score," said Stemple. "They just didn't have an answer for her."

Flanagan drew a crucial fifth foul on Keyser's Autumn Beavers halfway through the final stanza to bench the visitors' main offensive weapon for good. The contest could have gone either way as the Rams held a one-point lead with 1:18 to play, but Flanagan snagged a steal, and the ball ended up in Liller's hands for a three-point play that put Southern up 65-61.

Unselfish team passing and blazing speed were the keys to the Rams' win, neutralizing the Tornado's size advantage which had helped the visitors record 8 of their 11 first-half field goals in the lane or at the low post. Keyser had been having great success so far in the season by virtue of its physical game, and had brought an 8-2 record into Friday's contest. "Their size created mismatches for them, but we were able to make things work to our favor at the other end of the floor, where we had an advantage with our quickness," remarked Stemple.

Liller's 33 points, 20 of which came in the second half, bested her previous career high of 29 as she went 12-for-22 from the field and sank nine of 13 foul shots. The 5-7 senior tied Keyser's Carrie Barrick for high-rebound honors with 9 takedowns, and also snagged 5 steals and handed out 4 assists. Liller and Flanagan combined for 20 of SHS's 26 fourth-quarter points as the forward added 8 points to Liller's dozen in the stanza. For the night Flanagan contributed 12 points on near-perfect shooting, hitting 4 of 5 field goal attempts and connecting on all four of her free throws, and rounded out a fine all-around performance with 6 rebounds and 5 steals. Guard Justine Pagenhardt recorded 11 points and dished out a game-high 7 assists.

Despite a marked height deficit — Keyser fielded two 6-foot and two 5-10 starters — SHS won the battle of the boards in outrebounding the visitors 34-26.

Southern's junior varsity took a 40-32 win behind Jasmine Scheffel's 24 points. Jaimie Love recorded 12 for Keyser.

Monday night Rams squared off against #2 Petersburg, which had only lost once earlier in the season in a 66-45 SHS rout on the Vikes' home floor. Just as in that Dec. 19 contest, Southern scorched the court from start to finish. SHS's 15-point win was not as "close" as the score would indicate, for Southern led throughout. The Rams were up 18-5 after one quarter, 30-15 at the half, and 54-25 as the final stanza opened — an insurmountable 29-point margin.

The only moment close to a scare came when the Vikings got off to a hot start in the second half, as Katie Lambert hit back-to-back jumpers, Erika Kuykendall sank a baseline jumper, and Janell Hedrick reeled off a fastbreak layup to cut the Rams' lead to 10, 33-23, with 6:05 remaining in the third quarter.

"When they came back to make it a 10-point difference, I told my coaches that if we gave up one more field goal I would call a timeout," stated Stemple. "But this team is very businesslike. They knew the situation and did what they had to do."

Gregg picked up the Rams' reins and gave them a kick by hitting a jump shot that sparked a 5-for-6 field goal run, along with a free throw, for the sophomore guard over the next six minutes of play. By the end of the spurt, when Liller hit a spinning layup and added insult to injury by drawing a foul and converting a three-point play, Gregg's 11-point jumpstart in those crucial first six minutes had led to a 21-2 SHS run in the midst of the 24-10 Ram quarter.

"When we pulled to within 10 points, they kicked it up a notch," Vikings' head coach Mitch Webster said. "That's indicative of a good team, and they showed just how good of a team they are. And their passing was phenomenal all night long. We tried some sagging man-to-man defense, a match-up zone, and a diamond-and-one to try to key on Liller — but they just picked us apart," admitted the PHS skipper.

That assessment was borne out by the stats summary. In picking PHS apart, Southern's unselfish passing led to a number of bread-and-butter high percentage shots. SHS sank 12 of 22 field goals in the first half, and 26 of 51 for the night. All but automatic from the foul line, the Rams sank 15 of 19 free throws with Liller leading the way with a 6-for-7 tally.

"The closer the shot, the better," Stemple pointed out. "We've got a very unselfish team. If someone has the ball and a shot, but another player has an opportunity for a better shot, then that's where the ball goes. Another thing we've been doing well is getting the ball inside, then when the defense collapses we kick it out to the perimeter for an open shot."

Liller paced the scoring with 24 points by canning 9 of 20 field goal attempts along with her six free throws. Gregg netted 7 of 13 shots from the floor, including her lone three-pointer attempt and 3 of 4 foul shots, for 18 points. Pagenhardt contributed 13 points on 5 of 9 field goal shooting and three successful free-throw attempts, and Bosley and Flanagan each added six points.

Pagenhardt helped the Rams rule the boards by grabbing a game-high 10 rebounds to record a double-double; Liller, Flanagan, and Nina Stoner accounted for seven rebounds each, and Gregg snagged six. Southern dominated in the paint to run up a 46-29 rebounding advantage. Pagenhardt rounded out her fine all-around performance by dishing out seven assists to lead all passers, while Gregg and Liller both recorded six assists.

In shutting down PHS's offense, the hustling Rams stymied a trio of the best scorers in the area. Lambert, who came into the contest with a 14.4 ppg average, and Hedrick, who had tallied 41 points over her two previous outings, were held to 10 points apiece. Kuykendall, the area's fifth leading scorer entering the game at 18.2 ppg, walked away with a measly seven points.

Earlier in the evening, Southern's junior varsity

#1 RAMS RUN AND GUN TO 14-0 — When you're hot, you're hot, and the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team was on fire this week as the Rams crushed Keyser, Petersburg, and Allegany by an average of 27 points each. SHS's fast-breaking offense rolled up bucket after bucket during each contest, as aggressive passing on the Rams' part kept finding the open man for an easy shot. Senior ballhandler Ashley Liller (#21), the area's leading scorer with a 22-point per game average, is shown above cutting toward the lane during Monday's 31-point demolition of second-ranked Petersburg, as teammate Jennifer Bosley (#13) "lays" down a pick. Liller scored 33 points in the previous outing against #3 Keyser. Sophomore guard Justine Pagenhardt (#10) is shown below sailing in for an easy runaway layup. Pagenhardt leads the area in free-throw shooting at 90 percent-plus, and she, classmate Robbin Gregg, and Liller round out the speediest backcourt trio in the WMIL. An excellent Beall squad brings an eight-game winning streak and a 12-1 record to Oakland for a 7:30 p.m. league showdown Monday night.

Northern Bags Elks; Falls To Tough Mountaineers, Sentinels

Still looking for the right pieces to complete the puzzle, Northern High School's girls' varsity basketball squad dropped two out of three contests this week, despite excellent scoring performances from forward Amanda Frantz and strong rebounding by Bridget Frazee. NHS trounced Salisbury 55-23 last Wednesday, Jan. 9, before narrowly falling to Beall, one of the area's top teams, by a slim 64-60 margin Saturday. Fort Hill took a 53-38 win from the Huskies Monday as Northern's record fell to 5-7.

Last Wednesday the Huskies used a 19-point performance by Amanda Frantz to rout visiting Salisbury by 32 points. Jolene Brenneman added 10 points, Lyndsi Butler 8, and Bridget Frazee and Heather Lander scored 7 each. NHS was up 8-2 after one quarter, 24-8 at the half, and 37-18 as the fourth quarter opened.

Frantz turned in a career game Saturday at Beall, but the Huskies saw a strong start against the powerhouse Mountaineers evaporate into a narrow four-point defeat. NHS held good leads of 21-13 after the first period, and 31-24 at the half, but the Mounties chipped away to come within a 43-42 margin as the final stanza got under way. Beall used a 22-17 push over the fourth quarter to take the win and up its record to 10-1.

Frantz had a superb day, leading all scorers by far with 29 points on nine field goals and a perfect 11-for-11 free-throw tally. Frazee scored 13 points and wiped the boards clean for a game-high 18 rebounds, and Lander dished out four assists. Beall's Whitney Wilson had 18 points for the hosts, who improved their record to 10-1.

The NHS junior varsity dropped a 49-36 contest to the Mounties, despite the Huskies' Jeseca Gibson's game-high 18-point performance. Corrie Felker had 12 points for Beall.

NHS COULD HAVE USED MORE OPEN SHOTS against Fort Hill Monday night, as the Northern High girls' varsity was defeated by a 53-38 margin. The Huskies' Bridget Frazee (#44), who is having an excellent year on both offense and defense, is shown above popping in a short-range jumper. Fellow forward Lyndsi Butler (#34) is pictured at right tossing up an uncontested bucket. Northern's record stands at 5-7 heading into Monday's homecourt contest with the Frankfort Falcons. Tip-off is 6 p.m. for the junior varsity game, and 7:30 p.m. for the varsity battle.

Monday night's match-up with Fort Hill proved to be a game of two halves. Northern battled the visitors through the first half, and was down by slim 12-9 and 25-23 margins at the end of the first and second quarters, respectively, but the Sentinels began to slowly take control in the second half. FH led 35-28 at the opening of the fourth quarter, and went on an 18-10 run over the final eight minutes to claim the 15-point win.

Frantz netted a team-high 14 points for the Huskies, while Frazee scored 8 points and took down 9 rebounds. Lander contributed 7 points. The Sentinels' (7-5) Jessica George turned in the top performance of the night with 19 points and 12 rebounds.

Northern's JV fell by a 45-36 margin. Gibson turned in a 15-point tally, second only to FH's Leah Gonzalez's 18-point performance.

The Huskies are idle until Monday, when they host the Frankfort Falcons. A rematch with the powerhouse Southern Rams looms ahead Wednesday in Oakland. Game times are 6 p.m. for the junior varsity, and 7:30 p.m. for the varsity unit.

Youth Night Set For Tomorrow's NHS Hoops Game

Tomorrow (Friday) evening's Northern High School boys' basketball home contest against Hancock will mark Northern Youth Basketball League Night. All youth league basketball players wearing their game jerseys will be admitted free to the NHS gym. The junior varsity game gets under way at 6 p.m., and the varsity contest tips off at 7:30 p.m.

Condoerr Finally Loses Game In Mtn. Top League

After recording four straight championships and three undefeated seasons, Condoerr finally lost a game in Mountaintop Basketball League action this past Sunday, falling to Smiley's, 71-60.

Mike Harvey poured in 28 points and Joe Refosco hit 20 for the Smiley's gang, who actually won the game at the foul line, from which they made good on 19 of 26 opportunities.

The contest was close throughout, but Condoerr never could get any closer than four points. With about 2:30 left in the game, Condoerr's Dennis Gibson missed a driving lay-up that would have cut the lead to two. Refosco responded with a three-point play to push the lead back to seven points. Condoerr was forced to foul, and the Smiley's players connected on nine of 10 tosses in the fourth quarter to secure the win.

Condoerr was 8-for-10 at the charity stripe.

Also reaching double figures for Smiley's was Jason Shreve, who was allowed by Condoerr to play for Smiley's since the team had only four players show up. He finished with 10 points, including nine from three-point range.

Leading Condoerr was Gibson with 20 points, while Tom Stem recorded 12 and Poke Winters, 11.

Midas won the second game, topping 84 Lumber, 66-59, behind a 26-point performance by Joe DiSimone. Midas trailed by one at the end of the first quarter, 13-12, but held four-point advantages at halftime and after three periods.

Greg Mortimer led 84 Lumber's offense with 21 points, and Nate Haskiell added 10.

Game 3 was also close, with Skiles hanging on for a 75-69 win over Copeland's, despite a 30-point effort by Doug Copeland. Nathaniel Panther, Nathan Stephens, and Bryan Panther led Skiles with 21, 18, and 15 points, respectively. Also reaching double figures was Copeland's Jason Shreve with 13.

Games slated for this Sunday, Jan. 20, will pit Condoerr vs. Plaza Hobby in the first contest, followed by Midas against Copeland's, and Skiles vs. 84 Lumber. Respective scorekeepers are Copeland, Skiles, and Midas.

Quality Machine, Markwood, Gonder League Winners

In Recreational Basketball League games played Sunday, Quality Machine defeated Patterson Boat Company, 51-44; Markwood Citgo topped Mettiki Coal, 77-51; and Gonder Insurance stopped Garrett Mine Supply, 61-47.

Mike Harvey paced Quality Machine in scoring with 18 points, while Dave Bender led Patterson with 16. Rick Selders and Tom Stem finished with 25 and 22 points, respectively, for Markwood, and Brian Wilt led Mettiki with 16. Scoring leaders for Gonder were Billy Braithwaite with 22 and Jimmy Reall with 15, while Jon Price scored 16 to pace Garrett Mine.

Games slated for this Sunday, Jan. 20, will pit Gonder against Markwood at 6 p.m., Mettiki vs. Patterson Boat at 7 p.m., and Garrett Mine Supply against Quality Machine at 8 p.m. dropped a close 31-27 battle. SHS's Mandy King led all scorers with 8 points, while Bethany Hedrick recorded 7 for the visitors.

For a squad known to put together superb team efforts, the Rams outdid themselves last night against Allegany with unselfish play that got everyone in the act.

The Rams exploded from the opening tip-off by running up an 18-2 first-quarter lead on the way to a 31-11 halftime advantage. SHS used a 24-9 third-quarter run to open up a 55-20 lead as the fourth quarter opened.

Liller led all scorers with 22 points, hitting nine field goals and all four of her free throws while dishing out seven assists. Gregg hit for 15 points on seven field goals and one foul shot, and Pagenhardt rounded out the backcourt fireworks with 13 points on five field goals and three free throws. Flanagan netted 10 points and pulled down a game-high 13 rebounds to record a double-double, and Bosley scored six points while turning in her standard tough defensive performance in helping her teammates hold Allegany to just 11 field goals on the night.

Alco's Shannae Proud led the Campers with 11 points, the only player on her team to hit for a double figure. Just this past Saturday, Allegany had four players reach double figures as the Campers scored 58 points against Tygarts Valley.

SHS's junior varsity thumped Allegany by a 39-16 tally, as Mandy King scored 15 Ram points.

At the risk of sounding repetitive, it must be underscored again that Southern's foul shooting (among the Rams' many strengths) is outstanding as Pagenhardt and her teammates are all but shredding the nets from the foul line. As a team, the Rams lead the area with a .700-plus free-throw percentage. Coach Stemple has to be grateful the Rams' concentration at the charity stripe, for if the going gets tough in the post-season, free throws could well be the difference in a close game, especially if opponents are forced to foul SHS ballhandlers down the stretch.

Southern finishes out a six-game homestand this week as the Rams host Beall Monday and Northern Wednesday. Tip-off for the varsity games is 7:30 p.m., following the 6 p.m. junior varsity contests.

Rams Rally To Cage Lions Before Taming Wildcats

A lackluster first half nearly cost the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team a game Saturday night in Parsons, W.Va., where the Rams took on a determined Tucker County team. After trailing for three quarters, Coach Tom Bosley's squad finally seized the momentum and gained control in the final eight minutes to record a 57-54 victory.

The Rams had a somewhat easier time last night, as they pulled away in the second half and topped host Westmar, 49-37.

The pair of victories upped their overall record to 8-3. The Rams have won their last five games and will attempt to keep their streak going this Friday against visiting Allegany.

Ricky Reams was the hero for the Rams Saturday against Tucker County, as he scored a dozen of his game total of 18 points in the fourth quarter to spearhead a winning rally. Southern trailed at the end of the first quarter of action, 18-11, were down by a 38-24 margin at halftime, and were still one point behind after three quarters, 42-21.

The rally actually began in the third quarter, as the Rams went on a 10-0 run to open the period and cut the Mountain Lions' lead to 38-34. That spurt was paced by Bryson Meyers and Dennis Tressler, with each hitting a pair of baskets. Both also finished in double figures along with Reams, with Tressler scoring 13 points and Meyers, 10.

The score was tied at 50-50 late in the fourth period when Southern's Chad Panther hit a pair of free throws. The Lions then hit back-to-back buckets to make it 54-50, but a three-point play by Reams cut Tucker's lead back to one, 54-53.

Two free throws by Meyers gave the Rams the lead for good, 55-54, and with time running out, the Mountain Lions were forced to foul Reams, who hit two more free throws with just seven seconds left in the game.

The Mountain Lions finished with a 21-20 edge in field goals, and hit seven three-point baskets. But the Rams made good on 15 of 24 free-throw opportunities, while the Lions converted five of 10 attempts.

Dave Gsell, who hit three long-range buckets, led Tucker in scoring with 14 points. Adam Wilfong also reached double figures with 10.

Dennis Tressler was the only Ram to reach double figures in scoring last night against pesky Westmar, and once again it was from the free-throw line that Southern chalked up its eighth win. Both teams finished with 17 field goals, with the Wildcats hitting three three-pointers to none, but the Rams converted 13 of 21 free tosses while Westmar went to the foul line just once and connected on two of two.

The Wildcats played almost evenly with the Rams throughout the first half, with Southern up by two points, 10-8, at the end of the first period, and ahead by just one, 19-18, at half-time. The Rams then outscored their hosts in the third stanza by a 14-7 margin to take a 33-26 advantage into the final quarter.

Westmar was forced to foul in the last period, and the Rams not only converted most of those opportunities, but also kept the Wildcats from going to the line. Southern was tagged for just seven fouls in the entire game.

Providing a balanced scoring effort for the Rams, along with Tressler, were Chad Panther, Ricky Reams, and Matt Stephens, who each finished with eight points.

Leading Westmar (2-8) was Andrew Nicol with a game-high 12 points. Curtis Broadwater scored nine.

Friday's game against visiting Allegany will tip off at 7:30 p.m. (junior varsity game at 6 p.m.). The Rams will travel to Keyser next Tuesday.

NHS Shellacked By 35 Points At Fort Hill

A Tuesday night road trip by Northern High School boy's varsity basketball team to Fort Hill ended in a 79-44 Husky defeat at the hands of the host Sentinels, one of the area's top teams. NHS's record dipped below .500 after the loss, which gave the Huskies a 5-6 record (1-4 WMIL).

The two squads traded baskets through an evenly matched first quarter, which ended with Northern down by just one point at 14-13. The Sentinels picked up the pace in the second stanza, however, running up a 38-26 lead at the half. Fort Hill blew the doors off the gym with a 26-7 run in the third period that gave the Sentinels a 64-33 advantage as the final stanza got under way.

Northern's firepower on offense came from Andrew Frantz, Jensen Long, and Jason Rice, who scored eight points apiece. FH's Josh Repac paced all scorers with 26 points.

The Huskies' junior varsity unit came up on the short end of a 65-35 Fort Hill victory. Billy Jones netted 10 points for NHS while the Sentinels' got 16 points from both Antwon Kyler and Andre Pope.

Tomorrow night will be Youth Basketball League Night (see separate story) at NHS as the Huskies host the Hancock Panthers in a 6 p.m. JV game and a 7:30 p.m. varsity contest. The Northern squad travels to Paw Paw Monday to take on the Pirates' powerhouse.

Ram JVs Downed By PHS, Tucker; Crush Wildcats

The Southern High School boys' junior varsity basketball team started off slow in recent play by dropping two outings, to Petersburg and Tucker, before rebounding to trounce Westmar last night. The three contests, each of which took place on the road, give the Rams a 5-3 record heading into tomorrow night's home showdown with Allegany's JV.

Petersburg took a 45-37 win over SHS on Tuesday, Jan. 8. The Rams' leading performer was Anthony Ablonczy, who turned in a double-double of 19 points and 14 rebounds, while the Vikings were paced by Jacob Weinke's 18 points.

Tucker triumphed over the Rams 59-48 Saturday, despite a fine one-two SHS offensive punch from Cory Bosley and Corey Tressler, who netted 18 and 15 points, respectively. Joel Sines had 18 for the Mountain Lions.

Southern returned to the winning column last night at Westmar, taming the Wildcats in a 53-28 runaway win. Ablonczy had 10 points to pace the Rams, and Westmar's Russell Miller led all scorers with 13 points.

The SHS jayvees will tip off at 6 p.m. tomorrow night as they host the Campers. The varsity battle gets under way at 7:30 p.m.

SMC Grapplers Finish Fourth Among 82 Teams

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team traveled to North Hill High School in Pittsburgh this past weekend, and was one of 82 teams from all over the East in attendance. When the day of competition was finally complete, the local club finished in 4th place, only one point out of third.

"This was as tough a tournament as we have seen in a long time," commented Coach George Scheffel. "Our kids did great, despite the high level of competition."

The SMC's only individual champion on Saturday was Jakob Scheffel, who won all his bouts before finally pinning his opponent in the finals. Scheffel remains unbeaten in his own age group. Placing second, losing only their final matches, were Lex Ozias and Jakob's older brother, "Brutus" Scheffel. Ryan Fitzwater placed third and Jason Warnick placed 4th in Pittsburgh.

Also competing and winning matches, but falling short of winning trophies, were Coy Ozias, Justin Ratliff, Jeremy Gregory, Nicholas Brant, Justin Fitzwater, and Christopher Tepper.

This weekend, 10 SMC wrestlers will travel to Tulsa, Okla., to compete in the Tulsa Nationals, regarded by most youth wrestling experts as "the toughest tournament in the world." The remaining team members will participate in the Southern Garrett vs. Northern Garrett youth wrestling exhibition that will be held at Southern High School prior to tonight's varsity match between the cross-county rivals. Wrestling will begin at 6 p.m. with the varsity match set for 7:30.

The following Saturday, Jan. 26, the Southern Mat Club will host a tournament that will also be held in the Southern High gym. This tournament annually draws young wrestlers from at least five states. Wrestling will start at 9:30 a.m. and continue throughout most of the day. "This is a great opportunity for local fans to come out and see the local team compete against some wrestlers," Coach Scheffel commented.

Skiing Lessons Being Offered At State Park

Cross-country skiing lessons will be offered at Herrington Manor State Park on Saturday, Jan. 19, and Sunday, Jan. 20, if snow conditions will allow. The 30-minute lessons will begin each day at 11 a.m. and will cover the basics of cross-country skiing.

Cross-country skis can rented at the Herrington Manor Lake House on a first-come, first-served basis.

To register, persons should call 301-334-9180. Class size will be limited. There will be a $5 charge per person. Ski conditions may be checked at the web site www.skimaryland.com.

Evening sledding will take place at the park on Friday, Jan. 18, from 6 until 9 p.m. The hill will be lighted, and a fire will be maintained for sledders to warm themselves. Admission will be free and a limited number of sleds will be available to rent.

Huskies Continue Control Of Local Mats By Pinning Rams

Although the Southern High School wrestling team fared somewhat better last Thursday against the always-powerful Northern High Huskies than in most of their encounters in recent years, the undefeated (regular matches) Huskies nonetheless recorded a comfortable 48-27 victory over the Rams on Southern's mats. The two teams will do battle again tonight at the Cove.

Taking away three forfeits, the Huskies won six matches and the Rams, four.

All six of the Huskies' individual victories on the mats were by pinfall. Earning those pins were Eric Garlitz in the 119-pound division, Mitchell Guard at 135, Darric Kamp at 145, Jordan Brenneman at 152, Kris Knox at 160, and Trey Brenneman at 275. Randall Fratz (103) and John Beachy (189) were each awarded forfeits.

The Rams finished with three pins, recorded by Justin Gregory in the 112-pound division, Chris Hayhurst at 140, and Riff Browning at 171. In a battle between two outstanding freshmen, Southern's Scott Wildesen edged Northern's Michael Wolf on points, 7-6. Ram Joe Ashby (125) received a forfeit.

The win upped Northern's regular-season record to 9-0, while the Rams dropped to 2-8.

Tonight's clash at Northern will begin at 7:30 p.m.

NORTHERN (48)
SOUTHERN (27)
103 - Randall Frantz, N, won by forfeit.
112 - Justin Gregory, S, pinned Michael Pickrel, 2:31.

Arsenal Girls Participate In Frostburg Event

Several Arsenal Football Associates girls' teams participated in the Frostburg Indoor Soccer Tournament on January 13.

The under-18 Arsenal squad was edged 1-0 by a select Hagerstown team which included members of the state champion Smithsburg team. Alasha Rusli garnered 15 saves for Arsenal.

In the team's second match, Arsenal was nipped again, this time by a 2-1 score, by a team from Martinsburg. Megan Burnet scored Arsenal's goal, unassisted, and Rush stopped 15 shots in goal.

In the final U-18 match, Arsenal topped an Epic team from West Virginia, 1-0, with Brittney Naylor scoring the only goal of the contest. Rush had one save and Allison Ulino recorded four.

The U-16 Arsenal team finished with two losses and one time. They were whipped by an Epic team from Martinsburg, 6-0, in the first match, tied Allegany Soccer Alliance, 1-1, in the second contest, and fell to a team from Hagerstown in the third match-up, 2-0. Rush had 14, 11, and 12 saves, respectively. Scoring the only goal for Arsenal was Emily Bowman off an assist by Shar Hollingsworth.

The Arsenal U-14 girls played to a scoreless tie with Beall in their first match, and then lost their other three matches to Hagerstown and Beall, 3-0, 3-0, and 1-0.

Arsenal Football will field 12 teams in a tournament this Sunday at Bridgeport, W.Va.

Caring for Infants with Diarrhea

Diarrhea is one of the most common — and sometimes serious — health problems that occur in infants. The normal digestion of food requires the presence of certain "desirable" bacteria in the intestine. However, some bacteria can cause disease, especially if a child's immune system isn't mature enough to fight such organisms. Premature babies are especially at risk.

The primary problem associated with diarrhea is dehydration. Dehydrated babies may be drowsy or irritable; the skin may lose its firmness; and the eyes and soft spot on the top of the head may become sunken. Severe cases usually require a physician's care. Giving a replacement electrolyte solution, such as Pedialyte, can help. If the infant is extremely ill, intravenous fluids to replace lost water and body salts often are needed. Antibiotics usually aren't given unless the doctor is concerned that infection is spreading. Giving antidiarrheal drugs to infants is controversial and may actually cause harm. Such medicines may prevent the child's body from flushing harmful organisms into the stools. An oral rotavirus vaccine is not available to help prevent severe gastroenteritis and diarrhea due to this infection.

House Bill Would Allow Sunday Deer Hunting To Thin Population

by Hanah Cho
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Sunday deer hunts would be allowed under a proposed statewide plan to thin the burgeoning deer population in Maryland. Under a bill in the House of Delegates, the deer hunting season for firearms would be extended statewide and would include up to three Sundays, an exemption to the current state law.

However, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, and parts of Frederick counties and the cities of Baltimore and Frederick would be excluded from Sunday deer hunts.

In those areas, the bill allows the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to use sharpshooters, lethal darts, or euthanasia to cull deer herds.

Although many counties have their own deer management plans, the bill is a statewide remedy, said Delegate Norman H. Conway, D-Wicomico, a sponsor along with 16 other delegates.

"Increased population of deer is showing up in areas where they haven't been observed before, like in communities and businesses," Conway said Friday.

In fact, the deer population has steadily increased throughout the Northeast since the early 1900s, said Paul Peditto, director of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources' Wildlife and Heritage Service. The state estimates there are 35 deer per square mile on average in Maryland's suburban areas, Peditto said. These animals have been blamed for causing traffic hazards and destroying crops and landscape.

Since 1998, the state has operated under a 10-year comprehensive deer management plan that includes both lethal and nonlethal methods of reducing herds, including fencing and contraceptives on an experimental basis, Peditto said.

"Our ultimate goal is to stabilize deer numbers in the state until...the deer population is in balance with habitation and human neighbors," Peditto said.

Similar bills in the past have failed in the General Assembly, and a heated debate is also expected this time around. The state's Department of Natural Resources has not taken a position on the bill, said spokeswoman Heather Lynch.

The Humane Society of the United States and the Fund for Animals both oppose the bill, arguing that Sunday is the only day of respite during the hunting season.

"Hunters pursue and kill wildlife six of seven days, and homeowners and farmers and outdoor enthusiasts should have a day where they don't have to contend with hunters discharging firearms in the woods and the fields," said Wayne Pacelle, senior vice president of the Humane Society.

Conway acknowledged there would be opposition against Sunday deer hunts, but said the proposed bill is a foundation for later discussions on the issue.

Special Olympics Honors Garrett County Directors

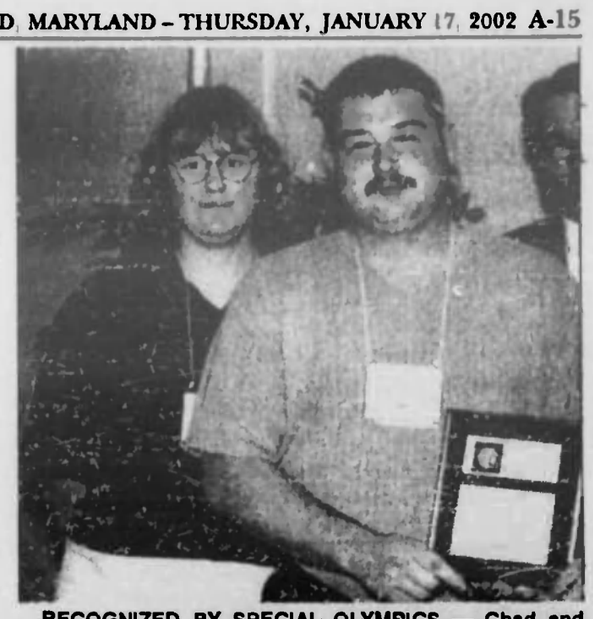
Chad and Christine Brown, a Grantsville couple, received statewide recognition recently for their efforts in helping form a Special Olympics chapter in Garrett County. The Browns shared the 2001 Bob Janus Award for Outstanding New County Director, which was presented at the Special Olympics Maryland (SOMD) Sports Leadership Conference awards banquet in November.

Co-directors of the Garrett County SOMD chapter, the Browns were honored at the Sports Leadership Conference at the University of Maryland in College Park, an education and discussion conference open to all Special Olympics Maryland volunteers. "The Browns took a program that was non-existent four years ago and grew it into a major competing force," the awards presenter commented at the banquet, which was attended by nearly 200 volunteers, staff and guests of Special Olympics Maryland.

The Garrett County chapter had ceased operations for approximately 10 years before the Browns reformed the local organization. Since then the chapter's roster has grown from 2 to 54 athletes, who participate in seven sports—downhill skiing, cross-country skiing, bowling, floor hockey, basketball, bicycling, and soccer.

The Special Olympics Maryland program provides children and adults with developmental disabilities with year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports. "These opportunities develop physical fitness and self-esteem, and encourage the sharing of each individual athlete's gifts, skills, and friendship with their families, other Special Olympics athletes and the community," a spokesperson said.

Those interested in Garrett County Special Olympics services for athletes, or in volunteer opportunities in a variety of capacities, may contact the Browns at 301-895-3793.



RECOGNIZED BY SPECIAL OLYMPICS — Chad and Christine Brown, Grantsville, were honored by the statewide Special Olympics Maryland organization recently as they were presented with the Bob Janus Award. The award recognizes their work in forming and serving as directors of the current Garrett County Special Olympics chapter. The local chapter, which was formed four years ago, has grown from an initial roster of four athletes to more than 50 participants, who take part in a variety of athletic and social activities.

Lakers Fall To Nationally Ranked Cecil; Top Baltimore

The Garrett Community College men's basketball team split a pair of Maryland JUCO games this past week, falling to nationally ranked Cecil on Saturday in McHenry, 93-82, and then topping host Baltimore last night, 80-72. The results left the Lakers with a 12-4 overall record and a 6-2 mark in JUCO competition.

The Lakers trailed Cecil, ranked fourth in the NJCAA Division II national poll, by a lopsided 50-31 margin at halftime of Saturday's game, but out-scored their hosts in the second half, 51-43. In fact, the Lakers ultimately lost the game at the foul line, as they out-gunned Cecil from the floor by a 32-29 margin. Cecil had 50 shots from the foul line and converted 36 of them, while Garrett made good on 11 of 21 attempts.

"We made a lot of freshman mistakes in the first half," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson. "But we came back and played much better in the second half, even though we gave them so many chances at the foul line."

Darren Stackhouse and Jontae Harrington led the Lakers in a balanced scoring effort with 16 points apiece, plus Stackhouse also pulled down a team-high 11 rebounds. Sam Brown netted 14 points, Kortaa Hall finished with 13, and Duke Cooper recorded 10 points and nine assists.

Leading Cecil was Michael Scott with a game-high 26 points, half of which were scored from the charity stripe. Juan Rozier and Elijah Holland each connected for 14 points, and Justin Ien contributed 11.

, The victory upped once-beaten Cecil's overall record to 13-1 and its JUCO mark to 6-1.

Kortaa Hall, the leading scoring for the Lakers, fulfilled that role last night against Baltimore City Community College as he netted 23 points, while Harrington finished with 17, Sam Brown scored 12, and Andrew Wass recorded 11, nine of which were from three-point range.

Hall hit eight field goals, including four three-pointers, and was 3-for-4 at the foul line. Harrington crashed the boards for 18 rebounds, and Stackhouse pulled down nine. Cooper also dished out nine assists.

The score was knotted at 9-9 early, but the Lakers took the lead shortly thereafter and never trailed. They were up by a 37-22 margin at intermission.

"We played well offensively in spurts," Coach Gibson said. "We had a little trouble with their quickness, but they really couldn't match up with us inside."

The Lakers dominated the rebounding game by a 62-33 margin.

Leading the Red Devils in scoring was Robert Jiles with 22 points. Shawn Corbin scored 16, Donald Thomas had 12, and Dwayne Williams chipped in with 10.

The loss dropped Baltimore to 3-13 overall and 1-8 in JUCO contests.

The Lakers will be on the road again this Saturday at Frederick, and will entertain the College of Southern Maryland next Wednesday. A home game that was slated for next Monday against the Fayette Campus of Penn State has been cancelled.

DESPITE THE LAKERS' HUSTLE, the Garrett Community College women's basketball squad was not able to snare a win against a powerful Baltimore City Community College team Saturday in McHenry. Garrett fell by an 81-68 margin and now has a 4-6 record. Freshman Laker guard Juakeena Bell (#15) is shown above working around a perfectly placed pick by teammate Carrie Pardue (#21). GCC forward and Southern High alumni Charlena Reeves (#45) is pictured below hustling after a loose ball, with fellow Laker Kristen Maynard (#30) also in hot pursuit as she battles a BCCC opponent. Garrett visits Prince George's CC tomorrow evening.

Baltimore Downs Laker Women On McHenry Court

The women's basketball team of Garrett Community College fell to Baltimore City Saturday 81-68, despite a double-double performance by sophomore Laker guard Crystal Kimble. Garrett's record stands at 4-6, although the results of last night's road game at Frederick were not made available as of this morning.

Long-distance shooting helped Baltimore City do in the Lakers on their McHenry floor, as the visitors sank a total of nine three-pointers en route to a 13-point win. Baltimore had held a 43-30 halftime lead over the Lakers midway through the contest.

Kimble led GCC with 17 points and 10 rebounds. Teammate Christi Edgell contributed 16 points in hitting four three-pointers, a two-point field goal, and sinking both of her free throws, while also handing out five assists. Mindy Miller had 12 points, and Charlena Reeves recorded 10 points. Baltimore got 21 points from Markeisha Mullen and 17 from Shanique Skinner.

The Lakers play at Prince George's tomorrow night, then sojourn to CCBC-Essex for a Monday evening match-up.

Children, Youth Admitted Free To FSU Hoop Games

Frostburg State University is offering free admission for all children and youth in grades K-12 when the FSU women's and men's basketball squads take on La Roche College on Wednesday, Jan. 23. The Allegheny Mountain Conference doubleheader gets under way at 6 p.m. with the Bobcat women's game, followed by the Bobcat men's contest at 8 p.m.

The free admission offer is FSU's welcome for "J.J. Jumper," the official mascot of NCAA Basketball. The mascot will be giving away prizes to fans, performing routines during timeouts and at halftime, mingling with the crowd during breaks in the action, and posing for pictures and signing autographs during the intermission between the games.

J.J. Jumper has been making appearances at Division I, II, and III men's and women's basketball games throughout the 2001-02 season, promoting healthy physical, emotional, and educational values, plus youth basketball participation and sportsmanship.

Fair Board

said Glotfelty. "Every kid...is important to us."

Devlin said that one side of the building could be enlarged to accommodate 4-H exhibits and smaller gatherings, without greatly adding to the building's cost.

"How are we going to maintain this building?" asked Ralph Miller. "It's a lot of upkeep."

"We service our own debt," added Lee Shillingburg. "It needs to generate enough money to pay for itself. If this doesn't generate enough from events, we'll lose the fair.

"We're optimistic that it will be so successful that it won't be a problem," said Hinebaugh. Soccer leagues, for example had already expressed interest in renting the building for tournaments, he said.

Ken Wishnick, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, asked about the potential economic impact to the county and what groups might use the facility.

"We're not there with the numbers yet about the economic impact," said Yoder.

Shillingburg also asked if decisions about the building would go through the fair board.

"We see this as a cooperate effort to help the fair grow," said Commissioner Wendell Beitzel. "It's not our intention to take control away [from the board], just help improve it for the fair board and the county."

Jim Hinebaugh, director of Garrett County Economic Development, said that because public money would be involved, the fair board would only have exclusive use of the building during the fair. He added that an agreement could be written up that would clearly spell out the board's and county's roles in maintaining the building and approving and scheduling events.

Additionally, the director said that he would be looking for grant funding to hire an agricultural marketing specialist, who would schedule events and oversee the maintenance of the building for three years. The building should by then be able to pay for a full-time specialist on its own, according to Hinebaugh.

Board members also expressed concerns about parking, stormwater management, seating, the type and cost of heating the structure, noise levels and the sound system within the building, dividers in the arena, and adaptable flooring materials to accommodate such a wide variety of activities.

Devlin acknowledged their concerns, and indicated that a variety of options were available to alleviate some of the problems and that he would research them.

The board members voted unanimously to proceed further with the project, but requested a feasibility study to see how much it would cost to maintain and how many events would need to be booked.

"A study can give us some of the answers we're looking for," said Glotfelty. "The preliminary part looks good."

"As the project progresses," Commissioner Ernie Gregg told the members, "we will have other meetings like this, so you can have a voice."

The commissioners have asked Delegate George Edwards to request $500,000 in bond money for construction of the building from the General Assembly.

A BEAUTIFUL MIND

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:14 - Released 12/21/01

Ron Howard, the multi-talented, omni-successful actor/director/producer who has turned out such important and impactful films as Willow, Parenthood, and Apollo 13, and such disposable, silly films as Gung Ho and How The Grinch Stole Christmas, has added another thoughtful piece to his impressive résumé with A Beautiful Mind, the true story of Nobel Prize-winning mathematician and paranoid schizophrenic John Nash. Although possessing a few noticeable flaws, Howard's latest is a touching look at the tortured, frightening, and ultimately triumphant story of this haunted genius, emphasizing his astounding ability to rise above the obstacles of his own mind. One of the film's weaker points is its dialogue, written by Akiva Goldsman, based on the book by Sylvia Nasar. Goldsman, whose not-too-terribly impressive credits include Lost In Space and Practical Magic, imbues the script with the kind of ridiculous genius conversation you might have heard spoken by Mr. Peabody on Rocky and Bullwinkle. Moreover, I am conflicted about Russell Crowe's performance of the disturbed main character, especially early in the film. Essaying Nash like a derivation of Hoffman's "rain man" with a sillier walk, Crowe seems to be presenting more of a caricature than a real, flesh-and-blood person, and making a conspicuous effort not to look like a heartthrob. His characterization seems to mature with time, though, as does Goldsman's text, but the first half hour is offputting on both counts.

Beginning in 1947, the film follows Nash's induction into the hallowed halls of Princeton University, where he meets his fellow math geeks and begins enduring their good-natured ridicule and intellectual competition. He also meets his new roommate, literature student Charles Herman (Paul Bettany), who becomes an ever present friend and tormentor, distracting him from his work while offering honest lessons in social interaction. Feeling pressure to make an important discovery in mathematics and become a published theoretician like his friends, John eschews classes and toils away in his room, obsessively scribbling complex equations on the windows, his notebook, or wherever there is free space.

After several years have passed, John wins a university professorship at M.I.T. and settles into teaching. Soon, however, he is approached by a serious-looking G-man named William Parcher (Ed Harris). Swearing John to utmost secrecy, Parcher commissions him to help the U.S. government spy on a group of American Communists who have begun to develop their own version of the atom bomb. According to Parcher, John is needed to crack the codes in their communications and thereby help foil their plan to detonate the bomb somewhere in the U.S. At the same time, John meets and falls in love with a young student named Alicia (Jennifer Connelly), whom he marries against Parcher's advice. Alicia loves John for his direct manner and his genius, but is confused by his strange obsession with his top-secret assignment. Then, after John's aberrant behavior leads to sedation and admission to a mental hospital, Alicia learns the truth: there is no assignment. Parcher is a figment of John's imagination, a product of his extraordinary but flawed brain, and, in fact, so is his old roommate Charles. She must confront her increasingly paranoid husband and convince him he is delusional and needs help.

This film is a puzzlement in its inconsistency, especially coming from Ron Howard. While featuring an obvious Oscar-bid performance by Crowe, it sometimes trivializes his character's handicap. While moving through time from post-WWII to the present, it occasionally contains glaring anachronisms, both visual and textual. And while telling the story of a truly amazing and noteworthy human being, it contains dialogue no human being, mentally disabled or not, would ever speak. Still, good performances abound. Harris, who, incidentally, was Crowe's competitor for the Best Actor Oscar last year, maintains his usual intensity, and Connelly is excellent as well, subtly showing how love can rise above emotional conflict. Also present is Christopher Plummer as Nash's psychiatrist. Crowe's performance is one of the inconsistencies; while he is clearly trying to make John Nash someone we can care about, and sometimes truly shines, he occasionally seems to be fighting against conflicting impulses. Ultimately it's director Howard's responsibility to rectify this, and he doesn't do it very satisfactorily. But regardless of its lack of cohesion, A Beautiful Mind is a beautiful story and in some ways a beautiful film, one that deserves to be seen. ★★★★

KATE & LEOPOLD

What can one say about a feelgood romance starring Meg Ryan, the queen of feelgood romances, and written by Steven Rogers, whose output includes sappy tearjerkers like Stepmom and Hope Floats? Ryan, an adequate actress who is quickly becoming associated with films that don't require acting, can do this type of role in her sleep (or Sleepless, for that matter), and one's enjoyment of her work is based primarily on whether one likes the one-note character she creates for these films. With Rogers's clever but predictable text, and under the direction of James Mangold (Girl, Interrupted), who co-wrote the script, Ryan creates yet another modern professional woman who falls in love with a guy she doesn't like at first (played by Hugh Jackman). The main difference is that this time, instead of being from across the continent, or on the other end of her computer connection, or on the other side of the life/death boundary, he's from 1876. Talk about robbing the cradle.

The film starts in 19th-century New York City, which is the vacation home of Hugh's British character, Leopold Mountbatten, 3rd Duke of Albany. A charming, bored bachelor not unlike Rupert Everett's Lord Goring in An Ideal Husband, Leopold is in no hurry to get married, especially to a stupid, wealthy American girl. Everyone knows rich girls don't go. An avid follower of science and technology (he's even working on a new invention called the elevator), Leopold is more interested in things like the opening ceremony of the Brooklyn Bridge, where he notices an anachronistic-looking man (Liev Schreiber) using a pocket camera with internal flash. Knowing full well that Magicubes have not even been invented yet, Leopold follows the man until they fall through a portal in the space-time continuum and land precisely where they were, but 125 years later. Suddenly stranded in present day NYC, Leopold learns that his tour guide is scientist/inventor Stuart Besser, who has perfected a method for time travel in which, if one jumps off the bridge at exactly the right moment, one will be transported through time rather than the traditional result of being squashed like a bloody pancake in the street.

Stuart introduces Leopold to his neighbor and ex-girlfriend Kate (Ryan), and then promptly falls down an elevator shaft (get it?), so he is conveniently out of the picture for most of the picture. While stranded in Stuart's apartment, Leopold meets and befriends Kate's brother Charlie (Breckin Meyer), learns how to operate the TV remote, and starts freaking everyone out with his proper behavior and outdated sensibilities. Predictably, he sweeps the initially skeptical Kate off her feet, showing up her lecherous boss (Bradley Whitford) and teaching Charlie how to make it with babes. Then just as he and Kate are about to jump in the sack, Stuart reappears and tells him he has to go home. Dang—nothing kills the mood in a sexual escapade like traveling 1¼ centuries back in time.

Ryan and Jackman are adequate in this frothy romance, but nothing more. Their romantic chemistry is practically nonexistent, but they handle their characterizations well and know how to kiss. Otherwise, this is an average, workmanlike production, virtually indistinguishable from any other example of the pat, easily digested, box-office-successful formula faithfully churned out by Hollywood every day of the year. ★★★

State Brochure Outlines Basics Of College, Aid

The Maryland Higher Education Commission has produced a new brochure designed to encourage high school juniors to consider their college and financial aid options. "Money for College" is being sent to the homes of Maryland juniors and will also be available at high school guidance offices.

"Money for College" covers topics such as the reasons why a student should apply to college, the application process, and how to obtain money for college, and also includes specifics on how to contact MHEC for further information.

"We want the juniors to begin to focus on college and financial aid before their senior year," said Karen R. Johnson, the state's secretary of higher education. "In the 12th grade, there will be strict deadlines to make decisions about colleges and applications for financial aid. We want to give the students something to think about without the pressure."

For more information or for a copy of the brochure, persons may contact the Maryland Higher Education Commission at 1-800-974-1024, 410-260-4565, or at www.mhec.state.md.us.

Frostburg Church Sets Archaeology Presentation

A presentation by archaeologist Robert L. Pyle will be given at St. Michael's Church Hall, located along Main St. in Frostburg, on Tuesday, Jan. 22, from 7 until 8 p.m. Pyle, who lives in Morgantown, W.Va., will present the latest discoveries of the Cook Petroglyph in Wyoming County, W.Va.

Pyle's presentation will explore the Christian messages scripted in Celtic ogham and their relationship to the writings of St. Brendan. In addition, Pyle will display for the first time a 12th century crucifix excavated at a rock shelter in Upshur County, W.Va. The crucifix was featured in the June 1986 issue of Wonderful West Virginia. A bone needle found at the site that is approximately 4,000 years old will also be shown.

As a result of his work, the archaeologist earned an Emmy nomination for co-producing Brendan the Navigator, a PBS documentary. Mike Baker Jr. also co-produced the documentary. Due to recent discoveries, Pyle and Baker were requested to make several additions to the documentary before it is released nationwide, which is expected to be within the next two months.

The public is invited to attend the presentation and to bring artifacts, rocks, minerals, and fossils for possible identification. For more information, persons may contact Mike Lewis at 301-463-6772 or imagine@hereintown.net.

Computer Classes Set At Outreach Campus Of GCC

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College will offer three different computer classes at the Grantsville Outreach campus.

Introduction to Quicken will meet on Tuesdays, Jan. 29 through Feb. 19. This class will show students how to automate a checkbook, pay bills, conduct bank transactions, and set up a budget and savings plan. A basic understanding of computer skills is recommended.

Introduction to PowerPoint will meet on Thursdays, Jan. 31 through Feb. 21. The student will learn the advantage of using PowerPoint as a quick and innovative tool for speaker's notes, handouts, slides, and other presentations. Knowledge of computer skills is assumed.

Introduction to Accessing the Internet is scheduled for Wednesdays, Feb. 6 through Feb. 27. The objective of this course is to introduce the student to the "information superhighway." The student will learn how to communicate and conduct business around the world without leaving home.

Cost for each of these four-session courses is $45 for Garrett County residents. For additional information and registration, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

Eastern Star Plans To Restart Rainbow For Girls

The Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, and Oakland Lodge No. 192, AF&AM, are attempting to restart its International Order of Rainbow for Girls, which is a masonic youth organization.

Since 1922, IORG has had assemblies in 46 states in addition to assemblies in eight other countries. The purpose of the order is to prepare girls between the ages of 11 and 20 for a "brighter, better, and more beautiful womanhood."

"Rainbow in the 21st century will be a center of excellence in learning and leadership, fun, and fellowship, and a source of lasting friendships," said Bette Welch, Worthy Matron of Oakland Chapter No. 67. "Young girls and women will realize personal growth and satisfaction gained through service and community involvement."

The membership is open to all girls recommended by a member of the Eastern Star or a Freemason, but the girls do no have to belong to an Eastern Star or Masonic family. Rainbow girls may invite friends to join.

Persons interested in becoming a member of the International Order of Rainbow for Girls may visit with Tiffney Kiser, Worthy Grand Advisor of Maryland, as well as other members and brethren on Jan. 27 at 2 p.m. at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, 3 S. First Street, Oakland.

Refreshments will be provided by Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star.

Aurora V.F.D. Slates Breakfast

An "all-you-cau-eat breakfast" will again be held at the Aurora fire hall, located along Rt. 50 east of Aurora, W.Va., on Sunday, Jan. 20, from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Buckwheat cakes, pancakes, sausage, scrambled eggs, bacon, home fries, sausage gravy, and biscuits will be available. The cost of the breakfast is $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

The Aurora Volunteer Fire Department sponsors the "all-you-can-eat" meal on the third Sunday of every month.

PSC Launches $1.5 Million Capital Campaign

Potomac State College of West Virginia University (WVU) launched a capital campaign last month to strengthen the college's position in the region and the state. The effort, part of the Building Greatness: Campaign West Virginia University, will seek to generate $1.5 million in private support for all parts of the PSC campus.

Potomac State College's goal is part of the overall Building Greatness Campaign being conducted by the WVU Foundation on behalf of all schools and regional campuses of the Morgantown-based university. The campaign began in the summer of 1998, and will conclude in Dec. 2003. The overall campaign had raised more than $185 million by the end of Nov. 2001, and PSC had already raised over $1 million toward its goal.

"Our success to date is the result of the generous support of the College's alumni, friends, and area corporations," said PSC president Mary Rittling. "We still have much work to do, but we are pleased with our progress thus far. We need to continue to strengthen our educational network, continue to provide our students and faculty with the best academic and physical resources, and continue our tradition of providing educational opportunities to the citizens of this region and our state."

More than 65 of the college's alumni, friends, staff, and faculty joined Rittling, WVU president David Hardesty, and WVU Foundation president Duke Perry for the campaign's kickoff ceremony last month. "In the past several years Dr. Rittling and her faculty and staff have done an outstanding job developing the priorities and new initiatives that will define Potomac State College in this new century," Hardesty stated.

Those initiatives include strengthening the college's private scholarship program, making important improvements to campus physical facilities, supporting new academic programs as well as enhancing existing ones, and providing new teaching and learning resources for faculty and students.

The WVU Foundation, a private non-profit organization, is the designated agency to receive and administer gifts from private individuals and organizations for the benefit of West Virginia University, including Potomac State College of WVU. The foundation's relationship with Potomac State College stems from the merger of the former PSC Foundation with the WVU Foundation in July 1997.

The Building Greatness effort is the largest capital campaign in WVU's history. Potomac State's campus-wide campaign is the first ever undertaken at that college, which offers a 50 percent tuition discount to residents from Garrett and Allegany counties, and Bedford, Somerset and Fayette counties, Pa.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

STRAWSER ANNIVERSARY

Glenn and Helen (Paugh) Strawser of Eglon will observe their 50th wedding anniversary this Saturday, Jan. 19. The family is requesting a card shower in their honor. Cards may be addressed to them at: RR 1, Box 257, Eglon, WV 26716.

UNION SENIORS

At the Jan. 10 meeting of the Union District Seniors, Mike Withers of the West Virginia Security Commission was present to speak to the group concerning the present threat of scams. Mainly perpetrated against the senior population, the many forms of parting seniors and their funds come both in person and over the phone lines, according to Withers.

"Be aware of any offer that seems too good; don't arrange with any contractor coming to your home uninvited for services to roof, driveway, siding, even remodeling," he said, "and beware of someone asking access to your home to make a phone call, or to see your antiques. If you don't know them, don't admit them. Do not commit yourself to deals offered by phone. No contestant should pay to receive any winnings."

The next meeting of the group will be Feb. 14, and those attending are asked to bring along a craft, gift, or other object that they've made or received.

AURORA VFD

Recent contributions to the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department have been made by Charles and Carolyn Wiles, Don and Mary Ingram, Lawrence Hoban, Edward Thayer, American Legion Post #71, Gordon Paugh, Kingwood Aerie #239 Fraternal Order of Eagles; Carl and Sue Reall, Horse Shoe Run Farm Women's Circle in memory of Linnie Ziegler, Victor Kope, Willard Feather, and Lonnie Shaffer.

TEETS DEATH

Eileen Lantz Teets, 81, Aurora, died suddenly at her home on Friday, Jan. 11. She was a daughter of the late Squire and Dora (Bolyard) Lantz, and is survived by her husband, Fred L. Teets, as well as nieces, nephews, and cousins. Services were held Monday, Jan. 14, at the Aurora United Methodist Church, and interment followed in the Aurora Cemetery.

PERSONAL MENTION

Joey and Mary DeLauder of Charlotte, N.C., were Thursday to Sunday guests of his father, Pat DeLauder, in Terra Alta. They also visited other area relatives, and on Saturday night were dinner guests of his grandparents, Fred and Dorotha Forman, at Amboy. Other dinner guests there were Greg Vendetta, A.J. DeLauder, Arthur, and Janice and Lora Forman.

Tom and Carolyn Wotring of Aurora returned their daughter Elizabeth to Boston this weekend to continue her studies at Boston Conservatory of Music.

Recent workers at the Sucre, Bolivia, mission were local residents Mike Lantz, Leonard and Sarah Snyder, and Mark Teets, all who returned Saturday from the area, and David Moran who returned the previous week. These local residents are joined by others from the Garrett County area, and are in the process of enlarging the orphanage at the mission.

Keith and Delores Douglas returned to their home in Aurora after being in Ohio last week to help then daughter, Lisa Douglas, move and get settled into a new home.

Stanley Harsh returned last Monday to his home at Amboy, where he continues his recuperation.

Weir Roth of Gnegy Church was a patient last week in a Cumberland hospital.

Elaine Snyder of Aurora was taken Sunday morning to Garrett Memorial Hospital.

THE SIGN OF AN EXCEPTIONAL SALES ASSOCIATE.

Dear Arlene;

Shirley and I want to thank you for your immense help in the recent sale of our home in Sky Valley. As you well know, a combination of a very particular buyer and some unanticipated problems with the home itself presented a significant challenge to this contract. Your tireless efforts to find reliable contractors in a difficult market, unearth answers to thorny questions and stay in touch with all parties helped keep the deal alive. Your attention to every detail of the sale and obvious concern for our welfare is especially appreciated. How you manage to accomplish all this while remaining endlessly cheerful amazes us. We would highly recommend you to anyone seeking to purchase property in the Deep Creek/ Oakland area. Please feel free to have any prospective client contact us as a reference.

Sincerely,

Michael W. Davis, Shirley J. Davis

World View Club Promotes Global Exchange At GCC

by Joan Crawford

One result of Garrett Community Colleges's focus on cultural diversity and global education has been the organization this year of the World View International Student Club. With a goal of promoting cultural exchange and creating a comfortable, nurturing educational environment, members of the club have already had several social activities and outings and are making plans for future events.

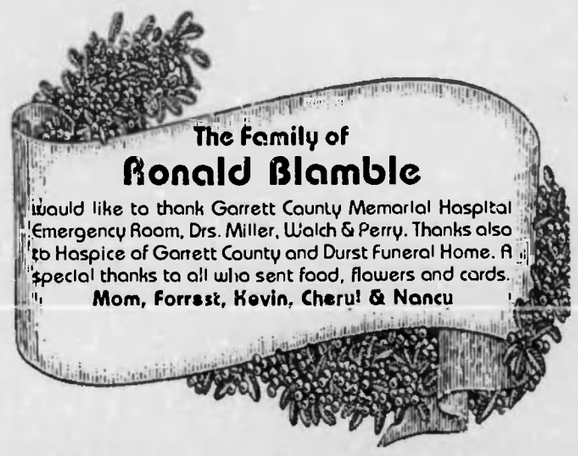
In September the World View Club met with international students from Frostburg State University at Deep Creek Lake State Park for a picnic, a tour of Swallow Falls, and canoeing on Deep Creek Lake. Members of the club were guests of the Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women at an international covered dish dinner during the holidays.

Activities being planned for spring semester are a Valentine dinner with international students from Frostburg, an international film festival, and a field trip to the University of Maryland to explore transfer opportunities and to meet with some of the university's international students.

Officers of the World View International Student Club are Haiku Sikka, president; Marina Kravtsuk, vice president; and Ave Kikas, secretary/treasurer. The club's faculty advisor is Darlene Preston, coordinator of Global Education at GCC.

GCC is launching a new International Host Family program next year in which the host family would have four options. The family could host an Estonian student for one semester or for one year, providing room, board and transportation to and from the college; or they could choose to host a student for the Christmas holidays and month of January, or for the summer break from May to September, providing room and board but not transportation. Interested persons may contact Preston at 301-387-3010.

DIVERSE GCC CLUB UNDERTAKES DIVERSE ACTIVITIES — The World View International Student Club of Garrett Community College was created to meet the needs of the growing number of GCC students who hail from nations other than our own. The club sponsors recreational and social outings, and facilitates discussions during which Garrett's international students share their experiences with other international students at Frostburg State University. Taken in September during an kayaking outing and picnic at Deep Creek Lake State Park, this photo shows, kneeling from the left, Terie Kaur and Ave Kikas. Standing are guide John Preston, Marina Kravtsuk, Tatjana Kravtsuk, and GCC graduate Sarah Crouse, now a employed as a naturalist with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.



MLP Snow Fest Scheduled At Veterans Park

A "Snow Fest" will take place at Veterans Park in Mtn. Lake Park from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26. The free youth- and family-oriented event will include snow art contests, snow Frisbee games, and sled riding races. (Participants are asked to bring their own sleds.) Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments will be provided.

In the event there is no snow, the event will involve an afternoon of crafts, games, and refreshments at the MLP ticket office, located at the corner of G and Spruce streets. The date and time remain the same.

The Snow Fest is being sponsored by the Mtn. Lake Park Youth Activities Committee. For further information, persons may call Gail Dever at 301-334-7730, ext. 6527, or 301-334-8819.

The Immediacy of the Moment

The sun has set against an impressionist sky painted in ever-changing hues of purple, red, orange and blue. Today is now a memory... tomorrow, a dream. What did you do today? Did you take a moment to admire the beautiful sunset?

We pass this way but once. Each twenty-four hours God gives us one "today". Those of us who are procrastinators do so for many reasons. Perhaps we are afraid of failure; maybe we just can't decide how to tackle that next project or can't find the time to begin a regular exercise program. Many of us carry more in the back of our minds than we keep up front... probably most of us.

Would you like to grab the moment and swing from it? A German proverb says, "Begin to weave and God will give you the thread." Begin to weave the fabric of your life in God's house at weekly worship. Faith in God's Word will give you the courage to reach your goals. You can grab the moment and worship this week. Why not do it now?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WORSHIPPING THE RIGHT WAY

January 20, 2002

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 58
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 58:10-14 :4-9.

Back in the 1960's when much of Christendom was in a renewal ferment, I was invited by a local Roman Catholics convent to participate and preach in their mid-week service. Coming from a more or less informal wing of Protestantism, I was rather concerned about participating in their service in the "right way.".

On the appointed day I dug out and dusted off my clerical colar and vest. I was determined that I would do whatever I was going to do in the 'right way." The appointed hour of the service was 12 noon and I arrived at 11;30, so that I could adequately prepare myself But I waited alone in the vestry until several nuns with guitars and tambourines smiled at me as they passed through. At 11:56 a.m a young man in a crew sweater—a priest, I learned—came bustling into the vestry. "Rev. Althouse, I presume?" he said, not too unlike Spencer Tracy greeting Dr. Livingstone in darkest Africa. Nodding nervously, I cut to the chase: "What am I supposed to do?" "Oh," he exclaimed airily, "we'll just wing it!" And we did. All my expectations about what Roman Catholics thought was the "right way" to worship were substantially changed by that experience.

An Obsession

Still, over my years in the church I have observed that lots of people have an obsession to discover and affiliate with "the right way" to be a Christian. For some, that means following a certain liturgy or order of worship, including or excluding various elements and practices, building a house of worship in a prescribed manner. For others, it is a matter of believing the "right beliefs," subscribing to various doctrines and articulating our faith in the words of this or that creed

This is the issue in Isaiah 58. The people purportedly complain to God that he has not responded to their fasting: "Why have we fasted, and thou seest it not?" Is there something wrong with our technique? But the prophet quickly lets them know that it is not technique but their motivation and the fruits of ... "Behold, in the day of your fast you seek of your own pleasure, and oppress all your workers. Behold you fast only to quarrel and fight and to hit with wicked fist" (3b, 4a).

So how shall they fast in an acceptable manner? Actually, it is an amazingly simple answer Isaiah gives them: "Is not this the fast that I choose: to loose the bonds of wickedness, to undo the thongs of the yoke, to let the oppressed go free, and to break every yoke? Is it not to share your bread with the hungry, and to bring the homeless poor into your house; when you see the naked, to cover him..."

Pointing The Finger

How we love to make Christianity difficult, complex and academic, but Isaiah tells the people that the "right" way to worship and serve God is remarkably easy to understand. "If you take away from the midst of you the yoke, the pointing of the finger, and speaking wickedness, if your pour yourself out for the hungry and satisfy the desire of the afflicted, then shall your light rise in the darkness..." (vs 9,10)

I have known many churches that have closed their doors because of disputes over the "right beliefs" and "right practices," but never any congregation that dissolved because it poured itself out for the "hungry," sacrificed itself for "the afflicted," or spent too much helping the "oppressed go free." (If you know of one, let me know).

I am not saying that beliefs, doctrines, creeds and liturgies are not important, but that, unless they result in sharing your bread with the hungry, they have become a dangerous and hypocritical substitute for true Christian discipleship. It does not so much concern me that there are lots of Christians who articulate their faith differently than I do. I am pained that these words keep followers of Jesus Christ from sharing the same bread and cup and prevent us from working side by side in "the right way" to serve God.

Hot Herbal Beverages Increase Cancer Risk

In North America the most commonly consumed "herbal" beverages are coffee and tea extracts. Potential benefits include the mild stimulation due to caffeine. Also, numerous antioxidant nutrients in tea - especially green tea - may provide a variety of health benefits including prevention of certain types of cancer. However, the habit of drinking very hot tea or very hot coffee with milk was found to increase the risk of developing cancer of the esophagus.

Researchers reporting in International Journal of Cancer found that the risk was four times greater than if these hot beverages had not been consumed. Interestingly, drinking warm tea or hot black coffee was not found to increase esophageal cancer risk.

To put their findings into perspective, the authors noted that 90% of all esophageal cancer is due to tobacco smoking and alcohol drinking.

AAL Branch Has Eventful, Productive Year

Branch 5821 of the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) reported this week that the organization had a successful past year. In 2001, AAL donated more than $10,000 to local organizations and individuals through a variety of fund-raising activities.

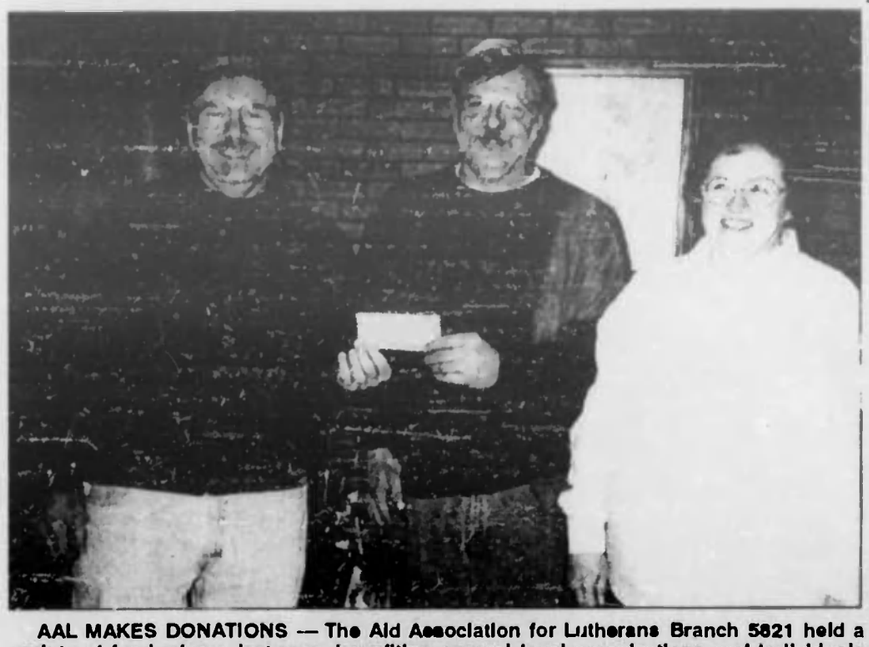
The AAL, through candy bar sales and matching funds, donated $500 to the North Star 4-H Club in March. The organization also participated with the club members in Join Hands Across America Day on June 16 by planting flowers in Accident.

A Palm Sunday program that the organization co-sponsored with the Accident Cultural and Historical Society garnered $1,000 through donations and matching funds for Bob Friend, who lost his home to a fire.

Branch 5821, along with AAL branches 585 and 588, co-sponsored an auction in June to benefit the Northern High School Band. With the auction and matching funds, the three branches raised more than $5,000 for new band uniforms.

The Accident Concert Band also received a contribution from AAL. In July, the organization, along with the society, co-sponsored "Concert in the Park," raising $1,090 for the Accident Band. This year's concert drew the largest crowd ever to the yearly event — 190 people, said AAL member Christine Johnson.

The organization was also busy during the fall months. After holding its annual election dinner in October, the AAL conducted "Project Bundle Up." The group members bought 60 coats, distributing them to children at Accident Head Start and Accident and Grantsville elementary schools.



AAL MAKES DONATIONS — The Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 5821 held a variety of fund-raisers last year, benefiting several local organizations and individuals (see story). Proceeds from a spaghetti supper in November benefited Ryan Savage, who was paralyzed in a 4-wheeler accident. With donations and matching funds from the event, the AAL was able to give the Savage family $2,360. Shown in the photo above at the check presentation, left to right, are AAL member Larry Foley, Ryan's father Gary, and AAL member Christine Johnson. The AAL also co-sponsored a "Concert in the Park" with the Accident Cultural and Historical Society in July. Proceeds from the yearly event, which drew a record crowd of 190 people, garnered $1,090 for the Accident Concert Band. Shown below are Foley and Johnson presenting the check to band members Sherry Beltzel, Phil Emory, Anna Karsten, Rev. Dr. Wilfred Karsten, Noah Schrock, Lynnette Karsten, and Lillian Reckner.

Additionally, a spaghetti supper was held to benefit Ryan Savage, who was paralyzed in a 4-wheeler accident. With donations and matching funds from the event, the AAL was able to donate $2,360 to the Savage family.

The organization ended its productive year by co-sponsoring the "Festival of Music" with the society. Through donations and matching funds from this event, the organization was able to give $430 to Chapter 29 of the Disabled American Veterans for Garrett County veterans.

AAL Branch 5821 meetings are held the second Thursday of each month, unless otherwise announced, in the social room of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident. The meetings begin at 7 p.m., and all members are invited to attend.

Spaghetti Dinner Set At Loch Lynn Church Of God

The youth group from Loch Lynn Church of God will hold a spaghetti dinner on Wednesday, Jan. 30, from 4 to 6 p.m., at the church to benefit the youth group activities.

The menu includes spaghetti, salad, garlic bread, drink, and dessert. Takeouts are available.

The suggested donation is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under.

Persons wanting more information may call 301-334-3567.

GCC Slates "Let's Take Pictures" Class

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College will conduct a five-session photography class. "Lets Take Pictures" will be held on Wednesdays, from 6 to 9 p.m., starting Jan. 30 and running through Feb. 27. Expert photographer Torrey Witt will be the instructor.

The course is designed for advanced compact and SLR photographers. Students will learn how to capture true, vivid color, compose scenes, and understand automatic and manual camera functions.

At each session, students will be taking scenic winter pictures and should bring their cameras and one roll of film to each class.

Class cost is $60. For more information or to register, persons may contact Cathy at 301-387-3080 or Sue at 301-387-3089.

DCL Regs, Info Available On DNR's Website

The Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area has updated its section of the Internet homepage of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources in order to provide the public with 24-hour access to regulatory information, lake permit applications, and other information pertaining to Deep Creek Lake. The site available through a link via www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.

Among the material available on the web site is a copy of the current DCL regulations, the conservation easement for buydown parcels, the DCL Recreation and Land Use Plan, a copy of the special permit guidelines, and applications for buffer strip, special, development, and non-conforming use permits.

Items being planned for future inclusion on the site include a copy of the state park regulations (which also apply to the lake and buffer strip), and pertinent lake boating regulations.

"Over 75 percent of our visitors have Internet access, and would benefit from being able to quickly access this information online," DCL Recreation Area manager Paul Durham commented.

In Loving Memory Of Our Darling
"Darla Dione DeWitt"
April 30, 1970 – January 16, 1973

The day that they told us
we shed a million tears
For we knew that you would be leaving
And hoped it would'nt be for years..

Each day we saw you weaken
We knew you could not last
So we prayed "Dear God In Heaven,
Do what you think is best."

In tears we watched you suffer and slowly fade away
We tended you with loving care
But we could not make you stay.

So God in all his wisdom
Knew you needed to rest
But, oh how it hurt to lose you
Even though-God does know best!

Please pick a bunch for us.
Place them in our daughter's arms,
And tell her they're from us.
Tell her we love her and miss her
And when she turns to smile,
Place a kiss upon her cheek and hold her for a while.
Because remembering her is easy,
We do it everyday.
But there is an ache in our heart
That will never go away.

Thank You

The Gorman Vol. Fire Department would like to thank the friends and neighbors of the White Church and surrounding area for organizing and working a bake sale the latter part of year 2001.

The money raised from this bake sale in the amount of $355.00 was donated to our department. We are very grateful to supporters like you, as your support and donations help keep our company running and give us the opportunity to better train and equip our members to better serve you as a community. Once again, on behalf of the entire company, we send you our greatest thanks.

The company would also like to take this time to thank our ladies auxiliary for donating $500.00 to the company at our Christmas party. These ladies are few in number, but are a great asset to our company. They are always willing to lend a hand when they are needed. Again ladies, on behalf of the entire department, we thank and appreciate you.

Amy Rice, David Mirra Exchange Wedding Vows In Sept. Ceremony

Amy Jo Rice and David Michael Mirra were united in marriage on Sept. 29, 2001, at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland.

The bride is the daughter of Jay and Dianne Rice, Oakland, and is a 1993 graduate of Southern High School. The groom is a son of Anthony and Martha Mirra, Manasssa, Va., and is a 1992 graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology in Alexandria, Va. Both earned bachelor of arts degrees from Western Maryland College.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and wore an ivory, A-line satin dress with a bodice of clear sequins and rocaille beads. The chapel train was edged in three layers of fused organza and schiffli beaded hem lace. The bride wore her mother's veil and carried a nosegay of ivory roses and stephanotis.

Paulette McIntyre-Perrin, Cumberland, friend of the bride, served as matron of honor. Friends of the bride Stacey Czech, Towson, Alison Welch, Westminster, Ingrid Carlson, Arlington, Va., and Julie Kuerner, Crofton, were bridesmaids.

Friend of the groom Blair St. Amand, Crofton, served as best man. Groomsmen were Eric Rice, Annapolis, brother of the bride; Brett Rice, Patchogue, N.Y., brother of the bride; Keith Mirra, Woodbridge, Va., brother of the groom; and Paul Matkovic, Rockville, friend of the groom. The bridal party was dressed in burgundy.

Flower girls were Haylee and McKenna Bolyard, cousins of the bride. Ximena Rice, sister-in-law of the bride, distributed programs and attended the guest book. Readings were given by the father of the groom and Valerie Greco, future sister-in-law of the bride.

The reception took place at the Will O' the Wisp. The couple honeymooned in Aruba. They currently reside in Herndon, Va.

The bride is employed by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics as an outreach coordinator. The groom is employed by Transaction Network Services as an applications architect.

Browning Retires From Guard Unit

Staff Sgt. David Browning retired recently from Company B, Detachment 1, 121st Engineers Company of the Maryland Army National Guard Unit based in Oakland. The Oakland resident served with military, both in active duty and with the National Guard, for a total of 21 years 4 months.

While a senior at Southern High School, Browning enlisted in the Marine Corps through the Delayed Entry Program. After graduating from high school in 1978, he was assigned to basic training at Parris Island, S.C., in January 1979. In September of that year he received orders to participate in specialized training as an assault amphibious tracked vehicle mechanic in California.

AFTER A FULL MILITARY CAREER Oakland's David Browning has retired from serving his country in the U.S. military. Browning began his service with the U.S. Marine Corps, and after four years of active duty enlisted with the Maryland Army National Guard unit based in Oakland. When Browning retired as a staff sergeant, his total service commitment added up to 21 years 4 months. Browning is shown above with his son Austin and wife Teresa.

Browning traveled around the world during his four years of active duty with the Marine Corps, which included stops in Hawaii, Okinawa, the Philippines, Thailand, Singapore, Australia, Hong Kong, Japan, and Africa.

After receiving his honorable discharge in 1983 Browning returned to Garrett County and enlisted in the Army National Guard as a combat specialist, as well as a demolition specialist, assistant squad leader, and squad leader. During his National Guard enlistment he traveled to Indiantown Gap, Pa.; Fort Bragg, N.C.; A.P. Hill, Va.; and North Dakota, Panama, and Germany for training and schooling.

Browning received many citations and awards during his Marine Corps service, including the Marine Corps Good Conduct Medal, Expeditionary Medal, and the Sea Service Deployment with Bronze Star Medal. His Army honors included the Army Achievement Medal, Reserve Component Achievement Medal, National Defense Service Ribbon, Army FCS Reserve Ribbon, NCO Proficiency Deployment Ribbon, Army Service Ribbon, and Army Reserve Component GVS Training Ribbon.

Browning resides near Oakland with his wife Teresa and son Austin.

Thank You!

As I am recuperating from heart bypass surgery, I would like to express my love and gratitude to friends and relatives for the phone calls, visits, cards, & food I have received. Everyone's kindness is greatly appreciated.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY KIDS
by Amanda Bowers

The Country Kids 4-H Club held its monthly meeting and annual Christmas party on Dec. 18.

Patrilla led the pledges. The club members were reminded about the record books due at the January meeting. Members were also reminded to mark their calendars for the petting zoo at the Catholic church on June 30.

Every club member was reminded about the ski day at the Wisp on Feb. 1.

Bobby Barnard gave a demonstration. The meeting was adjourned by Amanda Bowers, and Nathaniel Harris made a second to that motion.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

As part of Emmanuel Lutheran Church service on Sunday morning in celebration of the baptism of Jesus in the river Jordon by John the Baptist, Pastor Pat had a brother-in-law who visited the river Jordon and brought her some water from it as a present for Pat. During communion each person who received communion or received the blessing also received a special blessing in remembrance of their baptism with a drop of water from the river Jordon on their forehead. I am somewhat hazy about the river Jordon in Biblical history, modern history, or geographically. Perhaps it borders the "Promised Land."

Last week was real winter weather in Bittinger again, even though it only lasted a few days. It was enough to remind me how it was in "the good? bad? days" when I was a child. Every day it involved a big effort to open our long lane in order for the milk truck to get in to pick up our herd's milk, which involved hundreds of gallons and represented a good chunk of cash needed to run the farm. This time I was snowed in for several days, and I don't like that feeling. I don't know of anyone close in distance or our relationships that I can depend to clear it every day. It is a big favor to ask of anyone; however, I did get it open to allow me to keep a doctor appointment in Morgantown on Wednesday. I rode over with Pastor Pat in her husband's four-wheel van, which could go just about anywhere. She had to go to Morgantown anyway to drop off her son Jeremy, who today started his final semester at West Virginia University. Jeremy has a couple semesters to complete three majors: math, computer science, and French. He should have some nice choices for a job; however, first he wants to serve in the AmeriCorps, hopefully in some remote location such as Alaska. I know from my friend, Joe Volonoski, that the computer field is wide open, with lots of chance to travel all over the world.

On the way home Pastor Pat stopped in Grantsville at the funeral home for a visit for the late Tom Warne Sr., father-in-law of Jackie Brenneman Warne, a member of Emmanuel Church council.

I guess that most of the members of the Bittinger 4-H Club are busy scrambling around trying to get their record books finished in time. I guess my girls are about halfway done. The record book is perfect training to get ready for when they become working adults and have the horror of the April 15th deadline for taxes. The next big pressure for the 4-H kids is the public speaking meeting, which has been moved up to the first Monday evening in February instead of March. The 4-H'ers who plan to sell livestock are required to attend a workshop, which will be the first Monday in February, so the public speaking contest will be rescheduled.

This Sunday evening at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, the Beiler family from Grantsville will perform a program of gospel music, beginning at 7 p.m. This was planned about two weeks ago on a Sunday evening when there happened to be a genuine blizzard. The Beiler family has a lot of singing children from 2 years old to 19. The youngest and oldest are boys and the seven middle children are girls. Of course, I misplaced the note about their names and ages. I am pretty sure that the parents are Joe and Norma.

The end of last week was a real relief for me from this real winter. I wonder whether that was our January thaw. Maybe, but sure it won't last too long. By Sunday I was once again house bound. I just couldn't face that cold wind, even though the snow is a little patchy.

One day last week I pulled along Mosser Road along the Glade and tried to memorize the scene so I can paint it. The golden dead grass was bent over under a heavy pillow of white snow interrupted by pale, indigo blue thin ice under some blue sky with a few patchy cirrus clouds. I never got around to doing a full-size painting. The best I could manage was a 5x7 greeting card. I guess I could do a full-size one from that note. If you do not have your paints out and your brushes handy, you can miss some great inspirations. Only today did I find some white paint for the pillows of snow on the grass.

I once read a passage in Meshach Brownings's Forty Years of the life of a Hunter about how he rode a horse across that glade and the grass was high as his horse's withers. I don't think it still grows that high anymore. The patch of gold grass looked maybe to be only about two feet high before being bent over by the ice and snow.

A report on Lottie Brenneman's progress is that she is happy to be home and is showing some good progress, but still unable to put any weight on her leg. She has been taken care of by her family. Lana Roby is with her, recovering herself from an attack of Bell's palsy.

Sympathy is extended to friends and family members of the deceased last week, namely, Ward Livengood and John Wisor of Friendsville, and Tom Warne Sr. from Grantsville. Winter seems to be taking its toll.

IN OBSERVANCE OF "PEARL HARBOR DAY," Dec. 7, the Southern Garrett County Republican Woman's Club joined together with the Garrett County Veterans of Foreign Wars Honor Guard for a dedication ceremony held at Veterans Park in Oakland. The SGCRWC donated a tall flag pole that was installed in the park by Mayor Asa McCain's office. Before an audience of approximately 50 people, including the Honor Guard unit and ceremony participants, Master of Ceremony Claude Beckman recognized SGCRWC for its donation. Carl Rebele spoke on the meaning of the United States flag. A bugler from Southern High School played taps, and a Garrett County Pipers band member played a solo. Ann Rebele spoke for the club and thanked the musicians for their talents, and the Honor Guard and veterans for their participation and leadership in this event.

Oakland Man Sentenced For CDS Possession

Danny Leonard Stallard, 19 of Oakland, was sentenced last Thursday in Garrett County Court to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail for possession of marijuana. Judge Jim Sherbin also imposed a $100 fine.

Stallard was found guilty in November by a jury, whose members also found him not guilty of possession with intent to distribute the marijuana, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

Stallard was arrested by members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after the members seized a number of items of controlled dangerous substances and CDS paraphernalia from an apartment in Oakland. Among the items seized was a box that contained 19 individual bags of marijuana that a state's witness testified belonged to Stallard.

According to Thayer Welch, three other persons staying at the apartment had previously been found guilty in Garrett County District and Juvenile courts of possessing the variety of substances.

GCCAC Lends Helping Hand To Caregivers

Garrett County Community Action Committee, Area Agency on Aging, is available to provide information or assistance for qualifying caregivers. The newly authorized National Family Caregiver Support Program under Title IIIE of the Older Americans Act, as amended in 2000, provides for a service delivery system to respond to the needs of the nation's family caregivers.

The intended beneficiaries of this act are family caregivers, in recognition of the work they do to care for their loved ones. There are two categories of caregivers who qualify for this program: family caregivers, who are caring for someone older than age 60; and caregivers over 60 caring for a child 18 or under.

The primary population includes those with greatest social and economic need, with particular attention to low-income older individuals.

The National Family Caregiver Support Program provides assistance to caregivers in five categories of service.

They are: information — to caregivers about available resources; assistance — to caregivers in gaining access to services, including case management; education/support groups/training — individual counseling, support groups, caregiver training to assist caregivers in making decisions and solving problems relating to their caregiving roles; respite care — to enable caregivers to be temporarily relieved from caregiving responsibilities in the home covering chore and personal care and out-of-home including assisted living, nursing home, and adult day care; and supplemental services — to complement the care provided by caregivers includes medical supplies, transportation and items needed by the families.

Persons needing additional information or assistance with caregiving responsibilities may contact GCCAC, Area Agency on Aging, at 301-334-9431, ext. 140.

PACK 70 BREATHES LIFE INTO "REGATTA" — Cub Scout Pack 70 hosted a "Rain Gutter Regatta" for its den groups recently at Broad Ford Elementary School. Each Cub Scout constructed his own sailboat prior to the event, and 34 entrants took to the rain gutter racecourse, each powered by its respective builder blowing into its sail. Beachy's Lumber supplied the materials to build the race course. This is just one of the many educational, entertaining, and service-related activities of the Cub Scout program, which accepts new members through enrollment at the beginning of each school year. Shown from the left are Pack 70 Cubs Robert Lewis, Ryan Cooper, Marshall Miller, and Levi Crosby.

James Awarded FSU Scholarship

Nikolas P. James, Kitzmiller, recently received a Music Achievement Scholarship to continue study at Frostburg State University.

A junior, James is majoring in music with an emphasis in classical piano performance. He now serves as a church organist and hopes to pursue a career in music. A 1996 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, he is the son of Donald and Juanita James.

The FSU scholarship program is administered by the FSU Financial Aid Office. Funding is provided through the FSU Foundation Inc.

Church Invites Residents, Friends To A Free Meal

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, located on the corner of Second and Liberty streets, invites all Garrett County residents, their family, and friends to a free meal at the church on Thursday, Jan. 24, from 5 to 7 p.m.

The meal includes roast beef, vegetables, cole slaw, and dessert. The church is chairlift accessible.

For more information, persons may call the church at 301-334-2510.

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren also serves a free meal on the last Wednesday of the month.

Elks Vocational Scholarships Now Available

Applications for the Elks Vocational Scholarship are now available. This scholarship is designed for any prospective student (male or female) resident within the jurisdiction of the Maryland, Delaware, D.C. Elks Association who is planning to enroll full time in a program of two years or less which will culminate in an associate's degree, diploma, or certificate.

"There are eight $1,000-per-year scholarships available in our local association," said Robin Spiker, spokesperson for the Oakland Elks Lodge. For details or an application, persons may contact Spiker at 301-334-4669. Applications are also available at the guidance offices of Northern and Southern high schools.

Applications for the scholarship must be received by Spiker at Southern High School or at the Oakland Elks Lodge no later than March 25.

Local Students On Dean's List At Frostburg St.

Nearly 350 students from the area, including many from Garrett County, were among those of Frostburg State University who were named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement for the fall 2001 semester.

To be eligible for dean's list inclusion, a student must undertake a minimum of 12 credit hours and earn a semester grade point average of 3.4 to 4.0 on a 4.0 scale.

The following Garrett County students earned perfect 4.0 averages:

College of Business — Courtney L. Colaw, Mtn. Lake Park; Jason A. Bernard, Swanton; and Phyllis A. Furr and Michelle C. Molz, Oakland.

College of Education — Nicole L. Bosley, Elizabeth A. Sauder, and Jennifer E. Shaffer, Oakland; Megan B. Mahaffey, Andrea R. Savage, and Matia D. Vanderbilt, Mtn. Lake Park; Steven A. Petersheim, Grantsville; and Sarah N. Williams, Swanton.

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences — Brandon S. Butler, David M. Butler, Kristin D. Hitchins, and Brandon J. Hoover, Grantsville; Heidi J. Frazee and Jamie A. Grove, Friendsville; Julie E. Glotfelty, Ashley R. Shreve, Roger A. Skipper, and Carrie A. Werdebaugh, Oakland; and Ryan T. Wolf, Mtn. Lake Park.

The following students earned at least a 3.4 GPA and were thus also named to the dean's list:

College of Business — Elisa M. Beck, Mtn. Lake Park; Adam W. Cowgill, Michael D. Rohrbaugh, Lacy D. Timmerman, and Casey B. Vanderbilt-Beachy, Oakland; and Sara L. Younkin, Grantsville.

College of Education — Nicole M. Byrne, Megan L. Conroy, Ruth A. Hamilton, Erin L.A. Orr, Brittany A. Slider, and Matthew S. Whitacre, Oakland; Kelli M. Elliott and Debra M. Nicklin, Accident; and Christy L. Hoalcraft, Swanton.

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences — Steven L. Allison, Megan M. Garland, Andrew H. Harvey, Andrea C. Kimble, Ruby L. King, Patsy A. McKenzie, Misty J. Sereno, Justin M. Stephens, and James M. Nicholas, Swanton; Jessica H. Cooper, Accident; and Richard M. Lewis, Christel C. Savage, and Timothy M. Tusing, McHenry.

Undeclared Majors — Audrey B. Shipe, Oakland.

Alzheimer Group Slates Meeting

The next Alzheimer/Caregiver Support Group meeting will be held on Monday, Jan. 28, in the first floor conference room at the Garrett County Health Department, located along Memorial Drive in Oakland, from 7 until 8:30 p.m.

The topic of the presentation for the evening will be alternative care programs, with guest speakers Carrie Getson, a social worker at Goodwill Mennonite Home; Kathleen Stuart, a case manger with Area Agency on Aging's Older Adult Waiver/Assisted Living; and Marilyn Jo Janes, a registered nurse with Garrett Home Care Inc.

For more information, persons may contact Donna McClintock at 301-334-7740 or 301-895-3113. Local radio stations 104.5 WKHJ and 105.3 WFRB will announce cancellations due to inclement weather.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information on the programs can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067. The outdoor winter-related events are offered as the weather permits.

- Sat. 1/19: A naturalist will present a "Scales and Tales" program at 1 p.m.; Revealing Their Presence will be shown at 2 p.m.; and a bird feeder-making activity is slated for 3 p.m.
- Sun. 1/20: An "Amazing Animals" naturalist's presentation will get under way at 1 p.m.; Out of the Egg will be shown at 2 p.m; and a children's winter craft activity is set for 3 p.m.

La Salle made decision to leave role on ER

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Eriq La Salle

Q: Why did they take Dr. Benton off ER? –C.J. in Atlanta.

A: "They" did no such thing. In fact, "they" – which in this case pretty much means series creator and executive producer John Wells – did everything but grawl over broken hypodermics to encourage Eriq La Salle to continue his role on the NBC drama, where he was an original cast member. Ultimately, however, the 39-year-old actor took a pass on some major bucks in favor of moving on to new pastures, which include both acting and directing prospects.

Q: I recently read in a magazine that Pat Welsh did the voice of the title character in E.T. the Extraterrestrial, but a recent question and answer on Comedy Central said Debra Winger did the voice. Which is correct? –Andrew DiCecco, Exton, Pa.

A: Andrew, I think you may have misread or misinterpreted what the magazine piece said. Welsh was the performer actually inside the E.T. costume during certain scenes, but that definitely was Winger's voice you heard. Neither artist received an on-screen credit, by the way.

Q: Why was Rod Roddy away from his The Price Is Right announcing job for so long? –David S., Ashland, Ky.

A: Given the deadline constraints of this column, Roddy was expected to be shouting "Come on down!" again long before you read this, but the veteran announcer took a few weeks off to recover from surgery for colon cancer.

Q: What was the name of the song the minister's son sang in the Dec. 10 episode of Ally McBeal? Is a recording available? –Janine Boswell, Doylestown, Pa.

A: The song is called "To Where You Are," and it is featured on singer Josh Groban's new self-titled CD, which has been flying out of music stores since this episode was reprised on Christmas Eve.

Q: Who played the president's daughter in Tim Burton's Mars Attacks!? It looked like Jennifer Garner from Alias. –Patricia Craig, Merlin, Ore.

A: Tally Dale was played by Natalie Portman (Star Wars: Episode I – The Phantom Menace).

Q: What is Kirstie Alley doing these days? I saw her Pier 1 holiday commercials. –Susan Maccoux, Green Bay, Wis.

A: Alley goes dramatic for her role in the upcoming film Salem Witch Trials, a historical drama also starring Shirley MacLaine, Henry Czerny and Gloria Reuben.

Tinsley Grimes plays sweet and naive Katie, the bridge between her entrepreneur father and her artistic brother (Geoff Pierson, Glenn Howerton), in the new Fox comedy That '80s Show, premiering Wednesday, Jan. 23.

The series, from the creators of That '70s Show, is set in San Diego in 1984. It follows a group of young adults as they attempt to find their way in the world in that acquisitive decade.

GCC Encourages Applicants For Hope Scholarship

The deadline for students to apply for the Maryland Community College Transfer Hope Scholarship is Friday, March 1, according to Pat Bennett, director of financial aid at Garrett Community College. Completed applications must be received by the Maryland State Scholarship Commission no later than that date.

The Transfer Hope Scholarship is available to community college students who will have completed at least 60 credits or earned an associate's degree by the end of the semester in which they apply. The scholarship awards $3,000 per year to students who enroll full time in a bachelor's degree program at a Maryland four-year college or university.

In addition to the Transfer Hope Scholarship, the Hope General Scholarship is available to high school students who plan to enroll in an eligible program at a Maryland two-year or four-year institution, and the Maryland Teacher Scholarship is available to eligible high school seniors, and undergraduate and graduate students who enroll in a program leading to teacher certification.

Information concerning criteria for these scholarships and the applications is available at GCC's Financial Aid office, which can also be reached by calling 301-387-3083.

Prospective college students should also take note of College Goal Sunday, a statewide event set for 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland. Participants can get professional help in completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid and obtain other information pertinent to their educational goal. Among the door prizes at this event will be two $500 scholarships to GCC.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was once illegal in New Mexico for a woman to be unshaven in public.

• Do you like ice cream? Do you take an occasional nip from the bottle? Well, now you can combine the two — someone came up with the idea to create Jack Daniels ice cream. Is wine more your style? Give blackberry-cabernet ice cream a try.

• It's been said that dreaming of bees is a predictor of success.

• Bryant Pond, Maine, didn't have dial telephones until 1983.

• Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was once a hobo.

• Everyone has a "sure-fire" cure for hiccups that they convince their friends to try — drinking water upside down, breathing through a pillow, holding your breath until you turn blue, putting ice cubes on your Adam's apple — but they never seem to work, do they? A theory has been put forward to explain this: No one expects them to work; people are just trying to get a laugh at their friends' expense. One piece of evidence that seems to support this is that old remedies for hiccups include casting cold water into the hiccupper's face, and immersing the sufferer's entire head in water for 25 seconds.

• That favorite snack of kids everywhere, Barnum's Animal Crackers, are baked at a rate of 12,000 per minute.

• During World War II, Fisher-Price made bomb crates.

• If you have loud neighbors, you'll appreciate this tidbit: The word "noise" comes from the Latin word for "nausea."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 23, 1849, Elizabeth Blackwell is granted a medical degree from Geneva College in New York, becoming the first female in U.S. history to be officially recognized as a physician. In 1875, she became professor of gynecology at the London School of Medicine for Women, a medical discipline she had helped to establish.

• On Jan. 22, 1901, Queen Victoria dies. During her 63-year reign, she restored dignity to the English monarchy and ensured its survival as a ceremonial political institution.

• On Jan. 26, 1905, at the Premier mine in Pretoria, South Africa, a 3,106-carat diamond is discovered. Christened the "Cullinan," it was the largest diamond ever found. It was later cut by Joseph Asscher, head of the Asscher Diamond Company of Amsterdam. Fearful of how his heart might react to a blunder, he had a doctor stand by as he cut the diamond. After nearly shattering it on his initial attempt, Asscher managed to satisfactorily divide it with his second blow, and promptly fainted.

• On Jan. 24, 1908, the Boy Scouts movement begins in England with the publication of the first installment of Robert Baden-Powell's "Scouting for Boys."

• On Jan. 21, 1916, The National Board of Review, founded in 1909 as the National Board of Censorship, agrees it will not accept nudity in films. In 1921, New York State passed a film-licensing law, which deprived the board of much of its power.

• On Jan. 25, 1924, the first Winter Olympics take off in style at Chamonix in the French Alps. Spectators were thrilled by the ski jump and bobsled as well as 12 other events involving a total of six sports.

On Jan. 27, 1991, Muhammad Siyad Barre, the dictator of the Somali Democratic Republic since 1969, flees Mogadishu as rebels overrun his palace and capture the Somali capital.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I began collecting Fiesta dinnerware several years ago because it fit both the decor of my home and my kicked-back lifestyle. I was immediately attracted by the vibrant colors, and even though I have found most of the more popular pieces, I have been less successful in locating any of the mixing bowls and pie plates. How can I find out more about this wonderful china? — Art, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. Fiesta dinnerware was an instant hit when it was introduced by the Homer Laughlin China Company near Newell, W.Va., in 1936. The first pieces were marketed in five colors: red, dark blue, light green, yellow and ivory. Fiesta red was the most expensive because the glaze was made with depleted uranium oxide and was costly to produce.

In 1939, Laughlin expanded Fiesta to include Kitchen Kraft, a line that included pie plates, refrigerator sets, mixing bowls and covered containers. Eventually, Fiesta added several additional colors, namely gray, rose, chartreuse and dark green.

Fiesta was redesigned in 1960, but sales were sluggish and it was discontinued 12 years later. Within a decade, it was being manufactured once again but in slightly different colors so that collectors would not confuse the newer pieces for the older, more desirable ones.

Prices for Fiesta are determined by color, condition and rarity. Recent shop prices of Fiesta china have included a yellow teapot, $325; a red dessert bowl, $65; a Kitchen Kraft cake server, $70; and a red mixing bowl, $300.

The Fiesta Collectors Club publishes a quarterly newsletter that might be helpful for you in finding some of the more scarce pieces of the dinnerware. The address of the club is P.O. Box 471, Valley City, OH 44280.

Buying Gold Jewelry

DEAR MISS BIJOUX: I want to buy a serious gold bracelet this year. Are the fluctuations in the price of gold such that I should follow the prices for a while, or does it matter what the price of gold does? How does a change in the price of gold affect the cost of a gold bracelet or chain? — Glitters in Georgia

DEAR GLITTERS: Manufacturers and wholesalers sell gold jewelry to retailers based on the price per troy ounce. This is a unit of weight used for precious metals. However, no direct correlation exists between price per troy ounce and the price of a given object. Five factors affect price: karatage (the amount of gold used); gram weight, design, amount of production (mass or limited) and construction. Typically, a manufacturer will price a gold chain, for example, by the gram weight and labor per gram times the price of gold per troy ounce on a given day.

Manufacturers buy gold far in advance of a given selling season, such as Christmas or Valentine's Day. Thus, even if you follow gold prices, you would be speculating on the date it was purchased, which does not take into account other buying techniques used by manufacturers to stabilize the price at which they have contracted to buy gold. Also keep in mind that the price of labor is a dominant factor in the manufacture of gold jewelry.

Your question suggests that you want to be a conscientious consumer. Miss Bijoux advises concentrating on the gram weight of the object. If it feels light, perhaps the manufacturer is attempting to keep the cost down by producing a less substantial chain or bracelet. You should ask yourself, first, whether you want 14 karat, 18 karat or higher gold content. Then concentrate on the style and quality of fabrication; then do your comparative shopping on price.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park will hold a Public Hearing pursuant to Section 4.04 of Article 66 B and Section 1103 of the Mountain Lake Park Zoning Ordinance for the repeal of the existing Zoning Ordinance and the adoption of a new Zoning Ordinance. The adoption of the proposed new Zoning Ordinance is pursuant to the action of the Mayor and Town Council taken December 19, 2001.

A fair summary of the proposed Ordinance is as follows:

An Ordinance regulating and restricting the height and size of buildings and other structures; establishing building lines, minimum frontages, depths and areas of lots, the size of yards, courts, and other open spaces; the density of population and the location and use of buildings, signs, structures and land for trade, industry, residence, recreation, public activities and all other purposes within the Town of Mountain Lake Park Maryland; and dividing the Town into Districts for regulating the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings, structures or land; and providing for the administration and enforcement thereof, as said Districts are shown on on a map, adopted as part of the original Ordinance and entitled: "Zoning Map of Mountain Lake Park, Maryland." In particular, the new Ordinance adds a new Zoning District to the Town known as a Preservation District which is designed to preserve the residential and/or historical character of neighborhoods to which it is applied as well as to preserve the uniqueness of any part of the Town of Mountain Lake Park.

A complete copy of the proposed Zoning Ordinance for Mountain Lake Park is available for review by the public at Town Hall and may be viewed by members of the public during business hours from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Copies of the Ordinance are available at a small cost reflecting the Town's costs to prepare them.

Notice is given that the Public Hearing on this Ordinance will be held on January 30, 2002, at 6:00 p.m. in the Town Hall located at 1007 Allegheny Drive, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland.

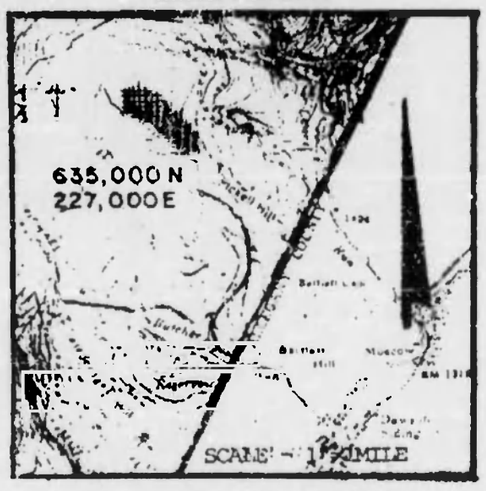
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR STRIP MINE PERMIT



Notice is hereby given that TRI-STAR MINING INC., 2278 Michael Road, Maryland 21521, has submitted an application to the Maryland Bureau of Mines for surface & operations permit. The operation is to be located near Barton, Maryland. The proposed operation occupies a 122 acre tract on the west side of Laurel Run, 2.5 miles northwest of Barton, Election District 11, Garrett County, 635,000N/227,000E. Access to the site is from Russell Road, 1.2 miles northwest of the intersection with Michael Road. The application proposes to mine within 100 feet of the right-of-way of Russell Road. The Maryland Grid coordinates for the segment to be affected are 636,500 N/224,500 E.

Surface and mineral of the area to be mined is owned by BTC Developments, Route 3, Box 17, Rockwood, PA 15557. The permit area is located within the US Geologic Survey Barton, MD, 7.5 minute quadrangle, the boundaries being as shown on the attached sketch.

The application includes plans to construct 3 ponds to control sediment and stormwater on the mining area. In addition to a surface coal mining permit the construction of the ponds will require a separate small pond approval from the Bureau of Mines.

A copy of the application, which includes the pond plans for the small pond approval, is available for public review at the Garrett Soil Conservation District Office, 1916 Maryland Highway, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland 21550, during normal office hours. Questions concerning any aspect of the application may be directed to Robert L. Dugen Jr., DUGAN ASSOCIATES, 301-689-1568 or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Permit Section 301-689-6405. A public hearing will not be held on this activity unless requested. Written comments, requests for a public hearing, and requests to be included on the interested persons list regarding this application will be received until February 23, 2002, by the Director, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532. Attention OPA-01-18.

Future notices about this application will be provided by mail to those persons that submit comments, request a public hearing or request to be included on the list of interested persons.

PLUMBING & HEATING

How To Buy An Outdoor Furnace
1. Read the warranty. Will the dealer give you a copy to look at? Know what you're buying.
2. Look in a new furnace, not a used one. See what you're buying. Is it designed well to save on wood and coal?
3. How many years has the furnace been manufactured?
4. 20 year warranty? What does it cover?
5. Shop the Internet for furnaces and warranties. If warranty isn't listed, they don't want you to know. Look Out!

Local Family Homeless After Monday Blaze

A Loch Lynn family was left homeless Monday afternoon when an accidental fire destroyed their two-story house.

Volunteer firefighters from Oakland, Deer Park, Gorman, and Terra Alta fire departments were summoned to the residence of Marvin (Jr.) and Beverly Jo Rhodes at 3:08 p.m. after Marvin Rhodes Sr., who lives next door, saw smoke coming from the eaves of the wood-frame structure, located at 210 W. Second Avenue. When the first fire units arrived on the scene, the house was fully engulfed in flames.

The Rhodes couple and their 23-month-old son Travis were not at home at the time of the blaze. The fire was brought under control in about 20 minutes, but the house was destroyed and the family lost nearly all of their possessions. Two pet dogs also perished in the fire.

According to a report from the Western Region office of the Maryland State Fire Marshal, the elder Mr. Rhodes who discovered the fire tried to enter the house, but was turned away by heavy smoke and intense heat. Deputy State Fire Marshal Bruce Shafer said that the home was being heated by a woodstove in the living room, which caused a fire in the unlined flue to spread to the remainder of the structure.

High winds caused the flames to spread rapidly, and also ignited some nearby pine trees.

Shafer estimated the loss to be at least $30,000. Reportedly, the family did not have any insurance on the house or its contents. The Rhodeses were in the process of renovating the house and had just bought a computer, which was destroyed. They are currently staying with relatives.

Fire units remained on the scene for about two hours. Also responding

Equivalent Funds For GCC Bill Hearing Slated

Delegates from Allegany and Garrett counties have introduced a bill in the Maryland General Assembly that would provide more funding for local community colleges. The House Appropriations Committee will hold a public hearing on House Bill 179 in Annapolis on Wednesday, Jan. 30, in the Lowe Building at 11 a.m. The hearing will be conducted in the committee's chambers.

The bill was drafted by Dr. Steve Herman, Garrett Community College president, and Dr. Don Alexander, Allegany College of Maryland president, in an attempt to compensate for funding inequities to their colleges, due to a funding formula introduced five years ago. As a result of the methodology, the average community college in the state has seen an increase in funding of about 61 percent during those five years. Yet, GCC's increase has been only 16 percent, while ACM has seen only a 23 percent increase in funding.

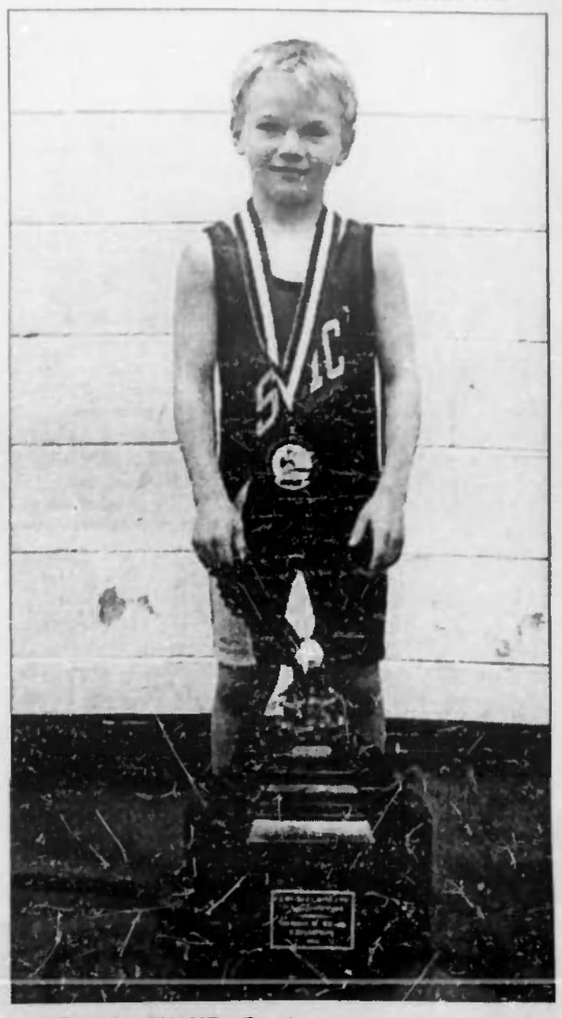
"This is a gross inequity," said Herman. The president added, however, that the funding discrepancies were only an unintentional consequence of the formula and not an attempt to slight the counties.

The legislation could result in $1 million for the institutions, Herman said. He and Alexander plan to attend the hearing next week.

The legislation, sponsored by Speaker Casper Taylor, Kevin Kelly, and George Edwards, requests that GCC and ACM "receive additional unrestricted grants of a specified amount." The legislation also asks that "specified unrestricted grant" funding increase at the same rate for community colleges as it does for four-year public institutions, according to the General Assembly's web site.

Hearings were held last week by the Appropriations Committee on two other bills proposed by the Western Maryland Delegation — HB23, military service credit, and HB44, employees' retirement and pension systems.

Information about other bills and legislative activities may be found on the General Assembly's web site at http://mlis.state.md.us.



NATIONAL CHAMP - For the second year in a row, the Southern Mat Club has produced a national wrestling champion, as Lax Ozias, a third grade student at Broad Ford Elementary School, took first place among 45 wrestlers in his class at the Tulsa (Okla.) National Wrestling Tournament this past weekend. Ozias, son of Darrell Ozias and Robin Wilson, Kitzmiller, competed in the 52-pound, 8-and-under division. Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, another member of the SMC who was a national champion last year, just missed repeating at that level, as he lost by a 2-1 decision in the title bout of the 61-pound, 8-and-under division. See sports pages for details.

GCC Noted For Helping Rural Businesses Adapt To Trends

The proactive leadership of Garrett Community College in creating the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) has been recognized in Cultivating Successful Rural Economies: Benchmark Practices at Community Colleges, college president Dr. Steve Herman told the GCC trustees during a monthly board meeting last week. The publication names GCC as one of 43 rural community college programs worldwide that have had outstanding success in helping rural businesses adapt to changing economic trends.

Garrett was chosen for inclusion in Cultivating Rural Economies... from a field of 122 nominees. The research and judging process was carried out by Regional Technology Strategies (RTS), a national non-profit workforce and economic development group based in Carrboro, N.C., and was funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Fund for Rural America. The publication profiles each of the benchmark practices and is intended to serve as a guide for other community colleges and communities looking for new ideas and proven programs to emulate.

"GCC was selected for our role in bringing advanced telecommunication technology to a rural area where it hadn't been before," Herman explained. "We created GRIC (which later became an independent organization in 1998) as a non-profit cooperative to provide affordable Internet access for the area because service providers often bypass rural areas in order to focus on higher density — and thus higher profit — urban areas. We didn't want the community or the college to face a disadvantage by lacking the proper infrastructure when it came to competing in the 'information age.'"

RTS undertook the effort to profile innovative

Bill Allowing Limited Black Bear Hunt Filed In House Of Delegates

by Hanah Cho
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland's wildlife officials respond to a number of nuisance bear incidents, but one this summer in Garrett County was the most unusual.

A cub crawled through the open window of a car parked near Deep Creek Lake, and ate a peanut butter sandwich sitting inside. Then it couldn't find its way out. The bear escaped by breaking a window.

The car owner got a warning: "We told him not to leave his window open in that area," said Clarissa Harris, a regional wildlife response coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources.

Nuisance bear calls like this have prompted a movement in the Maryland General Assembly to control the growing bear population in the state. Under a bill in the House of Delegates, the Department of Natural Resources would be required to adopt regulations for a limited black bear hunting season to control the growing bruin population. The law now prohibits killing bears except in the case of self-defense or protecting livestock.

"It's the main topic of discussion where I live," said Delegate George Edwards, R-Garrett. "We've had homes and automobiles broken into. We've had a

Edwards Speaks On His Proposal For Bear Hunt

Editor's note: Del. George Edwards, author and primary sponsor of House Bill 9, spoke to The Republican via telephone last night from his Annapolis office concerning his proposal for a limited bear hunting season. Edwards' comments refer to his appearance yesterday before the House Environmental Matters Committee.

"My presentation was well-received by the committee members and not-so-well received by the audience members. I got a look at the sign-in sheet, and that told me what I needed to know about the audience's reaction — By far, the audience was from the metropolitan area, and appeared to be members of anti-hunting and animal rights groups. Those folks have a right to express their opinions, but in all fairness I had to point out to the committee that many of my

County Will Hire Consultant To Help Plan New Detention Center

The county's new detention center may be one small step closer to becoming a reality. The Garrett County commissioners discussed the new jail with members of the detention center planning committee this week during their weekly public meeting. The officials decided to hire a consultant to work with the committee on developing criteria for the facility.

Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, reported that he and other committee members met last week with Csaba Balazs of L. Robert Kimball and Associates, which has worked on more than 100 correctional facilities, to discuss the project.

The administrator said the committee needed feed back from the commissioners about issuing a Requ For Property (RFP) for center and whether Emergency Manag Office would be lo the new facility.

The Republican's Warm The Children Garners Record Support

Warm the Children, a relief effort spearheaded by The Republican newspaper, garnered record support in financial contributions and volunteer help this year, according to Mary McEwen, director of the program. Money raised this season totalled over $23,000, and more than 215 local children benefited from the effort. Over 40 people worked as Warm the Children volunteers.

This was the fifth year the newspaper initiated the program, the goal of which is to provide new, warm clothing and footwear for local children in need. From mid-October through December, weekly advertisements are published in the newspaper asking for donations, and the money is kept in a special fee-free savings account at First United Bank & Trust. The public school system, Head Start, and other agencies work with the Department of Social Services (chiefly with Dora Hanlin) to identify the families to be served, and then these families go shopping with volunteers, who help each child choose $100 worth of winter clothing and footwear.

Because the advertising is in-house at the newspaper, there are no overhead fees for the program. All money donated goes toward the tax-exempt purchase of the winter items. The participating stores this year were the Oakland Wal-Mart and the Ames in Frostburg.

Serving as the volunteer coordinator was Linda Thomas, who worked closely with Roberta Andersen

RAMS RUN AWAY FROM HUSKIES — The undefeated Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team rolled to its 16th consecutive triumph last night in convincing fashion as the Rams downed the visiting Northern Huskies 63-31. This photo is unique in that it captures all 10 players of both the Garrett County teams. Among the many keys to the SHS juggernaut this season has been a potent fast-breaking offense, frozen in the frame above as speedy Robbin Gregg (#15) flies down the floor with Husky defender Heather Lander (#4) nearly matching her stride-for-stride. Hunt Plans Draw Backers, Opponents To Political Arena

by Hanah Cho
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Bear hunting isn't necessary and deer hunting on Sundays would end the only day of peace for hikers, opponents of plans to extend Maryland's hunting seasons told lawmakers at a packed hearing Wednesday.

But in the standing-room crowd of about 100 at the House Environmental Matters Committee, Garrett County residents shared their stories about close bear encounters, arguing that the animals need to be controlled.

Robert Alan O'Brien, a longtime Garrett County resident, said bears have broken into his Swanton home on several occasions. In one incident last year, a bear entered his house while a babysitter and his three children were home, and carried out a 50-pound box of confectionery wafers and a bread loaf, O'Brien said.

"In all my years, I've never seen a bear in Garrett County until last year," O'Brien said. "Up until then, I thought bears were cute, cuddly, and adorable. I was against bear hunting."

Likewise, Garrett County Commissioner Wendell R. Beitzel said he installed electric fencing around his property to keep away the bears.

"I enjoy seeing them," Beitzel said. "But there are getting to be so many of them. If there were a hunt, they would keep their distance."

The bill would end a nearly 50-year ban on bear hunting in Maryland. Under the bill, the Department of Natural Resources would be required to adopt regulations establishing a limited bear hunt to control the growing population, mostly in western Maryland. The law prohibits killing bears except in the case of self-defense or protecting livestock.

The department opposes a hunt because the bear population does not exceed the region's capacity for the animal to sustain a livable habitat, said Paul Peditto, director of the department's Wildlife and Heritage Service.

Groups such as Fund for Animals, the Humane Society of the United States, and the Sierra Club, among others, also oppose a bear hunt. They said a random hunt would not necessarily kill off an individual nuisance bear and that the bill neglects nonlethal methods to control the animal.

"If you want to get rid of nuisance bear, aversive conditioning is the simplest, most effective method to use," said Susan Solarz, a Silver Spring resident.

Also, the state should not resort to a bear hunt just because some residents in western Maryland don't want to use special trash receptacles or take down birdfeeders at night, said Mark Markarian, executive vice president of the Fund for Animals.

In a similar exchange, supporters and opponents of the Sunday deer hunt debated over the bill's purpose. Under the bill, the deer hunting season for firearms would be extended from 13 to 21 days and would include up to three Sundays, an exemption to the current state law.

Excluded from Sunday deer hunts would be Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, and parts of Frederick counties and the cities of Baltimore and Frederick.

The Maryland Farm Bureau backed an extension for the firearms season, arguing it would further help cull deer herds in the state and reduce extensive crop damage; however, it opposes Sunday hunts.

But others like Steven Huettner of the Maryland Sportsmen's Association said he cannot understand why farmers cannot kill deer on their own property on a Sunday.

"Maryland's motto is that we are a free state," Huettner said.

Several residents said they oppose the Sunday hunts because it takes away the only day horse riders, hikers, and picnickers can enjoy the outdoors during a hunting season. The bill also opens the door for bow and muzzleloader hunters to ask for Sunday deer hunts as well, opponents said.

"Don't you think," said Pat McElroy of Silver Spring, "eventually they want a chance to kill on Sundays?"

LAST CLASS ON THE HILL PLANS REUNION — The 1952 class of Oakland High School is remembered as the "last" class to graduate from OHS. A committee has been formed to start planning for the upcoming observance of the 50th reunion. The second weekend in August has been chosen for the date, which also coincides with the annual OHS. alumni reunion. Many ideas are being considered, from a river boat cruise to a pig roast. Letters will be sent to classmates asking for their preference. A memory booklet is also being considered. Local classmates are encouraged a become part of the committee. For more information, persons may call Lucille Tasker Ludvigsen at 301-334-9168. Committee members pictured above, from the left, are Beverly Flanagan Rook, Lucille Tasker Ludvingsen, and Pete Turney. Standing are Robert Stocksleger, Troy Gregy, and Jim Flanagan.

Governor's Budget Creates Nearly $1 Billion Deficit For 2004

by Kathleen Johnston Jarboe
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Lawmakers are complaining Gov. Parris N. Glendening has left all the tough budget-cutting decisions to them, including how to close a huge budget gap after he leaves office.

Members of the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee and House Appropriations Committee took their first detailed look at Glendening's 2003 operating budget Monday night. The budget would leave a nearly $1 billion budget deficit for 2004 under current spending measures, fiscal analysts told lawmakers. That deficit would require a dramatic increase in revenues to balance the budget in 2004, said Warren Deschenaux from the Office of Policy Analysis.

Although an economic turnaround is expected during the next fiscal year, analysts warned that the recovery would be lukewarm and likely would not provide the needed revenue to close the budget gap.

Glendening left the difficult task of making cuts to the General Assembly, said Senate Budget and Taxation Committee Chairman Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore.

"We cannot build a budget on wishful thinking because we hope to come back [after re-election] and not in May" for a special session, she said.

Since the governor cannot run again this fall, he can "gamble" with the economy, she said.

Glendening balanced the 2003 budget by postponing mandated spending, including delaying the last 2 percent of a total 10 percent income tax break, and taking money from unspent program funds and reserve accounts, fiscal analysts said.

The one-time fixes to shore up the 2003 budget would leave the same $1 billion gap between spending and revenue for the 2004 budget and almost no reserve funds to draw on, Deschenaux said.

"Presumably we are all convinced now that, yes, we did hit an iceberg and the ship is actually sinking," said House Minority Whip Robert Flanagan, R-Howard. He said some programs would need to be cut entirely to fully fund others.

Lawmakers have remained adamant that the tax cut must be implemented, which means they will have to find $175 million elsewhere.

Restoring the promised income tax relief may be difficult, said Deschenaux, because budget forecasts show no room for it for several years.

Glendening rebutted criticism of his budget Tuesday, saying that Deschenaux makes "doom and gloom" budget forecasts even though the governor manages to control expenditures enough each year to balance the budget.

Besides the tax cut, the governor's budget also makes use of postponing payments and transferring unspent funds to keep the state in the black, according to analysts. A hiring freeze instituted late last year also helped, they said.

Most of the budget's salary line decreases were in line with attrition rates. However, analysts said some agencies would need to find alternative revenue sources or lay off employees since their salary cuts were higher than their vacancies.

Those budget areas under threat of layoffs are: legislative, financial and revenue administration, retirement, human resources, higher education, housing and community development, business, and economic development.

Another potential problem is Medicaid. Analysts said Glendening's $367 million increase in Medicaid spending underestimated actual enrollment needs and growth in medical costs by $100 million. And reductions in state pension plan payments would move at least $65 million in make-up payments to next year.

Glendening tapped the state's $500 million rainy day fund to balance the budget as well as:

- $50 million from a welfare emergency reserve fund. Analysts said $1 million would remain.
- $32 million from the injured workers' insurance reserve.
- $18 million from Maryland Transportation Authority revenues.
- $5 million in monies set aside for the Emergency Medical System to offset future program costs.
- $70 million from the Maryland Automobile Insurance fund.
- $5 million from the 911 Emergency Number fund.

Driver Charged With DUI After Escaping Injury

A Martinsville, W.Va., man who had escaped injury in a single-vehicle accident early Saturday morning in southern Garrett County was charged with driving while under the influence (DUI) by Maryland State Police troopers investigating the mishap.

At approximately 1:45 a.m. Gregory Brent Robinette, 24, lost control of his 1996 Dodge Dakota pickup truck along westbound George Washington Highway near Table Rock Road. The truck overturned several times before coming to rest. Tpr. A. Blocher arrested Robinette at the scene for DUI and transported him to the McHenry barrack. A subsequent blood alcohol content test returned a reading of .12 percent.

Steyer Fuel Inc. Offers Reward For Information

Steyer Fuel Inc. is offering up to a $5,000 reward for information leading to the recovery of stolen circuit breakers.

The Steyer Mine in the Gorman area recently had several thousand dollars worth of circuit breakers stolen around Jan. 17, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Deputies arrested Bert Andrew Morrell, Aurora, W.Va., for the crime, although the breakers have not yet been recovered, police said.

Persons with information regarding the circuit breakers are urged to contact the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911 or the Garrett Bureau of Investigation at 301-334-1909. Callers will remain anonymous.

Nominations For GCC Contributor Being Solicited

The board of trustees of Garrett Community College is inviting nominations for the Award for Outstanding Contributions to GCC, an annual award presented at the college's commencement exercise. The purpose of the award is to recognize individuals or organizations that have significantly and positively influenced GCC's mission and educational goals.

Any member of the community may submit a nomination. To be considered, nominations must be delivered to the GCC Office of the President no later than Thursday, Feb. 21. Persons who would like to recommend a candidate may contact the GCC president's office at 301-387-3056 for further information and a nomination form.

Oakland Man Gets Three Years For Distribution

An Oakland man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday to two counts of distribution of marijuana. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced John Samuel Peterson, 20, to three years at the Department of Corrections, with two of those years suspended. A $1,000 fine was also imposed. Peterson will serve the remaining year in the Garrett County Jail.

Peterson was charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in March of last year after he reportedly sold marijuana to a citizen who came forward to complain of drugs being used and sold by his co-workers. The citizen agreed to work with the task force and arranged the purchase of marijuana from Peterson on three occasions, from August 2000 to February 2001, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

Friendsville Man Charged With Drug Possession

A 19-year-old Friendsville man was jailed by the Maryland State Police late Friday afternoon when a traffic stop for an equipment violation led to a search that uncovered suspected marijuana, as well as alcohol, in his possession.

Carlton Jay ("C.J.") Shomo was driving the 1990 Chevrolet Beretta that was stopped on Friendsville's Maple Street at 4:43 p.m. He was asked to exit the car after Tfc. Grinman detected the odor of an alcoholic beverage, and a pat-down search reportedly resulted in Shomo's admission that he was carrying marijuana and drug paraphernalia. A computer check also indicated that his license was suspended in Maryland.

Shomo was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, underage possession of alcohol, and driving on a suspended license.

Leads Sought In Theft Of Four-Wheeler

Garrett County sheriff's deputies and Garrett Bureau of Investigation are seeking leads in the theft of a four-wheeler from a residence along Underwood Road Saturday.

Michael A. Miller reported that his 1995 Polaris 425 Magnum 4x4 four-wheeler, valued at $5,600, was missing.

Persons with information regarding this incident are urged to contact the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911 or GBI at 301-334-1909.

Rose Wilhelm
on her birthday
Jan. 26, 1919 - Sept. 30, 2000

A birthday is a special day
For those whom we love.
So God, take this loving birthday
Wish to the heavens above.
And tell our mom we love her
And miss her more each day.
If we could change one single thing.
We would bring her home to stay.
Our nights and days are lonely.
And life is so hard to bear.
Because we always had the feeling
Our mother would always be there
To dry our tears and make us smile
And make our life so worthwhile.
We look into the heavens
And see your shining star.
I know that you're watching over us,

Knives Found By MSP During Traffic Stops

Two drivers stopped for speeding on Interstate 68 by the Maryland State Police were charged with possession of a concealed deadly weapon, among other violations, after searches uncovered knives hidden either on their person or in the vehicle.

The first incident occurred Friday at approximately 4:21 a.m. on the eastbound interstate just west of Old Frostburg Road after Tfc. M. Clapper clocked a vehicle at 80 mph in the 65-mph zone. The driver, Richard Francis Garber, 26, Frostburg, was charged with driving under the influence (DUI) and the weapons charge was filed after a subsequent search revealed he was carrying a concealed knife.

Garber's passenger, Arlina Sue Woodley-King, 23, also of Frostburg, was jailed on a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute after four bags of suspected marijuana were found in her purse. Both subjects were detained at the Allegany County Detention Center before Garber was released on his own recognizance, and Woodley-King was released after posting a $5,000 bond.

The second incident took place Tuesday at 5:46 a.m. when a 2001 Chevrolet Cavalier was stopped by Tfc. J. LeMay for traveling at 97 mph. The driver, Leon Steven Gates, 36, of Victorville, Calif., was found to be in violation of the car's rental agreement and was arrested for the traffic violations, according to police.

The arresting trooper contacted the rental company, and the owner requested that the vehicle be stored for safekeeping. During a routine inventory of the vehicle's contents, several star knives were discovered lying on the center console, and the weapons charge was filed at that point.

Police Seeking Leads In Oil Co. Break-In, Theft

The Oakland Police Department was summoned Tuesday at 6:35 a.m. to the office of the Oakland Oil Company when two staff members discovered that the business had been robbed. The office was ransacked and thousands of dollars were stolen, according to the report.

John Sines, police chief, responded to the scene and spoke with employees Elmer Reckart and Pat Glotfelty. The safe was open, as were desk drawers, and papers were strewn across the room, according to the report.

Footprints were located in the snow behind the office, where the culprits apparently stood on a bucket to gain entry through a secured window. The footprints reportedly indicated that the thieves tried to get into the business through other windows and the back door. Sines noted that screwdriver markings were found on the door.

When they did gain entry, the culprits pried open the safe and stole 16 checks totalling nearly $8,500, and currency in the amount of almost $1,500. The checks were in a maroon bank bag and the cash was in a white bank bag. The thieves also stole about $33 of the employees' petty cash.

Joining Sines in the investigation Tuesday were officers from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and a specialist from the Maryland State Police crime scene unit. The investigation is continuing.

Persons with any information about this crime are urged to contact the Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100.

KIDS HELP KIDS WITH FOOD DRIVE — Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., Community and Emergency Services and an AmeriCorps member, sponsored the "Kids Helping Kids" food drive recently. Team One donated the use of its vehicles to pick up the donated food and transport the food to GCCAC. Nine schools participated in the drive, and Dennett Road Elementary donated the most poundage, 1,623 pounds of food. The other donations were as follows: Yough Glades, 1,207 pounds; Swan Meadow, 269 pounds; Crellin Elementary, 205 pounds; Kitzmiller Elementary, 921 pounds; Bloomington, 392 pounds; Broad Ford Elementary, 1,104 pounds; Northern Middle, 1,500 pounds; Accident, 723 pounds, Grantsville, 10 pounds; Northern High School, 61 pounds; and Friendsville Elementary, 721 pounds. A total of 8,736 pounds of food has been collected. This year has been the biggest participation from schools and food donations. The class at each school that donated the most poundage received a pizza party and a certificate of achievement, and each child from the class received a certificate of achievement. Each school also received a certificate of achievement. Diehl's Ford Sales donated 22 turkeys to the food drive to be given to families for Thanksgiving dinners. The food that has been donated will be used to assist Garrett County residents who are facing a food crisis. and Bobbie Henderson of the Civic Club of Oakland. The three coordinated shopping trips with volunteers and families. Lisa Broadwater, the Republican's office manager in Grantsville, coordinated the shopping trips to Ames.

For the second year, the recipients of Warm the Children were also treated to special showings of this season's holiday movies at Garrett 8 Cinemas. The children and their parents were invited to the cinemas on Dec. 7 by Greig Johnson, supervisor of operations, and Brenda Hackett, manager. The guests' tickets were paid for by an anonymous donor, and the children received gift bags, as well as free sodas and popcorn. More than 170 children and their parents attended.

In addition to Johnson and Hackett, the movie day was made possible by Linda Thomas, Bea Shaw, Elaine Jamison, Debbie Feinstein, Maury Feinstein, Rosalind Eggleston-Wiseman, Alysia DeWitt, and Pam Barchers.

Items for the gift bags were provided by the following businesses/individuals: Arrowhead, PaintWorks, Glen Acres Resort, McDonald's of Deep Creek Lake, Fox's Pizza of Oakland, Farmer's Market, Wal-Mart, CVS Pharmacy, Beachy's Pharmacy, Brenda Hackett, and the Christmas Chalet.

Warm the Children was one of two local relief programs that joined together to help more area children. The Rotary Christmas Project, an annual effort that provides food, Christmas gifts, and clothing to those in need, experienced a shortfall in clothing items for children. There were 49 clothing tags that remained unclaimed on the last day of the gift drive. Warm the Children volunteers offered to pick up some of the tags as long as the donated money held out.

Just as Warm the Children volunteers were prepared to take about half of the tags, a donation of over $1,600 was received. The money came from Wal-Mart after the local store staff voted to select Warm the Children as the recipient of a special donation. A certain percentage of all the sales on the morning of Dec. 1 at the store constituted this contribution.

With this monetary boost, volunteers from the newspaper went to Wal-Mart and proceeded to purchase all 49 items for the Rotary. Applications for both of these projects are cross-screened by Social Services in an effort to avoid the duplication of services, so these 49 items went mainly to youngsters who were not already served by Warm the Children.

"That was one of the best parts of the whole season," McEwen said. "It was great to be able to help out with the Rotary project, which is such a terrific program, and the timing was amazing. We got the donation and shopped in the same day in order to get the clothing items to the Rotary packing station at Simon Pearce. It was a lot of fun."

A full-page advertisement appears in this week's issue listing all donors and volunteers in this year's program.

"Thanks to everyone who helped out. It was a very successful effort," McEwen said.

Edwards Speaks

constituents have to work and couldn't take off a full day to travel to Annapolis for the hearing.

"What I stressed throughout my talk was that this is a wildlife management issue and not a hunting issue. We want to manage the bear population, not get rid of bears, and hunting is a tool for doing just that. I also spoke about another option that could do the same thing — relocation. I shared with the committee a map that Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists drew up at my request a couple of years ago showing the areas of the state that could support a bear population; there are number of areas where bears could live in the state, not just western Maryland.

"When I turned and showed the map to the audience so they could see that bears could survive in a number of locations where lots of people live, many of them very close to the big cities, the audience members reacted by clapping and cheering, and some yelled, 'We'll take them!' I told the committee members to pay attention to those comments; maybe someday we'll get a relocation program going and see what people say then.

"The other main point covered was the fact that western Maryland's neighbors, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, both have bear hunting seasons of their own. A committee member asked if bears were really smart enough to leave an area where hunting was taking place. My answer to that was that bears are pretty intelligent and, just like deer, will get pretty scarce during a hunting season. They have to go somewhere, and when they get to a place where guns aren't being fired, they'll feel safe there.

"It's very important, as I told the committee hearing, to underscore that this is a proposal for a very limited bear hunt. It would be based on DNR's own scientific studies of bear population numbers and carrying capacity in given areas. Hunting could even be limited to certain geographic portions of Garrett or Allegany counties where there are too many bears. DNR would set the parameters, including a lottery system and fees that would be channeled into the wildlife fund. We wouldn't have large groups of hunters roaming all over the place; nobody wants that. On the other hand, nobody wants bears being killed illegally through gut shots, poisoning, etc. We can find a solution to this."

Edwards added that he expects the house committee to hold its vote on HB 9 this coming week.

For the Bears...

As reported in this issue of The Republican, there was a hearing held in Annapolis yesterday before the Maryland House Environmental Matters Committee to discuss a bill submitted by our own Delegate George Edwards ealling for a limited bear hunt, plus a bill submitted by a Calvert County delegate that would extend the firearms deer hunting season by a week and inelude Sunday hunting.

While we are usually a strong proponent of bills introduced by Delegate Edwards, we are generally against establishment of a bear hunting season in Maryland, at least for now. While the number of bears in Garrett and Alleganv counties has certainly been rising, and even though we are definitely not bear experts, it seems that the estimated 327 bears in the entire state (mostly Garrett County) is still a relatively tiny number — too small to support even a limited hunting season. Even if every single one of these bears were in Garrett County, that would be one bear for every 1,268 acres of land.

Some believe that there are far more than 327 bears because so many are seen on a regular basis in many areas of the county. But it must be noted that many sightings are of the same animals, over and over.

Yes, some of these bruins are nuisanees, and yes, some of them have caused and do eause damage to personal property, in which eases the property owner should be compensated. But the great majority of them are not nuisances, and those that are either need to be subjeeted to aversive conditioning or relocated.

Another concern about having a hunt, even a limited one, is that the location of so many of their dens in Garrett County is known by many people. In many instances it would be like shooting fish in a barrel. Undoubtedly there would also be ineidents of baiting these animals with food, which could hardly be ealled hunting.

Granted, one thing about yesterday's hearing that is a bit annoying is hearing anti-bear hunting testimony from persons who live in the eastern part of the state and have never even seen one in the wild, let alone had one tear down their bird feeder or wreek their trash eans. The testimony of those of us who live with the bears should be given far more eredenee by the committee.

As for extending the deer hunting season, we have almost no problem with that proposal. We are praetically being overrun by deer. While erop damage claims for bears in the year 2000 amounted to $12,200 in Maryland, erop damage caused by deer in 1996 was estimated at $38 million. Toss into that mix the 4,300 automobile accidents caused by deer just last year in the state. (There were probably fewer than a dozen auto accidents caused by bears.) The deer population, estimated at a quarter million, can easily support an extended season.

The only pieee of the deer bill that we do not support is allowing hunting on Sundays. Couldn't we continue to have just one day eaeh week during the season that we ean safely walk through the woods and/or not have to listen to gunfire?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Our community has so many good things for us to enjoy, and one of them is our Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team! They are doing great this year and bring such joy to those of us who go to watch them! Thank you, girls!

It would be appropriate for the folks who utilize the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library to write Senator Barbara Mikulski and Mayor Gerry Beachy and Grantsville Town Council, and thank these public servants for the funds that were appropriated to help fund the ReNew Grantsville s Library Building endeavor.

The addresses are as follows: Senator Mikulski, Suite 709, Senate Bldg., Washington, DC 20510; and Mayor Gerry Beachy and Town Council, P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, MD 21536.

All of us in Grantsville appreciate what you all have done to support this community endeavor. Thank you very much!

To the Editor:

A new poll taken in Maryland Jan. 9-12 underlines what many of us knew already: The public supports the right of patients to use marijuana for medical purposes, and legislators can act to protect patients without risking trouble at election time.

The poll, conducted by Gonzales/Arscott Research and Communications, found that 37 percent of Maryland voters would be more likely to vote for a candidate who supports protecting medical marijuana patients, while only 18 percent would be less likely to support such a candidate. Forty percent said a candidate's position on the issue would have no effect. Men, women, whites, blacks, Democrats, Republicans, and independents all said they would be more likely to vote for a candidate who supports protecting medical marijuana patients.

This jibes with everything we know about voter sentiment on medical marijuana. In every state where protection for patients has been on the ballot, it has passed by a large margin. Local, state, and national polls have consistently shown strong public support.

Maryland legislators will soon get another chance to protect patients who need marijuana to relieve symptoms associated with cancer, multiple sclerosis, AIDS, and other terrible illnesses. Now that they know they have nothing to fear, one can only hope they will do the right thing.

Sincerely,
Bruce Mirken
Assistant Director of Communications
Marijuana Policy Project

To the Editor:

I was thoroughly captivated by the wonderful letter to the editor last week about a lovely couple who reside in Garrett County. It is so refreshing to read that there are such caring people in our community. It is so important that we take care of our elders and give them the love and respect they deserve. So many elders are abused and it goes unnoticed. We need to be aware of this problem and protect them when they cannot defend themselves.

It was also wonderful to read of the importance of grandparents. What a joy for grandchildren to hear stories from years ago. The bond between grandparent and grandchild is so very important. So many wonderful, caring, and loving people right here in Garrett County. What a terrific place to live!

Thanks again for printing that touching letter.

To the Editor:

Every year for a decade, WCBC Radio has thrown a magical Christmas party for the children of Maryland Salem Children's Trust. Unable to live with their families, these children face Christmas time with losses that would undo many adults; the WCBC party is a welcome highlight, each year. I would like to publicly thank everyone who helped make it so special in 2001.

To the staff and management of WCBC Radio Station, thank you for your commitment in organizing this special event year after year. I wish you could hear our Veterans' tell each new child about the wonderful party at WCBC. From Santa Claus and host families, to food and gifts, to the personal attention of radio personalities, the WCBC Christmas party has become a legend at Salem.

To the host families who welcome our Salem children as your own for one special evening, thank you for your donation of time and finances! Once again you've helped carry our boys and girls trough a difficult season.

To the sponsors of the Christmas party, thank you for your donation of food, gifts, and money toward this year's party: Allegany County Nursing, Allegany Family Dentistry, Ames Department Store, Applied Energy Service, Arby's Restaurant, Biederlack Company, Bill Miller Equipment, Book Center, Caporale Bakery Inc., Carmichael's, CBIZ/ BGS&G, Chem Dry, Chi Chi's Restaurant, Chick-Fil-A Restaurant, Christian Music and Book Store, City Lights, County Market,

OF CONVERSION AND POETRY (AND JELLY, TOO)

The jelly kettle boiled a frothy foam. That foam rolled steadily, and then suddenly rose toward escape from the kettle. I stood by the stove stirring all the while, and with the other hand on the gas control.

One of the things I did not accomplish before Christmas was jelly making. I save and soak the dry pressings from apple cider, and then strain the liquid for jelly. That juice has been sitting in the back of my refrigerator for most of two months. Last week I could take the time to make jelly, and I did.

Making jelly has, at least, one thing in common with mowing; namely, the mind is free to do some thinking. As I stirred (and stirred and stirred since I did not introduce pectin, rather relied on the natural pectin from the apples), I thought about tomorrow, which is both the Feast of St. Paul's Conversion and Robert Burns' birthday.

Paul was a saint and Burns wasn't. Burns was a poet, and Paul wasn't. They were both extraordinary men, though, with more in common than first meets the eye.

What they had in common with each other they also had in common with making jelly. It is possible to think that the juice has jelled when it hasn't, but when it has jelled there is no mistake about it. I kept thinking, "It must be jelly," only to discover by the plate test, that it was not jelly yet. Then the moment came when I knew that it was as jelly as it was going to get.

For both St. Paul and Burns, life was like that. Whatever mistakes they may have made about some penultimate reality, when the real thing happened, they knew it.

St. Paul was a determined persecutor of the Christian Church. He was sure that he was doing God's will, and acted upon that confidence. On the way to forwarding that work, God made him see by blinding him. The false could be mistaken as the real, but the real was unmistakable.

For Robert Burns, writing poetry was like that. He was the son of a noble-spirited man who was poor, and did not possess enough of what today we would call "life-skills" to better his material position. Burns worked throughout his childhood as a ploughboy. By the time he was 16 he was nearly physically worn out. He attempted and failed at family life, farming, civil service, and perhaps especially as a man of the world.

Robert Burns did one thing well. He wrote poetry. He had an infallible ear for poetry such that he not only wrote his own sublime poems but also edited definitively the traditional folk songs of Scotland.

It is easy, and wrong, to suppose that all saints and poets possess this gift of knowing when the essential thing has happened.

St. Francis of Assisi serves as an excellent counter-example to St. Paul. Francis was blown this way and that, beautifully and mysteriously, but without recognizing the final chord when it had been played. Some have suggested that only by St. Clare's common sense was he kept in this world even when he was in it.

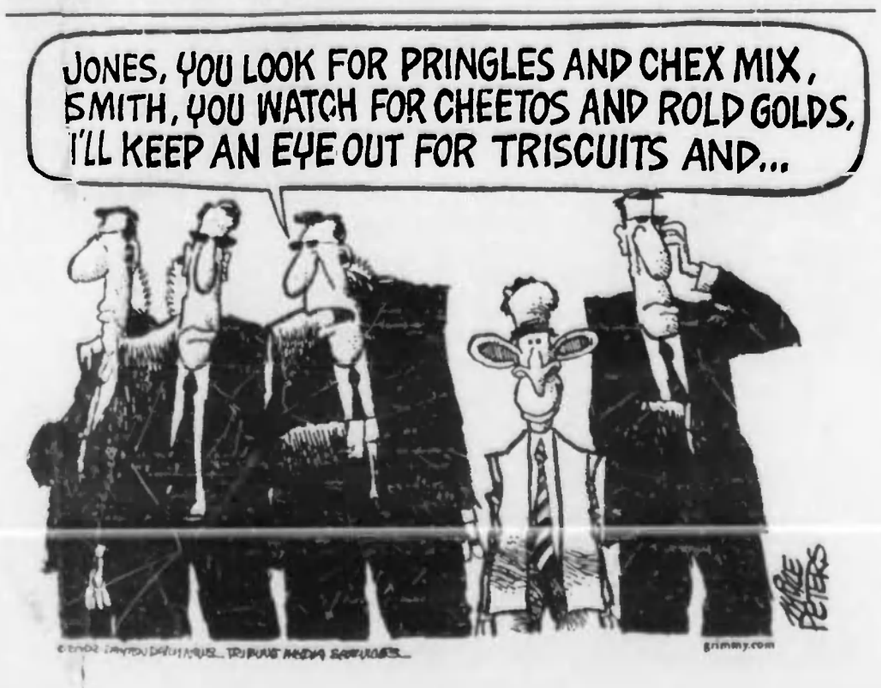
Emily Dickinson, a favorite poet of mine, lacked judgment about her poetry. She rarely recognized when the poem had jelled. To read her at her best, oue needs the variorum edition of her poems in order to pick through her first, second, and third guesses of the right word, and then to exercise one's own judgement as to which is the best word. St. Paul corrected his fellow apostles. Burns corrected his predecessor poets. When a thing came into focus, they saw it clearly, and knew the clarity of their vision.

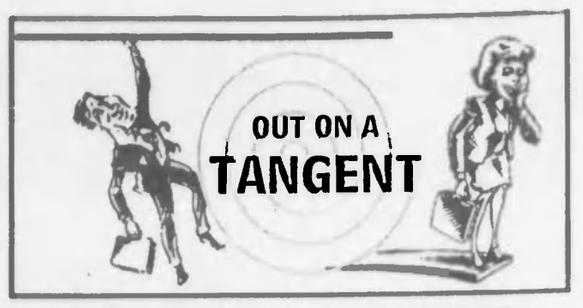
There are 13 half-pints of jelly to be eaten. Only a few will be consumed here. The balance will be given away. For taste, jelly made the old way is incomparable. All that boiling intensifies the flavors.

I confess that this batch still did not jell as tightly as I would like. The natural pectin was not quite adequate, perhaps because the fruit was very ripe. Introducing pectin makes jelly making simpler, nearly foolproof.

What I get by making jelly the old way is practice at exercising discernment. I want to know how to test a thing along the way, and how to know when it has come to be what it is.

Conversion, poetry, and jelly all require the recognition of when the essential threshold has been crossed, and then to preserve a reality before it can get away.





GOING SOUTH, MEETING THE MOUSE
by Mary Sincell McEwen
PART TWO:
The Hotel Hurtle: Disney's New Ride

At the end of last week's episode, my family (me, husband John, sons Rob, Michael and Alex, and mom Hannah) we were still rolling along the rails to the sunshine state. Rolling and rolling and rolling. When we told the boys we were indeed in Florida at last, they all three expected to immediately get off and see Mickey. Why wouldn't they? We'd been saying for months that we were going to Disney World in Florida. They of course thought that the two were one and the same. It was awful to explain to them that we still had several hours to go before actually disembarking from what had become a steel prison on rails.

If you recall, the train was late to begin with, then the engine expired in the middle of the deep dark North Carolinian forest for two hours. To add yet another insult, we came to a sudden stop somewhere in northern Florida and again remained still. A porter came sauntering through, explaining to a now very crabby crowd of travelers that some total idiot had attempted to drive his pickup across the tracks where there was no road. The doit managed to get the vehicle wedged between two tracks, stuck fast. A large group of men were standing around the scene, literally scratching their heads about how to get the vehicle unstuck. I thought we were all going to go insane, exit the train en masse, and pummel the truck driver. He was apparently quite intoxicated and had been trying to evade the police. A number of seemingly gentle people on the train started coming up with punitive measures for him that would make your hair curl. He was not well-liked, to say the least. After another hour of waiting, the truck was jarred loose with a miniature crane, so we were told, and the train at last began moving again.

By this time, we weary travelers were on edge. The porter, shielding himself, told us it would be about 8:45 p.m. before we reached Kissimmee. One of the boys promptly began to cry, and I felt like it, too. John said with conviction: "Next time, we're flying." But there was nothing for it. We had no choice except to deal with it. So Mom was tireless as a Fish and Double Solitaire partner for the boys, and Rob broke up the afternoon by having a sudden and spectacular nosebleed. Finally, almost nine hours late, we pulled into the Kissimmee station. This was immediately after we had consumed a free meal from Amtrak. (I think they knew they better feed us or we might stage a revolt.) We got off the train at about 9 o'clock and were instantly swept up by the only remaining taxi driver in the entire city. He was friendly enough, quickly tossing our bags into his big SUV and talking a mile a minute. There were some problems, though.

For instance, as we stuffed all three boys in the back, I instructed them to buckle up. They tried, but could not find any viable buckles. I am a seat-belt freak, you understand, having once been an EMT with the rescue squad and witnessed enough spider-web windshields and broken heads to last a lifetime. We squealed out of the train station parking lot and onto the highway with me squirming around with the boys trying in vain to secure their belts. The driver, who I think said his name was Mike, kept casually assuring me that there should be seatbelts back there. Well, hell, I knew there should be! But Mike apparently has an aversion to caution in general. We were flying along these busy roads at about 60 miles an hour, with him yammering on and on about how much money the Disney conglomerate sucks in from saps like us, and how when we see Mickey, we'll notice that his hands are extended solely to rake in our cash. This was all said harmlessly, but his negative ramblings about Disney World weren't helping our collective mood much. Remember: we adults were operating on about two hours of sleep at best, we needed showers, and the fast chicken dinner from Amtrak was lying in our stomachs like a stone. And for the entire 30-minute headlong sprint to our hotel, I was sure we were going to have a horrendous crash and people at home would be scratching their heads wondering why Mary didn't buckle up those poor kids. I could literally visualize the headlines.

As Mike careened along the road, he kept pointing out directional signs that "lied."

"See that sign? It's a lie. They only put it there to divert traffic a certain direction. I know the real way," he said, all the while pointing and looking out the side windows, apparently letting the vehicle hurtle along on auto-pilot. But Mike's "real way" was exactly the same as the "wrong way" and we kept missing the exit to our hotel. I wanted to crawl right out of my skin. At last, at last we turned into a sweeping driveway and Mike announced that we were at Port Orleans Riverside, and he was quite pleased with himself for having shown us the real way.

Thus began the truly wonderful part of the trip. Upon our arrival, we were swept up Disney-style by the bellhop staff, our bags and bodies transported to our two rooms via a little baggage tram driven by a guy who cheerfully pointed out complex walking paths to the bus stop, the pools, and the cafeteria. We nodded politely, but our minds were drilled on the thought of showering and going to bed. Even the boys were slightly disinterested at this point, bouncing along and half-heartedly discussing the scenery. Our two connecting rooms were comfortable and pretty, and things began to look up. It was nearly 10:30 p.m. before we all hit the sheets and dropped into a deep, dark sleep — the sleep preceding a week of adventure.

Two Local Men Get Three Years For Burglary

Jacob Eugene Lynch, 19, Oakland, and Thomas Kendall Miller, also 19, Mtn. Lake Park, each pleaded guilty to second-degree burglary in Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday. A related charge of misdemeanor theft was dismissed upon their pleas.

The pair and a juvenile were charged by officers with Garrett Bureau of Investigation in July after information was developed that the defendants had committed the offenses the night before. The Stop and Save store, located along Maryland Highway, was entered after the defendants pried open a door and removed items valued at approximately $300. During the investigation, officers recovered a number of the items from Miller's residence, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney.

After accepting their pleas, Judge James Sherbin sentenced the pair to three years at the Department of Corrections, with two years suspended. After serving their remaining one-year sentences in the Garrett County Jail, Lynch and Miller will be on probation for one year. They are also obligated to make restitution to the store owner.

The juvenile had previously admitted to delinquency for the acts and was committed by Sherbin to the custody of the Department of Juvenile Justice for placement in a youth camp, according to Thayer Welch.

practices at rural community colleges worldwide in response to changes in rural America and other industrialized nations. An extensive six-month process involving wide distribution of nomination forms through community colleges, education ministries, the European Union, advertising placed in Community College Times, and consultants.

A panel of economists, community college executives, policy makers, and rural development specialists evaluated the 122 nominations based on demonstrable economic impact, innovation, sustainability, scale, and local support. For the resulting narrowed-down pool, RTS interviewed partners, customers, and funders of the college practices to select the 43 honorees.

"Although 50 years ago rural America was mainly agricultural, today only a small fraction of the rural workforce is employed in farming full time," RTS president Stuart Rosenfeld wrote in announcing the release of the publication. "Community colleges, along with their counterparts in other countries, are often in a good position to respond to market demands and changing conditions."

Prior to GRIC's inception, the only Internet access in the county was via long-distance dial-up, making it difficult to attract telecom companies to the area. The college established GRIC in 1995 as a non-profit communications cooperative that attracted 1,200 members in its first two years. By the time it became a self-sustaining independent organization midway through 1998, GRIC's rolls had grown to its current 2,500 members. The founding of several new entrepreneurial ventures, and the expansion of a number of other already existing businesses, can be directly attributed to the availability of GRIC's diverse telecommunications services, according to the GCC president.

"In addition to Garrett County, GRIC now serves neighboring Allegany County as well as bordering areas of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and bills itself as a public service organization rather than the profit-motivated business typical of the telecom industry," stated Herman. "As such it maintains a greater commitment to its customers and community than would otherwise be possible.

"The college is nearing completion of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC), an information incubator that will house up to 20 start-up information businesses on campus. GRIC is expected to be the leading provider of telecommunications services to those businesses. GRIC is proof that the public sector can identify a need, envision a solution, and execute its own plan. If this experiment with as tiny a population base as Garrett County's can succeed, then any community can succeed."

"It's clear that community colleges such as GCC are active catalysts for growth in their regions," according to Cynthia Liston, director of Workforce Development Programs at RTS. "The benchmark practices we've chosen illustrate some of the best of what's going on in the rural economic landscape."

Academic Report

Also on the trustees' agenda for the evening meeting was the college's academic report, presented by Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of Academic Affairs. The college had 526 students enrolled as of the beginning of January, a decrease of 28 students, or 5 percent, from the same time last year, Mitchell said. The full-time equivalency figure currently stands at 189.18, down 5 percent from last year's 209 FTE figure.

Mitchell asked the board to approve of a proposal to stop offering a Special Education certificate at the college. Only eight students have earned the certificate since it was first offered in 1987, and there have never been more than three students enrolled in the program at the same time.

"There just aren't enough students to be fair to faculty and students when it comes to important learning tools such as group discussions and field trips," Mitchell said. "We have two students currently enrolled in the program, and they will be allowed to finish, but we feel it doesn't make sense to continue offering it when the demand is almost nonexistent."

The board of trustees gave its approval to Mitchell's request, and the dean said she will be notifying the Maryland Higher Education Commission of the college's decision in the near future.

Financial Report

Dean of Administration Michael Kilgus reviewed the budget report as of Dec. 31, noting that even spending would be 50 percent of the budget at that point and actual overall spending was 47.9 percent. Academic support, institutional support, and plant operation were each slightly above even spending because of full-year encumbrances, while instructional costs were slightly below even spending. Scholarship and fellowship disbursements were on target at 50 percent for the fall semester, and the other 50 percent is expected to be expended in the spring semester.

Medical Insurance

Mirroring trends across the nation, the cost of medical insurance premiums for GCC employees and dependents has grown considerably since the college began providing coverage. The college has absorbed the full cost of each of the increases, Herman told the trustees, and the increases show no sign of abating.

"GCC has been hampered in meeting its salary goals partly because of the large increases in the medical insurance costs it has been absorbing on behalf of its employees and their dependents," said Herman.

Herman asked for, and received, the board's approval to implement a cost-sharing arrangement between the college and its employees, who up until now have been contributing to the cost of their health benefits based on their respective tier of coverage. The new policy reduces the employee contribution for individual employee coverage from $3 per month to zero, as the college now bears the entire cost for its employees. With respect to dependent coverage, the college's contribution will be based on a calculation outlined in the policy change and available to each employee.

"This policy provides full coverage without cost to each employee, while more equitably sharing the costs of dependent coverage," Herman said. "Even with implementation of this new cost-sharing plan, our employees will continue to contribute less toward the cost of their health insurance than their peers in the state's community college system. With these changes GCC's medical insurance benefits for its employees and their dependents remain the best among the community colleges in Maryland."

Next Meeting

The next meeting of the GCC board of trustees will take place Tuesday, Feb. 18. The public session will get under way at 7:30 p.m.

"ALL RIGHT, CLASS—KNIT ONE, WELD TWO...." — These Garrett Community College welding students of instructor Greg Carrico (top left) took the American Welding Society certification test recently, which was administered by a representative of the Beltzel Corporation. Two of the six GCC students who took the test, which consisted of filling a weldplate to standard quality, earned national welding certification. The test will be given again at the end of each semester. Seated from the left are Todd Tasker, Larry Iden, and Nathan Mersing. Standing are Carrico, Justin Darlington, Butch Wolford, and Bryan King.

Hire Consultant

Gary Berkebile of the sheriff's office added that if the new jail were located more than two blocks, walking distance, from the courts, the procedures and amount of manpower used to transport inmates to court would be the same, regardless of how many miles the jail was located from Oakland.

If the facility were located outside Oakland, said Commissioner Fred Holliday, then some type of holding facility would be needed to temporarily house inmates awaiting trials.

The officials discussed the possibility of tearing down the second floor of the current jail and keeping the lower level as a holding facility for inmates waiting for court.

"Restoring the courthouse to its original appearance is important," added Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, "if we need to move the detention center."

Committee member Roger Ruff suggested that the county hire a consultant for the project in an attempt to avoid some of the problems that Allegany County, which did not hire a consultant, now faces with its new detention center.

Mullich also suggested that a hearing be held later for public response on the center. A meeting could help answer some of the public's questions about the facility, he said.

The commissioners agreed that public input and support of the project were critical. Berkebile also suggested, because the jail might be located in town and zoning issues would have to be considered, that an Oakland representative be included on the detention center planning committee.

In addition to the members already mentioned, the other planning members are John Sanders, William Graham, Raymond Strubin, Ron Bowser, Russell Sines, Judge Ralph Burnett, Sheriff Dick Sanders, Lt. Randy Resh, state police officer; Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney; and John Nelson, director of planning and zoning.

The commissioners decided to hire a consultant to work with the committee on developing criteria for the center, before issuing an RFP.

No time frame, however, has been set for completion of the project.

Bear Bill

lot of close encounters."

A request from House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., D-Allegany, and all the bear complaints prompted Edwards to dust off his 1997 bear hunting bill, which failed then for lack of support.

Taylor is now a co-sponsor, along with House Environmental Matters Committee chairman John A. Hurson, D-Montgomery, and George W. Owings III, D-Anne Arundel, chairman of the House Agriculture, Environment and Natural Resources Subcommittee. The bill was scheduled to come before the Environmental Matters Committee on Wednesday.

Black bear in Maryland reside mainly in the far west, generally in Garrett and Allegany counties, which border bear-populated West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The number of bears ranges between 266 to 437 in western Maryland, or 27.3 bears per 100 square miles, according to a 2000 survey by the Department of Natural Resources. That's an increase from a 1991 estimate of 79 to 167 bears in Garrett County, said Harry Spiker, a bear project leader for the department's Wildlife and Heritage Service.

In Pennsylvania counties bordering western Maryland, there are 21.7 bears per 100 square miles, Spiker said. The commonwealth has a statewide bear hunting season, while Virginia and West Virginia have limited seasons.

Nuisance complaints also have jumped since 1996, when the department began tracking bear-related complaints, from 196 to 386 last year, Spiker said. There have been no reported bear-related injuries in the state, he said.

The department handles nuisance complaints with nonlethal tactics, such as conditioning bear to stay away from trash cans, using loud sounds to scare the animals away, and keeping food indoors.

In 1995, a bear task force recommended, without the full support of its members, that the Department of Natural Resources consider a limited bear hunt. The department has had the authority to declare a bear hunting season since 1985 but has not done so, Spiker said.

Lawmakers are following up on the task force's recommendation, Owings said.

"I think the bill is drafted to the degree, while offensive to the animal rights people, it serves a useful purpose to regulate the size of the bear population," he said.

The bill would allow the Department of Natural Resources to establish a lottery to issue hunting stamps, with proceeds going to the State Wildlife Management and Protection Fund. Details, such as the number of hunting stamps distributed and the location and time of the hunts, would be up to the department's discretion.

But like a bill allowing Sunday deer hunts, the bear hunt bill has animal rights groups mobilizing opposition. Activists said Maryland's bear population is not as high as some claim, and nuisance complaints are mostly bear sightings.

"The simple answer is that the number of bears does not justify a hunt to control a population," said Jeff Leitner, with the Silver Spring-based Fund for Animals. "The people in Maryland haven't learned to live with bears because we haven't had them in the state."

Black bears, Leitner said, also suffer from a public relations problem. Since the number of bear incidents is so low, an incident as simple as the animal getting into a trash can makes the local news, he said.

Hunters, however, see the issue differently. They say a limited bear hunting season would solve a problem and raise money for the Department of Natural Resources' fund to reimburse residents for damage caused by bears.

"We support it because there is a problem with bears," said Terry Harman, vice president of the western Maryland district of the Maryland Sportsmen Association. "It's not for trophy hunting. You've got bears up there, damaging property and running in front of cars like deer."

Butch Sutphin, 52, a 32-year bear hunter from Davidsonville, favors a limited hunting season in Maryland. He's been traveling to Alaska, British Columbia, or Canada for the last 25 years to hunt black bear, with each trip costing between $3,000 and $10,000.

"It would be the smartest thing in the world Maryland could do," Sutphin said. "They could generate millions of dollars, and every big game hunter in the state would certainly put in $10 or $20 or $50 for an opportunity."

WINNERS NAMED IN BOOK RAFFLE — Two winners were recently named in the Christmas raffle held by the Literacy Council of Garrett County. Gregory Kunkle, on the top, Mtn. Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Sometimes I wonder why I watch the "big games" in sports. I guess it's worth the stress even when my teams pull a big win. But too many times they seem in control, then some way they still lose.

Take the big ACC game on Friday evening between my alma mater, Maryland, and Duke. Of course, that game can always go either way. Even when Duke is ranked #1, sometimes the Terps pull a big win. Maryland has beaten the Blue Devils more than any other team.

But all eyes of hoop fans were on that game between #1 Duke and #3 Maryland. Many die-hard Terp fans along Rock Lodge Road were on the edge of their seats all during the game, especially my family members, Rodney Glotfelty, Carol Bass, and Barry Glotfelty, all of whom are also graduates of Maryland.

Barry gets up on the Mountaintop more now that his long-time girlfriend who was originally from Cumberland and was Carol's and my fellow member of the Cumberland Pony Club, has spent since New Year's taking care of her mother, Marge Sheirer, who suffered a stroke and has been in Memorial Hospital and is now in the Vincent DePaul Nursing Home in Frostburg.

Marge's doctor, Dr. Ashker, was one of my brain surgeons too. He told Barry that he remembers me very well, and also the painting I sent him for a thank-you gift. I am not surprised that Marge did fine in Cumberland Memorial ICU, as I couldn't forget the excellent care in that scary place. Some of the nurses seem to me to be angels. I felt surrounded with love.

Well, it looks like the Steelers are well on their way to the Super Bowl. They seemed to cruise by the Baltimore Ravens on Sunday. Even though it was predicted that the Steelers couldn't run, I thought that Cordell Stewart should run himself, which he did. I always had a soft spot in my heart for Stewart, who got plenty of criticism for the first year of his career as quarterback for the Steelers.

I started thinking I should have planned a party for the game today. The prospective guests would all be Raven fans, including Joe and Andra Howe and daughter, Chrystal Shaffer, and possibly Mike Hall, who said that watching Sunday afternoon football was a waste of time. I called cousin Courtney Englar to invite him to Meredith's birthday party and Gram's house after the game. I wonder whether the message I left on his machine, "Steelers are going to the Super Bowl, bye bye Ravens," would cause him to want to miss Mere's party.

I also called Pappy Dale to invite him, too, and the phone was answered by Barry, who said it looks pretty good for the Steelers. I replied, "It is over," and my girls yelled at me saying, "You will jinx it," but with a 17-point lead with only a few minutes left to play, we had to win!

This game did not even raise my blood pressure above the normal range. In fact, I almost took a nap. But I was glad to be awake for the Ravens' long pass into the end zone that bounced off their receiver's hand and was caught by a Steeler, which was almost like the "Immaculate Reception" by Franco Harris in a playoff game. I guess it was in 1972.

Meredith's birthday party with my family included Pappy Dale and Courtney, and was held at Gram's house. We pigged out with pizzas from Brenneman's Store, cakes, and ice cream, along with a batch of Gram's special hot fudge.

Way back in my childhood a bakery delivery truck would come around our farm, "The Bunny Bread Man." He refused to come back to our house after our cute little blonde cocker spaniel tried to bite him. But if you ask Sally Poholsky, she will tell you the most scary breed of dogs is the black Labrador, like our mellow and gentle "Boo," who is sweet to everyone except Sally when she takes a walk past our lane, and the mailman when he takes the trouble to drive in to hand deliver a package too big to fit in the mailbox.

I think that the reason that "Boo" barks and chases Sally is because she screams a lot. But she has a good excuse, because when she lived in Oakland a black Lab almost took her leg off. She showed me a picture of her scars and it did look like a pretty bad attack. I don't think "Boo" would pay any attention to her if she would just ignore him. We do try very hard to tie him up when it is a nice sunny afternoon when Sally would probably come by for her walk.

But the real scary dogs around here are Rodney and Marci's toy long-hair dachshunds. "Toby" and "Cowboy" nipped at least two or three of our immediate family. Of course their teeth are not much bigger than a knitting needle.

Today is Martin Luther King Jr. Day and the kids are off from school. Both Mere and I are supposed to get blood drawn for blood sugar level, etc. I know that we were not supposed to eat anything after midnight last night. I feel like a friend who said he is a "bear" without food in the morning. I can identify with him on that.

If I could reach my bird feeder, I would probably take it down. Ask Sheila Southerly about the problem they have with the bears. I guess her feeders may still be all right because I assume that the many bears that live around here are asleep at least until Goundhog Day. However, I did see in the paper that a black bear was killed on Rt. 1-68 in January.

We still have real winter in Bittinger — at least six inches on the ground. The stretch of Rock Lodge Road on the Jimmy Glotfelty farm has not been shut down anytime this winter, at least the times that I have ventured out. Today we came home on Rock Lodge Road along the lake and Cherry Creek. Last weekend was the first time I saw a good ice covering on the lake, and it looked perfect for ice skating as it was so smooth. I still had some doubt about how thick it was, but I saw several brave ice fishermen on it. The other day the peat bog lake shone in the sunshine.

We had a decent winter sunset last evening. It was golden, but not scarlet, as most winter sunsets around here are. But it was brilliant and bright enough that I had to put my sunglasses on to drive on the way home from Brenneman's Store with the pizza for Mere's party. The scene today along Cherry Creek was classical scenery, with dark water rushing around lots of stone with plushy white pillows of snow, and the hemlock branches were loaded. Here and there a few gold and rust oak leaves showed through.

Thank goodness the spring had water gushing out of it. It looks like the ground water supply is all right. So if we get a normal spring with lots of rain we should be OK, even if this year's El Nino follows the pattern of previous years that dumped all the rain in California and left the East drier than usual. Even if the weather forecasters are right and we are in for a warm spell in the next few days and week, I still suspect we will get another real winter again, at least in part of February. Even if it feels like spring in Bittinger in late January, winter is not finished with us. I don't need the groundhog to tell me that, as I have 40-some years of memory.

Lottie Brenneman is making slow and steady progress, which is much better than expected. She can use her walker in a limited way because she can only hop on her good leg. I tried that when I had a bad sprained ankle, and what did I get for it but another sprained ankle. She can get around the house in her wheelchair.

Lottie is lucky to have three caring daughters so she can have overnight coverage by creative scheduling and juggling of their own responsibilities. She is also lucky to have lots of neighbors and friends drop by in the day time and who often bring in meals.

Recent visitors were Mary Simpson, Audrey Brenneman, Margie and Bob Brenneman, Bill Hady, Margaret Hershberger, Mary Brenneman, and a former colleague of Linda at Red House School, Janet Judy of Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., who served lunch to Lottie and Linda and Pete Buckel.

Beulah Moon and Meredith Vagnetti videotaped all of Emmanuel's church services that Lottie has missed. That will consume her time for a while.

I plan to go down as soon as the weather is fit and as soon as I get out of the slump I am recently plagued by. Most of my life I was fearless, sometimes too much. I wish I could find a way back to that state of mind.

If I really think about my life now I can only mourn for the woman and mother I once was, and I cry for the memories because it feels like I am the only one who remembers her. I ask my girls if they can remember me before I got sick and they said "not really." So now it is too late for them to know their mother as I used to be. It is hard for me to beheve that they don't remember the homemade Halloween costumes, walks in the woods, picking wildflowers, or their rides on the ponies helped by me. Maybe it is too much to expect. After all, they were quite young when our lives changed. Claire was 8, Caitlin was 6, and my baby Mere only 3 years old in 1994 when suddenly Mommy turned into a stranger on a hospital bed. No matter how hard I try, I can't be Superwoman anymore.

Last Tuesday Robbie Glotfelty once again assisted the group of blind skiers from Baltimore at the Wisp. Like last year, it was as much fun for Robbie as for the blind kids.

Another Glotfelty family participated in a sports event for a good cause. Both Rodney and Marci Glotfelty finished third in their age category in the walk division in the Uno Snow Flake Chase. The event benefited the Big Brothers Big Sisters program.

Cindy Stanton and Ferne Beachy visited June Green and Ruby Orendorf in LaVale last week.

Henry, Bonnie, and William Bowser, Harrisonburg, Va., and Hazel and Wayne Gaumer, Hagerstown, visited with their mother, Kathryn Bowser, over the weekend. Wayne and brother Dan Gaumer attended the Steeler-Raven football game in Pittsburgh on Sunday.

Word was received this week of the death of Rick Buckel, New Market, son of the late Richard and Peggy Buckel, LaVale. A memorial service will be held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger, at 1 p.m.

HEAD START STAFF EARNS DEGREE — Three staff members of Head Start/Early Head Start recently received associate in arts degrees in early childhood education from Garrett Community College. There are now seven staff members who either have and A.A. or bachelor's degree in early childhood education. In 1999, Congress mandated that at least half of the teaching staff in Head Start/Early Head Start nationwide secure at least an A.A. degree in early childhood education by 2003. To assist the local Head Start in meeting this mandate, GCC initiated an early childhood program. "We received quality improvement funding to support the costs of tuition and books and are encouraging all education staff to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity. Currently, 17 staff are working toward the A.A.," said Mary Beckman, Garrett County Community Action's director of early childhood programs. Pictured above are recent graduates, from the left, Amy Jones, Head Start home based facilitator; Doris Stein, head teacher; and Pam Simpson, Head Start education specialist.

Scheduling Orientation Set At SHS

Southern High School will host an evening open house and scheduling orientation on the evening of Jan. 30.

The open house and parent conferences will occur from 5 until 8:30 p.m.

From 7 until 8:30 p.m., the eighth grade scheduling orientation will be held.

All eighth grade parents and middle school teachers are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Food Vendors Needed For Summer Fest

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, located at Penn Alps near Grantsville, will celebrate its 25th annual Summer Festival and Quilt Show in July, and the festival planning committee is seeking applications from regional food vendors for booth space at the outdoor festival.

There is no duplication of food items at the festival, although all food vendors may sell non-alcoholic beverages. Items are approved on a first-come, first-served basis, and spaces are limited. The festival will run Friday, July 12, through Sunday, July 14, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day.

Applicants may submit applications and reservation fees no later than May 1. All applicants will be notified by mail.

Persons wanting an application packet may call village administrator Trish Morgan weekdays at 301-895-3332.

Single Charge Filed In Fatal Vehicle Accident

A single charge was filed by Garrett County sheriff's deputies regarding the fatal motor vehicle accident on Dec. 5, 2001, which involved a 10-year-old Oakland boy who was struck on Route 219 at Mason School Road.

Alfred F. Stemple was charged with failing to stop for a school bus vehicle operating its flashing red lights. There were no other charges filed in this matter, according to police.

In another incident, a man was charged after deputies stopped to render assistance to a disabled vehicle along Old Crellin Road.

The driver, Harold Roger Markley, 53, Oakland, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence (DUI).

He was released on his own recognizance.

A West Virginia man was also arrested for drunken driving after deputies stopped his suspicious vehicle early Sunday morning, police said.

Bradley Scott Savage, 24, Kingwood, W.Va., was stopped after he pulled from behind Gibson's store in Crellin around 1:40 a.m.

He was arrested and charged with DUI. He was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $1,000 bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

In other police news, no one was injured in a two vehicle accident Sunday afternoon.

Randall Dean Dumire, Friendsville, was issued a citation for failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision after the 1997 Dodge van he was operating struck a 1971 Chevrolet Chevelle operated by Christopher David Matthews, Swanton.

The incident happened along Route 219 at Nest Lick Acres Road.

AURORA/EGLON

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club met Jan. 14, at the Eglon Memorial Building. Presenting the devotions were Asnley Bachtel and Tracy Teets. Craig Rembold led the pledges. In the song leaders' absence, the club joined together in singing "West Virginia Boys and Girls."

It was decided that the club would continue to send birthday cards signed by all members to the patients at Cortland Acres Nursing Home each month. The deadline for ordering the Centennial Bear is January 28. Photo and poster entries for the county competition are due by Feb. 1. Ashley Bachtel, Kari Harsh, and Sara Lewis will be entering photos and if there are others wishing to enter either poster or photo, they need to be to Linda Lewis by Monday, Jan. 28. The Preston County 4-H Foundation will be meeting on Jan. 28 at 6 p.m. All members are invited to attend.

A special reminder to all members: If there is no school in Preston County on the day of a 4-H meeting, the meeting will be canceled.

Talks and demonstrations were as follows: Ashley Bachtel gave a demonstration, "What My Cows Eat." Kathely Harsh gave an illustrated talk on "How to Make Your Own Purse." Tracy Teets demonstrated "How to Write a Check" and also talked about "Two Different Record-keeping Systems for Tracking Your Money."

The next meeting will be Feb. 11 at the Eglon Memorial Building at 7 p.m. The Recreation Committee is responsible for devotions.

Tracy Teets, Reporter

CEOS MEET

Janice Tackett led the Aurora CEOS in a discussion of "Keeping the Traditions Alive" at their Jan. 15 meeting in the Union Ambulance Hall, Aurora. She spoke about the location and isolation of Appalachia, which has helped preserve language, home remedies, foods, and other traditions.

Opening devotions were read by Mary Radford who used "Sowing Seeds of Peace" as her theme, and Hosea 10:12 as the background scripture. Fourteen members were present. A new member welcomed was Linda Liston.

Wilda Stemple of the Family Life Committee offered a demonstration on how to maintain one's balance, taken from the "Active for Life" program sponsored by that committee.

Ressie Conrad reported that the Morgantown area had sent 19 pounds of embroidery thread to southern Africa. Also, the club provided gifts for the 13 names taken from the Santa Tree and also shopped for 13 local people in need of clothing.

Morgantown area will have its annual meeting at Jackson's Mill on April 15, with Harrison County CEOS acting as hosts. May 19-25 is being observed as West Virginia CEO Week. Training lesson for April, May, and June lessons will be March 14.

The club will be purchasing two signs to be placed on the Aurora community signboards.

Special feature was a Christmas stocking made of satin pieces. It was shown by Mary Jane Hanline and made by her sister, Cleota Walker. Mrs. Hanhne also showed Christmas ornaments which she had made. Kathy Hardesty was winner of the pig-in-the-poke.

PERSONAL MENTION

The Aurora Volunteer Fire Department received a recent donation from Fred and Dorotha Forman.

Pastor Mary Conley, her husband John, their daughter, and foster brother returned Sunday from Walkersville to the United Methodist parsonage in Aurora. They had been called to Walkersville following the Jan. 13 death of Pastor Mary's mother, Thelma Lowther.

Jackie and Alma Snyder of Aurora visited Sunday in Fairmont with Mrs. Snyder's sister and brother-in-law, Grace and Jerry Winter.

Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis of Eglon were Saturday overnight and Sunday visitors in Martinsburg with their daughter, Emily Lewis. Also visiting were Gary, Julie, Grayson, and Madison Baker of Virginia Beach, Va.

Wilma Knapp of Amboy remains a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted Jan. 13. She celebrated her birthday on Jan. 21.

Ms. Joan Lash, 69, of Elgin, Ill., was found dead in her home on Jan. 14. She was born November 11, 1932 in Elgin, a daughter of the late John "Jack" Hardy and Olga (Bonsack) Hardy, and has no surviving relatives closer than first cousins: Mrs. Claude (Jean) Winters of Eglon, James P. Bonsack of Aberdeen, Md., and Mrs. Richard (Judy) Owens of Hanover, Pa. Memorial services were held in Elgin, on Sunday, Jan. 20.

Tom Adams of Aurora was admitted Monday to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ahern, Oakland, and friend Margie Strawser, Amboy, recently traveled to Fayetteville, N.C., for a four-day visit with Mrs. Ahern's sister, Maxine Teagarden Biggs.

Mountain HSTA Given Donations Of Nearly $3,700

The Health Sciences & Technology Academy (HSTA) of Barbour, Preston, Taylor, and Tucker counties, also known as Mountain HSTA, has been awarded $4,000 from the Dominion Mount Storm Power Station. A private donor, Stanley Hostler, who agreed to match any community funds up to $3,677.40, increased the donation, making the total amount of funds raised $7,677.40.

The Health Sciences and Technology Academy (HSTA) of West Virginia University is an 8th-12th grade math and science program which "encourages aspirations, opens doors, and empowers minority and low-income students" in rural communities to pursue careers in health science related fields, according to Beth Cappone, field site coordinator. This partnership, among numerous units of the state's land grant university and many Appalachian communities, brings HSTA students and teachers to the WVU campus each summer for clinical, laboratory and classroom training, and enrichment activities. It further provides the infrastructure and support for community-based science projects mentored by teachers and volunteers during the school year.

Motivated students in grades 8-12 who participate in the program will receive preparation and support for pursuing careers in health science professions or related areas in science and technology. Students also receive assistance with completing their college applications.

Cappone said that the HSTA program aims to accomplish several goals: to share the resources and talent of higher education; to encourage public school teachers' and community leaders' mentoring of students; to increase the college-going rate among minority and disadvantaged students in the Appalachian region; to improve science and math education; and ultimately to increase the number of health care providers in currently underserved rural communities.

The program has already received national recognition, with full support from WVU president David Hardesty, Senator Jay Rockefeller, and the West Virginia congressional delegation. "Preliminary results indicate that virtually all of the participating students and teachers feel that HSTA is both an effective and enjoyable program," Cappone said. "It is anticipated that many HSTA program graduates will pursue higher education leading to careers in the health sciences, and that they will return to their communities to provide the health care and the leadership so badly needed in rural Appalachia."

Those desiring more information about this program, or who know of current 8th grade students who would benefit from the program, may contact Cappone at 800-345-4267, or via e-mail at bcappone@hsc.wvu.edu.

TERRA ALTA

The Terra Alta Public Library recently received a book in memory of Blanche Martin. One Nation. America Remembers Sept. 11, 2001 by Robert Sullivan was presented by Bob, Cathy, and Ashley Teets.

The library has also recently received donations in the form of books, magazines, and maps from the following: Nancy Neff, Mary McLaughlin, Marion Clutter, Lori Cage, Dick and Shirley Hardesty, Grace Athey, Albert Ossman, Linda Rodeheaver, Patricia Elliott, Cindee Wheeler, Skylar Freeman, Mary Jo Gregg, Willard Riggleman, Ruth Sines, and Marsha Rose.

Robert W. Riley has joined the United States Army under the Delayed Entry Program. The program gives young men and women the opportunity to delay entering active duty for up to one year.

The enlistment gives the new soldier the option to learn a new skill, travel, and become eligible to receive as much as $50,000 toward a college education. After completion of basic military training, soldiers receive advanced individual training in their career job specialty.

The recruit qualifies for a $4,000 enlistment bonus.

Riley, a 2001 graduate of Preston High School, Kingwood, will report to Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla., for basic training.

He is the son of Diana L. and Robert W. Riley of Terra Alta.

To Attend Youth Leadership Forum

BRIAN CRABTREE

BRITTANY NAYLOR

Two local students, Brian Crabtree and Brittany Naylor, have been selected to participate in the National Youth Leadership Forum on Defense, Intelligence, and Diplomacy (NYLF/DID) in Washington, D.C. The Southern High School juniors will join over 350 other high school students from across the nation to take part in the six-day forum, set to take place from Tuesday, Jan. 29, to Sunday, Feb. 3.

The NYLF/DID forum selects participants from a large pool of applicants who have demonstrated academic achievement and an interest in a career related to national security. Based on actual world events, the NYLF/DID curriculum allows participants to learn from examples set by previous generations of leaders, while encouraging them to develop a perspective unique to upcoming generations of leaders.

Throughout the forum, students will examine how the U.S. plans for peace and prepares for crisis. Students will meet with leaders from several key agencies and institutions. In the past, NYLF/DID has visited several government institutions and military installations, including the U.S. Department of State, the U.S. Marine Corps Combat Development Command at Quantico, Va., the Defense Intelligence Agency, the U.S. Naval Academy, foreign embassies, and other sites.

Crabtree currently serves as vice president of the SHS student council, a member of the School's Improvement Team, treasurer for the Garrett County Association of Student Councils, and represents Southern as a student member of the Advisory Committee on Education.

The honor roll student is a member of the Rams' cross country and track teams, and was nominated for inclusion in Who's Who Among American High School Students. An Eagle Scout member of Oakland Troop 22, Crabtree intends to pursue an engineering degree in college. He is the son of Debbie and Chris Crabtree of Oakland.

Naylor, an SHS National Honor Society nominee, has also been nominated for Who's Who inclusion. She was the Rams' varsity soccer team 1999 and 2001 Offensive Player of the Year, a 2000 first-team All Area and All WMIL selection, and was honored as the 2001 WMIL Offensive Player of the Year while also being named to the All Area first team. Among Naylor's many accomplishments over her past two seasons as an SHS track team member, she has placed second and fourth, respectively, in the Maryland state Track Meet in the 3200-meter women's run.

Naylor plans to attend a four-year college to earn a degree in architecture and hopes to play collegiate soccer. She is the daughter of Adele and Paul Naylor of Oakland.

The NYLF is a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational organization that sponsors highly specialized career-oriented programs for outstanding high school students who demonstrate leadership potential. "After September 11, there may be no better time for students to learn how to lead protect our country," said NYLF executive director Donna Weldin.

And to Oscar Preston, our beloved Santa, thank you for the warmth and love that always make our celebrations so special.

We at Salem greatly appreciate the support of our friends in the community as we work to bring hope and healing into the lives of children who've experienced hurt and trauma at such a young age. We are thrilled to see positive changes in these children we serve, and grateful for the many success stories that follow them as aduhs.

Our best wishes and God's blessings to each of you. Thank you, once again!

To the Editor:

I would like to use Mr. J.A. Hoage's letter to the editor as a springboard to discuss three concerns. Mr. Hoage's letter was posted last week in criticism of the "religious right." The three concerns I have are: 1. The blurring of the issues in regard to September 11. 2. The danger of the church losing sight of its mission. And 3. The blatant discrimination against Christians in the press.

My first concern centers around the fact that the crime to be prosecuted regarding September 11 is murder. The prohibition of murder is the law that was broken. These thugs, under the guise of their religion, killed thousands of people. They and their conspirators should and will pay for that violation of the law.

But a curious thing is happening. You can see it in Mr. Hoage's letter, as well as lots of other articles being written. The American people are being led to believe that the crime on September was not really murder. The crime these articles substitute for murder is moral absolutism, or religious extremism. We are being sold a bill of goods that says that anyone who believes and stands for absolute right and wrong is the enemy. These writers find one point of similarity, in this case moral absolutism, and project all the negative traits of one onto the other. That is how Pat Robertson is compared with Osama bin Laden. That's a pretty slick trick. Following that type of reasoning you could say that Billy Graham is as bad as Hitler because they both have the same hair color (if they actually did).

These writers never attempt to answer simple questions like, "When has Pat Robertson ever made death threats of anyone?" Or "When has he ever encouraged terrorism in any form?" "When has he ever threatened to take over the government by force?' Read the Bible that he believes. It is inherently different from the Koran. Read what his book says in regard to the treatment of enemies, of non-believers, of the poor and helpless. The Bible is not inherently political.

I hope the American people are smart enough to avoid being horn-swaggled by the media hucksters at this point. Moral absolutism isn't the crime. In fact, the truth is that those who practice true belief in the Bible will be better citizens because they are absolutely commanded to be so. If we as a country begin to believe that moral absolutism is the crime, Christians will be hunted down in five years the way the Taliban is currently being hunted. Should Christians really be viewed as public enemy number 2 because we believe the Bible is truly God's Word and He means every word of it?

My second concern is that, unfortunately, the church has granted Mr. Hoage a point because of our insistence on being a political force. When we in the church begin depending on the horses and chariots of the political world to change the world for Christ, as Falwell and Robertson have sometimes unwittingly done, we have missed the mandate of Christ. The work of Christ will never be furthered by the politics of man. The church will always find itself polluted when it places any faith in politics. Politics always creates strange bedfellows in the Christian camp. I agree that if we aren't going to act like a church, we shouldn't be given the privileges of one. But my appeal is that we as the church get back to the work Christ gave us to do.

And that work is not community improvement the way Mr. Hoage presents it. Christians are to improve their communities in the same way that life boats were to improve the Titanic. We are here to announce to people that the cruise ship of this life is going down. There is only one way to safety, and that way is Jesus Christ. Most community members aren't really looking for that improvement, but that is the primary improvement we have to offer.

My third point involves the discouragement I feel when I see such discrimination in the media against Christians. If you don't believe me, test it yourself. Take any article that deals with any Christian who has made a stand. (Pat Robertson is a convenient choice.) Then remove his name and replace it with the name of an African American or a Native American or even a respected Muslim. Imagine the outrage if those things would ever be published. But pot shots at Christians are fair game. A survey aired on CNN said that 82% of a sample of Muslims interviewed in the United States were for the September 11 attack. Yet the Muslims somehow avoid the bad press. But because Robertson says that he thinks September 11 was the judgment of God on our nation, he receives public outrage. That seems just a bit misguided to me. Mr. Hoage referred to Robertson's words as slanderous. I wonder how he would have responded to Abe Lincoln when he referred to the Civil War as a judgment of God on the nation.

Speaking for the church I fellowship with, we weren't involved in planning the attack on September 11. We don't trust in politics to carry out Christ's mandate. We have not yet killed anyone, nor are we planning to. But we do wholeheartedly believe the Bible. So you tell me, are we really worthy of being public enemy number 2?

To the Editor:

The black bear management hearing introduced by Delegate Edwards was scheduled on January 16, with a hearing date of January 23. This short time span between scheduling and hearing obviously does not provide adequate lead time or public notice. Citizens from Garrett County are not being given a fair chance to schedule the long trip to Annapolis on such short notice. The Environmental Matters Committee (according to that office) normally holds hearings with at least a two-week notice. In this case of the black bear management hearing, a fair and proper opportunity for the public to comment is being neglected, isn't it?

According to DNR's own information contained in information supplied to members of the Black Bear Task Force, the previous period of public comment relating to the issue of a black bear hunt resulted in an overwhelming receipt of public comments in opposition to a bear hunt. This is a statewide issue, impacts state lands, and the public's overwhelming majority opposition to a bear hunt must be given the import and weight it deserves. Public opinion has not changed, and in the history of Garrett County no person has ever been injured by a bear. If a bear hunt is legislated in opposition to the record of public opinion, it will be a travesty.

Bear hunters want to be able to bait the bears. This obviously will increase the problems of trying to keep humans and bears apart. Bears identify and remember food sources. The baiting of bears would definitely encourage and train bears to regard humans as a food source. The baiting of bears is a ridiculous counter-productive notion that would aggravate and harm the DNR's own efforts to educate the public on keeping food away from bears.

Bear hunters want to use radios, pickup trucks, and packs of dogs to hunt bear. In my opinion this is a disgraceful way to hunt bears. It sets the stage for bear hunters to violate private property boundaries and infringe on a property owner's right to be protected from unlawful trespass. I am sure few property owners want packs of blood lusting hounds charging across their property, followed by gun wielding hunters in gas-guzzling, smoke-belching, four-wheel drive vehicles or ATVs. In West Virginia, landowners are scared of the armed bear hunters, and encounters with them is usually a frightening experience with them blatantly ignoring your requests for them to stay off or leave your property.

It is the responsibility of Maryland legislators to ensure that if and when a Maryland bear hunt is rammed down the throats of the people, it will at least be regulated in such a way as to make baiting bears and hunting with dogs illegal. The bear hunt in West Virginia is in my opinion a disgraceful example of the sport of hunting. If necessary, let Maryland at least regulate a bear hunt that is sporting and honorable — no baiting and no dogs. A set of rules that real hunters will welcome because it requires them to hunt bears in a dignified, just, and skilled way.

Your opinion on a bear hunt may be sent to: Delegate John Adams Hurson, Environmental Matters Committee, Chairman, Room 160, Lowe House Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401-1991. Phone number 1-301-858-3534.

Sincerely,
Crede Calhoun

EMERGENCY SERVICES DUTIES OUTLINED FOR LIONS — Garrett County Emergency Services director Brad Frantz addressed a meeting of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Lions Club recently, outlining many of the changes that have occurred in the office over the last several years. Recent events have expanded the focus of his office from one of emergency service to include responsibilities of homeland defense. Garrett County is coordinating with Allegany and two West Virginia counties in a "Code Red" emergency alert network. Frantz indicated that the Office of Emergency Services is the local agent receiving federal funding and other forms of federal assistance. Over the last 25 years the center has grown from 7,000-8,000 calls per year to 24,000 calls per year. The center employs six full-time calltakers and operates 24 hours per day. Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club first vice president Luther Parrack, left, presents Frantz with a certificate of appreciation as Lions president Robert Stocksiager looks on.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce
Home of Deep Creek Lake
UPDATE

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board of directors held its monthly meeting at the Visitors Center January 17. Presiding was chamber president Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler.

The board was given a packet of newspaper, Internet, and magazine articles about Garrett County, which have resulted from recent public relations efforts. Included were items from Blue Ridge Country; Pittsburgh Post-Gazette; Queen Anne's Record Observer; Fishing & Hunting Journal; Recreation News; The Dominion Post; The Baltimore Sun; The Daily Record; Southern Living; and The Washington Diplomat.

Chamber president Ken Wishnick told board members that Hannah Byron, head of the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, has acccpted the chamber's invitation to have her executive staff spend two days in the county. They will be here January 29-30 for a "winter visitor experience."

Wishnick reported that he is working with Genesis Publishing on the development of a logo for vacation destination. The concept is to encourage all tourism-related businesses in the county to utilize this common "branding" logo to build a sense of unity to visitors, he explained, adding that it could be used on everything from ads, to Internet home pages, to store signage, and souvenir items. Wishnick showed early concept designs to the board.

Steve Green, chair of the Recreational Trails Task Force, told the board that the group is moving ahead with the development of a countywide master plan for the trail network, the first leg of which is slated to run from Deep Creek Lake State Park to Wisp Mountain Resort. The group has recommended a consultant to provide the engineering work for this initial phase. The county commissioners will review this candidate and make a final decision. The task force includes members of the Department of Natural Resources, the Office of Planning and Zoning, the State Planning Office, and the State Highway Administration. "We are also working on the section of trails that will 'spider web' up toward Grantsville," Green noted.

Deb Clatterbuck, the chamber's marketing manager, reported that the travel show season is now under way. She and her staff attended the Fly-Fishing Exposition in College Park. "The Garrett County booth was the hottest ticket there," she reported. Clatterbuck had a mounted Garrett County-caught brown trout on display and noted that it was larger than the prize-winning Alaska brown trout.

Clatterbuck also told board members that she did not "get the sense" that the public is shying away from vacationing in the wake of the September 11th events. "Show attendees were planning to do the things they normally do," she said. To help track trade show results, chamber members are being offered the opportunity to send coupons along to each show at no cost. "This is a significant advertising opportunity for our local businesses," Clatterbuck added.

Board member Bill Meagher presented options for the reprinting of the county map. The board agreed that the new map should have only four small ads from major sponsors, who will each contribute $5,000.

On a recommendation of treasurer Jim Murray and Wishnick, the board tentatively approved a recommendation that First Data Merchant Services provide discount credit card processing for chamber members. Wishnick is to negotiate final terms of a contract with the vendor.

The board voted to hold the chamber's annual dinner meeting on June 6.

The following new members were approved: U.S. Cellular, Rod Barker, LaVale; Spring Creek Outfitters, owner Harold Harsh, McHenry; Genesis Publishing & Advertising, owner Kimberly Scott Carl, Towson; Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc., Oakland, Susan Athey-Oxford; Country Acres Retreat, owner Elmer Maust, Accident; Good Timber Bed & Breakfast, owners Vianne and Michael Bell, Oakland; The Lodge, owner William R. Murry; Chicago; and I. A. Zakaluzny, MD, FACS, FRCSC, Oakland.

The next chamber board meeting will be held Thursday, Feb. 21, 8 a.m., at the Visitors Center, McHenry. The meeting is open to the public.

Music Program Set At Keyser Presby. Church

A recital of sacred and secular music will be presented Sunday, Jan. 27, at 3 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Keyser Presbyterian Church, South Mineral Street, Keyser, W.Va. Performers for the afternoon program will include: Sharon McLaughlin, music director at the Keyser Presbyterian Church, piano and organ, Robert Davis, marimba; Fred Engle, tenor; and Charles Whitehill, trumpet.

The public is invited to attend. A free-will offering will be received to benefit the local food pantry and the music fund at the church.

Sharon McLaughlin, a Keyser native, received a master's degree in music from West Virginia University and is active as a teacher and church musician. In addition to holding the position of organist and music director at Keyser Presbyterian Church, she teaches vocal and instrumental music at Northern Middle School.

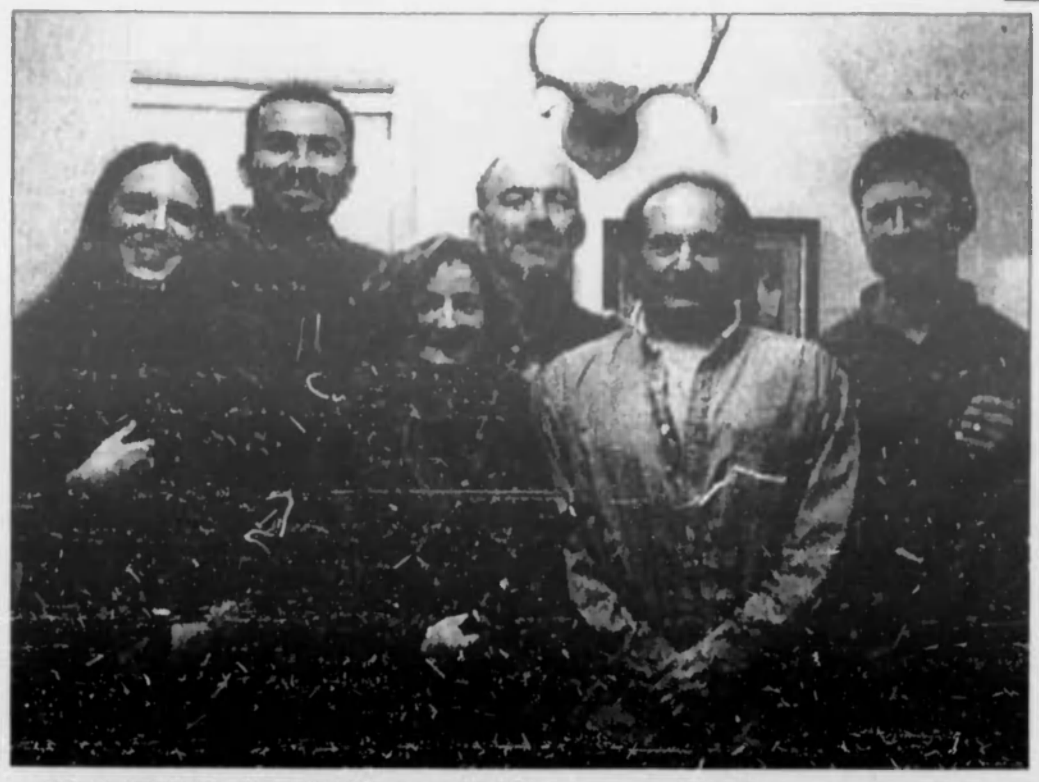
Robert Davis, a native of Keyser and currently residing in Morgantown, received a master's degree in percussion from West Virginia University and is active as a performer and private instructor in the Morgantown area. He also is a tuner of steel drums at West Virginia University. He has played with the American Wind Symphony in Pittsburgh and the West Virginia Public Theatre.

Fred Engle graduated from the University of Hartford Hartt School of Music in 1983 with a bachelor of music degree. While there he studied with William Diard of the New York City Opera, as well as Arthur Koret, who was a cantor in Hartford, Conn. He also studied choral music with Gerald Mack. Engle did some solo work in Hartford and Pougkkeepsie, N.Y., before moving down to Keyser in 1984, where he is owner of the Candlewyck Inn.

Charles Whitehill, retired professor of music at Potomac State College of West Virginia University, received his education at WVU. He received a bachelor of public school music degree in 1956, a master of music degree in 1960, and a doctor of philosophy in 1970. At Potomac State, Dr. Whitehill was director of bands and taught classes in brass, woodwind, theory, and music appreciation, and was founder of the Potomac State College Community Band. He served as chair of the Division of Arts and Humanities from 1975 uutil 1988. Dr. Whitehill is co-owner of the Potomac Highland Winery, Keyser.

A reception will follow in the church chapel.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 304-788-3066.



SANG RUN TO GIVE BENEFIT CONCERT — The local Celtic group Sang Run will give a concert to benefit Our Town Theatre (OTT) on Saturday, Feb. 2, at 8 p.m. The show will be given at the theatre, with the proceeds to support a set-building project. The ticket price is $5 per person, and reservations, which are strongly suggested, may be made by calling OTT at 301-334-5640. The doors will open at 7:30 p.m. The members of Sang Run are pictured above. From left are Jennifer Osha (vocals, whistles, keyboard), José Pimienta-Bey (vocals and guitar), Alice Fleischman (Irish flute and whistles), Jeff Gilbert (guitar and mandolin), Fred Jacoby (percussion), and Mike Broderick (fiddle).

The Fantastiks To Be Presented At Frostburg St.

Frostburg State University Theatre Season Too! will present the musical favorite The Fantastiks on Friday, Feb. 22, and Saturday, Feb. 23, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre.

The world's most frequently produced musical, The Fantastiks is also the longest running show in American theatre, with a debut date of May 3, 1960. It closed in New York on January 13.

"This simple work speaks of the pain of growing up and does so with exquisite craftsmanship that is as full of theatrical magic as any show in American musical theatre. Audiences of all ages return to see it," said an FSU spokesperson. Several songs, including "Try to Remember" and "Soon it's Gonna Rain," have become standards. The score is by Harvey Schmidt, with lyrics by Tom Jones.

Justin Seward, a senior majoring in theatre, will direct this production, which is part of FSU's student-directed series, Season Too!

Tickets cost $3, and reservations can be made Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. by calling 301-687-7462.

Our Town Sets Auditions For March Comedy

The Man Who Came to Dinner, a comedy by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, is scheduled for presentation on March 13-24 at Our Town Theatre in Oakland. The production has numerous parts for adults and a few roles for older teens, according to Jane Avery, director.

Auditions are scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 27, from 2 until 5 p.m., and Monday, Jan. 28, from 7 until 10 p.m. at the theatre. Those who wish to try out for the play but who cannot make either of these dates may call the theatre at 301-334-5640 and leave a message for Avery, who will schedule separate auditions for them.
